Underdog Mustangs Play Marines

NARU Celebrates Navy Day With 72-Hour Liberty

Just 170 years ago some poor "awable" like yourself was fighting for his country as you are doing and have done overseas. On that Navy Day long ago there was no NARU and probably few if any naval personnel were granted the 72 hours liberty the navy men here will receive 26 Friday 1945 to 29 Monday 1945.

For this bit of extra liberty the trainees may thank their admirable commanding officer, G. D. Weigel, Lt. U.S.N.R. Lt. Weigel knowing that many of them were in combat at this time last year, while Navy Day was being celebrated, figured it would be a fine gesture to give his sailors a chance to enjoy this year's Navy Day.

Poly's trainees thank Lt. Weigel for his consideration of their last year's effort in winning a victory over Japan.

Of course all is not well. In order that the Marines might feel the power of our half-tamed Mustangs, the football team will be unable to enjoy a full 72 hours. The coach has been somewhat considerate and let the heroes have from the termination of practice Friday until 2130 of the same night. Enough to take in a show and, of course, no beer.

Wishing all you NARU men a week-end of women, song, and ... you know what, the staff hopes to meet you at the Santa Barbara field to see the Green and Gold white-wash the Marine Green.

Starting out with a bang, the sophomore class elected Archie Ahrendes president, Don Pruhs vice-president, and Jim Morris secretary-treasurer at their regular meeting last Thursday, Oct. 24. President Ahrendes appointed two committees, one to cover the freshmen initiation next week, and the other to plan possible activities between now and Christmas.

Farm and Education Leaders Here for FFA Convention

Fred L. Smith, Ventura, president of the state board of education, will be the principal speaker at the annual banquet of the 17th state Future Farmers of America convention at Cal Poly today and tomorrow.

Smith, who is a national leader in Lion's club work, is a business man and owns thousands of acres in several farms. He will receive at the banquet the honorary State Farmer emblem voted him at the state FFA convention last year and which has not yet been presented. He will be introduced by Julian A. McPhee, state director of vocational education and president of the college.

Eugene E. Starkey, 19-year-old state Future Farmer president, will also bring national representation to the meetings of which he will be in direct charge. A few days ago Starkey, a full-time Tehama county dairyman with his own herd of 65 high-producing cows, was elected a second national vice president of the FFA, representing 40,000 farm boys in (Turn to Page Four)

The Mustangs will pit their football talents against the powerful Goleta Marines at the Santa Barbara State College Stadium tomorrow night. The Marines will be spearheaded by the brilliant passing of Quarterback Chuck Horvath. The Marines took Fresno State last week-end with a 6-0 victory credited to Horvath's 40-yard pass on the fourth down which provided the only score of the game. When Fresno threatened to hit pay dirt, Horvath came through again to intercept a pass and stop the on-rush.

Poly's hope for a second victory was shattered when blocking back Hal Roveda decided to take a bit of unauthorized liberty which resulted in his transfer from Cal Poly to Treasure Island. Two other players, Louis Markley and Hal Winkle, are also in somewhat the same status with the exception that they were not hit quite as hard and will be restricted for the remainder of their stay at Cal Poly. This means that they will not be able to travel with the team either to Santa Barbara or Tucson, Arizona, for the games. Markley was a substitute guard while Winkle was working at the blocking back spot.

Coach Henderson has been busy switching his players around to provide the greatest power available. With these changes we find former center, Morris Baudouin, a 60 minute ball player, dropping back to the fullback spot to alternate with Vern Pyne. Baudouin played fullback while in high school and looks very good in that position. Along with this change we have Keenan moving from guard to center with Saver sliding into the guard position. Saver formerly played the tackle slot and since this latest change has been doing some very fine work and should give the Marines a good deal of trouble on line plunges. Another change was made when Pete Nachtwey was switched from end to the quarterback spot which (Turn to Page Four)

El Mustang Resumes Place in Student Life

This issue of El Mustang marks the beginning of a second era in the publication of a weekly paper by the students of Cal Poly. It was in September, 1942, that the publications department laid on the shelf for the duration of the war two student publications and in the same motion created a new magazine, the Mustang Roundup. The magazine has been published continuously during the war and has become a real part of the publications program of the students. Resumption of the publication of our weekly paper is the first milestone on the road to complete restoration of all student publications, including, some time in the future, our yearbook, El Rodeo.

The purpose of El Mustang is to bring a closer relationship among students, and between students and faculty. It will be our policy to print all the news worth printing, and to furnish news worth reading. We shall report events to come, and review activities that have passed. In this way, El Mustang will keep students and faculty informed with accurate information of the various activities.

The Mustang Roundup will continue as a monthly magazine. However, the need was felt for a publication that would circulate at more frequent intervals. It is for the satisfaction of this desire that we undertake the editing of El Mustang.

The publication will be written and edited by a staff of students under the supervision of Bob Kennedy, journalism instructor. Contributions of news articles will be gladly received by the staff. Students desiring experience in the field of publications will be welcomed. Any student who has either worked on a school paper, or who desires to do so, should report to the El Mustang office, room 204, Administration Building.

El Mustang is dedicated to the students and faculty of Cal Poly. Their cooperation throughout the year will help to make this a successful publication. It is the aim of El Mustang to provide an outlet for self expression, and to enlighten Cal Poly students of activities before they happen. The success of El Mustang is the ultimate success of the entire student body.—L. G.

ORCHIDS THIS TIME?

Squad members are wondering today if Howie "Lover-boy" Page will have feminine fans in Santa Barbara as he did in Fresno. Big surprise of the day at Fresno two weeks ago occurred during the Saturday noon luncheon at the Sequoia Hotel. Team members were admiring the class of the beautiful, blonde cashier from afar. Suddenly she waltzed into the dining room and asked for "Howie" and presented him with a corsage.

Vital Statistics

HATCHED

ACMM and Mrs. R. E. Craig wish to announce that something new has quite definitely been added; namely, a brand new baby girl, weight seven pounds, ten ounces. As yet, no name has been chosen for the young lady.

MATCHED

Ball and chain catches ex-BTO. Robert G. Duncan, EM1c, of Platoon 6R-C2, better known to all hands as "Buddy," married Miss Margie Blaine, a local girl, in the Old Mission on October 21. Mr. Duncan, now a proud civilian, left Cal Poly with the first draft to receive discharges. His home is in Little Rock, Arkansas. Immediately after the reception, the bride and groom left for Santa Barbara to enjoy a very short honeymoon. They plan to reside locally upon their return.

It seems as though the ball and chain is becoming quite popular hereabouts. Giles X. Hietpas, of 7R-B1 is preparing for the fatal mistake. His bride to be is Miss Anne Isalinger, of Kimberley, Wis., "Hip's" home town. The ceremony, which will be Catholic in accordance with the faith of both, will be performed sometime this weekend. The best wishes of Platoon B-1 to the bride and groom.

DETACHED

Another note from Platoon B-1 is the unanimous wall of sorrow which arose with the disappearance of Hal C. Roveda, our favorite fullback and excellent ventriloquist, from our ranks. We'll all miss him; and, for one, I hope to see him again sometime. Till then, Happy Landings, Hal, and the best of luck.

Movie Schedule

The following films will be shown at the Cal Poly Auditorium each Friday night starting at 7 p.m.:

26 October: "Pan-Americana."
2 November: "Gay Senorita"—Jinx Falkenberg.
9 November: "Back to Bataan"—John Wayne.
16 November: "I Love a Band Leader."

REMAINING GAMES

Following the Marine game at Santa Barbara Saturday night, Poly will play its last home game against Minter Field, Sunday afternoon, Nov. 4. Last game of the season will be the long trip to Tucson, Ariz., where the Mustangs will play the University of Arizona on Nov. 10 in a night game.

Harvest Dance Success Cue for Monthly Affairs

By WOODALL

The annual Harvest Dance was gaily celebrated by many trainees and civilians with their glamorous escortees, coupled with the attendance of a few faculty members and wives, last Friday evening, October 19, in the gymnasium. The dance was sponsored by the Freshman class, which was headed on by the indomitable Dave Ingraham. (It was casually mentioned that Dave furnished the "brains and brawn," and the freshman the moral support.)

The 104th Division Band led by the intrepid "Woodie" Brokw very aptly furnished the music. Al Cord, swinging clarinet player, was formerly feature clarinetist with Harry James' Band.

Decorations for the dance consisted of great strands of stars extending from all parts of the gymnasium into one large star placed in the center of the gym. A constant inter-play of lights was shed on the pulsating group of dancers.

Among notables present were Mr. and Mrs. Bob Kennedy (just polishing the apple, fellows), Mr. and Mrs. Davy Davidson (hot band leader), Al Santel, accompanied by the blushing Mitchell Tucker, Bill Strutton and the lovely Mrs. Strutton (Hubba! Hubba!), Chief and Mrs. Brown, Chief and Mrs. Caven, Chief Echenfelder and escortee, Miss Joyce Barker; Lt. George Weigel (the C.O.) and Mrs. Weigel, Mr. and Mrs. Noggies (All-American), Trainee Sam Cushman with lovely Mrs. Cushman (June bride), and the recently wed, Trainee and Mrs. Erickson. Oh yes! Lt. Charles Wood came stag. (I wonder why?)

Plan Intra-mural Basketball Tourney

Vern Meacham, director of athletics, announced today that plans for an intramural basketball tournament are under way. A complete schedule of games and teams, including both NARU and civilians, will be announced soon with games scheduled to start Nov. 1. There will be a team from each civilian dorm and teams from the navy battalions. The tournament will be played after school hours.

Meacham suggests that each organized group start looking over their men to find those most capable of representing their group in the tourney.

VISUAL EXPERT TALKS

Francis Noel, chief of the new division of Audio-visual education of the state department of education, spoke to members of the faculty Wednesday evening on plans for the expansion of visual education on a state-wide basis. He made a number of recommendations regarding Poly's visual education program which are now being considered.

Vice Proxy Plans Social Schedule

Dave Ingraham, vice president of the student body, today outlined some of his plans for future social events at Poly.

"I'm thinking of running a big dance every three or four weeks and alternating with a juke-box dance in between when there is nothing else scheduled," Ingraham stated.

Asking for the cooperation of all students, Ingraham said, "Give me some ideas to work on and we can run some swell shindigs. Stop me anytime, anywhere and tell me any ideas you have. Keep your eyes peeled for our future dates and we'll be seeing you then."

FACULTY PARTY TUESDAY

Annual Cal Poly employee party will be held in the Monday Club Tuesday night. Faculty club members are preparing the food which will be followed by an evening of entertainment.

Poly Hens Told 'Win or Bust'

The California Polytechnic's entry in the Fifth California Official Egg Laying Test at Modesto has been progressing well but not quite up to previous years' standards.

With only three weeks to go in the Fifth Test, the 25 White Leghorns of Dryden Poultry Breeding Farm continue in first place with an earned income over feed cost of $145.87. Poly entries are placed at seventh and eleventh with a possible chance of gaining ground in the remaining three weeks.

Poly's entries for the sixth test which opens November 1 are being groomed by Richard Leach, who tells his entries, "Win or bust." Two pens of 25 each will be entered. All entries are the result of the general trap-nesting of all laying pullets by instructor Leach and students during the past week. The cream of Poly's Leghorns will be hard to beat in the sixth annual test.

Standardization Men Aid Inspection Class

The Inspection Department spent the entire day Oct. 3 discussing standardization problems with Harry Koester, supervising inspector, and Henry Cereda, senior inspector, of the California State Department of Standardization.

The discussion, arranged by Weir Fatters, started at 8:30 a. m. and lasted till 4 p. m. During the day, Cereda demonstrated the procedure of inspecting fruits and vegetables.

The club members are now looking forward to their trip to Los Angeles Nov. 3 for Commissioner's Examinations.

INSPECTION STUDENTS MEET

At the regular meeting of the agricultural inspection students last Thursday, Oct. 18, the following officers were elected: president, Charles Watts; vice president and reporter, James W. Williams; secretary-treasurer, James Bassett.

During the remainder of the meeting, Mr. Fatters, club advisor, discussed the various civil service examinations coming up.

POLY PHASE REORGANIZES

Two weeks ago, the switch was thrown on to what promises to be one of the hottest clubs on our campus. Yes, sir! The Electrical Department's own Poly Phase club started the old current flowing in the right direction when they elected as their officers: Milton Brown, president; Ken Lucas, vice president; Owin Portwood, secretary-treasurer; and a representative to the S.A.C., Leon McAdams.

Boots & Spurs Elect Officers, Plan Year

Planning to out-do all previous years and with the largest potential club in quite some time, the Boots and Spurs club of Cal Poly recently held its first meeting for the purpose of electing officers.

Elected were President Brad Arrington, Vice President Russ Lancaster, Secretary-Treasurer Paul Bowman, and S. A. C. Member Ade Harders.

The club had its second meeting Wednesday, October 17. The meeting was opened by Mr. Ben-nion, who told members that all arrangements for the buying of animals for their future barbecue have been completed. Mr. Ben-nion then turned the meeting over to Brad Arrington, the newly-elected president, who called on Russ Lancaster for a report of his committee's activities for the barbecue at El Serrano. Later the group enjoyed a short film on phenothiazine.

Crops Club Elects Officers, Plans Party

At the last meeting of the crops club an election of officers was held. When the smoke cleared, Bob Garvey awoke with a gavel in his hand, Donald Bower was elected vice president, and Max Leacet, secretary-treasurer. After the election, plans were made to meet at Mr. Dougherty's home in the very near future for "tea" and crumpets.

At one of the earlier meetings, the club was joined by the Ag. Insp. group to listen to a very interesting talk by Lt. Kenneth Holmes, U.S.N.R., who gave us some highlights on agriculture in some of the Pacific Islands.

Guard Enlists, Too

Enlistment in the National Guard has been authorized by the War Department, effective immediately.

Enlistment will be for three years, and will be under the military authorities of the several states. Enlistment cannot be made, however, by men still in active federal service in the armed forces.

GLEE CLUB TO DANCE

Portraying the theme of Halloween, members of the Glee club will hold their first dance of the season tonight, October 26, in the El Corral at 8 o'clock. Although some dancing partners will be provided, members are requested to bring their own dates. Decorations and music for the occasion are under the supervision of Sam Cushman, vice president of the organization, and H. P. Davidson, head of the music department.

Quartet Makes Two Public Appearances

Cal Poly's varsity quartet made two public appearances in the past week to represent the college and the music department.

Most recent appearances of the quartet, comprised of Trainees Joe Godfrey, Ken Teal, Bill Wagner and Jim O'Brien, was before the All-County Victory Bond Kick-Off Dinner at the Masonic club Wednesday night.

On Tuesday night the quartet plus Dick Pabet, trumpet soloist, entertained at a potluck supper of the Music section of the Cal Poly Women's club. Women of the music section brought their faculty husbands to the party, which was held in the charming home of Mr. and Mrs. H. P. Davidson.

Pabet presented "Trumpet Rhapsody" arranged by Harry James. The quartet sang "Ol' Ark's a Movin'," "Now the Day Is Over," "Who Did?", "Love's Old Sweet Song" and "Nut Brown Maiden."

After refreshments, the quartet joined in and helped out on group singing.

Swimming Pool Open Sunday, Co-eds Swim

For those uninformed on the campus, rumors have been circulating to the effect that on every Sunday afternoon between the hours of 2 and 5 the campus is invaded by strange animals known as La Femme, garbed in costumes of utmost brevity, who portray their aquatic abilities in the Cal Poly pool. Also around at this time are quite a few men, but more can be accommodated if they are Cal Poly students (Trainees or civilian), employees, faculty, and their guests.

Last Sunday, October 21, Vernon Luce, lifeguard, had the pleasure of safeguarding a select group of co-eds, including Misses Mandy Powers, Carol Beck, Betty Farrar, Lorraine Evans, Jo Ann Joughin, Jo Ann Martinsen, Doris Spillers, Pat Gill and Joyce Bwigett.

Young Farmers Hear Agriculture Commissioner Duties

A brief and welcomed respite in our cramming for mid-term exams was provided last Tuesday evening by one of the semi-monthly meetings of the local chapter of The California Young Farmers.

As guest speaker for the evening we had the pleasure of hearing Mr. Drake of the office of the Agricultural Commissioner. He enlightened us as to the usefulness of his office to the potential farmers of California.

GAME CAPTAIN . . . Jim Hutto, 185 lb. tackle, is the hardest charging man on the team and has earned the honor bestowed upon him by Coach Ronnie Henderson for the Marine game to be played in Santa Barbara Saturday night.

will give the Mustangs more replacements at that key spot.

Bob Ohm has looked good on the punting assignment which will give the Marines something to worry about, while Jim Hutto has been doing great work at the tackle spot which will really mean trouble when he and Saver get together to plug up the holes in the Goleta line.

With the habitual tough luck that the Mustangs have seen throughout the season, the team will take to the field as the underdog by a margin of from 18 to 20 points, according to the experts.

The Marines have a record of five victories, one tie and one defeat. Their record to date: 26-0 win over Stockton Army Base; 7-7 tie with College of Pacific; 25-0 victory over Minter Field; 82-0 win over Tulare Cowboys; 20-12 victory over Albany Beach-busters; 14-19 loss to the University of Nevada; and 6-0 win over Fresno State.

Probable starting lineup for the Mustangs as announced by Coach Henderson Friday morning will be: ends, Demchenko and Pace; tackles, Cagle and Hutto; guards, Saver and Berry; center, Godfrey; quarterback, Pyse; left half, Bewley; right half, Page; fullback, Baudouin.

This will be the first game Bewley has been able to suit up for since he injured his ankle in the opening minutes of the Camp Cooke 48-0 slaughter.

SWITCHED TO GUARD . . . Elmer Saver, 175 lb. starting tackle, has been switched to guard position where he has been doing outstanding work during scrimmage this past week.

Navy PT Classes Start Football Competition

Broken bones and bruised bodies are the call of the day since football has started during P.T. classes. Teams of six and seven men each have been chosen and have been playing each other round robin for the past week. Real inter-platoon competition started last Friday.

Chief Caven has charge of the morning group, and Chief Brown is responsible for the afternoon session. Chief Caven has hopes of playing the winning team of each session in a post-season game, since inter-platoon basketball will start next week.

Industrial Students Visit Hancock Field

Industrial students journeyed to Santa Maria by school bus two weeks ago to attend the open-house program at the Hancock Field celebrating the recent acquisition of that flying school by the University of California. Students were accompanied by M. C. Martinson and Roy Metz, of the Aero department; Dave Cook and John Hyer, Electrical department.

Visitors had an opportunity to inspect five war-weary planes just purchased by USC from government surplus commodities. In addition to these five planes, a B-17, B-25, P-38, P-47 and a P-51, the field was lined with 50 or 75 training ships used by the army in training pilots at Santa Maria.

Young Farmers Sponsor Assembly Honoring FFA

In honor of the state-wide FFA convention being held here Friday and Saturday, the local chapter of the California Young Farmers' organization sponsored an assembly yesterday for the purpose of informing the entire student body of the importance of the State FFA program.

Speakers at the assembly included Byron McMahon, chief of the bureau of agricultural education; George P. Couper, assistant to the chief, and Weir Fetter, assistant supervisor. Student Prexy Ad Santel presided.

high school vocational agriculture classes in the 11 Pacific region states.

It is expected that the total registration will include about 200 including 40 agriculture teachers. Every delegate is a chapter officer and many are president of their respective local FFA groups.

Recognizing the opportunity to show its hospitality to these future young farm leaders, many of them prospective freshmen if they do not have to enter military service, California Polytechnic college will conduct a tour of the campus and provide entertainment for the visitors.

Six boys, each outstanding in his geographical region of the state, will receive "Regional Star State Farmer" awards, and one of them will be named "Star State Farmer" for California. The latter will receive a $100 check from the National Future Farmer Foundation and a wrist watch; all six will receive engraved plaques.

Engraved certificates will be presented to those present of 114 boys recommended for the State Farmer degree. Other certificates will be presented to about 25 local chapters which have been given "Master Chapter" rating. A gavel of historic import will be presented by the Salinas high school delegates to the outgoing president.

Byron J. McMahon, chief of the state bureau of agricultural education here, is in general charge of the convention with Starkey, as state Future Farmer adviser. George P. Couper, assistant to the chief of the bureau, is arranging all details with the help of bureau and college committee chairmen.
