The selection of "Katie" Dupont to reign as queen of the fifteenth Annual Poly Royal is but one of many activities taking place in the furthering of plans for the coming "country fair on a college campus." The Poly Royal Executive Committee, which is composed of representatives of the various departments and clubs on the campus, meets weekly to discuss various aspects of the coming big event.

The barbecue this year, at which an estimated 4,000 people are expected to eat, is being handled by the Boots and Spurs Club.

One of the most important jobs now undertaken is that of advance publicity for Poly Royal. Miss Dupont, this year's Queen, will be on the Cal Poly campus this weekend to have pictures taken for distribution to industrial and agricultural magazines. She will be here for publicity purposes only and will not make a public appearance.

SHEEP SHEARING CLASS

Poly's sheep department in conjunction with the University of California's Extension Service is holding a sheep shearing institute on the campus this Friday and Saturday. Dr. James F. Wilson will speak on both days. The demonstrations will be handled by E. A. Warner. The classes will be held in the new Farm Machinery building.

BOOTS AND SPURS MEETING

The Boots and Spurs meeting for February will be held in Classroom 6 at 7:30 p. m. on February 20. Howard Vaughn, of Dixon, will be the guest speaker.

K-K-Katie Says 'It's W-W-Wonderful'

San Diego, Feb. 13 — Catherine (Katie) Dupont, 19, attractive San Diego State College second-semester sophomore, went from class to class on the Aztec campus today, hardly knowing what she was doing or why.

"I'm so excited I can't think of anything else," she said, her dark eyes flashing in support of her statement. "Nothing like this ever happened to me before. It's wonderful!"

The reason for Miss Dupont's excitement was, of course, that she had just been chosen to reign as queen of the 15th annual Poly Royal at California Polytechnic College next May 2 and 3.

The invitation to supply the queen for the "country fair on a college campus" came to San Diego State from the student body and administration at California Poly. The Aztec student body accepted, then the Associated Students Council asked each campus organization to nominate a candidate. Selection of the queen was made by the council.

Miss Dupont was chosen on a basis of scholarship, participation in extra-curricular activities, beauty, poise and personality.

Katie, as the entire campus knows her, is tall (5 feet, 8 inches) and slim (110 pounds).

Students Invited to Sit In On College of Fairs

A field rich in new job opportunities — Fair Management — will be studied at the second annual College of Fairs.

The sessions, to be held here from February 17-21 under direction of 26 noted authorities, will consider all phases of an industry currently offering excellent careers to young men.

Novel feature of the College of Fairs is introduction of intense use of visual aids to dramatize the traditional lecture method of education.

Dan Cupid Guest At Crops Club's Valentine Dance

A dance in honor of Saint Valentine is in order for the weekend pleasures of Poly men and their sweethearts. According to Johnny Schaub, chairman of the dance, the Crops club is going to great lengths to provide the proper atmosphere for dancin' and romancin'.

Don Seaton, manager of the Collegians, stated that the men in brown have great ideas for providing fitting background music for the little guy with the bow and arrows.

Schaub said that the decorations committee has worked out a theme which will feature the fragrance of almond blossoms, the mellow effect of special lighting and a canopy ceiling to provide a cozy atmosphere.

"The only consideration of the evening is the springtime fancies of the 'young men' of Poly and their dates," Schaub continued. "Those who attend will never recognize the old muscle factory in its disguise as a mass production unit for the work of Dan Cupid and Venus."

"Remember the time is Saturday evening and all are welcome who have the spirit of St. Valentine in their hearts."

BULLETIN BOARD NOTICES

Notices on the official bulletin board in the post office lobby must be limited to three by five inches in size according to Leon Garland, student body president. The limited size of the board and the many notices placed there is responsible for this request. Notices which are larger in size than three by five inches will be removed.

"Cal Poly students interested in attending any of the sessions of the College of Fairs held in the A. C. Auditorium are welcome," it was announced by Lou Merrill, manager, Western Fairs Association.

Models, architect's drawings, charts, exhibits, displays, mock-ups, color slides, photographs and color sound motion pictures are to be used.

Importance of the sessions is indicated by scheduled plans of the national fair man's magazine, Billboard, to fly a special edition from the East to the Cal Poly campus for the school sponsored by Western Fairs Association, California Polytechnic College, the University of California at Davis and the State Division of Fairs and Expositions.

Newly programmed for this year is an advertising - publicity contest, to be judged by John Long, general manager of the California Newspaper Publishers' Association; Frank Kingman, secretary of the International Association of Fairs and Expositions; and John Knezevich, publisher of the Palos Verdes News and public relations director of Hollywood Park.

In announcing the curriculum, ranging from accounting through tickets, parking, advertising through sanitation, Association President Ed Vollmann said:

"One of the most attractive occupations now open to properly trained young men is that of fair manager at one of the California 74 non-profit fairs principally supported by taxes on the State supervised Thoroughbred horse racing industry."

Yearbook Portrait Schedule Set for Next Monday

To accommodate students and faculty members the El Rodeo staff has this year arranged to have a commercial photographer take all portraits needed for the yearbook in a special studio to be set up in the Administration building. In past years it has been necessary for students and faculty members to make their own appointments with a specified studio downtown. It is anticipated that this new system will be of great convenience to students and faculty members, according to John Shea, editor.

McLane Studio will set up a studio in Room 16, basement of the Administration Bldg., starting next Monday night, Feb. 17, at 6 p. m. Portraits will be taken according to the schedule listed below which will operate from 6 to 10 p. m. Monday, Tuesday, Wednesday and Thursday nights.

All seniors, class officers, club officers, musical organization officers, Poly Royal officers, and El Rodeo staff members and faculty members are requested to be present at Room 16 at the scheduled time dressed in suit coat, shirt and tie (pants optional.) Reasonable rates for these portraits have been arranged: two proofs for $1.00 or four proofs, $1.75. The yearbook will receive glossy prints from the best negative, and persons interested in ordering additional print for their own use may do so at special rates being offered by the McLane Studio.

"We sincerely hope that every person whose portrait is to appear in El Rodeo will cooperate by being on time for their appointment. If an emergency prevents any person from being present at the scheduled time, I would appreciate having them contact me in advance so that arrangements can be made to work them in at another time," Shea said.

Shea warned that engraving deadlines are drawing near and persons who miss having their portraits taken at this time may find they are unable to make their own appointments with McLane Studios in time to get their picture in the yearbook.

Football lettermen and basketball players will have their portraits taken in light colored sports shirts, open at the neck.

Ed Note:

Dear customers:

Your editor has taken quite a few letters, opinions and stuff in general for several weeks with very little said in rebuttal if you'll except the "Editor's Note" squibs. This week we have a conglomeration of items. Some could be played up into a full scale editorial and others, perhaps, aren't worth mentioning.

First of all, congratulations to those of the Young Farmer chapter, who did such a swell job of handling the convention. This is indirectly a pat on the editor's back since he belongs to the organization, or will just as soon as he pays his dues. Sincerely though, a good many students here worked long and hard to take care of the delegates and visitors. From all that we have heard they did a top notch job all the way.

A comment concerning the Barn Dance last Saturday. That dance showed the results of a good deal of work. We have heard the criticism (and we agree) that too many activities and events were put on. A dance is mostly for good music, her . . . and quiet enjoyment. Don't fog the issue with too much other stuff. Aside from that, we have hearty applause for the entire hop. It was especially swell to hear Chet McCorkle on the trumpet again.

The editor didn't know he was getting into it when he asked the former editor of EL MUSTANG, you know, that guy, Garolan, to handle a column for this sheet. "Dear John" has never before been called "ye olde editore." Where did you get that "olde" business, Lee?

The editor wrote a story last week about the meeting of the Athletic Policy committee. Here is the greatest opportunity in the college to take part in directing the philosophy of the student body. Let's hear from a raft of you on the subject.

We were taking life easy, after the paper came out last week, basking in the sunshine of several compliments when we received that jarring letter from the Fox II, and a complaint that somebody had fouled up on the Block "P" Neophyte story. We are printing a correction of the latter item on the sport's page, sorry Larry; we firmly feel that our comments about the Fox II were justified. It just goes to show that an editor has to be four thirds crazy to take the job; and if he isn't crazy, he soon will be. You just can't fool all of the people all of the time.

Sincerely,
J. M. P.

DOWN THE MIDDLE

By LEON GAROLAN

Last week, I rambled on about the troubles we had selecting an appropriate head. This week that is the least of our troubles. First on my mind concerns our assemblies, of which, as Glenn Arthur has reminded me, we have been recently lacking.

There have been several reasons for this. The main one is that we lack a suitable place to hold them. The football field was a fine substitute, as long as we were able to depend upon the weather; but the chances of being rained out or even frozen out are too great to plan on using that for at least the present.

The type of entertainment we would like to present for your assemblies forbids our using the wide open spaces from which to broadcast. Vice-President Dick Lavery has in mind some outstanding talent for the assemblies, if we can get the necessary building or seats.

Last Thursday's assembly was a success, measured by the response of those present. However, the number not there may be another factor for our not having assemblies in the future. Gus Beck summed up my feelings when he arose at the assembly and said, "Whether or not we have assemblies in the future will depend upon the attendance. I am sure the administration will not allow us to take time from classes for assemblies if only a small number of students attend."

I admit that certain of the assemblies in the past have not been what you would have liked to had; but just remember that they were not exactly what your officers would have liked to present either. Many of the state colleges have held fewer assemblies than we, but that still doesn't justify our not having them.

The solution to our seating problem may have been partially met at last Thursday's assembly. Split assemblies, on the basis of divisions, may be what the doctor ordered, but whether we can take two consecutive hours twice a month away from classes we have yet to find out. I dislike very much divisional segregation and distinction; but until some housing is made available for assemblies and student activities, perhaps that is the best way out.

We shall make greater efforts to advertise future assemblies. Through the El Mustang, through announcements for teachers to read before their classes, and by means of printed posters distributed at strategic points around the campus, so that students will know well in advance of approaching assemblies.

What I have tried to express through these several inches of column is that the main problem we are faced with, as far as assemblies go, is that of housing. With an adequate place to meet, Vice-Proxy Lavery will furnish us with excellent entertainment.

LOOKIN' ON . . .

with GLENN ARTHUR

I heard some remarks made at the Fun Nite that came from some unknowing individuals. I'd like to take this space to set some of you students straight on how Fun Nite is run. The Block "P" does not get a red cent from the gate receipts. It all goes into minor sports — boxing and wrestling are classified as minor sports. All of you there saw the green and gold robes and trunks the boxers were wearing and those have been purchased from the proceeds of the Fun Nite held last quarter. As for arranging the matches, getting a doctor, and referee, that is the job of the athletic department. The Block "P" sets up the bleachers and ring and cleans up after the fights are over. The concessions are entirely Block "P" owned and operated and the profit on such is not much.

I know at least two people read this column because they told me I called El Mustang a "rag" too much. To satisfy my readers I will not refer to this publication as a "rag" any more. I was also approached by a couple of other students who asked when I was going to say something else about lights. (They too had fallen in the briars at the south end of the Ad building.) The lighting problem has been under consideration for some time and the solution is not far in the offing.

Our editor's editorial, "Playing the ponies" last week brought up a very serious problem. Any solution to this problem will have to go deeper than any of the methods used now. The teachers and students of today are victims of circumstances that have been built up by years and years of traditions that have developed into our present day "educational system". The old adage, developed by some way back when, that so many students in a class get A's and so many have to slunk should have gone out with the cave man but still is in use. The stress on grades and not achievement has made students develop "cribbling", "cheating", "playing the ponies", and "scrolling" into a science of their own. The control methods now in use like "proctoring", "monitoring", and the "honor system" are out of this world. It is a case of survival of the fittest as things now stand. There will be no permanent solution until a lot of the "moon-backed" traditions have been thrown out of our educational standards.

Dear Van Etten, an inquisitive fan: Your letter to Dear John last week puzzled me no end. Are you sure you didn't have me mixed up with some one else? Anyway, I have no apologies for my actions during the contest you referred to: it is all in the game. I have been participating in athletics for quite a few years, and I have always played to win. As for being abashed Van, not I.

Publicly yours,
Glenn Arthur.

Lookin' On: How about making some remarks about the way the lawn on the east side of the Ad building is being ruined by short-cutting across it. Suggest planting thorny low hedge along walk to main door.

Signed: Junior

This letter was received last week and the topic is a good one. The walks around the Ad building are temporary for the present but the lawn is in bad shape and probably a corner planting of junipers in the said location would be better than a hedge the full length of the walk.

Dear John . . .

Dear John,

Far be it from me to be hasty (nasty), but if those simpering gigolos of this half-baked "Co-educational Movement" want female proximity let them pull up their pants and go tripping off to any one of California's many colleges where co-education is rife.

I agree with Fox II, he sure had plenty on the ball in his letter in the last issue of El Mustang (Jan. 80). This is a man's college, and probably the only one in California under state government, and it must remain so for the most of us who wish to pick up an education without being pulled off the beam everytime, oh, you know the rest.

Why not have a "Dies Committee" to put the squelch on all subversive activities threatening the peace of our college by over-ambitious students who forget to build a more logical foundation before they start bellowing for something they ain't gonna get?

Yours for peace and plenty,
Arab

P. S. For best results, I wish to remain anonymous also.

Subject: Co-education For Cal Poly Dear Fox:

We accept your vote opposing co-education, but we hope you will not feel too slighted because you were not included in our former poll. It is understandable, though, as foxes are lonely characters and are sometimes hard to find.

In your letter last week you stated that we have "inadequate housing for our present students and much less for women too." This is true at present, but it doesn't mean we cannot have adequate housing for all. It's just like having a little boy you do not want to grow up because you do not have the pants to fit him.

You also stated that Cal Poly does not offer courses in which women would be interested. It is a known fact that President McPhee, at the first student body meeting, stated that the school had received many letters from women wishing to know whether Cal Poly was accepting applications from women. Also, the Fox states that the Cal Poly curricula does not include courses that women would be interested in. What about the two hundred women up at Davis who would like to enter Cal Poly just because of the practical courses offered here?

In order to comply with the editor's two hundred word limit, we will stop here.

Over 30 Chapters Meet at Young Farmer Convention

By Charles Hitchcock

California Young Farmers' seventh annual state convention opened last Thursday when representatives from more than 80 communities throughout the state met on the Cal Poly campus.

At 2 o'clock the Cal Poly band started the convention off with a bang by presenting 80 minutes of top music, including some of their boogie tunes, to the delighted delegates. Julian McPhee, Cal Poly president, gave the opening address, and state Young Farmer president, Meryl Anderson, then gave a preview of the convention program. Introductory remarks were given by state adviser, Byron McMahon, and Bill Othart gave the Cal Poly Young Farmer report.

At 4:30, a tour of the campus took place. Each of the delegates had his choice of any of the campus agricultural units he wished to visit. Students of various majors were stationed at the different units to give any information that might be wanted by the visiting Young Farmers. The tour was conducted by Carl Beck, Cal Poly chapter adviser.

Sam Anderson, head of the sports committee, stated that the delegates had a very full and enjoyable Thursday evening. The evening started off with the Young Farmers having full possession of Lino Martini, of Linden, regional president of the central region for the past year, was elected president and received the gavel from outgoing president Meryl Anderson, of McFarland, in ceremonies which concluded the seventh annual convention. Other new officers elected were: Russell Johnson, Modesto, vice president; Guido Lombardi, Porterville, secretary; Bill Othart, Cal Poly, treasurer, and Ernest Giacomini, Ferndale, reporter.

the swimming pool. Following the swim fest, the delegates were entertained at the Block "P" fun night and were then served refreshments in El Corral.

Friday morning two important talks were made to a capacity crowd in the Engineering Auditorium. Ben Glaha, photographic section chief, Bureau of Reclamation, and Richard Cronshaw, director, public relations, Challenge Cream and Butter Association, were the speakers. Glaha gave a very driving talk on the central valley water plan. Cronshaw's discussion was about, "A California Young Farmer's View of Dairy Trends."

The annual banquet was held in the South Cafeteria, Friday evening. Along with a very delicious dinner, the Young Farmer delegates were entertained by the Cal Poly Octette. Don Carothers, banquet committee head, said the Young Farmers left the banquet quite contented.

Many of the delegates attended the barn dance Friday evening to join Polyites in their fun-fest.

1947-48 nominations and elections were held Saturday morning and at noon the convention adjourned.

Vet Student Meeting Held

By Gordon Landry

Representatives of the three veteran's service offices located on the campus addressed a veteran student, College Y sponsored, meeting held on February 5.

Paul Hilton, vocational adviser, outlined the services rendered by the Veterans Advisement and Guidance Center, pointing out that veterans under both P. L. 16 and P. L. 346 are entitled to advisement, guidance services through his office. He also stated that veterans under both laws may take reliable scientific tests, either to make an occupational selection, or verify a choice already made.

Paul Hilton stressed the fact that his office has no intention of making a vocational choice for a student; the veteran is given the facts and advised on a course to follow, but any decision rests with the individual. The Guidance Center has just moved from rooms 169 and 171 to room 23 next to the Training office.

The second speaker was Bill Hill from the Contact Office. He talked on various subjects relative to the Contact Office.

Don Day, now acting in place of Leo Philbin as Training Officer, addressed the group concerning the Training section.

At the close of the meeting, Pierre Anderson, vice-president of the College YMCA Group, gave a short talk on what the YMCA is trying to do on the campus. Students were informed that if they were interested in College Y work, they were welcome to join the organization.

Air Conditioning Field Trip to Oil Refinery

The Air Conditioning club went on the move last Saturday when 29 students and two instructors, Norman Sharpe and Jim McDonald, made a field trip to Santa Maria to visit the Union Oil Company refinery which supplies a wide area with gas, butane, propane, and many other types of gases.

Field engineer Frank Boyd conducted the tour and explained the process of making the different gases. This company has over 200 wells, some being over 4,000 feet deep. They pump almost 25 million cubic feet of gas each day, and from this they produce 18,000 gallons of gasoline, 10,000 gallons of butane, 6,000 gallons of propane, and 14 million cubic feet of dry gas.

The main interest of the tour was the huge cooling towers and heat transfer units which play a major role in the making of these gases.

The company has been contemplating putting in a dry ice unit at the plant as they have available enough carbon dioxide to make over 250,000 pounds of dry ice each day. Dry ice is in much demand in the frozen food market.

Parenthood Study Group Starts 3rd Lecture Series

The third series of Parenthood Study Groups under the auspices of the County Health Department and the Adult Education program will be offered to parents and expectant parents beginning at 7:30 p. m., Wednesday, February 19, and continuing for eleven weeks thereafter.

The series will be held in the library of the Junior High School on Marsh Street in San Luis Obispo.

The classes will consist of lectures and demonstrations by members of the health department staff and local physicians. Aim of the course is to help the parents understand and be prepared to meet the problems of parenthood—both before and after the birth of the child. This year the lessons will be clearly illustrated by means of lantern slides purchased by the San Luis Obispo City School Department.

Husbands are invited to attend the first and fifth and the seventh through the twelfth lectures. The calendar of subjects and speakers is as follows:

February 19 — Anatomy and Physiology of Pregnancy — E. C. Sherman, M. D.
February 26 — Hygiene of Pregnancy — Eleanor Wood, P. H. N.

March 5 — Nutrition — Eleanor Wood, P. H. N.

March 12 — Layette and Baby Equipment — Eleanor Wood, P. H. N.

March 19 — Labor and Delivery — J. G. Middleton, M. D.

Poultry Club Hears Local Loan Expert

Louis M. Perrozzi, asst. cashier at the Bank of America in San Luis Obispo, was present at the last Poultry club meeting with a great deal of pertinent information as to the possibilities of securing loans for farms or homes under the GI Bill or otherwise.

He stated that the present policy of banks is to loan only up to 85% on any approved amount up to $10,000, in comparison with the former 100% loans. As far as the experience problem is concerned in the negotiation of a loan, he mentioned that a Poly graduate would be looked upon very favorably as a sound investment for a loan.

Perrozzi answered many pressing problems concerning loans.

foot wind tunnels for low-speed stability and control development work, capable of speeds up to 300 miles per hour. A sixteen foot tunnel used for sub-sonic research up to 680 miles per hour was also seen. The Ames 18 foot pressure tunnel is used for turbulence studies on three dimensional bodies at very high speeds.

Examples of the latest development in advanced aerodynamics were seen in two 1 by 8 foot super-sonic tunnels. In these two tunnels, which are among the largest in the United States, investigations are being made to determine the design of airplanes and missiles to fly at speeds above the speed of sound.

Most spectacular equipment seen was the 40 by 80 foot wind tunnel. This tunnel is the largest in the world, and is capable of handling medium sized bombers in its test section.

Among many other things seen at Ames were the Flight Engineering Section, which has been devoted mainly to increasing the safety of airplanes through the reduction of the icing hazard, and the Flight Research Section which conducts investigations in actual flight on problems such as maneuverability and dynamic stability which are not readily subject to investigation by other testing facilities.

A visit was also taken through Pan American Airways to observe and study the maintenance and operation of large trans-oceanic air depots. Highlight of the trip was the operations office where the procedure for dispatching a trans-oceanic air liner for its 1400 mile, non-stop flight to Hawaii was followed through in detail. This involved the collection of complete meteorological data from the Mississippi River to the Orient, and the process of analysing and compiling this data.

Sella Celebrates Twins, No Cigars

A good example of post-war mass production was exhibited last week when a sow belonging to Harry Sella, Jr., gave birth to twins.

Both cow and twin baby bulls are doing fine.

When asked when he was going to pass out cigars, Harry said that he would be doing well to feed his newly acquired family, without buying cigars.

Mustang Hoopsters Lose Two, Win One on Road

Aztecs Scalp Mustangs in Border City

By John Morosky

The Mustangs dropped their fourth consecutive 2C2A league game Friday night, to the Aztecs of San Diego State, by a margin of 57-38. The Aztec victory moved them into fourth place in the league standings, and dropped Poly deeper into the cellar.

As usual the Mustangs lack of height and reserve strength, proved to be a decided handicap. The "never-say-die" Mustangs managed to stay in the ball game, even though the Aztecs controlled both backboards repeatedly. A couple of field goals by John Swesey and Don Nuttal, gave San Diego a 26-16 lead as the first half ended.

Moroski and Tilstra did their best to make it a contest, but to no avail. Nuttal and Hutchinson teamed up to put on a drive that widened the margin as the Mustangs tired late in the second half. Leading the victors was Don Nuttal, who made 23 points, while Hutchinson and Swesey proved to be most effective under the backboards. Hank Moroski was high-scoring for the Mustangs with 12 points, and Rolland Tilstra was runner-up with 10.

Poly dropped Saturday night's game, a non-conference tilt, to the Aztecs of San Diego by a score of 55-34. "Big" Bill Hutchinson and Don Nuttal teamed up again to hand the Mustangs their second setback in two days. Poly stayed within 10 points of the Aztecs during the first half, and wound up trailing by a 25-15 score as the buzzer sounded.

The second half began with a mishap that proved costly to the Mustangs. Center Ray Ball collided with Kenny Hale of the Aztecs, and both players were forced to leave the game because of injuries. To make matters worse, Floyd Leiser fouled out of the game a few minutes later, leaving the "Mottmen" with only three regulars in the game.

The top scorer of the game was Bill Hutchinson, of the Aztecs with 14 tallies, while Hank Moroski once again topped the Mustang efforts with 13 points.

Ray Ball's injury was not serious and he should be back in the line-up for the next game.

At Last! Poly Wins; Beats Voorhis Unit

By John Morosky

Having lost six of their last seven games, Cal Poly's Mustangs stopped at San Dimas Thursday night, and trounced the Voorhis Unit of California Polytechnic by a score of 55-41. Although the "Mottmen" were heavily favored, they had to come from behind to win the game. San Dimas pulled away to an early lead, while the Mustangs were trying to find the bucket, and emerged from the first half leading by a score of 28-20.

The Mustangs, needing a victory, came back in the second half full of fight, and with a display of brilliant team work, staged an offensive drive that found them leading San Dimas by 18 points at the end of the third quarter. Featuring the attack were: Lee Rosa, Hank Moroski, Whitey Tilstra, and Ray Ball.

High point man for the Mustangs was little Lee Rosa who garnered 16 markers. The "big-gun" for San Dimas was Bob Cruzen, center, who scored 18 points and gave the Mustangs no end of trouble during the first half.

Mustangs Oppose Tough Foe in San Jose State

This Friday night Coach Bob Mott's luckless Mustangs meet a powerful opponent when they take on the San Jose State varsity. The Spartans are at present in second place as they dropped a 44-43 ball game to the College of Pacific. San Jose defeated San Diego State easily by a score of 48-28 in an early season tilt. The Spartans also have victories over Stanford, U. S. F. and Nevada.

Ial Sontag, a three year letterman at a guard post, is the only veteran on the team. The two starting forwards, Robinson and Hagen are freshmen. Another frosh is, six foot three inch, Stu Inman at the other guard post. Starting in the pivot position will be Chuck Hughes. Hughes, the tallest man on the team, is six feet three and one half inches. He is the leading scorer of the team and has averaged better than 10 points per game.

With Willard Moore still sidelined with an injured foot, Coach Bob Mott is still faced with a problem of having enough reserves to keep the game moving at a fast clip. In a move to strengthen the team, Rube, from the frosh squad, has been promoted to the varsity. Another newcomer is Collingan.

600 Fun Night Fans Watch Boxing, Wrestling Matches

A capacity crowd witnessed the Poly mittmen and grapplers put on an exhibition last Thursday night. The intra-squad meet served as a warmup for the return engagement with Santa Barbara College here on February 27.

The Mustangs have shown marked improvement and may surprise the Gaucho team.

The main event brought together Gene Pimentel, 170 pounds, of San Luis Obispo, and Howard Rosen, 185 pounds, of Cleveland. Pimentel, showing better defensive tactics got the decision of the judges and referee.

In the scheduled semi-windup Russ Barry was supposed to have fought Ken Glick. However, Glick had been hospitalized and was unable to make appearance.

Instead, Art Gugliemelli, 123 pounds, from Walla Walla, Washington, met and defeated Harry Endo, 128 pounds, of Long Beach. Gugliemelli led all the way, and the decision of the officials was unanimous.

In the curtain raiser, Archie Archibald outpointed Fernando Sanchez, of Cuba, in a closely contested match.

Anthony Posson, 143 pounds, of Fresno, gained a clean cut decision over Jim Lawson from Santa Rosa. Posson had Lawson on the floor in the first round, but Jim finished strongly by landing several hard blows in the third round. Both men received an ovation from the crowd on leaving the ring.

John Mallory outpointed Lou Martini in three hard fought rounds. Mallory scaled in at 153 pounds, and Lou weighed 150.

In wrestling, Bob Hunt, of San Francisco, won over Grover Ralins, of San Luis Obispo. Hunt pinned Ralins to the mat and thereby was proclaimed the victor. Both men entered the ring weighing 165 pounds.

Al Weimera, 190 pounds, from San Jose, drew with Pete Manning, of Alliance, Ohio. Manning was injured during the exhibition and therefore the contest was declared to be a draw.

Every match was well received by the spectators, and the participants are congratulated for putting on such fine performances.

Gauchos Ride the Mustangs

Cal Poly dropped its fifth consecutive conference hoop tilt last night when the Santa Barbara Gauchos trimmed the Mustangs 85 to 45.

After the first ten minutes the Gauchos led 20-0, and had stretched it to 43 to 17 at the end of the half. Cal Poly's chances were reduced considerably when Rolland Tilstra, guard, fouled out of the game early in the second half. The Gauchos continued to hit the bucket from all angles.

Moroski led the Mustang scoring with 13 counters. Hubler of the Gauchos cracked three scoring records including Moroski's conference mark of 25 points against Fresno, with 29 scores.

Poly Cowpunchers Enter Collegiate Rodeo at Tucson

A rodeo team from California Polytechnic will compete in the Seventh Annual Intercollegiate Rodeo, according to "Boger Red" Mason. The University of Arizona, host for the rodeo has sent out advance plans and a schedule for the two day show, to be held in Tucson on March 15 and 16. Prizes for all events have been arranged for those placing in the competition. In addition a percentage of the entry fees will be awarded to the competitors who place in each event.

The ranking of the teams is determined by the individual performances of a four man team (two riders and two ropers) named in advance in the four events of Saddle and Bareback Bronc Riding, Cal and Team Roping. Points are awarded on a 5-3-1 basis for the first three places won by team members in these events.

A trophy was established in 1942 to rotate among the college winning the Intercollegiate Rodeo. At present the Colorado Aggies are in possession of the trophy. Cal Poly placed second last year in team competition, being nosed out of the championship by a single point.

Team members from Cal Poly have not yet been selected. Those interested in competing should contact Eugene Egan, registrar or "Red" Mason. Lodging for the competitors and corral for the horses will be furnished by the University of Arizona during the rodeo.

C.O.P. LEADS CONFERENCE RACE

The College of the Pacific Tigers, still undefeated in California Collegiate Athletic Association basketball play, dominate the conference with seven consecutive conference victories. San Jose their closest rival, has won three games against one defeat, that one at the hands of C. O. P.

Moroski Tops Poly Scorers

Hank Moroski, of Brooklyn, is the leading scorer of the Mustang cagers. In 12 games and in the San Jose Clinic (three full games) Moroski has rung up the amazing total of 186 points for an average of 12.4 points each game. Besides being top scorer, Moroski has played an outstanding floor game. In the San Diego games, Moroski was proclaimed to be the cleverest floor man seen in the border city this season.

Whitey Tilstra follows Moroski with a total of 150 points. Rosa and Ball have tallied 128 and 121 points respectively.

Individual scoring as of February 11:

SPORTS ROUNDUP

By JOE GRIFFIN

Gentlemen, I bear good tidings for a change this week. I have a subject that should be of interest to all Mustangs. so sit up and listen.

Cal Poly, as you all know, has become a member of the 2C2A and so far we are not doing so good. First understand I'm casting no reflections in any direction, meaning basketball. As far as Rob Mott and his boys are concerned they are tops with us all and under the circumstances not much can be done. You can't win basketball games with only five or six men, none of whom have the height necessary for a top-flight squad.

President McPhee has appointed a special faculty advisory committee whose purpose is to suggest a long range policy in the field of athletics. On Feb. 4, this committee held a meeting to discuss the problems at hand and Carl Beck, acting as chairman and under advice from President McPhee, saw fit to call for student representation. All organizations on the campus sent members to this meeting.

The questions brought up were these:

1. The possibility and eventual need of a graduate manager.
2. The question of salary and qualifications for the job.
3. Now that Cal Poly is a member of this conference, how are we going to meet the added expense and responsibilities that go with becoming a member?

As far as the need for a graduate manager goes, there were both pro and con arguments but things went into reverse when the money situation was brought up. Looking at it from my point of view I think there is a definite need for a graduate manager in formulating a long term policy. Dr. Voltmer pointed out that Cal Poly will have to build her reputation in the next couple of years. It seems to me that if we can raise $3000 to pay the salary of a graduate manager, there are places in the athletic program where this money can be used to better advantage. For example, we are in need of more and better equipment. (I get tired of O'Daniels telling me not to hang my jersey on a hook for fear of wearing a hole in it and to quit throwing those $16 helmets around; they're all we have!)

If we invested such a sizable sum as $2000 in the hiring of a graduate manager, we would be "putting the cart before the horse." A well-equipped team whether boxers, swimmers, or football players, stands a much better chance of coming out ahead where injuries and scores are concerned. The financial barrier is the chief obstacle, and that can be overcome only by turning out teams which are of high calibre and will bring home the bacon in the form of "gate receipts."

President McPhee summed up his view by stating emphatically that Cal Poly will not become a "door-mat" for other conference members.

MINOR SPORTS

In the field of sports, it always seems that the only ones who make the big print are the football, basketball, or baseball players. This holds true whether the participants are in high school, college, or in the professional circuits. At Cal Poly this situation is particularly noticeable, so I'm taking it upon myself to bring you up to date on a few of our minor sports and of the athletes who participate in them. Being a member of the 2C2A, these sports form an important part of our intercollegiate program, and beginning with next week's column, I will devote several lines to swimming as a starter.

Prices Reduced for Club Space in 1947 Yearbook

"Cal Poly's yearbook, El Rodeo, is a publication of the associated students of the college, and as such, strives to represent the entire student body," said John Shea, yearbook editor, in an interview here today.

"A few campus clubs have protested that the space charge for their club in this year's book was too high. In some cases we have found that our letter of explanation of why it was necessary to charge the clubs for space was never read to the members of the organizations. For that reason, we are anxious now to publicize the financial problems of the yearbook so that all students will know where their money is going," Shea added.

Shea stated that final contracts with the engraver and printer signed this week were approximately $300 cheaper than the tentative contracts, due to negotiations which Publications Adviser Robert Kennedy had with both companies on Monday. Because of the more satisfactory price, it is possible now to reduce the price of page space to clubs, he said.

"We have sent out a second letter to all campus clubs explaining that the reduced price is now $25 for two pages and $15 for one page. All clubs which have already agreed to pay the previous price of $45 and $25 will be charged the new price, of course," he added.

The practice of charging clubs for space in the yearbook is nothing new at Poly, and is a usual practice in all colleges, said Robert Kennedy, publications adviser. "Most colleges charge considerably higher rates to clubs, and many colleges charge students an extra fee over the student body membership fee for a yearbook."

The Student Affairs Council appropriated $2,250 for publications, of which $250 is used to support El Mustang. Prices of printing and engravings are so much higher now than in pre-war years, that publication costs have more than doubled, Kennedy reported.

Figures released by Shea and Kennedy on the cost of the 208 page 1947 El Rodeo are as follows:

Engravings	$1100
Press work, stock and binding	$1500
Covers	$650
Photo supplies	$350
Composition and makeup	$400
Commission on adv. sales	$200
Miscellaneous	$50
Total	$4250

Figures given for the anticipated revenue for the yearbook are as follows:

From SAC	$2000
From advertising	1400
From sale group pictures	200
From sale extra books	350
From space sold to clubs	350
Total	$4250

Musicians Are Busy Little Bees

By Olin Budd

The music department was busy this past week with many engagements, from banquets to assemblies.

On Wednesday, Feb. 5, the "Four Colonels", Charles Knokey, trumpet, Bob Handsfield, clarinet, Don Seaton, bass, and Joe Parker, guitar, played for the Knights of Columbus' wives dinner. They were followed by the octet, "Men of Distinction", with Ben Barr and Otho Budd, first tenors, Everett Miller and Gil Brown, second tenors; Clint Merithew and John Van Dyke, baritones; and Gail Allen and Deane Anderson, basses. Both these groups were met with enthusiasm and applause.

Thursday, Feb. 6, found the band playing for the two assemblies given for agricultural and engineering students in the engineering auditorium. At the agricultural assembly the octet sang some of their songs. One of their numbers, "Father, Don't Get Stewed Again Tonight", was a great success. It was dedicated by Ben Barr who said, "This next number we would like to dedicate to our director, a man we think it is best fitted to, Harold P. Davidson." At the 11 a.m. assembly the same program was given with the exception that the dedication was made to Carl Beck, and also the "Four Colonels" added their musical bit.

Thursday afternoon at 2 o'clock, the band played for the opening of the Young Farmers' Convention held in the Eng. Aud. The week was climaxed by the octet, singing at the Young Farmers' banquet Friday, Feb. 7. This time they used "Father, Don't Get Stewed Again Tonight" as one of their songs and dedicated it to Chief McPhee.

Monday night, Feb. 10, the glee club voted on a tour for the coming spring. The exact date and itinerary is to be disclosed at a future time, but the tour will be held around Easter time, and will last for a week.

Open House for Ag. Inspectors

Students majoring in Agricultural Inspection were entertained at an open house last Sunday held by Dr. and Mrs. Essig. Dr. Essig, who is the Agricultural Inspection adviser, planned the open house in order that his family, married students and their families, and single students might become better acquainted.

Dr. Essig created quite a sensation with his chef's outfit as he aided in the preparation of a delicious Dutch lunch. Mrs. Essig had planned a delightful lunch of tasty sandwiches, salad, and all the trimmings.

Mustangs at Home At Barn Dance

Complete in every detail but the aroma, Poly's gym became a barn last Friday night for the dance sponsored by Boots and Spurs. Well over 400 people attended the affair and danced to music ranging from "You Are My Sunshine" to a rhumba. During the evening Ade Harders called the turns for two old time dances, the Paul Jones and the Virginia Reel.

Decorations carrying out the barn theme included harness, bales of straw, saddles, and an old United States mail buggy. Most of the lighting was furnished by kerosene lanterns. Rail fences provided a lane to the entrance and separated the Collegians from the admiring fun.

Don Mills provided a new feature with his "Tintype Gallery" where souvenir photographs were made. His enterprise proved to be popular, and he finally had to cease clicking the shutter after using up all his film twice.

Several prizes donated by San Luis Obispo merchants were presented to some of the more fortunate people present. Gil Brown won the door prize, and a lucky balloon was captured by Frank Doty after it had been released with several balloons. Spellman Collins and John Landers, Meat Animals Department instructors, awarded the costume prizes to Jim Mitchell and May Salmba.
