Student Body Chooses 1950-51 ASB Officers

Sixty-five per cent of the student body participated in balloting last week which selected the following three associated student body officers for next year: Jim Dowe, president; Bill Lidderdale, vice-president; and Douglas Thorne, secretary.

Rounding out a hectic week of campaigning, last Tuesday's election picked out Dowe and Thorne, but voting was so close for vice-president that Lidderdale required a runoff election to win out over his nearest rival, Jim Carroll.

Dowe is an animal husbandry major and has been captain of the wrestling team and a member of the football team. He gained experience in student government as a member of several SAC committees during the past year.

Lidderdale is a physical education major and has been active in sports. Secretary Thorne is a dairy manufacturing major and is a former president of his hometown FFA chapter.

Second candidate for presidential office was Don Johnson. Maurice Beam and Harold Gay also ran for vice-president. Bob Hardy competed for secretary.

Voorhis Unit Draws 3000 Spectators For Poly Vue Fete

More than 3000 visitors attending eighth annual Poly Vue at San Dimas last Saturday witnessed the unveiling of a plaque commemorating dedication of the Voorhis school to California State Polytechnic college in 1938.

Uncle Charles Voorhis spoke at the dedication ceremonies witnessed by a large crowd in spite of the overcast sky, threatening rain. President Julian A. McPhoe outlined the history and growth of the Voorhis unit and Queen Mary Ellen Beaman, Whittier college was introduced.

Poly Vue, which corresponds to today's Poly Royal, included a baseball game, barbecue and coronation ball.

Queen Beaman's court at the ball included four princesses from Whittier college: Ardis Stewart, Gerry Gartin, Jacqueline Byer and Diana Jones.

Guests from the San Luis Obispo campus included President and Mrs. McPhoe and daughter Judy; Chester O. McKelvie, dean of instruction and assistant to the president; Carl Beck, social science instructor and "father" of Poly Royal; J. I. Thompson, bureau of agricultural education; and Bob Kennedy, director of public relations.

Campus Greets Guests In Opening Assembly

"The Country Fair on a College Campus" swings wide its gates this morning as the 18th annual Poly Royal opens with a welcoming assembly in Poly stadium at 9:30. About 10,000 spectators are expected with queen-elect, Lois Butcher, San Francisco State college, presiding over the two-day show. The

Students Send Out Nearly 15,000 Program Pictorials

Poly Royal invitations and pictorials were mailed all over the United States and to many foreign countries last week through Alpha Phi Omega fraternity and the Cal Poly general office.

Members of the fraternity tediously sorted for mailing an estimated 10,000 pictorials, which had been addressed by students.

Approximately 5,000 more invitations and brochures were mailed out through the general office.

The mailing list included: Governor of California, Earl Warren; United States Senators, Sheridan Downey and William F. Knowland; Congressional representatives from California; state assemblymen and senators; newspapers; radio stations; syndicates; travel services; state board of education and all of its departments; state college presidents; past presidents and officers of Cal Poly and many others.

Nearly 10 hours were required to address the pictorials and invitations, said Owen Servatius, supervisory clerk of the general office. The Alpha Phi Omega fraternity deserves much praise for the tremendous job it did, he said. F. K. Milham was chairman in charge of Poly Royal invitations and brochures this year.

golden haired queen from the golden gate city was officially welcomed to Poly Royal yesterday afternoon when 600 students gathered at the Southern Pacific depot to greet her arrival in San Luis Obispo.

Maintenance Students Build Barbecue Pits

Barbecue pits for Poly Royal's barbecue, to be held tomorrow, were constructed by the maintenance students. Two layers of corrugated iron separated by six inches of earth make up the pits. The welding department built adjustable racks for the grills. For quick service, the pits were placed back of the steel bleachers of Poly stadium.

Graphic Techniques Communicate Ideas

Exhibits that feature means by which people communicate ideas and meanings are being displayed by the English department, according to Dr. Paul Pendleton, department head. Assisting the department are instructors and students in art appreciation and audio-visual techniques.

Demonstrations with the aid of graphic devices are given to outline the basic nature of communication and the main obstacles in the way of clear, effective communication. Suggestions are made as to means of overcoming them, and today's effect of present, mass-media communication on the individual is presented. Jim Smith, English instructor, first suggested this exhibit for Poly Royal.

Courses in English, art appreciation and audio visual aids, which are concerned with the problem of human communication, attempt to solve these problems by analyzing the nature of communication, Pendleton said. Students are instructed how to overcome obstacles that present themselves. Included in the exhibit are cartoons, posters, three-dimensional figures, highway signs, projectors, films, models, paintings, books, newspapers, magazines and various kinds of montage exhibits. The exhibit is now on display in library classrooms 118 A, B and C.

Vel's Purchase Deadline Set

May 12 is the last date on which purchases made by students in training under PL 16 or PL 346 can be charged at the book store, according to Ruth Carley, Account books for the spring quarter will be closed on this date. It is important that all these bills be in by this date.

Livestock Judging Held On Saturday

Poly Royal's 18th annual livestock show will be staged on the football field starting at eight a.m. tomorrow, Lyman Bennion, animal husbandry department head stated today. Various classes of student exhibited beef-cattle, swine and sheep will be judged by Alexander McDonald of the American Hereford association and Bates Bowers, former Cal Poly student and present manager of Walter Weath's Duroc hog farm, Coalinga.

Show entries will be more numerous than in past years—85 cattle, 75 sheep and 70 hogs will pass before the judges. To speed the show, Bennion said, a preliminary hog judging will be held this afternoon.

Student supervisors of the three types of livestock entries are: Warner Smith, sheep; Robert Kimble, hogs and Charlie Gow, beef cattle. Hollis Barron is general livestock show chairman.

Home-Maker's-Welding Demonstration Given

"Home-makers use of welding" is the feature exhibit of the welding department during Poly Royal. The display included household kitchen items, and a demonstration is given of the process used in the fabrication of the "big inch" natural gas line. Students are on hand to demonstrate and explain the fabrication of various kitchen items, and to show visitors the methods used in testing small weldments and finished products. All of the commercially used welding processes are demonstrated and explained. Every Poly Royal visitor is invited to view this industrial aspect of modern home-making.

Three Tons of Hindquarter Beef Will Be Consumed At Barbecue

Three tons of steer hindquarter beef have been aging in cold storage to the correct degree of tenderness for the Poly Royal barbecue. And, in the form of succulent steaks, it will go to the charcoal pits behind the new football bleachers tomorrow morning. At 11 o'clock Saturday the barbecue patrons will line up or an old-fashioned San Luis county feast, expertly prepared by chefs Ed Biaggini and Joe Sousa.

Beans, rolls and Biaggini's "secret process" salsa bring added zest to the barbecue. Guests may help themselves to all the coffee they can drink at huge urns stationed inside the football stadium. Grid space, 180 square feet of it, support the steaks above the charcoal.

Carload Full
A carload of champion Junior Grand National steers were slaughtered to provide the hindquarter beef. James Allen and Sons, San Francisco packers, are supplying this high-grade meat to the Boots and Spurs club, campus organization sponsoring the Poly Royal barbecue.

First Ice Cream Mix Being Made By Dairy

Last week passed another milestone in the dairy department's continued growth and development, with the manufacture of the first ice cream mix to be made on the campus, according to Kenneth D. Doyle, dairy manufacture instructor.

Using recently installed equipment the current class in ice cream making calculated and processed the mix as a part of their regular classroom and lab work. The class will also make the mix required for the dairy students' carnival and Poly Royal activities.

The dairy department is now making its own ice cream mix for sale in their retail store. Customers are assured of an extra rich ice cream, considerably above the usual standards, according to Doyle.

All Classes Are Represented At Architectural Exhibits

Architectural exhibit for Poly Royal consists of four separate areas, one for each of the freshman, sophomore, junior and senior classes. Layout of the areas has been left to the respective classes.

The patio constructed by the architectural students, which is located between the buildings adjacent to their exhibits, has been completed and will provide a comfortable place in which to relax.

The architectural club members are in charge of designing the Queen's throne at the Coronation ball, as well as furnishing the decorations for the armory where the ball will be held.

Sack-Sewing, Plant Naming Contest Is Open To Guests

Two contests are a part of the field crops department Poly Royal display. A sack-sewing contest, which is an annual event open to Poly Royal guests, and a forage crop seed and plant identification contest, are staged at the department booth.

Chairman for the booth committee is Wayne Livingston, assisted by Byron Hartman, Earl Moroni, Bill Ward, Dino Petrucci, Robert Burton and Robert Wayat-ski. Bill Flynn is chairman of the sack-sewing contest, and Albert Johnston, Dick Bendix, Don Fife and Tom West are in charge of the seed and plant identification.

Three sections—field, truck and fruit—are included in the crops department display. Student display chairmen for the three sections are Don McClelland, Ugo Lea and Charles Sesser, respectively.

Field cropmen are exhibiting different types of hay bales, the several types and varieties of hay crops and equipment used for determining the moisture percentage and quality of hay. Many of the varieties of cereal grains as well as other field crops are shown. "Better crops—better forage" is the theme for this section.

Old and new methods of pruning, spraying and grafting are being demonstrated by the fruit crops section. New methods of beekeeping also are being shown.

The annual home-canning exhibit is open to the public, and prizes are awarded for the best jars of fruit in each division. Chairman of the exhibit is George Olney, assisted by Carl Crouse.

Another plant identification contest, offering three prizes is a part of the fruit section. Apple cider is being sold at the exhibit.

Bob Croce, George Uhe, Bill Hunter, Melvin Pugh and Bill Coffee will serve on crops department general committees.

Despite the fact that the naval aviation training activities of Cal Poly during the war were conducted on an "all-out" basis, all regular activities of the college were maintained with no cessation of educational service.

Garden Hobbyists To Ask Questions

A service to garden hobbyists is a feature of the ornamental horticulture department exhibit. Every effort is being made, according to departmental exhibit chairmen, David Foelt and Donald Christensen, to answer questions of home gardeners visiting the campus nursery.

Students of landscaping design are present of offer suggestions pertaining to the planning and beautification of home grounds.

Flowering plants in all stages of growth, from seedlings to plants at the height of bloom, will add myriad colors to the Cal Poly glass and lath houses. Of particular interest to amateur gardeners will be azaleas, English primroses, gladiolus, African violets and begonias.

An extensive collection of native and foreign cacti should prove to be of great interest to those fanciers of unusual plants.

Chairs and benches are placed about the horticultural unit grounds for the benefit of visitors.

Poly Royal Queen Lois Butcher, San Francisco State coed, took riding lessons at Golden Gate park in preparation for her reign at the rodeo, Saturday.

Welcome, Neighbor!

The 18th annual "Country Fair on a College Campus" is here. After long months of planning and preparing, students of California State Polytechnic college are ready and eager to welcome you to our Poly Royal. We pride ourselves on being a neighborly school. We want every visitor to feel at home on the campus, to visit, to inspect, to participate in and enjoy the "big show."

During these two days, visitors will be entertained through the cooperation of every student. Guests are taking tours of the campus where scenic and historic points of interest are pointed out by student guides. Individual departments have prepared exhibits showing you the work being carried on here throughout the school year. The industrial, agricultural and science and humanities divisions are open to everyone's inspection. There are poultry and livestock judging shows featuring our own prize stock.

Barbecue Held On Saturday

A barbecue is being held on College avenue by the football stadium where expert chefs prepare the choicest meats with a true western flavor. The Poly band gives its concert at this time in the stadium.

Calf roping, bareback riding and bull-dogging stir up the dust at the rodeo. Here students ride the roughest animals available to thrill everyone. Trick horses, trick riding and clowning also take place in the main arena. Queen Lois Butcher and her royal court ride in the grand entry.

Many contests are open to visitors. Football, baseball, tennis, swimming and other athletic events take place during the two-day fiesta. A baseball-track meet is staged between Cal Poly and University of San Francisco at the baseball diamond. An innovation this year is a motorcycle circus. This event is full of thrills for spectators.

Campus Clubs To Sponsor Carnival

A carnival is open this year for the second time in Poly Royal history. All of the clubs on the campus have booths set up for your enjoyment. Numerous carnival events are open for the pleasure of all. The money raised from this carnival goes into the student union Memorial fund. This fund is the project of the student body to raise enough money to build a student union building for future students here. Taking place Friday night, besides the carnival, is the "Country Fair dance" in the college gymnasium. The flavor is rural, with cotton dresses and blue jeans costumes of the day. Music is by the Collegians, who are donating their time to the student union.

Queen Lois Reigns Over All-Male Campus

Reigning over the all-male campus will be Queen Lois Butcher from San Francisco State college and her four princesses: Beverly Caligari and Lois Kirchner, San Luis Obispo high school; Janet Brocklebank and Mary Jean Doll, San Luis Obispo junior college.

Climaxing the two-day festivity is the Coronation ball, where Queen Lois will be crowned by last year's queen, Dona Grace Burbage, Humboldt State. This year, as before, in order to accommodate all students and guests, the Coronation ball is at the field house of Camp San Luis Obispo. This is a formal dance. Tickets are on sale at the door for those visitors who did not have an opportunity to purchase them beforehand.

These activities, spread over the two-day period, have been planned for everyone's enjoyment at the 18th annual Poly Royal. Our doors are open. Please come in and make yourself at home.

Welcome to our campus!

"Mommy's busy in the kitchen, dear... Go see what daddy wants in the living room."

Stable Sweepings

By Pyle

Numerous, indeed, have been the requests pouring into Stable Sweepings this past week asking for a straight, if not clean, Poly Royal column. Although said notes were penned by many hands of varied ability, they all ended with the same theme. "My little sister is visiting the campus during Poly Royal. So please, just once, couldn't you stay away from the shady side of the street?"

And so Stable Sweepings humbly dedicates itself to the little sisters visiting Cal Poly this weekend, and may you all grow to be big sisters and find some soap product to sponsor you on the national networks.

For the next two days, visitors to the 18th annual Poly Royal will see and take part in many exhibitions and events. In an effort to answer questions which will be in many minds, Stable Sweepings presents a short history of several Poly Royal events.

Barbecue... The first, and history says one of the best, was held at the first annual Jackson Day dinner of 1887 when the Democratic party roasted a well-known Republican senator. However, in 1912 the menu was changed following the Kentucky Derby of that spring. It seems a Chinese thoroughbred backer by the name of Warren Wong owned a nag named Top Contender, who proved to be anything else in the run for the roses that year. So the story goes, Wong sponsored a barbecue the following week, and old Top Contender proved to be almost too much for his supporters to stomach.

With the coming of the SPCA, however, horses were dropped in favor of smaller animals, such as cats and dogs. If you are lucky tomorrow, you will have beef. If not, arrange to attend the Jackson Day dinner of next year. Rumor has it that Senator McCarthy will be on the menu.

Rodeo... began as a promotional stunt at Madison Square garden to fill in between professional basketball games and championship fights. Since that time, some 20 years ago, it has grown to be one of the leading crowd-pleasers at the professional and college level.

Rodeo received its initial push on the Poly campus, when a student named Cotton Rosser became tired of riding his motorcycle through the halls of Coronado dorm and decided to substitute a bull for his two-wheeled machine. However, since the seating capacity of the dorm was very limited, local promoter Bud Collet, never one to pass up an easy buck, hired a group of animal husbandry majors and moved the show to a newly-built rodeo arena. Those who can stand the 60 cent assessment will see the result tomorrow afternoon—that is, all but Rosser. He's now touring the professional circuit.

Baseball... invented some 111 years ago by a trio composed of Abner Doubleday, Bill Stern and Connie Mack. Stern later became the greatest story-teller in the history of sports, while Mack has earned the honor of becoming baseball's most gracious loser of all time.

For the non-fans, the game is composed of nine innings, three outs to an inning, with nine men on a team. It also features men in blue suits called umpires, who are the object of some rather obscene remarks, as the afternoon progresses. Baseball is also a game of some rather strange terminology with such things as rhubarb, hamburger and rag-arm being most popular. Firemen, goats and a pond full of ducks will also be mentioned frequently before the game is over. Whatever happens, this afternoon shouldn't be held against the national pastime. When played right, it's a great game.

Cowds... disappeared from the Poly campus during the early years of the 1900's. They make their one lone annual appearance every year about this time. Most popular this season will of course be Lois Butcher, queen of the 18th Poly Royal. As for the others, they can't all be little sisters.

Poly Royal History

By Jack Pelzer

"A Country Fair on a College Campus." Since the inauguration of the Poly Royal in 1888, these few words have grown into a tradition. It was originally conceived as a livestock exposition for the purpose of bringing the school's unique educational opportunities to the attention of the people of the state and to gain sympathetic support of the legislature. It was also the year that Julian A. McPhee took over as president of Poly, and through his enthusiastic pleading with the state legislature, the school was saved from being abolished in an economy move.

From an attendance of 800 the first spring, Poly Royal has grown steadily in popularity, year after year, until it reached an all-time record throng of 15000 visitors last year. From all indications, attendance at this week's 18th annual two-day exposition should well exceed that record-breaking performance.

Selecting a Queen

The idea of selecting a queen to reign over the festivities was decided upon in 1934. A contest held at the local high school presented the means of providing a beautiful young lady to preside over Poly's all-male student body during the presentation of the Poly Royal. In 1941, the Poly Royal Board of Directors decided to invite co-eds from other state colleges to wear the crown of royalty each spring. The idea of a "guest queen" met with immediate enthusiasm and has been repeated every year since.

Increase in Size

From a handful of agriculture exhibits, the Poly Royal has increased in size and scope to the point where it now offers attractions in almost every phase of each departmental activity.

In the earlier days of its infancy, activities were mainly centered around the agriculture division. The festivities, including a barbecue, various contests and a rodeo, were topped off with a dance which is now the Coronation ball.

As the Poly Royal began to experience growing pains, more and more exhibits and activities were added. The industrial division entered the picture in 1937. "Follow Poly's Progress" was the theme adopted by the student body for the fifth annual "country fair."

Public Participation

Public participation in many colorful contests has also increased with each successive year. "The tired business men's cow milking contest," originated in 1939, and the women's nail driving contest are just a few of the several features that have been designed with the visitor in mind. Those first few hundred spectators, who made their way to the Poly Royal in 1933, would hardly recognize the campus and the "country fair" as they appear today.

Athletics Join in Festivities

In 1939, athletics joined the agriculture and industrial divisions with their full-scale presentation of a track meet, which today is known as the Poly Royal relays. Other sports activities have been added and have achieved fame in their own right.

The war-time ban on unnecessary travel forced the few remaining civilian students to abandon the 1944 and 1945 Poly Royal. It wasn't until 1946 that the Poly Royal was revived. It immediately regained the honor and esteem it had achieved in previous years for both the student body and college. The 1946 Poly Royal was dedicated to the memory of former students who gave their lives for their country in World War II. In 1948, the science and humanities division joined the other departments in putting on the 16th Poly Royal.

Country Wide Fame

Poly Royal has gained coast-to-coast fame through well directed publicity and the medium of radio, which has brought many of the on-the-spot activities, as they were happening, to thousands of listeners. It has been through the guiding hand of Carl "Gus" Beck and the work of many students and faculty members, who gave their whole-hearted support, that Poly Royal has become the outstanding event that it is today.

Prexy Welcomes Guests

On behalf of the Associated Students I wish to extend a welcome to each of the many thousands of visitors. We hope that you will enjoy this 18th Poly Royal as much as we enjoy entertaining you during this week-end of festivities.

Dave Strathairn, general superintendent, and his committee have spent one year in developing the program, and the aim of our 3000 students is to provide for you a show second to none on any college campus in the world.

This is the one big event of the year when we students have the opportunity to show off the facilities of the college and to express our appreciation to you—the parents, townspeople and guests from all parts of the state. It is you who make it possible for Cal Poly to exist and to expand. Therefore, we want you to meet the students in action and inspect their work—the product of this college. We extend to you the hospitality of Cal Poly.

Features Of Radio, Television To Be Explained At Poly Royal

By Art Gandy

Have you ever pondered how it is possible for an orchestra to play for "a little black box" and you can hear every note 200 miles away? Or how a television picture can speed through space to be picked up by your receiver? Today, everybody takes these things for granted—a modern convenience. But why and how do these things happen?

A complete staff of guides, headed by Ken Calderwood, are on hand in the electronics and radio engineering department to explain these things. To help each visitor get the most from this department's exhibits, a regular tour plan will be followed through the Ag Ed building where the electronic department is located.

Visitors have an opportunity to see the new television camera in operation. Cliff Fisher, a senior degree major, perfected the camera and associated equipment.

Something new this year is the "listening lounge" handled by

Dean Luxton and Paul Lineberger. The lounge is planned so visitors can enjoy music through the best type of electronic sound equipment and a welcome rest for everyone who has spent much time touring the campus and the electronic department exhibits.

Keynoting the theme of the Poly Royal will be "50 Years of Progress." Louis Comyna and Dick Tice have the job of integrating this theme with the electronic department.

Visitors will have an opportunity to glance backward in time and trace the growth of radio and electronics from 1900 to 1950.

ME Students Show Actual Shop Work

Actual shop work is being demonstrated by mechanical engineering students for the many Poly Royal guests visiting the laboratories of this department. The campus production machines, operated by students, are working on actual study problems which are graded by precision gauges for course grades.

Don Hunter and Bud Pilling have recently completed a set of die blocks, according to Don Garner, ME department reporter.

Ted Wittdorf, assisted by Deutch and Mike Elgich, are demonstrating the uses of the high production-type punch press. This machine is widely used in industry today.

Compression plastic molding is being demonstrated by Bert Straub and Bob Keaton. In addition to these machines, there are milling machines, horizontal and cylindrical grinding machines, a six-and-a-half ton radial drill, a Gorton engraving machine and many other precision tools on display.

Exhibit Demonstrates How Mathematics Serves Major Fields

The applicability of the different mathematics courses offered at Cal Poly to the college's three major fields of study is the principal theme of the math club's Poly Royal exhibit, William Friccero, exhibit committee chairman, said today.

Posters describing math courses applying to the agricultural, industrial and science and humanities fields are displayed in the math department's exhibit. Titles and numbers of these courses are given on the posters, which number 12 in all. Of these, four each are devoted to each of the three major departments.

Also displayed by the math department are two cubical forms depicting the background for geometric interpretations. In addition, a graphic representation of the right triangle theorem of Pythagoras, prepared by student John Van Eiten, is on display.

The exhibit is a joint project of the math club, Richard Wooley, chairman, and the math department. Instructor Charles Elston, as a member of the latter, acted in an advisory capacity.

Keep Cool

Air Conditioning Features Ice Rink

Ice-skating, is a feature of the air-conditioning department's Poly Royal exhibit today and tomorrow, according to Jim Anderson, department reporter.

A model cold storage locker plant and a glass coil "expose all" system, showing refrigerant boiling and at the sometime cooling water, are also being shown.

Progress Film

Visitors may see a 20-minute film outlining progress in the field of air-conditioning. The room in which the movie is screened is air-conditioned for the occasion, according to Anderson.

In Room A of the Engineering auditorium, the curricula for both degree and technical students is illustrated. This part of the exhibit, Anderson said, is especially for future students attending Poly Royal.

Sheet Metal Projects

Sheet metal projects are shown in the air-conditioning shops, along with modern refrigeration service technique displays. Invitations to various California engineering societies have been sent by the air-conditioning department, urging these groups to send delegates to Poly Royal.

Ag Engineering Will Have Nail Driving Contest for Women

Leading the list of Poly stadium activities for the next two days is a nail driving contest for the women and a tractor driving contest for representatives of qualified farm organizations sponsored by the agricultural engineering department.

In conjunction with the Agricultural Engineering society, the agricultural engineering department is also holding its annual Poly Royal farm machinery exhibit. Included in the exhibit are hog, calf, poultry and range feeders; stock and utility trailers; and farm refrigeration units.

The annual farm power exhibit of the department will display the work being done by the students and diesel engines and of tools used in maintenance work.

Another leading exhibit for the department is the surveying exhibit which shows the maps and data completed during the class hours. The equipment used in making these maps is on display along with a demonstration of how this equipment is used.

Also on display by the department is an irrigation exhibit showing the methods and types of irrigation in current use.

Barbara Biggs, 1941, San Francisco State college, was first of the line of Poly Royal queens chosen from state colleges. Miss Biggs now lives in Berkeley and is employed by the Veterans Administration at the University of California.

Second and last state college queen before the practice was discontinued for the duration of World War II was Joetta Belcher, 1942, Fresno State. Eleanor Burrows, 1943, San Luis Obispo junior college, was chosen last Poly Royal queen for the duration.

Following the end to the war, Cal Poly reinstated Poly Royal and state college queens. Patricia Munchhoff, 1946, San Jose State, reigned over the 14th annual celebration.

Katherine Dupont, 1947, San Diego State, ruled the campus as representative of the southern portion of the state. The following year, Pat Walker, 1948, Chico State, represented the far northern area.

Last years queen, Dona Grace Burbage, 1949, Humboldt State, is here at Poly Royal. She will transfer her crown to Lois Butcher, 1950, San Francisco State, at the Coronation ball tomorrow night.

Music Department Lists Activities

The Majors and Minors, the glee club's double quintet, will be featured on the variety program that is to be given as part of the carnival tonight. The singing waiters from the gay-nineties will sing the songs of that period, featuring a barbershop style.

On Saturday afternoon the Mustang band will give a one and a half hour concert while visitors are enjoying their barbecue. The program, according to John Donn, president of the band, and Bob Strong, manager, will run from boogie-woogie to standard classical pieces. The concert will take place in the football stadium and starts at approximately 12:30 p.m.

During the carnival on Friday night and the Coronation Ball on Saturday night the Collegians will play. Bob White, manager of the Collegians, stated that the orchestra has been working on some new and different types of arrangements to be featured during these dances. Among these will be a new Tommy Dorsey arrangement of "Night and Day."

Something new will be featured for the Processional march for the coronation. This year the march will be played by an organ.

White also stated that the Collegians have donated their time for the carnival dance to aid in the building up of the Student Union fund.

Parking Space Is Limited

The Cal Poly security department suggests to Poly Royal visitors that once they have parked their cars, it will be to their advantage to leave them there. Parking space on the campus is limited, and it may be difficult to find another place.

The speed limit on campus is restricted and is 15 miles per hour in marked zones. Visitors are asked not to park by yellow fire hydrants or to block doorways with their cars.

Ralph Burdick, Los Lecheros president, has appointed Jack Albright to head the club's dairy cattle showing and fitting contest tomorrow morning at the football stadium.

Showing Holstein calves at the dairy show will be the following students: Joe Camara, Bruce Hart, George Marks, Tony Rieca, Jordan Rinker, Al Dorain, William Gillen, John Gorski, Bob Roumiguere, Gene Starkey and Art Correla.

Jersey calves will be fitted and shown by: Ray Wisnom, Nelson Schwarz, Clayton Record, Dennis Grant and Donald Nigh.

Herb Carnahan, William Walters, Allen Hill, Blaine Manning and Vernon Larson will exhibit Guernsey heifers.

Aero Department Goal: 'Get Public Air Minded'

Taking the theme "A Half Century of Progress" for its Poly Royal activities, the aeronautical department hopes, through its exhibit, to make the public more air minded.

Much statistical information has been gathered from airlines and insurance companies relative to safety improvements in modern aircraft. This information will be presented at the exhibit in a series of graphical posters.

Reducing the complicated stream analysis of an aircraft to terms easily understood by a layman is the job accomplished in an exhibit prepared by William C. Heath and Morday Rhodes. Visitors will be shown how an aircraft's limitations are known even before flight is attempted. Assisting Heath and Rhodes in this exhibit are students Jack Graham, Glenn Robinson and Alvin Gorenbein.

Souvenirs Given By Machine Shop

Novelty souvenir bottle openers and ash trays are being given to Poly Royal visitors by the machine shop. Dies for these souvenirs were made on the shop's die-casting machine, which was operated by the students.

Headed by an engraving machine that can inscribe the Lord's Prayer on the point of a pin, an array of new equipment is being displayed at Cal Poly's machine shop during the 1950 Poly Royal, according to F. F. Whiting, head man of the machine shop.

Cal Poly's machine shop of 1950 is in striking contrast to the campus shop before 1947. Equipment and machines today are among the latest on the market. Whiting describes the old machine shop and the time he served there as one long nightmare and he feels that the investment in the new shop is a major step in Poly's growth in industrial and agricultural education.

Since the modernization in 1947, the shop has obtained a pantograph engraving machine, die casting machine, punch press and plastic press. Other equipment includes lathes of all sizes, milling machines of various types, shapers, off-hand and precision grinders and a screw machine.

Print Shop to Conduct Tours for Guests

Student-conducted tours of Cal Poly's printing department are the main attraction of the department's exhibit for this year's Poly Royal.

Ernest Rettey, printing club president, stated today that student printers, wearing green and gold "student guide" ribbons, are taking visitors through the shop and explaining printing operations. He added that students are operating all of the machines, which are printing a special Poly Royal brochure that features stories and pictures of Poly Royal highlights. The Printing club president said that all visitors can have their names printed in the brochure.

Rettey said the tour is preceded by a short lecture explaining the department's history, aims and objectives. On display in the lecture room are type cases, type forms, samples of student-printed jobs and type specimen books.

Started in 1946 as one of the nation's few degree printing courses, Cal Poly's "School for Country Printers" has progressed rapidly, according to Department Head A. M. Fellows.

Dons, Mustangs Meet Today For First Time

Locals Miss Chance To Grab CCAA Lead In Split With Fresno State

Currently occupying second place in the 202A standings, the Mustang baseball team takes time off from conference play today to engage the Dons from the University of San Francisco. The game will be played on the Poly diamond and is slated to begin at 2 p.m. and marks the first athletic contest of any kind between the two schools.

San Francisco is coached by Pete Newell, the same gent who handles the basketball fortunes of the Dons. Newell has twice taken his cage teams to the National Invitational tourney and won the crown in 1949. Starting pitcher for the visitors has not been announced.

Errors Cost Game

Coach Bob Mott's Mustangs will try to resume the winning ways they were enjoying prior to the second contest with Fresno State last Saturday. After rolling up a 7-1 lead, the locals fell apart at the seams and dropped the contest by a score of 10-7. Seven errors were wholly responsible in preventing Poly's taking over the conference lead.

Pitcher Dick Jacquier pitched good enough ball to win under most circumstances, but could not cope with the lack of support. Russ Christenson relieved Jake in the sixth.

Garman Wins First

Don Garman pitched the locals to a 4-3 victory in the opening contest. Ed Bonnet's single in the ninth inning scoring Bob Coghlan from second base climaxed a hurling duel between Garman and Ed Barnett, who was relieved by Dick Hayes in the eighth.

Jack Welton received credit for the Bulldog victory in the second game, and Jacquier was saddled with the loss.

Bonnet and Vernon Bebernes were the big stickers for the Mustangs. Bonnet collected four hits for the day. Bebernes got three, one a home run into left-center field. Right-fielder Art Shanhade homered for the visitors in the first game.

Poly Relays Set For Tomorrow; LACC Favored

More than 225 men representing 15 California junior colleges will participate in the second annual Poly Royal Relays tomorrow afternoon at 1:30 p. m. on the college oval.

Los Angeles City college with the largest entry list, 27, is favored to defend the team title it won last year. Kelly Hilton, Santa Ana college weight man, will defend the honor he won last year.

Poly's head and track coach, Jim Jensen, believes that the 100-yard dash should be the highlight of the meet because nine entries in that event have been clocked in under 16 flat this season.

Jensen states that preliminaries, if necessary are scheduled for 9:30 in the morning.

Grid Scrimmage Slated For Today

Wraps will be removed from the Mustang Spring football squad today at 1 p.m. A scrimmage will take place in Poly stadium, featuring Coach Leroy Hughes' "Model T." A full-fledged sock session will take place, matching the offensive aggregation against the defensive unit.

Operating in the quarterback spot for the offensive platoon will be Joe Bankone, Al Gomez and Gene Seminario. Bankone is up from the frosh where he performed as a halfback. Gomez played two seasons back, and Seminario returns from last year's varsity.

"The Stretch" . . . could easily be the nickname given to Don Lund, Mustang first baseman. The fancy fielding initial socker will see action this afternoon against the University of San Francisco.

Last Poly Royal Game For Seven Seniors

Today's Poly Royal game will be the last of such contests for seven seniors graduating this June. Bob Coghlan, team captain and second baseman; Vernon "Pinky" Bebernes, short-stop; Bob McCutcheon, utility infielder; Gene "Pee Wee" Fraser, centerfielder; and pitchers Don Garman, Russ Christensen and John Williams will be performing for the last time before a Poly Royal crowd.

The Mustangs have never lost one of these contests. It's interesting to note that all three games, beginning in 1947, have been decided by one run. Pepperdine, Santa Barbara and Loyola have been the victims. The Santa Barbara game of 1948 is still discussed by many of the townspeople.

Poly's diamond was dedicated in the 1947 contest against Pepperdine.

Several track and field events are held by the players just before the game to add a little color to the contest. The locals are in for a rough time this year in the events because, San Francisco U. boasts a talented sprinter by the name of Ollie Matson who should run away from the field.

Today's game will mark the first athletic relationship with the Bay City school and Poly baseball coach Bob Mott made no bones about being out for his fourth straight Poly Royal victory.

Fresno State Leading

Fresno State is currently leading the northern division of the CCAA. The Bulldogs boast a 3-1 record. Poly is in second spot with 1-1. San Jose trails with a record of 0-2. Pepperdine continues to set the pace in the southern half of the league.

San Jose Edges Mustang Tennis Team For Crown

San Jose won the northern division tennis crown of the CCAA by nosing out Cal Poly, 5-4, in a series of closely contested matches held here last Monday. It marked the second time the Spartans have defeated Coach Eugene Smith's charges this season.

The northerners ran up a 4-2 lead in the singles matches. This meant that the locals had to win all three of the doubles. Poly tied the Spartans at 4-4 by taking the first two doubles only to lose the ninth and deciding match.

Poly's team showed some of its best tennis this year. Bob Carlson and Bob Redden established themselves as the best doubles team in the conference with wins over the number one teams of San Jose, Pepperdine and Santa Barbara.

Coach Smith figures that sophomore Ken Walts will be one of the top men in the CCAA next year, if he continues to show improvement.

The Mustangs play their last home match against Santa Barbara on May 4.

Coach Smith, Carlson, Redden and Irving Swain left yesterday for the Ojai intercollegiate held April 27-29.

Flag Now Flies Over Bleachers

Cal Poly's baseball field is now complete. A flag that has flown over our national capitol building was presented to the college last April 15 by Edward "Dad" Williams, retired railroad engineer, between games of the double header played by the Mustangs and Sacramento State.

Williams received the flag from Congressman E. K. Bramblett of the eleventh district.

Bob Mott, baseball coach, introduced Williams to the spectators. Williams then presented the flag to Verne Meacham, dean of student welfare.

College of the Holy Cross
(Worcester)

In Worcester, Massachusetts, one of the favorite spots of students at the College of the Holy Cross is the Day Room on the campus. They like the Day Room because it's a cheerful place — full of friendly collegiate atmosphere. And when the gang gathers around, ice-cold Coca-Cola gets the call. For here, as in college haunts everywhere — Coke belongs.

The Outlook

By Ed Isler

It has often been stated by baseball scouts that any college diamond squad can be beaten if you just let it throw the ball around enough. Poly certainly demonstrated this last Saturday in the double-header against Fresno State. No kidding, the locals went from the sublime to the ridiculous in their split with the Bulldogs. The first contest was a pleasure to watch, and the second affair was a sight to behold. Dick Jacquier, Mustang hurler in the latter contest, must have felt like slashing his wrists after observing the support his mates rendered him. Oh, well, what're seven errors, more or less?

Vernon Bebernes came in for a lot of mixed criticism following his three errors in the second game. Funny thing, though, the old man keeps getting better with the bat as his fielding ability declines. We would hate to see Bebernes miss out on the all-conference team because of poor fielding. It's still obvious though; "Old Folks" remains the money player on the club. One thing is certain; he'll hit college pitching when he's 90. Or is he that old now?

Who's Crying Wolf?

Can anyone tell me who the person is who continually telephones the school authorities and reports numerous members of the baseball team as being dead drunk in town when such is not the case in any sense of the word? Maybe this character has money bet on the games, or, maybe he or she just doesn't care for baseball. Seriously, now, this old stuff should come to a halt. To report an athlete as being a dypso-maniac is a pretty rotten trick, especially if he is a senior. It just makes things tough on the team, the player, the school and Bob Mott.

How about getting the facts straight before running to the phone? Or, better yet, just shut up.

Minor Sports Award

It now appears that the mighty brain of the policy-makers of the athletic award committee have done it again. They have now come up with a "revised" policy in determining what constitutes eligibility to earn a Block CP from the institution on the hill. As it stands now, Leon Jackson, of the 1950 boxing squad, is the only member to qualify for an award this year. Paul Fischbeck is eligible, but he got one last year. So this year he gets nothing. Co-captain Bill Linderdale and the rest get nothing.

A normal Cal Poly student's reaction would be, "That ain't right," and let it die right there. On Monday night, May 1, there will be a meeting of the Board of Athletic Control, and we guarantee there will be something done by a certain person who likes things done up right.

Outside Chance

Mormon Compete In CCAA Finals

Coach Dick Anderson's Mustang swimming team departed Thursday for San Jose where it will meet San Diego and San Jose today and tomorrow in the CCAA conference meet. Pepperdine may also send a squad.

According to Anderson, the locals boast an outside chance to grab the conference crown and will definitely finish no worse than second. It takes 100 points to capture the title and the Mustangs figure to score between 80-100. San Jose reigns as a definite favorite with San Diego pretty far out of the running.

A 18-man squad will represent Poly. Of these, seven are entered in the free style. Three men are entered in the backstroke, and three will compete in the diving events.

Soccer Team Meets Fresno State Here

The Cal Poly soccer team meets Fresno State today with an eye toward avenging an earlier 3-2 defeat at the hands of the Bulldog squad. Word has it that the Mustangs are much stronger than they were a few weeks ago and are confident of victory.

An international flavor is added to the local soccer squad by the inclusion of many foreign students attending Poly. Nations represented are: Mexico, Bolivia, Peru, Costa Rica, Nicaragua, Persia, Germany, Norway, Palestine, Arabia and India. Oh, yes, two Norte Americanos are also on the squad. They must have sneaked in when no one was looking.

Johnson, Sims Win At Tempe; Team Grabs Third Spot

Led by Enard Johnson and Doss Sims, Coach Jim Jensen's thin-clads placed third in the Tempe relays held last Saturday. Johnson won the 120-yard high hurdles, and Sims took the high jump.

Walter Boehm ran the fastest race in his life as he placed third in the mile run. Boehm toured the distance in 4:54.6. Second place in the shot put went to Marshal Hamuels as he heaved the iron ball 46 feet 11 inches. Al Aaron jumped six feet one inch to follow Sims in the high jump.

Jensen stated that he was pleased with the performance of his athletes. He said that Johnson ran the high hurdles on the grass at night in the time of 18.1.

Mustang relay teams placed in three of the events.

Radio Broadcasts Stimulate Interest

Part of the crowd here today is here because they heard one or more of the "pre-Poly Royal" radio broadcast over KVEC and KMNS.

Twelve on-the-spot, tape-recorded programs featuring all departments of the college were broadcast over the two local radio stations from April 20 through April 28.

Kirby Robinson, electronics engineering student from Stockton, was in charge of the program series. He planned, arranged all details and did the interviewing on all programs of the series. He received assistance from Technicians Ted Fujimoto and Murray Ritter, and Assistant Announcer Milton Brown.

The entire series used the voices of the Cal Poly glee club under the direction of H. P. Davidson for background music. The tape recorder was also loaned through the courtesy of the music department.

Article Published On Poly Architects

Even before it has graduated its first class of seniors, the Cal Poly architectural engineering department was singled out by the nationally-circulated Architectural Record magazine as the subject of the first in a series of articles on the West's schools of architecture.

The five-page, profusely illustrated article, describes in detail this department which will graduate 14 young men in June. The magazine, which is found in the office of every licensed architect, describes Ralph B. Priestley's department as "middle-of-the-road," because it "teaches less architectural design and more engineering than does the average school of architecture."

Although young in years, the architectural department already has an enrollment of 100 students with five instructors.

Beno's Contest

Student Designs Win Local Prizes

Three Cal Poly architectural engineering students this week received cash prizes worth $60 in a design contest sponsored by Beno's in connection with the opening of the concern's new store in San Luis Obispo.

Two first prizes of $25 each went to John Ohmura and Homer Delawie for their versions of interior layouts that would "best reflect the personality" of Beno's new store. Francis Ellison took a third prize of $10.

Three Judges

Judges in the contest were Max Salter of Beno's and William Rieker and George Brown, instructors in the architectural engineering department.

Beno's new store, located at 1019 Morro street, was officially opened last night with a street dance and open house. Music was provided by the Dons, and gifts presented to all persons attending.

Scholarships Also

In addition to sponsoring the design contest, Beno's has provided Cal Poly with four scholarships of $250 each for the 1949-50 school year. These awards are currently held by Edward Bonnett, Leigh Emmerson, Richard Loomis and Fred Waterman.

Beno's also sponsors championship teams, composed of Poly students, in the city basketball and baseball leagues.

Limited Parking Space Offers Problem To Faculty, Students

Due to the shortage of parking space on the campus during Poly Royal, the faculty, students and employees are asked to leave their cars at home and camp today and tomorrow if at all possible.

Green buses are available for transportation to the campus. With only 1,200 parking places on campus, parking will be a problem.

Except for a few parking places, there will be no reserved parking on the campus during Poly Royal.

White Leghorn Entry Places First In March Egg Contest

Cal Poly Students' White Leghorn entry placed first in the National Egg Laying contest, Modesto, for the month of March.

Laying 692 eggs for an 88 percent high, 25 Poly hens nosed out Dryden's entry with an 11 egg margin. Of Poly's total lay for March, 76 percent were large-double A's. Thirteen of the 25 birds laid 28 or more eggs for the month. The income over cost of feed was also high at $11.06.

SENIOR CORNER

Senior Activity cards are now on sale and may be purchased from the representative of each department, or at the Student Body office. Cards will be on sale until May 9. All seniors should purchase their card, as the volume of sales will be the determining factor in outlining senior week activities.

There will be a senior assembly on May 11 in the Engineering auditorium at 11 a.m.

Stragglers who have neglected to get their cap and gown measurements should see Ruth Carley at the Book store, to be assured of a proper fitting at graduation.

Reward Offered For Thesis

Reward... offered for the return of thesis belonging to Abe Solomon. Lost in El Corral last Tuesday. The thesis was complete, signed and ready for final typing. If found, please return to the welfare office, room 180, Administration building. Contact Abe Solomon to receive reward.
