CALIFORNIA STATE POLYTECHNIC COLLEGE *

VOL 9 — NO. 18

SAN LUIS OBISPO, CALIFORNIA

FRIDAY, FEBRUARY 25, 1949

NEW REGIME Junior, pipe-smoking Pointer pup, takes over El Mustang editorship for this issue. He replaces the regular editor who must bone for next week's finals—no major policy change has gone into effect, it was reported. With a cry of "Down with Bettencourt," Junior assumed the number one typewriter last Monday.

Mustang Goes To Dogs For One Issue — Junior Takes Over

This is try-out-another-editor week here at El Mustang. This being the final issue of the quarter, the regular editor is excused from his chores to bone up on the courses his job has forced him to ignore up to now.

Casting about for a qualified person, the staff finally chose Junior, a seven-month old Pointer pup, to assume the leadership for one week only. Junior is probably the logical one among us to point up a number of the issues burning here and there about campus. And, since last issue's Poly Femme, many campusites are convinced their sheet has gone to the dogs anyway.

Well, we hope you'll all enjoy the Feb. 25 El Mustang. But if after reading it, some of you are entertaining any gripes—Junior's address is El Serrano ranch, care of Oke Vernon. Please don't address any to Keyser—he's tired.

Engineering Speaker Outlines Bay Area Reiber Plan

All students and faculty are invited to hear John M. Server, Jr., speak on the Reiber Plan on Thursday, March 17 at 7:30 in the Engineering Auditorium. Everett C. Jahr, Ag Engineering Club president announces.

The Reiber Plan is a proposed project having three objectives: one, to solve the irrigation problem in the Sacramento River and Santa Clara Valleys second to reclaim much of the tide-land in the bay area for industrial and residential use; and third, to make the building of a proposed second bay bridge unnecessary.

This is the general idea of the Reiber Plan. Two earth-fill dams are proposed, one across the upper bay near San Quentin, and the other across the lower bay in the vicinity of the present bay bridge. The two dams will make fresh water lakes of the upper and lower bays. This will raise the dangerously low water table of the surrounding land, and, along the bay shore into valuable industrial and residential property. And finally, the tops of the earth-fill dams will be used as traffic thoroughfares and thereby make the building of the second bay bridge unnecessary.

Both engineering and agriculture students should find Server's talk very interesting. Server is editor of

St. Patrick's Dance At Remodeled Gym

Sure and it's the green you'll be a'wearin' to the Ag. Inspection club's St. Patrick's dance come Saturday, March 19, in the Cal Poly Gym. This will be the first dance to be held in the remodeled gym, and the Ag. Inspection dance committee promises that this forthcoming event will really break it in in style.

The dance will start, as usual, at 8 p.m. and the college are invited to wear sport dresses, heels and hose.

The Collegians will provide their usual out-of-this-world music, and intermission entertainment has been tentatively planned.

the Western Construction News and a consulting civil engineer.

The engineering council, directed by J. B. Collette and Keith Mike-sell, is meeting Friday February 25 to discuss the joint sponsorship of Server's talk and also to make plans for the presentation of the atomic energy panel sometime next quarter.

Methods Outlined For Speeding Up Registration

Donald S. Nelson, college business manager, has offered the following suggestions to returning students for speeding up the registration line at the opening of the spring quarter in March.

(1) Students living in college dormitories and at Camp San Luis Obispo are urged to pay their room rent for the spring quarter before the registration period. Fees may be paid at the cashier's window on the campus or at the camp up to three days before registration.

(2) Attached to each registration permit will be a slip indicating what Foundation fees the student will be required to pay. There are three fees: room rent, $27; health, $3; and post office, 50 cents. The veterans administration will pay health fees for those students cleared under public law 348 or 16.

(3) All students are urged to have correct change with them in the registration line. Nelson points out that the line will move 50 per cent faster if collectors do not have to make change. Students are requested not to bring government or personal checks for cashing in the line.

(4) No deferments can be given for payment of fees. Vernon Meacham, dean of student welfare, will be at a desk in the registration room. If there is sufficient justification, he will issue short term promissory notes to cover foundation fees.

El Corral Profits Directed To Student Union

Student store profits will henceforth be directed toward the construction of the Student Union, according to an announcement by J. A. McPhee, Cal Poly president. He also said that between forty and fifty thousand dollars in accumulated profits may be made available for the building's construction.

Speaking before a Student Union committee on Wednesday, McPhee stated that El Corral annual profits amount to six thousand dollars. Another $1850 from donations is now on hand.

Citing such projects as the current Whiskerino contest, McPhee explained how student contributions will play a large part in the eventual building of the Student Union, and how the remainder of the funds will come from outside sources.

Persons present at the meeting were Bruce Langford, Marty Engler, Roy Bethell, Dave Strathearn, Henry House, L. D. Starkey and Vernon Meacham.

Local Five Seeks Revenge In Final Conference Tilt

By Russ Pyle

Making their final appearance of the 1949 cage campaign, the Cal Poly Mustangs will take to the courts for the last time of the season tonight when they host the University of California at Santa Barbara (that's the way they like it) in the local high school gym. Riding on the crest of a five game losing streak, Coach Ed Jorgensen's down, but not completely out, quintet will be out to avenge an earlier 52-46 loss at the hands of the Gauchos.

Game At High School

L. D. "Tut" Starkey, graduate manager, has announced that tonight's final basketball game of the season will be held in the San Luis Obispo high school gymnasium.

Engineers Needed For Summer Jobs

Positions will be available this summer in the seventeen western states for a large number of Engineer Trainees, stated Herbert F. Osborne, regional personnel officer of the Bureau of Reclamation. These students must successfully qualify in the competitive examination to be announced by the Central Board of Civil Service Examiners on Feb. 8, 1949.

Representatives from the Bureau will visit the campus on March 2, 1949, to further explain the program to the students. On this day there will be a meeting of the second-year engineers at two p.m.; third-year engineers at three p.m.; and senior engineers at four p.m. All these meetings will be held in room 203 of the Ad building.

At these sessions, a slide-lecture will be given by a Bureau engineer. This will last about 15 minutes and will be followed by another 15 or 20 minute question and answer period in which a representative from the Personnel office will join the engineer in answering questions and explaining the methods by which selections are made, the processing experiences, and the ultimate aim and objective of the program.

Mr. Osborne said that there is a real need for civil engineers and an almost equal need for electrical engineers. The Bureau is also interested in mechanical, hydraulic, and agricultural engineers.

Lacking nothing in the way of confidence, the blue and gold clad lads from the southern city will enter tonight's game odds-on favorites to win—that is with everyone but the Poly dopesters. With their recent 60-34 win over San Jose State still fresh in the back of their minds, Coach Wes Willie Wilton's five will be battling both a determined Mustang team and an inflated ego; and money is better than even that this will be the turning point of the evening's festivities.

Minus the services of their great pivotman, Harvey Hubler, who graduated from the Hilltop retreat last semester, the Gauchos have still proved themselves a well-balanced club. Leading the point column for the Channel-City crew is Bob McCutcheon, who will open at one forward position tonight. McCutcheon has tanked 115 counters in eight league frays this season for a fat 14.4 points per game average. Following McCutcheon in the scoring race is Gene Synder with 63 points in eight 2C2A tilts. Synder will start with McCutcheon at the opposite forward berth.

Besides their latest victory over the San Jose Spartans, the Gauchos have racked up conference wins over San Diego, Fresno, COP, and the Mustangs, and now hold down second place in the 2C2A standings with five won and three lost. The outstanding non-conference win was chalked up by the Gauchos at the expense of Loyola University. Coach Wilton's five also lost a heart breaker to the University of California by one point earlier in the season.

Drawing starting assignments along with McCutcheon and Synder will be Frank Schimandle at center, with Hudson Scott and Queen.

Pyramid Club Pays; But Not To You—

The pyramid club, which nets $2048 for one buck in just 12 days seems to have died a natural death by sheer weight of numbers. The club existed in San Luis Obispo and on the Poly Campus for about 10 days, after which it moved up to Atascadero, San Jose, and San Francisco. The club's method of operation is simple. Each new member is required to pay one dollar and obtain two new members. In this way, the membership continues to double for every day of the club's existence. At the end of 12 days, the members are able to collect $2,048.00, providing that the pyramid did not break in any one spot. If, however, the pyramid does break, the system of division makes it possible for the members to collect from the unbroken sections.

This all sounds good; however, the chances of winning are actually very slim. Since the club membership doubles every day, assuming there are no breaks in the pyramid, things work out well until the life of the club passes its twelfth day.

Starting with the thirteenth day, the pyramid clubs also start to double. This means that by the time four people have been paid off, some 30,000 people have been involved, with a total of 15 clubs in existence.

If the club could perpetuate itself for 27 days more, it would involve the entire population of the United States, and 65,536 separate pyramid clubs would be in operation. If the pyramid could exist for a total of 36 days, it would involve some 17,179,869,184 persons and a total of 16,772,216 clubs.

Providing there are no breaks in the pyramid, about .05 of one per cent of the members, or one in every 2000 persons stands a chance of winning.

The Glee club and Collegians will present a varied concert program to audiences in 20 different cities, and the Collegians will play for several school dances. It is estimated that the group will perform before 28,000 people in this, their eighth annual tour.

Musicians Take Off For Spring Tour

The annual spring tour of the Cal Poly music department gets under way early Monday morning, March 7, when 42 singers and Harold P. Davidson, department head, leave for a week's vocalizing schedule which will cover most of the Bay area. It was announced by Archie Ahrendes, Glee Club president.

Southwest Airways Planning Poly Royal Special Flights

In the time-worn phrases of the Air Force it would be called, "Operation Girlfriend," but it adds up to the point where Southwest Airways through their campus representative, Emmons Blake, is planning to offer special flights at greatly reduced prices to bring your girlfriend to San Luis Obispo from the cable-car city of San Francisco.

Blake had been taking reservations for the most convenient flights into San Luis Obispo on Poly Royal weekend at a great rate when student Roy Skover suggested the all-Poly flight. A rapid exchange of teletypes with SNA offices resulted in a deal whereby a complete load of Poly Royal fans will be able to leave San Francisco early Friday morning, arriving in plenty of time for the full celebration. The ship will remain at the county airport during Poly Royal and fly its passengers home right after the final event of Poly Royal; or at whatever time on Sunday the majority of the passengers desire. By having a full load for one des-

Judge McDonald Urges Citations Be Taken Care Of

All Cal Poly students who fail to appear before him concerning traffic citations will have their fines doubled, Judge McDonald of Morro Bay announced yesterday. If he is forced to issue a warrant, the judge continued, it will cost the individual 15 dollars.

The judge added that if the student thinks he has a good reason why the fine should not be paid, he should come down and talk it over. It has been reported that many citations have been disregarded in the past.

tionation the airline is able to reduce their fare by about 85 percent or to about $17 round trip from San Francisco; along with reducing the travel time by 75 percent. All reservations for Poly Royal weekend that Blake is already holding will be switched to the Special and excess fares refunded. Other tentative reservations will be accepted by Blake for the next week or so. See him in the print shop or drop a note to him at Box 644.

Flower Show Entries

Available To Campuses

Entry blanks for the Poly Royal Flower Show are now ready, according to Ed Mattson, chairman. Students, student wives, and faculty members can obtain the forms at the Horticulture unit, he said. "Floral Empire" is the name of the show, which is the Horticulture club's Poly Royal activity.

POLY PHASE

Poly Phase club members heard about the Bataan death march from James McGrath, air conditioning and refrigeration instructor who was a prisoner of the Japanese. The talk was the feature of their meeting, held on Wednesday.

Crops Club

The Crops club discussed their "Blossom Time" party at the club's last meeting, February 16. The affair, complete with fruit tree blossoms, will be held Friday, March 18, according to J. T. Munson, president.

Poly Royal committee chairman made reports on their progress at the meeting, according to Dino Petrucci.

A. C. Club

The Air Conditioning club dance, spring barbeque, and Poly Royal plans kept club members busy at their last meeting, Wednesday, February 16.

Gordon Carlson, recreation chairman, reported on the progress of the gym, stating that the club has been assured it would be ready for the dance, scheduled for Saturday, March 26. Several themes were discussed but no decision reached.

A committee was appointed to make plans for a spring barbeque in March, according to Bill Grotzke.

Mustang Flyers

A talk on buying a new airplane will be given at the Mustang Flying Association meeting, to be held Tuesday, March 1, in El Corral. Visitors will be welcome to attend, stated Tom Watson, president.

S. A. E.

Two speakers were featured at the meeting of the Society of Automotive Engineers held last Wednesday. They were Al Rents, west coast branch manager of the S.A.E. and W. Hodges, fleet maintenance manager of the Chevrolet truck corporation.

Gamma Pi Delta

The Gamma Pi Delta fraternity held elections at its formal business meeting last Tuesday evening. Ted Bolter was chosen vice-president and Harry Endo was elected secretary to fill the vacancies caused by the graduation of Bob Kennedy and Frank Gibson.

Other topics discussed included Poly Royal plans, a beach party, and spring initiation plans.

International Relations

The International Relations club dance, originally scheduled for Saturday, February 26, has been postponed to May 7. The dance, when it finally arrives, will include a number of unusual features, according to Erwin Weischel, publicity chairman.

And the chemistry prof was trying to explain to a co-ed in his class about preservatives.

"Paint is a preservative," he said, looking at the girl's rosy cheeks. "That should explain why you'll probably live longer than your husband."—"The Daily Texan"

O. H. Club

At its last meeting, the Horticulture club voted on a Hawaii theme, "Evening in the Isles, for the club sponsored Easter dance. Committee chairmen for the dance to be held April 9 in Crandall Gym, were announced by Jim Peterson.

They are Lee Powell, ceiling; Ronald Regan, entrance; William Hartman, centerpiece; Bob Hedges, walls; and Archie Ahrendsen, stands.

Entry blanks for the Poly Royal flower show are now ready and available at the Horticulture unit, according to Ed Mattson, chairman.

Jim Dixon, head of the Poly Royal carnival committee, announced that the club will sponsor a "phonograph record smashing" booth.

There's one in every crowd.

We mean a professor who delights in alternately sneering and cheering at the "younger generation now in college."

One such professor was leaning over his rostrum delivering a dissertation on the mode of talk sported by the younger set among us.

"Now what's that silly saying the girls on the campus are in the habit of saying?" he mused to the discomfiture of the coeds in the class. "No!" shouted a male from the recesses of the back row.

Recent Advances

As the winter quarter draws to a close and final exams loom up on the near horizon, perhaps we can pause for a moment to consider just what has transpired here at Poly. And, by so doing, we can see that the quarter now ending has been a fairly active three months. We've accomplished quite a little.

Athletically, we've seen our basketball men go out onto the court to do a bang-up job. We haven't hit the win column as often as we might have liked, but the Mustangs have nonetheless proven to be a hard fighting, highly respected team. The boxing team has fared much better than the hardwooders; our wrestlers are genuinely a gang to be proud of—they're easily in the big three in 2C2A rankings.

It is also encouraging to note that the campus skiers may soon be affiliated with the sports department. The rodeo team has been backed with campus currency—they're a worthwhile group of guys, too, and they deserve all the support the S.A.C. can send their way. The Poly Thoroughbred, See Me First, recently sold for a high price and gave a good account at Santa Anita this past week.

The Student Union committee seems to be well on its way to accomplishing something. We'll have more details on this project early next quarter. The new library is still progressing—it won't be too long, now. Frank La Salle and Marty Engler have taken persuasive action and now we have probationary hitch-hiking signs at Monterey and Santa Rosa, and permanent signs at the California blvd. campus entrance. Nice work, all concerned.

The Film Society has launched a second early movie series, a number of distinguished speakers have appeared on campus to address the student body and the various club groups. A March of Dimes drive was well supported, and Chief Steiner reports a decline in traffic citations plus the acquisition of another police officer. The Crandall gym is at last complete; more bleacher space has been provided for the baseball spectators; student enrollment has increased; a bull gored a plane on the landing strip; El Mustang has gone from eight to ten pages, added a women's page and is at last out of the red.

We haven't covered all the campus achievements, they're too numerous. We haven't scolded anyone, we haven't enough space. But, summing it all up, California Polytechnic has advanced—may the coming three months witness more of the same.

FILE THIRTEEN....

By Dave Goodman

Winter ends... Always seems like it's the end of a quarter just about the time you get used to it. This winter certainly went fast anyway. Time to get hot and bone-up to try to pass the class work now. Then a few days to go south for a little ocean swimming, and then time to start in again for the spring.

Movies... Took in a Little Theater Film Society's showing of Anna Christie last week. Throughout the picture the cast keeps drinking alcoholic beverages of one type or another and seems to have a fine time. Watching the thing, however, was another thing. You keep drooling for a drink and get thirstier as the picture progresses. It was like watching a Bogart picture where the cast does nothing but smoke cigarettes chain fashion. By the time the movie is over, you have nicotine fits. Know what I mean?

Females... A lot of the guys were criticizing us for putting in a women's section, but we noticed on Friday morning that they were reading the gal's reports first. For your information, for the first time in months, El Mustang is out of the red. Thank you ladies!

Fire... Chief Steiner informs us that some of the lads have been trying to kill themselves off with gasoline lately. Recently, one of the boys up in the barracks nearly blew himself up with a Coleman stove while brewing some illicit coffee. Another fellow conked out when he was cleaning some motor parts in his room with the windows closed. The motor cleaner was saved from suffocating to death when a couple of his buddies knocked down his door when he failed to answer their knock.

We don't mind it if you want to kill yourself, but let's not go around blowing up the dorms. Some of the other men may like living. And besides, rooms are scarce on the campus.

Assemblies... Maybe there were some of you who enjoyed the personality reader. Maybe most of you were as disgusted, as some of us were. The guy may have a great show, but we're just skeptical about mind-reading acts. However, if you fellows like that sort of thing, I'll get a partner to hide under the table and then go through the old and definitely corny act of telling you what word of picture you're looking at in tomorrow's magazine. You name the page and line and my boy under the table will find your word about the time you get finished describing where it is. Very magical indeed.

Measles... Hear tell that a few of the guys are running around with little red spots all over them. Measles, the Doc says. Thought that was a child's disease. Or is it?

Dance... Due to conditions beyond their control, the International Relations crew had to postpone their dance. For those of you who promised the little women a date for tomorrow night, there is the usual brawl down at Pismo, or the Folk Dance at Carpenter's Union Hall.

Asters... Tryouts for the next Little Theater play will be held sometime around the middle of March. Watch the bulletin board or read the Tel-Trib for the date. Next issue of El Mustang won't be out until March 25.

Civic Unity... An open forum meeting of CPCU, NAACP, YMCA, and WAC will be held on March 18. Senator Chris Jespersen will talk on proposed legislation. All interested parties are welcome.

Post Cards... El Corral's got them. You can buy them. The folks will like them. Easier to fill than a letter.

Gather good grades while you may,
The second year is tougher;
For this same prof that smiles today
Tomorrow will be tougher.
That year is best which is the first,
When student and prof are stranger;
It's not until he knows the worst
That you are in any danger— Texas Tech.

Editor, El Mustang and the OH department head,
Dear Mr. Howes,

On behalf of the residents of Heron Hall, I am thanking your department for the nice garden recently made in front of our home. We really enjoy that bare pile of dirt and grass. Our lawn (also in front of Jespersen) is even better. If you've seen the Devil's Golfcourse in Death valley, you'll know what I mean.

We would like to know what is going on so we can fully appreciate what you are trying to do.

Cal Poly has just received an invitation to the Intercollegiate Rodeo to be held at Phoenix, Arizona. The Arizona State Teachers College invited this school to send its top rodeo contestants to compete in the show, on March 5 and 6.

Cal Poly was well represented last year, and managed to miss winning first place by a slight margin of a few points. The boys will be out this year to better their second place standing of last year.

This year's contestants will be T. J. Andre, Cotton Rosser and Bill Whitney, all riding events, Lem Boughner, Bob Doner and Neil Fadler, all roping events. The S.A.C. helps the boys by sponsoring some of their traveling expenses.

California's first intercollegiate rodeo is now tentatively planned for April 9 at the Cow Palace. Plans are under way to put on an open-to-students-of-any-college rodeo, with the usual invitations sent, but without limits of contestants by numbers. This show will be the same as any other rodeo, with the restriction of entries to college students only.

POLY ROYAL RODEO

The Boots and Spurs club was donated a number of telephone poles from the P. G. and E. These poles will be put into use as a rodeo arena. For the first time in years, the Arena will be stout, and the audience need not worry about having a bull in their laps during the show. This year the poles will be used to re-build the arena and catch pens. Next year's plans are to re-build the chutes and holding pens with telephone poles. In the course of two or three years the arena will be safe for both cowboy's and spectators.

Flowers and candy to C.G.B. for the fine backing he has shown concerning the re-building of the arena.

According to Mitch Evovitch, the arena will be worked on by agricultural mechanics students and members of the Boots and Spurs.

Letters to the Editor

Dear Editor,

What good was the idea of dividing the student body cards into three groups so that, supposedly, everyone would get a chance to see some of the games? I am in group 1 and being confident that a ticket would be there for me, I came to the Student Body office at 2 p.m., Wednesday. To my surprise, and also to many others, the tickets for the San Jose game were gone.

Weren't the Student Body cards divided into three groups so the Poly students could see their games, or are we catering to the general public for a price now?

Don Hagan

Dear Editor,

I have some good news to tell, but it can only last if the cooperation of all students is achieved.

We are now on a trial period of 90 days regarding our hitch-hiking signs downtown. The city council has granted us this trial period to see if the students will take advantage of said signs and not abuse the privilege.

The committee has worked hard to help you men obtain rides to your destination and now it is up to you.

During our trial period we are to have temporary signs located at Santa Rosa and Monterey streets...one designating rides wanted toward camp, another for rides toward campus. I don't think I need to remind you men that if these signs should be broken or disappear, only to be found in one of the dorms, that every man who ever tries to get a ride loses a big opportunity.

We are pleased that the council gave us this chance to help the students...now it is entirely up to these same students to carry the ball from here.

Things Could Be Verse

There was a line, a mighty line,
Before the Noodle Nook door,
And Willie, waiting for his lunch,
Was number twenty-four.
But number three had twelve good friends,
And number eight eleven,
While Willie found to his surprise,
He now had forty-seven.
And tho the people far up front
Were moving quite a lot,
The longer Willie stood in line,
The farther back he got.
This struck the boy as mighty silly,
But lunch time never came for Willie.

Polly Patter

By Marge Grotzke—

We can't decide whether the Woman's Page was welcome or not, but one thing sure, we know it was well read. The consensus of opinion was that we said so much the first week that surely there would be nothing more to say this week. Come now fellows, you should know enough about women to know that we never run out of chatter.

The student wives' treasury needs building up if they are to continue their many activities. There is equipment to buy for the baby clinic, and the bridge club also needs some new supplies. Activities of the group cannot be supported on the 25 cents a month dues so the club has one money-making event each year. So it is that the card party with the new look comes to Cal Poly Sat., Feb. 26th. This type of party is unique in that those purchasing tickets may play any games they wish in their own homes with their own crowd. At a designated hour, all the players assemble and turn in scores for prizes and enjoy refreshments at Hillcrest. Anyone who wishes to buy a table and who can not accommodate her friends at home is invited to play at Hillcrest. This event is open to both men and women. Prizes will be given. Further information about the party may be obtained by calling Elizabeth Compton at 3070-M.

At the most recent Student Wives club meeting last week a musical program was enjoyed by an appreciative audience. Mrs. Helen Broadbent opened the program with vocal selections accompanied by Jane Till. Mrs. Harold Gardner presented piano selections and the singing of the Majors and Minors. The rest of you have a treat in store for you when the annual Home Concert is presented next quarter. Elections will be held at the March 3rd. meeting. Judge Jackson will speak on Guide Dogs at that time.

The Hawthorne school P.T.A. is presenting a kiddie fashion show Friday night, Feb. 25th, at the Presbyterian education building. Among the models will be included Linda and Louise Jones, twin daughters of Poly's Johnny Jones. All the San Luis Obispo stores will cooperate to make the show a success, and one specialty shop will show hand made frocks which were especially made for this event. This is chance for a night out when you don't need to worry about a baby-sitter—take the children along. After all, they may enjoy picking out their own Easter outfits.

MEET THE GANG. Gems of wisdom simply drip from Davey Goodman's lips as he aids Betty Hunter, Ruth Carley and Fae Woodward in plotting the course for Poly Femme. Mrs. Carley is the editor for the first Cal Poly woman's section to be printed in the past 17 years. Miss Hunter writes White Collar Chatter; Mrs. Woodward turns in news stories. Not present is Marge Grotzke.

With the end of the quarter in sight, we'd like to say thanks to Barbara Carter for her splendid job as Student Wives president. Under her direction many worthwhile activities have been initiated. Billie Millman deserves thanks for her efforts to produce such entertaining programs as we have enjoyed this quarter. Mary O'Hara also has given much time to the job placement committee. All of the officers, committee heads, and appointed chairmen have worked hard, and we're sure you'll join us in saying, "thanks, gals."

Many people have suggested we pass on information that comes our way concerning student wives whose husbands have graduated and left Cal Poly. If you have such information let us know and we will share it with others who may be interested. Here are some items we have collected this week: Sue Drake writes from Kerman (near Fresno) to say that she is busy doing secretarial work for Bob. She can work at home, which gives her a chance to keep one eye on Susan. President Barbara Carter recently visited Ceelle Heald in Sacramento where they have a house. Dorothy Durbin writes from San Jose that they too are at last in their own home and so thrilled by it she could write of nothing else.

Featurette— Mrs. Greenwell

—By Ruth Carley

Today, we introduce to you a living institution, a tradition on a campus which has all too few traditions. She's been "Mom" to the boys of California Polytechnic and San Dimas for twelve years now, and she is that wonderful type of person that people never forget.

The novice in El Corral is always astonished when a prosperous looking individual comes in and asks for "Mom." The Navy boys all remember her interest in them, and the veterans bring in their brand-new brides to meet her. The homey and genuine interest that she dispenses along with countless doughnuts and cups of coffee brings a returned respect and love which is its own unsolicited reward.

Mrs. Greenwell's hobby is an affair in which she takes the greatest pride. She spends most of her off hours in running down items for her rock collection. Her specialty is jade. She has a great deal from Monterey county, although she maintains the best grade of jade to be had in this country comes from Montana. She has jade and jasper from Monterey county, rhodamite from along the Pacific coast, quartz crystals from Brazil, Arkansas and other places, agates and jade from Montana, and many other specimens. She could be ranked as quite a connoisseur although she says it is just a hobby.

For statistics, she started her Cal Poly career by working for Mr. Nogues in the No. 1 Cafeteria on February, 1936. She worked there 18 months when she left for San Dimas where she remained until 1948. Then she returned to Cal Poly and has been here ever since. "Mom" Greenwell now has charge of the Camp SLO store of El Corral, where she serves complete meals and endears herself to the boys with her homemade pies, excellent soups, and just good food in general.

Yes, when the old call, "chow down" goes out, you'll always find "Mom" there with her good food, heartwarming smiles, interest, and best of all that wonderful "at home" feeling that makes her one of Poly's most prized possessions.

Woman's Voice Time And Tide

By Ruth Carley

Time and tide wait for no man (or woman) is an adage, which, although much misused, is nevertheless very true. This was never made more clear to me than the answers to questions asked about various items this week revealed.

In trying to find out why the women organizations on campus haven't fused into a more workable union, the answers were all concerned with time. "I'm sorry but we just don't have the time." "I work all day, I'm tired at night, and besides time is a premium you know." "I have a family, it really keeps me running."

All these arguments are fair and good, but the irrevocable fact of the matter is, someone is finding the time. The student wives have playgrounds for the children. That took a lot of someone's time and hard work. They have a bridge club that is very successful. The reception for the queen of Poly Royal is a beautifully well run and organized affair and consumes a great deal of someone's time and effort.

Someone is successfully budgeting their time as well as their money. In a world where women are working, studying, and having families, leisure time is indeed a premium. If they are ever to have his time, they must budget it as carefully as they do the amount of money to be spent on Junior's clothing next year.

The intelligence of womenkind has increased to such a extent that it is reflected in everything she does. She thinks, reads, and studies more, and is apt to fill all of her precious, leisure hours with a book on children's behavior, because she wants to find out why Betty lied to Daddy last week.

This is all well and good, but a woman has a right to a couple of hours every day to call her own. A set of tennis, a game of bridge, and swimming are all good. You need the relaxation.

A magazine article recently advocated not being at home to answer telephone calls or the doorbell, neighbors or butcher boy during your scheduled working hours. Quietly and firmly let the partyline know that such calls to you are "verboten." According to the article, this saves you at least two hours right there. Try it.

Out Of Town

At San Jose State, the Associated students paid out more than $7000 for new band uniforms to clad 180 members and majorettes after the student council approved the selection. The new outfits feature full double breasted gold-colored coats set off by white braided cord on the left shoulder. Trousers are made of gabardine whipcord and have blue and gold seam stripes.

The Police school of San Jose State has announced that 17 of its student policemen are working regular shifts with either the San Jose police department or the sheriff's office.

Another 16 men have auxiliary positions with the two law enforcement agencies.

Last fall the student police served in the records office of the police department; now they are pounding pavement on a beat with a regular patrolman; next spring, they will go on patrol car maneuvers.

White Collar Chatter

By Betty Hunter—

Mary and Ed Jenkins took a quick trip to Yosemite a couple of Saturdays ago. While there, they saw Clarice Anderson and her family, who were also enjoying the 19 inches of snow.

Emily Schuster invited Vera Silvia Farrar, and me to a membership dinner given by the Mission Belles, which is an international secretary's sorority. We had a wonderful dinner sprinkled lavishly with Emily's droll wit.

Olga Martinson is getting excited over the prospect of moving into her new home out on Johnson Avenue. It really sounds like a dream house. Olga and her family plan to move in the first part of March.

General office chief, Owen Servatius, was called frantically home the other day when Leslie, his 8-year old daughter, got locked in the bedroom. Owen practically had to break the door down to get her out. Life with father!

We heard of an interesting project the other day. It seems Ena Hoxie, Jean Ecklund, Anna Gray Dexter, Katherine Knowland and Louise Hiedrich get together every Tuesday night and do leathercraft work. Some of the things they have turned out are really beautiful. By getting together like this they can interchange tools, not to mention ideas.

LaVerne Carpenter is now assisting Helen Blair and Mary Ellen Dunkleberger in the cataloging department of the library. We're glad to see Helen up and around again after a short illness.

We're sorry that Jean Ecklund is giving up her job in El Corral. Sorry for our sakes, that is, but glad that she can devote herself to her new home and most of all to her baby.

Dorothy Barlow is vacationing in her home town of Klamath Falls, Oregon.

We want to congratulate Betty Overall on getting her 1940 Chevrolet. It is really a nice looking car. Eva Macabee is also sporting a different car, but I couldn't tell you for the life of me what kind or what year it is. Shirley Farrar has christened her brand new Ford, after a great deal of thought and consideration, "Two-a-dora."

The basketball games over last weekend drew a big crowd of white collar girls. Doris Dilworth, Kathryn Knowland, Shirley Pedranti, Veulah Brook, June Powell, and Eva Furtado saw the San Jose game. Marion Matlock and Mary Holly witnessed the College of Pacific game. Elinor Barff and Johnny Ehret, Betty Overall and Bob Croce were also in the stands.

Marian Matlock has been staying with Mary Holly, since Mary's roommate was called to Texas. Mary lives just across the tracks from school and Marian would like everyone to know that she has been getting to work on time.

Bee Bartron Halcomb, formerly secretary to Ainsley Whitman, librarian, is now living in Dos Palos where her husband, John, is an agriculture teacher. John is a former Cal Poly student.

Was sure tickled to see the cute picture of Lucy Parent of the library staff in last week's El Mustang. She gets our vote for being one of the cutest and nicest little gals on the campus.

We're glad to hear that Katherine Rowland's mother is up and about again after a pretty serious illness. Speaking of Katherine, who is secretary to C. O. McCorkle, you should see her cute little daughter, Peggy, who is a great big four and a half years old.

This will be the last El Mustang for several weeks, so I want to remind you to come to the Faculty Wives Dessert Fashion show on the 22nd of March. Also, don't forget the Ag Inspection Club dance on March 19th. Sounds like a pretty good time for everyone.

Nylons ???

Well girls, it seems that they have been having a little trouble down in Jacksonville, Florida. The nylons are disappearing right off the legs of the lovely lassies. The ogre is the industrial plants which are dispensing, along with the general gloomy smoke and smog, a chemical which is literally dissolving the stockings off the girls' legs.

Some people might think this a very nasty situation. I, for one, believe that, although it would undoubtedly have its drawbacks, it also is something of a blessing in disguise. The nylons we have today aren't worth the bother anyway.

When they first came on the market before the war, our doctor's wife bought a pair. As they went along the highway one night they saw a wreck and stopped to help. She knelt by the road helping her husband for close to two hours that night, and had no more than a few snags and no runs out of the deal.

P.S. She wore the stockings for several months afterwards, and when they finally gave way, she regretfully announced that it must have been pretty hard on them after all.

What really peeves women is the fact that men berate them for the size of their stocking bills, harangue them about patronizing inferior merchandise, and then insist that they wear stockings.

The women in Jacksonville are really very lucky. They can't wear them period. Think of what they can buy now that they won't have

Floor Show Plans For Faculty Dance

There will be much fun and gaiety at the 49'er dance to be held by the faculty club, March 8th. Mrs. James Smith will sing folk ballads and there will be folk dancing by Mr. Cook's group. This group will also teach a few of the folk dances such as: Tribby, Oklahoma Mixer, Three Step, and Var-souviene.

The harmonica quartet and the barber shop quartet are preparing for their events, which promise to be lively indeed. There will be other musical numbers also.

The refreshment bar will be "open all night" and a variety of game tables will also be going.

The committee is composed of Mrs. Remund, chairman, and Messrs. Cook, Campbell, Caldwell, Camp, Elston, Brown, Bowles, Bowen, Boerman, Meucham, Beck, W. Anderson, R. Anderson and Shenler.

the expense of stockings. Goodness—I've spent their money for them already.

Boots and Spurs Join NIRA; Eligible For Rodeos Sans Fees

The Boots and Spurs club voted unanimously for paying the initial entrance fees and joining the National Intercollegiate Rodeo Association, after a short descriptive speech was delivered to the members at their Feb. 17 meeting by John Loftus.

Loftus motioned that the Boots and Spurs club join this new organization, after giving the members of the Boots and Spurs club all the information that he received in a letter of invitation from Charles D. Rankin, president of the NIRA located at Texas A. and M.

The NIRA is a new organization that was started by delegates from 16 different colleges attending the National convention at Dallas, Texas on Jan. 20 and 21. The colleges represented at this meeting were U. of Wyoming, Colorado A. and M., New Mexico A. and M., U. of Arizona, Oklahoma A. and M., Texas A. and M., Sul Ross State, Kansas State, Baylor U., Texas Christian U., Abilene Christian college, Hardin Simmons U., Texas A. and I., and Texas Tech.

The constitution of the NIRA calls for rodeos to be put on without charging the usual entry fees to the entrants. Prizes, instead of cash, will be awarded to the winners. The prizes will consist of saddles, boots, belts, bits and numerous trophies donated by clubs, organizations, and merchants. This style of prize awarding eliminates the professional touch to the rodeo that many colleges disapprove of.

The initial fee of a college club membership is 25 dollars. Additional fees, those charged only to those members of a club who wish to participate in the various rodeos put on under the jurisdiction of the NIRA, are eight dollars.

Three dollars of this individual membership fee pay, for one year's subscription to the official publication, the bi-weekly Rodeo News (Billings, Montana.) Hyde Merritt, associate editor of the publication, attended the convention, and stated his desire to make the bi-weekly the official news for the organization.

NIRA rodeos, according to the constitution, must have a minimum of three riding events, bulldogging or steer-wrestling, and two roping events; one involving the roping and tying of a calf, the other a team roping event.

Although the association has just sent out rodeo invitations to many colleges, two rodeos have al-

English Instructor Morris Carter At NEA Conference

Morris Carter, instructor in English and visual aids education at California State Polytechnic college, attended a conference of the department of audio-visual instruction of the National Education Association Tuesday and Wednesday in San Francisco.

Carter and other delegates at the conference were taken on a tour of the audiovisual facilities of the U.S. Navy at Treasure Island, and they heard talks and round table discussions by nationally known leaders in the audio-visual education field.

The program was planned by Dr. A. John Bartky, dean of the school of education at Stanford University.

Plans had been submitted for the NIRA's approval. Both of these rodeos are still in the planning stage. Carl Garrison, general manager of the Cow Palace stated his desire to put on an intercollegiate rodeo in conjunction with the Grand National Junior Livestock Exposition, to be held on April 9, this year. Variety Clubs International (charity club) is planning a 10 day rodeo that will be entirely intercollegiate. Location of the rodeo is still undecided.

Permanent Pasture Classes Observe Ranch Operations

The members of Paul Dougherty's irrigated pasture class made a field trip to a number of San Luis Obispo county ranches last Saturday, February 13.

The group's first stop was at the Gerald Hale ranch near Atascadero where Harding grass is now being grown for seed. Pasture grazing was witnessed at the Rossi ranch, Templeton, and the group continued on to Shandon.

Bill Rowe, ranch superintendent of the Stinton ranch, Shandon, explained the ranch's operations to the students. There are 400 acres of irrigated pasture, 400 acres of alfalfa, 16,000 acres of range land and 700 acres of grain land.

The trip, according to Dougherty, was particularly valuable to the students because such matters as pasture management are better covered by demonstration rather than by textbook of lecture explanations.

Spring Registration

Registration of old students for the spring quarter will commence on Friday, March 11, at CR 19.

Students with last names beginning with the letters m-s, inclusive, will register between the hours of 7:30 a.m. and 9:30 a.m. Students with last names beginning with the letters a-l will register between the hours of 9:30 a.m. and 12:00 noon.

Architectural Students Burn Midnight Oil—Can This Be Poly?

Campus Beef Gets New Owner At Poly Royal

"Lucky," Cal Poly Shorthorn steer will be awarded to some lucky person on April 30 at the Poly Royal rodeo. Sponsored by the Boots and Spurs club, "Lucky" will be completely processed and placed in a frozen locker, with one year's rental free, at the American Refrigeration Co.

"By Poly Royal time he will weigh approximately 1000 pounds, and be of choice grade," Lyman Bennion, meat animals department head, stated.

Proceeds from the steer will be used to sponsor the collegiate livestock judging team and the college rodeo team, which represent Cal Poly in out of town intercollegiate contests. At the present time there have been little or no funds available to help defray expenses of these men who are competing in out of town shows.

By Ray Belli

Have you wondered why there is a light shining in the Engineering building when you return from town at 8 a.m.?

We investigated. This light illuminates the drafting boards of industrious architects.

"What goes on here?" We inquired of one architect.

"Well, you see our problems in Architecture 242 require more time than the nine hours allowed in class. Some students can do the work in less time—although I believe most of the fellows actually live up here. I usually spend nine hours in class and work 10 to 15 hours out of class."

"How about that fellow sleeping on the table?"

"He will stay here all night, sleeping a few hours and working a few hours. He's an 'A' student."

Here we interrupted. "Why do you take this lying down? Can't you protest?"

"Sure," came his reply, "but we don't mind spending a few extra hours on our major."

Cagers Drop Three More; Hit With Second Half Jinx

Continuing their losing ways, the Cal Poly Mustangs dropped their fifth in row Tuesday evening when they fell to the Fresno State Bulldogs 62-58. The Poly quintet had previously lost to San Jose State, 60-40, Friday night, while the COP Tigers edged the green and gold crew, 44-41, the following evening.

The Jorgensen clan started the weekend off with a rush when they forced the highly rated San Jose Spartans for the entire first half of their clash. Although Coach Walt McPherson's five held a three point lead at half, the score only told a small part of the first half battle. But following the half time intermission, the Spartans roared back with the greatest exhibition of basketball seen on the local courts this season. With Stu Inman setting a new conference record in scoring, the Washington Square quintet made 35 points to the Mustangs 18 during the second period to walk away with the game, 60-40. Hank Moroski led the Poly cagers with 20.

Saturday evening found the Mustangs putting on one of their best floor games of the year, although losing to the COP Tigers by three markers. It was again the case of a fiery first half coupled with a few lax moments of play. The Poly cagers held a safe six point margin with less than a minute remaining in the first half, but in that fraction of a minute, the Kjeldsen tribe poured five points through the mesh to pull to within a single digit of the locals by half. After the midway rest, the Mustangs again had trouble hitting the basket and were never in the game again.

But win or lose, without a doubt the most inspired game of the evening was turned in by Doug Straethorn, who has held down the third string pivot spot for the Jorgensen clan this season. Straethorn who looked strong on both offense and defense, teamed up with Jack McMurdie to produce one of the smoothest working combinations seen in the Poly colors this season. Doug also made eight points to take second place in the scoring honors.

High point man for the evening was Bud Proulx of the Tigers with 16. Hank Moroski tallied 15, followed by Wirt of COP with 11.

Due to circumstance above and beyond our control, not much can be said on the game with Fresno State, except that it was again the case of dropping a game in the second half. The Mustangs led at the intermission 33-30. Hank Moroski led the evening's scoring parade with 23 while Becknell and Garcia of Fresno tied for second with 12 apiece.

Tennis Team Meets Foo On Home Courts

The Cal Poly racketmen will take to the courts for the first time of the season this afternoon when they play host to the invading Bakersfield JC tennis team. The matches will start at 1:30.

Leading Coach Gene Smith's net crew this afternoon will be Bob Redden, playing his second season as Cal Poly's top seeded player. Redden will hold down the first singles for the Mustangs this afternoon. Other singles players will be Irving Swain, Bob Carlson, Ronald Johns, Bill Curtiss, and Bill Hobbs. Paul Charles and Jensen Won will team up with the six members of the singles department to form the four doubles teams.

Next week, the Smithmen will pack their bags and head for a tour of the Bay Area, where they will meet teams from California, Santa Clara and San Francisco State.

Coach Smith hopes to get his team some class experience before their initial 2C2A tilt of the season against Santa Barbara College on March 26.

Bowling Loop

John Stark, bowling for the Sea-gull's had a monopoly on the Cal Poly bowling league this week. Stark rolled the high game of the evening, coming through with 328. Not to be outdone, Stark added games of 314 and 152 for the high series of the night.

ME club continues to dominate the league with 52 wins and 17 losses. Variety club is running a close second compiling 49 wins and 23 defeats.

MEET THE FROSH

Heading the Frosh list this week is Henry Stone, 18-year old, 5' 10" animal husbandry student, known as "Hank" to his teammates. Stone is a fairly well-seasoned ball player, having played his high school ball at Sullman high school where he lettered on the varsity for two years. Stone, who shows a lot of fire and aggressiveness on the floor, is in the words of Coach Bob Steele, one good reason why the Frosh team is so closely bound together.

All the way from Half Moon Bay is number two man this week, Ugo Rea. Ugo has four years experience behind him at Half Moon Bay high school where he was elected captain of the varsity team in 1946-47. Rea, 19 years old, 5' 11", is majoring in truck crop production, and hopes to make Coach Ed Jorgensen's five before he completes his training at Cal Poly.

Jim Luker brings the curtain down on this week's interviews. Luker, who is a 20-year old, 6' 1" sophomore calls Merced, California, his home. Luker played his high school basketball at Merced high where he was awarded the "Out-standing Athlete for the Year" award in 1947.

Moroski Leads 2C2A Scoring As Cage Season Nears End

Henry Moroski, Cal Poly's all-conference guard, has moved into the scoring lead in the California Collegiate Athletic association, as conference play nears an end. Figures show that Moroski, a junior at Cal Poly, and twice named to the CCAA all-conference teams, has hooped a total of 180 points in nine games for an average of 14.4. He is closely followed by Stu Inman, San Jose State college's all-conference center, with 128 points in eight games for an average of 16.7. Inman last week broke the conference scoring record of 80 points, when he went wild against Cal Poly to hoop 32 counters. Moroski and Inman are the only representatives of their respective schools among the first 10 leaders. San Diego State college and the College of Pacific each have three men among the first 10.

Fresno State college continues to pace the conference in fouls per game with 204 fouls in nine games.

In team standings San Jose State leads the pack with seven wins and one loss. Their only defeat was an upset last week to Santa Barbara college, 60 to 84. Santa Barbara, moving fast, has stepped up into second place. All teams have one more game left in conference play, except Santa Barbara and San Jose, who both have two more contests.

It's not often that we bother to read San Jose's Spartan Daily anymore. But when we caught exchange editor, Gene Kemper gnawing the corner from our sport's desk the other day, we had a feeling that something was in the wind and it could have only arrived from one direction.

The gent who is largely responsible for setting our green and gold ulcers in motion this week in Arnold H. Wechter, who draws his journalism units for being sport's editor of the Spartan Daily. Whether Wechter's higher line of thought represents that of the SJ studentbody or not, is not known. But if it does, they had better tear down the few remaining planks on the Washington Square campus and start all over—they can't help but do a better job the second time.

Wechter's column, Press Box Chatter, started out something like this last Thursday. "Ten years ago, Bill Leiser said that San Jose State had the potentialities of becoming the Notre Dame of the west—athletically speaking. That statement is as true today as when Mr. Leiser first penned it, but the Spartans have come no closer to their goal. Why?" Immediately after the question mark, logic quits and Wechter begins.

Upon first examination of the preceding bit of copy, we draw a hasty conclusion that the main reason San Jose hasn't become the Notre Dame of the west is the simple fact that two and two still equals four, and that it's a long jump from picking prunes to manufacturing new Studenbakers—something the boys of Notre Dame have been doing in the South Bend plant for years. But not so with our boy Arnold. No, Wechter claims the 2C2A conference is holding San Jose back. "This loop," scribbles our scribe, referring to the 2C2A, "is composed of two major athletic institutions, San Jose and COP," along with four weak sisters, Santa Barbara, Fresno State, San Diego, and weakest of all, Cal Poly.

But like all sports writers, Wechter knows enough to keep his teeth shut when he opens his mouth. Matter of fact, he came up with two solutions to his problem—both of which call for San Jose's leaving the conference. One plan calls for San Jose to become an independent, while Wechter's second proposal goes back to the old song of establishing a new athletic conference—and it was here that the boy really took a long drag on the tea.

Arnold paints a rather rose picture for the new conference, including St. Mary's, COP, Nevada, San Jose, Santa Clara, Utah, Loyola, and USB. These far western powers clashing in do or die spirit with the San Jose institution, leads Arnold on to picturing overflow crowds, bowl bids, and maybe an occasional national championship title.

"Yes," concludes Mr. Wechter, "it is time we shed the likes of Cal Poly and other colleges of inadequate competition from our athletic schedules. We only insult the public's intelligence when we ask money for admission to one-sided contests."

Although, after Friday night, there isn't much we can offer in defense against Wechter's cutting remarks, it still makes the colors in our argyles run together. The 'ol' ol' it is, San Jose has never been able to hold her own in big time competition, especially on the gridiron, where Wechter seems to think they have their greatest power. Going all the way back to the days when Pop Warner, and later, Dud DeGroot, headed the Spartan staff, they have never knocked off a first class team, —and if Uncle Willie Hubbard can match these two gents in coaching, with or without material, we'll gladly trade in the Smith-Corona for a good pair of dark glasses and take a crack at the radio world.

No, Arnold Wechter is way off the track when he beats the drums for a new conference. Whether San Jose drops the 2C2A or not makes little difference to this department; matter of fact, we would be the first to break out with "Aloha." But after last year's Spartan-Nevada game, it looks like HAMMERING HANK... that's the gentleman pictured above on his way in for another Poly bucket. Moroski of the Mustangs is currently leading the 2C2A in scoring, but the Brooklyn lad will really have to get hot tonight if he expects to hang on to his first place standing.

Brooklyn Dodgers Head Summer Sports Workshop

One of the most outstanding physical education and athletic workshops in the country will be held at the campus this August.

The Brooklyn Dodgers, with Branch Rickey, president and general manager of the Dodgers heading the party, will handle baseball classes during the first week of the workshop. The session lasts from August 1 to August 12.

This arrangement was voted following a meeting of the workshop executive committee held Saturday at the college. The group met with Bob Clements, Pacific Coast representative for the Dodgers.

Bill Lopez of Los Angeles, chairman of the workshop committee, states that Francis Thompson, Webb Matthews, Howie Hank, and George Sisler will handle the work as baseball instructors.

Also slated to head discussions in the August workshop are Lynn Waldorf, University of California football coach; Everett Dean, Stanford university basketball coach; Jess Hill, University of Southern California track coach; Tom Stowe, of Berkeley, leading tennis instructor on the coast; and Jim Smith, Fullerton junior college swimming coach.

Representing the 1900 California coaches who constitute the membership of the California Association of Health, Physical Education and Recreation, sponsors of the workshops, are the members of the executive committee which met on the campus last week.

Meeting were Al Arps, San Fernando, president of the association; Bill Archer, Lodi; Phil Lopez, Los Angeles; Ted Starr, Van Nuys; Charles Eaton, Walnut Creek; and Cap Haralson, Bakersfield. Representing Cal Poly were President Julian A. McPhee, Vernon Meacham, dean of student welfare, and Robert Mott, director of athletics.

Grapplers Toy With San Diego J.C., 30-0

By Al Cadena

Running up their biggest score of the season and making it five straight in the win column, Coach Sheldon Harden's grapplers really put the squeeze on a highly touted San Diego J.C. crew 30-0 here last Friday afternoon.

Pairing off with Jesse Martinez at 136 pounds was John Demos, who held the match at a pretty even pace until Martinez's ability proved the better and brought home a CP victory. This is the first meet Martinez has been in this season, due to a broken ankle he suffered before the season got under way.

Howard Tillotson, Poly's 145 pounder, came back strong in the third period to pin his much surprised opponent in 3:25. Tillotson countered every move made by Crawford, thereby keeping him down most of the time.

In the 155 pound class, the Mustangs 2C2A champ, Jim Dowe, showed too much power, and especially too much class in defeating his strong but slow opponent.

The best match of the evening saw another 2C2A champ, Fred Adams, 165 pounder pin San Diego's Bill Riggs in 7:20 of the third period. Riggs gave Adams a good battle before falling to his stronger and more clever opponent.

The 175 pound class paired Al Cadena, against San Diego's Dick Jones. Cadena took command early in the contest and won out 4-1.

The final match of the evening saw heavyweight Jack Darling pin his rugged opponent in 3:25 of the third period. Gene "Moose" Riggs was giving Darling a good defensive battle up until the third period when he was suddenly pinned.

Dick Hutchinson, 125 pounds, and AAU champ Webber Lawson, 128 pounds, won by forfeits.

Coach Sheldon Harden's grapplers will go into strenuous workouts for the next three weeks in preparation for the coming 2C2A tournament which will be held in the San Diego State men's gym on March 11 and 12.

Blesse Begins New Column For El Rag

Beginning first of next quarter, a new column, Where It's Deep, will be a feature of El Mustang. Authored by the embittered, married printing major, J.R. "Bob" Blesse, the column will deal with athletics, campus frustrations, and females.

Blesse has been a fairly regular contributor of features in the past. His column will replace The Way I See It, Lindstrand's creation.

Lindstrand will advance to the paper's assistant editor post next quarter.

Retraction—

Last week's EL MUSTANG erroneously stated that Roger Findahl, AM instructor, is a former Michiganian. This is untrue. Findahl is from Minnesota, not Michigan. He doesn't even like Michigan. We're sorry.

tin Sims at guards.

For the local tribe, it will again be one of those nights with nothing to lose and not much to gain—but another conference win would help balance the season's budget to more even terms. Moroski, Sims, McMurda, Ross, and Coghlan haven't forgotten the seven man team that faced them on the southern courts earlier in the year, and that might be all they need to make them mad enough to win tonight. With the sides a little more even than before, the Mustangs ought to be able to come up with their third and final conference win of the season before the evening's clambake is over.

Starting for the locale will be Moroski and Ross at guards; McMurda and Coghlan at forwards, with Sims at the pivot. However, this being the final game of the season, Coach Ed Jergensen might even appear in the lineup before the clock runs out.

Groaners Face CAC

The Southern California Athletic Club will invade the Hillcrest study lounge at 8 p. m. tomorrow night to meet the Mustang grapplers in an eight bout event. Battered with top-notch talent, the CAC will roll into town ready to make life miserable for the local matmen.

Without a doubt tomorrow evening's meet will be one of the roughest of the season for Coach Sheldon Harden's crew. Fresh from last week's 30-0 victory over San Diego JC, the Mustangs have been working hard all week for this match and should be ready to give the southern invaders a lot of trouble.

The probable starting line-up for the Mustangs is as follows: Hutchinson, 121 pounds; Lawson, 128 pounds; Martinez, 130 pounds; Tillotson, 145 pounds; Jim Dowe, 155 pounds; Adams, 165 pounds; Al Cadena, 175 pounds; and Jack Darling, heavyweight.

Pedro Armendariz Once Poly Student

Did you know that Pedro Armendariz, featured in the movie "Three Godfathers," was once editor of El Mustang? Armendariz was a student at Poly from 1928 to 1932, and was active in the publication and dramatic clubs.

Upon returning to Mexico after graduation, Pedro appeared in the Pan-American Little Theater. He also wrote for papers and magazines in Mexico City, covering bull-fights and football games.

Armendariz appeared in numerous Latin American films, including "The Pearl," playing opposite Dolores del Rio.

He is now under contract with Mary Pickford for two pictures a year. His recent pictures include: "The Fugitive" and "Fort Apache."
