National election focus of Nov. 14 forum

Seven analysts with special insights into the election process will discuss the underlying factors of the Nov. 7 election, and its implications for the future, at the next Cal Poly Forum on Nov. 14. The free event, from 8 to 10:30 p.m., will be held in the Performing Arts Center's Cohan Center.

Judy Muller

With religion and polling as significant factors in the presidential campaign, the panel will be headed up by the Rev. Barry W. Lynn, national executive director of Americans United for Separation of Church and State, and Frank Newport, top administrator of the Gallup polling organization.

Lynn, a lawyer as well as a minister in the Church of Christ, is former legislative counsel to the American Civil Liberties Union. Newport is on the boards of the Roper Center for Public Opinion Research and the National Council on Public Polls, as well as editor-in-chief of the Gallup Poll.

They will be joined on the panel by:

- Frank L. Berry, Western regional director of the National Association for the Advancement of Colored People;
- Steven Hill, Western regional director of the Center for Voting and Democracy;
- Peter King, syndicated columnist at the Los Angeles Times;
- Judy Muller, national correspondent for ABC News; and
- Carla Marinucci, political writer and analyst at the San Francisco Chronicle.

This is the fourth forum in a series that Cal Poly began in February 1999 to explore important issues of the day with panelists noted for their expertise.

Playing on a theme introduced with the first forum, this one will be presented as "The Good, The Bad & Election 2000." Seating will be on a first-come basis.

For more information, call Public Affairs at ext. 6-1511. □

3 ceremonies scheduled for Fall Commencement

To ease the crowding that has been increasing year to year, Fall Commencement will be divided into three ceremonies: at 9 a.m., 1 p.m. and 4 p.m.

The first ceremony will be for the colleges of Agriculture and Science and Mathematics and the University Center for Teacher Education.

The 1 p.m. event will be for Architecture and Environmental Design and Liberal Arts, and the new, late afternoon ceremony will be for candidates from Business and Engineering.

All are in the Recreation Center.

Each will last about 1 1/2 hours, and each will be followed by a reception. (The location of the receptions was still under discussion.)

The number of graduates attending fall ceremonies has been increasing a little every year, said D.K. Moody of Student Life and Leadership, as both the number of candidates and the popularity of the more-personal fall event continue to grow. □

Former athletes to be inducted into Hall of Fame

Cal Poly Athletics will induct seven former athletes into its Athletics Hall of Fame as part of Hall of Fame Weekend festivities Nov. 3-4.

The inductees are Glenn Anderson (wrestling), Tom Gallo (football), Sharon Hanson-Lowery (track and field), Curtis Hill (football, posthumously), Eduardo Labastida Ochoa (soccer, boxing, wrestling), Al Marinai (football) and Don Morris (track and field).

• Glenn Anderson -- A member of the wrestling team from 1969 to 1973, Anderson remains one of the winningest wrestlers in Cal Poly's history. He completed his career with a 127-18-2 overall record including an NCAA National Championship as a junior in the 142-lb. division and as a senior at 150 lbs. As a senior, he lost

Extended Studies: new name, same focus

Extended University Programs and Services has changed its name to Extended Studies. It still encompasses the areas of Extended Education and Conference Services.

The change is in line with the recent appointment of Dennis Parks as the new dean of extended studies. Offices are in Jespersen Hall. □

Business to sponsor four fall presentations

Professors from the College of Business and the new executive director of the Foundation are planning fall talks on topics ranging from the Foundation's future to investing in mutual funds.

The presentations will be at 3:30 p.m. in Room 113 in the Business Building beginning Oct. 27.

The first speaker, Zafar Iqbal of the Accounting Area, will talk on "The College of Business's New Building: How it All Came to Be."

Additional presentations are:

- Nov. 3: Frank Mumford, executive director of the Foundation, "The Future of the Cal Poly Foundation."
- Nov. 17: Ken Griggs, Management, "A Framework for Software Agents in Electronic Commerce Based on the New York Stock Exchange Specialist System."
- Dec. 1: Larry Gorman, Finance, "Returns to Investing in Small-Firm Stocks: Evidence from Mutual Funds."

Refreshments will be served. For more information, call Leslie McKinley, associate director of advancement and alumni relations in the College of Business, at ext. 6-6174. □

CPR schedule

The Cal Poly Report is published every Wednesday during the academic year.

Articles are due to Public Affairs by 10 a.m. Wednesday for the following week's edition.

Items can be e-mailed to polynews@polymail (add calpoly.edu if needed), faxed to ext. 6-6533, or mailed to Public Affairs, Heron Hall.

For more information, call ext. 6-1511. □

College of Ag to sponsor talks on ag biotechnology

To celebrate Cal Poly's Centennial, the College of Agriculture is sponsoring an Agricultural Biotechnology Colloquium series that kicks off today (Oct. 18) with a presentation on biotechnology and food.

Martin Lemon, environmental operations manager for Monsanto Agriculture Products' Western U.S. division, will talk on "Plant Biotechnology and the Food Supply" from 3:10 to 4 p.m. in UU 220.

The series will bring industry and academic experts to campus to discuss topics of general interest to students, the faculty and the staff.

On Nov. 1, William Hiatt, strategic partnership manager on specialty crops for Calgene/Monsanto in Davis, will present "The Technology Behind Ag Biotechnology."

On Nov. 15, Gary Anderson, chair of the Animal Science Department at UC Davis, will discuss "Transgenic Animals in Agriculture."

All talks will be 3:10-4 p.m. in UU 220. For more information, call the College of Agriculture Dean's Office at ext. 6-2161. □

Bob Walters to retire

Bob Walters of the Student Life and Leadership office is retiring Oct. 31 after 30 years of service. No reception is set. He invites campus friends to stop by before he leaves. □

Internet pioneer to talk

Internet pioneer Omar Wasow will give a state-of-the-art multimedia presentation and an insider's perspective of cyberspace today (Oct. 18) at 8 p.m. in the Performing Arts Center Pavilion as part of Cal Poly Arts' New Directions Series.

Wasow's talk, titled "The Effect of the Internet on Race Relations," will explore the ever-changing world of information technology. He will also discuss Web-related marketing strategies, stories of actual online successes and failures, and ways the Web is shaping the social, political and economic future.

Wasow will also present "Your Future in Cyberspace," intended for the campus community, at noon today, also in the Pavilion.

Tickets for the evening presentation are $14 to $18. □

Transforming gang members topic of Lyceum talk

Arturo Hernandez, a leader in Indian education, will present "Crips and Bloods in Indian Country: A Powerful Story on How One Tribe is Transforming Gang-Involved Youth" at 7 p.m. Tuesday (Oct. 24) in Chumash Auditorium.

Hernandez, author of "Peace in the Streets: Breaking the Cycle of Gang Violence," is a doctoral candidate in education with a master's in family therapy. He has lectured at more than 100 universities, including Harvard, Columbia and Berkeley.

He is principal and founder of Tohono Ba'ag, an Indian charter school on the Salt River Reservation that employs traditional tribal methods to curb gang involvement.

Before going to Salt River, Hernandez founded two schools for gang youth in the 1980s: one serving the Clanton Street and Primera Flats gangs of East Los Angeles and the second for the Rolling 60s Crips of Watts.

Hernandez' presentation is part of the Lyceum lecture series. The talk is sponsored by the departments of Ethnic Studies, Liberal Studies and English, the College of Liberal Arts and its Student Council, the Progressive Student Network and the Newman Catholic Center.

For more information, call the College of Liberal Arts at ext. 6-2706 or English Professor Robert Inchausti at ext. 6-2862. □

'Iraq Awareness' focus of event today 10 a.m.-2 p.m.

Social activists touring in the "Omran Bus," named in memory of a 13-year-old shepherd boy killed by U.S. bombing in Iraq, will make a stop at Cal Poly today 10 a.m.-2 p.m. to help raise awareness of the effects that the United Nations' sanctions are having on Iraq, and in particular on its children.

Father Simon Harak and others on the tour will be on Dexter Lawn making presentations and answering questions.

Cal Poly is one of several universities on the Omran Bus tour from Los Angeles to Vancouver. The event is part of the Iraq Awareness Project, sponsored by the Newman Catholic Center, the Progressive Student Alliance and others. For more information, call Sister Mary Pat White at 543-4204 or Julie Chappell, 542-0472, or e-mail progstu-club@calpoly.edu. □

Poet Rodney Jones to kick off WriterSpeak

Acclaimed American poet Rodney Jones will kick off the WriterSpeak series with a reading at 7 p.m. Nov. 10 in Philips Hall in the Performing Arts Center.

A native of Alabama and professor of English at Southern Illinois University at Carbondale, Jones has published seven books of poetry spanning three decades.

Jones' latest book, "Elegy for the Southern Drawl," was a finalist for the Pulitzer Prize in 2000. In a review in The Southern Review, Kate Daniels wrote, "Rodney Jones, in 'Elegy for the Southern Drawl,' is perhaps the supreme example we have of the Southern human person speaking in American poetry."

For details, call Adam Hill at ext. 6-1622. □

'Groebner bases' topic of Mathematics Colloquium

Math Professor Mark Stankus will present an "Introduction to Groebner Bases" at the next Mathematics Colloquium at 4 p.m. Thursday (Oct. 19) in Pilling Computer Science 253.

According to Stankus, "Studying the set of solutions of systems of polynomial equations — or the set of solutions of systems of matrix equations — can be accomplished using 'Groebner bases.'"

No previous knowledge of Groebner bases is needed to understand the talk, which should be accessible to mathematically inclined undergraduates.

A more detailed abstract is posted in the Mathematics Department. For more information, call the department office at ext. 6-2206. □

Professor from Ukraine to talk on peacebuilding

Ukrainian professor Carina Korostelina will give a talk on "Peacebuilding in Multiethnic Societies of the Newly Independent States" from 7 to 8 p.m. Thursday (Oct. 19) in Fisher Science 287.

Korostelina is associate professor of psychology and director of the Crimean Institute of Peace at National Tavrida Vernadsky University in Simferopol, Ukraine.

Her presentation is sponsored by the College of Liberal Arts. For information, call Psychology and Human Development at ext. 6-2033. □

Schwartz to present Physics Colloquium Oct. 26

Physics lecturer Peter Schwartz will talk on "Molecular Transport From an AFM Tip: Nanolithography With Everything From Nonpolar Molecules to DNA Strands" at the next Physics Colloquium 11 a.m.-noon Oct. 26 in Science E-45.

For more information, call the Physics Department at ext. 6-2448. □

Book on cult mind control to be reviewed Tuesday

Physics professor Peter Schwartz will review "Combating Cult Mind Control" by Stephen Hassen at the next Books at High Noon program Tuesday (Oct. 24).

The book provides an insider's look at the tactics cults use to control the mind.

English Professor James Cushing will review "Dreaming the Garden" by Ann Stanford on Oct. 31. "Dreaming the Garden" is poet Stanford's last manuscript.

"Her poetry is as crucial to the California experience as that of Jeffers or Snyder but has fallen into neglect," Cushing said.

All presentations are at 12:10 p.m. in the Veranda Café.

For more information about the program, including how to participate as a reviewer, contact Phil Fetzer at ext. 6-6147 or e-mail pfetzer@calpoly.edu. □

Fee waiver forms due soon

Employees are reminded of the following winter quarter fee waiver deadlines:

- Oct. 25-Nov. 28 — Registration begins for fee waiver participants (see "Priority and Graduate Students" cycle in class schedule).
- Nov. 28 — Last day to pay fees to avoid $25 late fee.

- Dec. 1 — Last day to submit CSU admission application (undeclared or non-matriculated status only).

- Jan. 23 — Last day to submit fee waiver forms to Human Resources and Employment Equity, Adm. 110.

Fee waiver guidelines, procedures and forms are available under "Training & Development/Employee Fee Waiver Program" on the Human Resources and Employment Equity Web site at www.calpoly.edu. For other information, call Joan Lund at ext. 6-6563. □

Cal Poly Fact Book available online

The 1999-2000 edition of the Cal Poly Fact Book is available on the Institutional Planning and Analysis Web page at <http://www.calpoly.edu/~inststdy/>.

The Web-based Fact Book is available in PDF format, allowing the user to view it online or print it, and includes interactive links to other resources on and off campus.

The book is intended to translate accumulated data into useful information for the campus community and others who have an interest in Cal Poly statistics. The Fact Book presents data for the 1999-2000 academic year and some historical trend analysis.

The Institutional Planning and Analysis Web site also includes the fall PolyView, the quarterly InfoBrief (highlights of enrollment, admissions and scheduling information published each quarter), the Common Data Set (updated yearly to provide current answers to questions frequently asked by external surveys), and a link to the Final Exam Schedule.

Institutional Planning and Analysis invites comments and is available to answer questions at ext. 6-2461. □

Grad, Professional School Day scheduled for Nov. 3

Graduate and Professional School Day, sponsored by Career Services, is scheduled for Nov. 3.

Representatives from 65 colleges and professional schools are expected to attend. They will be available to provide information and answer questions from 10 a.m. to 1 p.m. in Chumash Auditorium.

The full list of schools attending is available on the Career Services Web site at www.careerservices.calpoly.edu.

For more information or to request flyers, call Jill Hayden at ext. 6-6517. □

Board to meet Oct. 27

The Foundation Board of Directors will hold a regular meeting at 8:30 a.m. Oct. 27 in the Foundation Administration Building's Conference Room (#124). For more information or to obtain a copy of the meeting agenda, contact Executive Director Frank Mumford at ext. 6-1131.

A copy of the agenda packet is available for review at the Kennedy Library Reserve Desk and the Academic Senate Office, Math and Science 143. □

Funds available for faculty development

The Faculty Development Program provides an opportunity for probationary faculty members to receive funding for research and other scholarly activities with the ultimate goal of helping them through the tenure and promotion processes.

Awards are made on a competitive basis for mini-research grants, travel to professional conferences, and for funds to hire temporary replacement faculty members for assigned-time awards (four to eight units per quarter).

The deadline to submit applications is Nov. 9. For program guidelines, information and applications, stop by Human Resources and Employment Equity, Adm. 110, or call ext. 6-6573. □

Immunizations offered at Oct. 25 health fair

Faculty and staff members will be able to obtain immunizations and information from a number of health care specialists at the Employee Assistance Program's fall quarter health and wellness fair, "Think, Act, Prevent," 11 a.m.-1 p.m. Oct. 25 in UU 220.

A limited supply of influenza immunizations are available for $12. Pneumonia immunizations are $20, and tetanus immunizations are $5.

Participants will also have an opportunity to learn about other aspects of disease and illness prevention.

Representatives will be attending from such agencies as the San Luis Obispo County Health Department, Maxim Healthcare Services, American Red Cross, Sierra Vista Regional Medical Center, University Police Department, Cory Everson fitness center, Stenner Creek Animal Hospital, Arthritis Foundation, AIDS Support Network, American Cancer Society and a law office, as well as an audiologist, a chiropractor and a cardio-pulmonary resuscitation specialist.

Door-prizes from Stressbusters, Splash Café, Lynn's, SLO Brew and Cory Everson will be given away.

For more information, call the Employee Assistance Program at ext. 6-0-EAP (6-0327). □

'Work on Paper' title of gallery exhibit

Thai artists will show their work in the next University Art Gallery exhibit, "Work on Paper," featuring a variety of media on paper. The exhibit is scheduled to run Nov. 1-Dec. 3.

A talk and opening reception are planned for Nov. 2. Vichoke Mukdamanee, a member of the painting faculty at Silpakorn University in Bangkok, will describe Thai art in a talk at 7 p.m. in the University Art Gallery, and the opening reception will follow from 8 to 9.

The work of the 39 artists ranges from prints and watercolors to drawings, acrylics and tempura.

"The subject matter varies greatly from piece to piece," said Cal Poly Art and Design Professor George Jercich. "The exhibit focuses on Thai culture in transition. Most of the works to be shown blend contemporary ideas with Thai traditions."

The University Art Gallery, located in the Dexter Building, is open daily 11 a.m.-4 p.m. and Wednesday 7-9 p.m.

The exhibit is sponsored by the Art and Design Department, the Visiting Guest Artist Series, the Instructionally Related Activities program, and Cal Poly Arts.

For more information, call the gallery at ext. 6-1571. □

Falla Guitar Trio to play Friday

Cal Poly Arts will present the Falla Guitar Trio in an evening of classical masterworks, improvised jazz and original music at 8 p.m. Friday (Oct. 20) in the Theatre.

Musicians Kenton Youngstrom, Terry Graves and Dusan Bogdanovic combine the popular appeal of the classical guitar with the technique of virtuoso musicians.

As solo performers, they have toured internationally, received numerous awards and are widely recorded. Bogdanovic is also emerging as a highly regarded composer, with commissions from the Pacific Dance Company and the L.A. Guitar Quartet.

A critic for The New York Times wrote, "Smooth synergy ... The three men function as a unit, passing melodies between them with a hearty camaraderie."

The program will include "Miller's Dance" and "Dance of the Miller's Wife" by Manuel de Falla, Sonata in G by Johann Sebastian Bach, "Three Spanish Dances" by Enrique Granados, "Women's Dance" by Milcho Leviev, "Pastorale No. 1" and "Three Straws" by Bogdanovic; "Excursions, Op. 20" by Samuel Barber, and various jazz selections.

Music Professor Craig Russell will give a pre-performance lecture in Philips Hall at 7 p.m. Tickets are $18 and $23, and student discounts are available. □

Procedures in place to report injuries

Faculty and staff members responsible for activities, equipment, and facilities programs and services are reminded of the Campus Administrative Policy requirement to complete a Student-Visitor Accident Report form when students and visitors are injured either on campus or at an off-campus site while on a field trip and or while working at or visiting Swanton Pacific Ranch.

Completed forms should be sent to the Risk Management Office within 24 hours of the incident.

Student-Visitor Accident Report forms are available on the Web at <http://www.calpoly.edu/~risk/forms.html> and from the Risk Management office at ext. 6-6755.

The Student-Visitor Accident Report form should not be confused with the State of California Employer's Report of Occupational Injury or Illness (Worker's Compensation), which is completed by the supervisor when faculty and staff members, student assistants, and authorized volunteers are injured on the job.

For those report forms, call the state Human Resources and Employment Equity office at ext. 6-5427 for state employees, the Foundation Human Resources office at ext. 6-1121 for Foundation employees, or the ASI Business Office at ext. 6-1281 for ASI employees. □

Former athletes to be inducted into Hall of Fame . . .

just once in 40 matches, finishing his final year with an impressive 39-1 overall record. His 37-5 junior record and national title earned him the California Collegiate Athletic Association's Athlete of the Year award.

- Tom Gallo — As a member of the Mustang football team 1982-1986, Gallo was a team captain and named most valuable player. As a junior he had 38 tackles and two fumble recoveries. As a senior, he led the team with 79 tackles, one interception and one fumble recovery and was instrumental in leading the Mustangs to wins over Sacramento State and Portland State. He has remained involved with the school through his work on various campus committees and his continued interest in the arts and athletics.

- Sharon Hanson-Lowery — Hanson-Lowery enters the Hall of Fame as a four-time NCAA All-American and holds the Cal Poly women's record for the heptathlon. She also holds the all-time career record in the 400m hurdles and the school's third best mark in the 100m hurdles and helped lead Cal Poly to a second-place finish at the NCAA National Championships in 1987. After her career at Cal Poly, she went on to compete in the 1996 Olympics.

- Curtis Hill (posthumously) — A victim of the 1960 plane crash that claimed the lives of 17 Cal Poly athletes, Hill was a potential top draft choice when his football career came to an end. A transfer from Bakersfield College, Hill was a three-year starting receiver for the Mustangs from 1958 to 1960. He led the Mustangs in receiving in 1958 with 377 yards and four touchdowns and again in 1960 with 447 yards and three touchdowns. One of the many Hill highlights came on defense as he intercepted a pass against UCSB and returned it for a school record 93 yards. In 1958, Hill scored 40 points for the Mustangs as he was named to the California Collegiate Athletic Association All-Conference team.

- Eduardo Labastida Ochoa — A rare, standout three-sport athlete while at Cal Poly, Labastida Ochoa traveled from his hometown of Los Mochis, Sinaloa, Mexico, to attend Cal Poly in the 1950s. He participated in boxing, wrestling and soccer. He received the Van Horn Trophy as Cal Poly's Athlete of the Year. In three years on the Cal Poly boxing team, Labastida Ochoa won 26 of 32 matches. As a sophomore, he was a finalist in the 1955 Pacific Coast Intercollegiate tournament at 119 lbs.

- Al Marinai — Another member of the Cal Poly football team 1958-1960, Marinai survived the 1960 plane crash. He enters the Hall of Fame as one of the best offensive linemen in school history. An All-City football selection from Polytechnic High School in San Francisco, he was a key member of a freshman football squad that put together a string of five consecutive wins. In 1960, Marinai earned a spot as a starting guard.

- Don Morris — One of the department's most valuable individuals of the past and present, Morris was drafted onto Cal Poly's track team after setting records as a college freshman in hurdling. After graduation from Cal Poly in 1952, he began a career with the U.S. Navy, where he served four years of active duty and 40 years in the Navy Reserve. He returned to Cal Poly and earned a master's degree. Morris held many positions at Cal Poly, including personnel director, housing director, dean of extended education and professor. He currently serves on the Board of Directors of the Cal Poly Alumni Association.

The induction ceremony will be at 6 p.m. Nov. 3 at the Embassy Suites Hotel in San Luis Obispo. For more information on the Hall of Fame Weekend, call Dawneen Lorange at ext. 6-0277. □

CAL POLY

CENTENNIAL CELEBRATION

To commemorate Cal Poly's Centennial, we have begun a new column that will include university history, upcoming Centennial events and additional tidbits that we hope you find interesting. The editors thank University Archives for providing much of the historical information online.

Historical Highlights

1901 - 2001

- In 1904-05 enrollment rises to 52 students (40 men and 12 women).
- In May 1904 the first annual Farmer's Institute and Basket Picnic is held. Members of the community are invited to campus to see projects completed by students.
- The first annual commencement ceremony for California Polytechnic School was in 1906, with eight students receiving "certificates."
- In 1913, the Legislature approved a budget of $127,500. For 1999-2000, Cal Poly received more than $155,000,000 from the state general fund budget.
- In June 1914, there were 190 alumni. Today they number more than 100,000.
- The last commencement for Cal Poly's three-year program was held in 1915.
- Cal Poly's first baccalaureate exercises were held in 1942.

Extended Education offers Oct., Nov. courses

Extended Education is offering a variety of one-day and two-day courses during October and November, including classes on learning to price wine, building a dream house, and gardening ecologically.

- Saturday (Oct. 21): Wine Logistics and Pricing, 9 a.m.-4 p.m. Professor Phil Doub, chair of the Food Science and Nutrition Department, will cover the logistics involved in processing, shipping and storing wine — from freshly picked grapes to the bottle on the consumer's table. The class is part of the Wine Industry Certificate Program. $150 or $140 for certificate enrollees.

- Oct. 28: So You Have Been Named an Executor, 9 a.m.-1 p.m. Natalie Wall, attorney specializing in estate planning, wills, trusts, probate, conservatorships and elder law, will give an overview of the duties and responsibilities of an executor. $20.

- Oct. 28: How to Build Your Dream House for a Song, 10 a.m.-1 p.m. Learn an alternative to conventional house building with David Cook, who draws on his home-building experience. His book "Build Your Dream House for a Song and Own it Free and Clear in Five Years," is included in the $40 registration fee.

- Nov. 7, 9: Photoshop Special Applications for Web and Print, 6:30-9:30 p.m. Tony Hertz teaches Photoshop for Web and print applications. $125, includes course materials.

- Nov. 18: Ecological Gardening, 9 a.m.-1 p.m. Learn to apply ecological methods to planting gardens and landscapes. Maker Skinner will explain the connections of plants to soil ecosystems. The workshop will involve planting annuals and perennials and using compost and mulches. $20.

For course descriptions go to Extended Education's Web site at www.calpoly.edu/~exted. For more information and to register, call ext. 6-2053. □

'Her-Story' Reception to acknowledge women

In celebration of Women's History Month, Women's Programs is giving students and employees an opportunity to acknowledge important women in their life at the Her-Story Reception on Feb. 27.

"We are asking for submissions of a poem, essay or pictorial in an inspirational tribute to one woman's life," said Susanne Kelley, coordinator of Women's Programs.

"Participants will share their work at the Her-Story Reception, bringing together the mothers and mentors who often remain unrecognized as everyday leaders," Kelley said.

Send proposals to the Women's Center, UU 217, by Nov. 17.

For more information, contact Kelley at ext. 6-2600 or skelley@calpoly.edu. □
