Let the games begin . .

Aerospace team wins 1999-2000 design contest

Cal Poly's aerospace engineering team, the Poseidon Design Group, has won first place in the 1999-2000 student design competition sponsored by the American Institute of Aeronautics and Astronautics Foundation.

The group won with its plan for the Cyclops, an unmanned aircraft capable of carrying 10 cruise missiles.

Using existing technology, Cyclops combines the idea of an unmanned combat aircraft with the traditional mission of a strategic bomber. With a range of 4,000 nautical miles, it incorporates low-cost, low-risk technology.

"Its simple configuration, high air-frame life, and low operating costs should allow Cyclops to operate far into the future, much like the venerable B-52," said team leader Aaron Kutzmann.

Contestants were rated on technical content, organization and presentation, originality, and practical application and feasibility. Students were allowed to compete as individuals or on teams and at both undergraduate and graduate levels.

Dairy Products Judging Team wins first in two contests

The Dairy Products Judging Team beat 20 other schools to win the National Collegiate Dairy Products Evaluation Contest, held recently in San Francisco.

The competition tests students' ability to grade and score six dairy products, including butter, ice cream, milk, cottage cheese, yogurt and cheddar cheese. Each student judges 48 different samples for appearance, flavor, body and texture. Students compete as individuals and as three-member teams.

Team members were Marcia Bugbee, a senior agribusiness major, Renee McLaughlin, agricultural science junior, and Sarah Renner, dairy science junior.

Casey Griffith, a junior dairy science student, served as the alternate, and Joan Lozano, a dairy science graduate student, competed as the graduate representative.

The team won first in the All Products category and in other categories finished first in milk, yogurt and cheddar cheese, third in butter and ice cream, and eighth in cottage cheese.

The team is coached by Dairy Science faculty member William Gillis. □

The Poseidon Design Group won in the undergraduate team category.

Team leader Kutzmann was assisted by students James Bach, Russell Deedon, Michael McDonald, Luis Valenzuela, Justin Lawson, Donald Stewart and Lisa Barneby.

Club advisors were aerospace lecturer David Hall and teaching assistants Aaron Munger and Dan Wait.

Cal Poly aerospace design teams have won top prizes six out of the last eight years of the competition. □

Math Prof DeKleine to talk on 'Chain Rule'

Mathematics Professor Art DeKleine will talk on "The Chain Rule and Other Combinatorial Ideas" at the next Mathematics Colloquium, 11:10 a.m.-noon Thursday (Nov. 2) in Room 220 in the Math and Science Building.

Calculus is a study of rates of change, and "combinatorics" is a study of counting techniques — two seemingly different areas of mathematics. A formula for differentiating composite functions, called the Chain Rule, is established in all beginning calculus classes, as are higher-order derivatives, such as position, velocity, acceleration and jerk.

DeKleine will examine the question: Is there a "nice" formula for higher-order derivatives of composite functions? The problem posed and the resulting discussion should be accessible to beginning calculus students.

A more detailed abstract is available at the Mathematics Department. For more information, call ext. 6-2206. □

Ticket information

Tickets to the performances listed in today's Cal Poly Report are on sale at the Performing Arts Ticket Office 10 a.m.-6 p.m. weekdays and 10 a.m.-4 p.m. Saturdays. Call ext. 6-2787, or fax your order to ext. 6-6088. Tickets can also be bought online via Tickets.com. Visit the Performing Arts Center's Web site at pacslo.org and click on "Event Calendar." Information on Cal Poly Arts events can be found on the Web at www.calpolyarts.org. □

Cal Poly students paying back their loans

Cal Poly student borrowers are more responsible than ever and seem to be among the most responsible ones in the state.

Of the more than 2,500 Cal Poly student loans going into repayment in 1998, only 60 went into default, a rate of 2.3 percent. That's the campus's lowest default rate since the federal program began publishing the number in 1989.

It's also the best repayment rate among all CSU and UC campuses. The next-lowest rates are 2.5 percent at UC San Diego and 2.9 percent at CSU Stanislaus. All other CSU and UC campuses had 1998 default rates of 3.6 percent or higher, climbing to 8 percent.

The Financial Aid office processes more than 9,000 applications every year for the Federal Family Educational Loan Program and delivers more than $34 million annually to the campus's students.

To get a loan, students must complete an "entrance counseling" session that insures they know their rights and responsibilities.

The typical Cal Poly student borrows a total of $14,888. At the current interest rate of 8.19 percent, students pay back an average $182.13 a month over 10 years.

Cal Poly's better repayment rates reflect a national trend. Federal figures released recently show a national average default rate for 1998 (the most recent data) of 6.9 percent, the lowest since 1989. The rates are 5.7 percent for all four-year public colleges in the United States and 7.3 percent for all types of institutions in California.

National loan default statistics are on the World Wide Web at <http://www.ed.gov/offices/OSFAP/defaultmanagement/cdr.html>. □

Math talk by Shapiro planned for Thursday

Jonathan Shapiro, assistant professor of mathematics, will present "Kernels of Hankel Operators and Hyponormality of Toeplitz Operators" from 4:10 to 5 p.m. Thursday (Nov. 2) in Room 253 of the Pilling Computer Science Building.

The talk, part of the Mathematics Colloquium series, will be aimed at an audience familiar with the basics of operator theory and functions of a complex variable.

For more information, call the Mathematics Department at ext. 6-2206. □

Distinguished Teachers to talk on motivation

The Faculty Development office will kick off the 2000-2001 Brown-Bag Lunch Series at noon Nov. 8 with a panel discussion by last year's winners of the Distinguished Teacher award.

Panelists are Mike Geringer of the Global Strategy and Law Area in the College of Business; Brent Hallock, Soil Science, College of Agriculture; and Clint Staley, Computer Science, College of Engineering.

The faculty members will talk about how they motivate themselves and their students.

The hour-long event will be in the Veranda Café Conference Room. Lunch will be provided to those who make reservations by Monday (Nov. 6). For reservations, call Cathy Joubert at ext. 6-2227. □

Miami Herald exec editor speaks at Journalism event

The executive editor of the Miami Herald, Martin Baron, spoke on multiculturalism and the media in the new economy in his keynote address at the recent Journalism Department Career Day.

Career Day also included a panel discussion led by CNN's Paul Vercammen titled "Getting Inline in an Online World." Panelists included representatives from the Industry Standard, Freedom Communications/Orange County Register, Fleishman & Hillard, the San Jose Mercury News, People Magazine, the Inland Valley Times/Los Angeles Times and Veritas.

Cal Poly alumni George Ramos, a three-time Pulitzer-prize-winning Los Angeles Times staff member, and Tracy Campbell, vice president of Hill & Knowlton Public Relations, also attended, as well as representatives from the Associated Press, the San Luis Obispo Tribune, the Santa Cruz Sentinel, the Santa Barbara News-Press, the Monterey Herald, the San Francisco Chronicle, KCOY-TV, Digitrends, KFI Radio, KEYT, ABC News, KTLA, KNBC, KCOP, Ketchum, Porter-Novelli and Big Development. □

Campus will be closed for Veterans' Day, Nov. 10

'Supporting Intellectual Life' topic of Lyceum lecture

Philip Agre, associate professor of information studies at UCLA, will present "Supporting the Intellectual Life of a Democratic Society" as part of the Lyceum lecture series at 7 p.m. Nov. 15 in Philips Hall in the Performing Arts Center.

Agre's current research and the focus of his talk explore the impact of emerging information technologies on privacy policy, the "networked university," and individual autonomy.

"He is especially interested in the distinctions between knowledge and information," said Harry Hellenbrand, dean of the College of Liberal Arts, "and he has proposed numerous strategies for resisting the mass standardization that too easily flows from mass media, digital and otherwise."

Agre is the author of "Computation and Human Experience" and co-editor of "Technology and Privacy: The New Landscape," "Reinventing Technology, Rediscovering Community: Critical Studies in Computing as a Social Practice," and "Computational Theories of Interaction and Agency."

The presentation is sponsored by the College of Liberal Arts, the Kennedy Library and the Information Technology Services office. For more information, call the college office at ext. 6-2706. □

Upcoming holidays mean CPR deadlines to change

Please note the Cal Poly Report is changing the deadline for two upcoming issues because the campus will be closed for Veterans' Day, Nov. 10, and for the Thanksgiving holiday, Nov. 23-24.

Items are due to Public Affairs by 10 a.m. Tuesday (Nov. 7) for the Nov. 15 issue and by 10 a.m. Nov. 20 for the Nov. 29 issue.

Please also note that the Dec. 6 edition is the final one for fall quarter. The Cal Poly Report is not published during quarter break. Winter quarter publication will resume Jan. 10.

Items can be e-mailed to polynews @polymail, faxed to ext. 6-6533, or mailed to Public Affairs, Heron Hall.

For more information call ext. 6-1511. □

Kennedy Library to celebrate GIS Day

The campus community is invited to stop by the Kennedy Library to learn how GIS (Geographic Information Systems) can be used for teaching and learning across the curriculum during GIS Day 2000, an event that will be celebrated globally on Nov. 15, during Geography Awareness Week.

GIS is a powerful problem-solving and decision-making tool. Digital maps and statistical databases can be combined, manipulated, analyzed and presented visually. Several events are scheduled.

• During November: "Geographic Information Systems: Problem-Solving Across the Curriculum," an exhibit of potential applications of GIS in the six colleges and the University Center for Teacher Education, will be on display in the library's front lobby.

• Nov. 15: English Professor Steven Marx and Social Sciences Assistant Professor Max Moritz will give a presentation, "Mapping Cal Poly Land: A Sense of Place," noon-1 p.m. in Room 111-H in the library. The presentation is sponsored by the Faculty Development office.

• Nov. 15: "Showcase of Student GIS Projects," featuring students Tina Antonio, landscape architecture; Marcelo Espiritu, natural resources management; Chandra Slaven, city and regional planning; and Jim Strampe, biological sciences, will be exhibited 1-2:30 p.m. in the library's rear lobby.

For more information, contact Sariya Talip Clay at ext. 6-6244 or sclay@calpoly.edu. □

CAP update

Editor's note: The following is one in a series of periodic updates by the Campus Administrative Policies (CAP) Ad Hoc Editorial Review and Coordination Committee about the ongoing review and update of campus administrative policies.

- New draft policies: Draft policies have been reviewed by the CAP committee and approved for legal and presidential review. They are not yet official policies of the university but are posted on the CAP Web site to facilitate campus review. Comments and questions are invited.

- New interim policies: Interim policies have received legal and presidential review and approval. They are official policies of the university but will be posted on the CAP Web site in "interim" form for one month. Campus questions and comments are invited.

- New final policies: Interim policies become final policies of the university after one month if no additional comments and questions are received. Comments and questions will be reviewed by the CAP Committee, which will consider and recommend any necessary policy revisions. As policies progress to final status, that will be noted on the CAP Web site.

- Newly retired CAM policies: Selected CAM (Campus Administrative Manual) policies will be retired as new policies progress to interim status and take their place as official university policy. Newly retired CAM policies will be reported each month and a comprehensive list of retired CAM policies will be posted on the CAP Web Site (See <http://policy.calpoly.edu/cap/finalTOC.htm>). Until retired, all CAM policies and Administrative Bulletins will remain in effect as official university policies.

Paper copies of all interim and final Campus Administrative Policies will be provided on request by the Kennedy Library Reserve Desk.

During November, the following policies have been posted. See <http://policy.calpoly.edu/capdraft/draftTOC.htm>.

Mattea tickets on sale

Kathy Mattea

Tickets are on sale for country music star Kathy Mattea, who will return to the Performing Arts Center's Cohan Center on Feb 19.

For more than 15 years, Mattea has been winning top music awards, including five Country Music Association awards, two Grammys, and four Academy of Country Music awards.

Her 20 hit singles, including "Goin' Gone," "18 Wheels and a Dozen Roses," "Come from the Heart," "Burnin' Old Memories," and "Where Have You Been?," have reached the Top 10 or the No. 1 slot.

Tickets to this Cal Poly Arts Center Stage event are $20 to $32. □

'Midsummer Night's Dream to open theatre season

Magic abounds, fairies fly through the air, and lovers fight and unite. Dreams become reality, and reality becomes a dream.

It all happens in Shakespeare's comedy, "A Midsummer Night's Dream," which opens the Theatre and Dance Department's 2000-2001 season. Performances are set for 8 p.m. Nov. 9-11 and 16-18 in the Theatre.

Director and faculty member Erma Stauffer said she wants theater-goers to experience the delight and magic that abound in the play — qualities she feels the world needs more of today. As a dance lover, Stauffer wanted to bring that element into the production and selected cast members for both their dramatic abilities and their affinity for dance and movement.

Tickets for "A Midsummer Night's Dream" are $8 for students and senior citizens and $9 for the public. Groups of 20 or more will receive a $1 discount.

The Nov. 10 performance will feature a "talk back" with the actors and a backstage tour, by reservation only. Reservations for the talk-back and tour can be made by calling ext. 6-1465. □

Students sponsoring 'Coats-'n-Cans' drive

Students in a Small Group Communication class are sponsoring "Coats 'n Cans," a Nov. 2-12 clothing and food drive for the homeless.

"This holiday season, there are many people who will be on the streets, cold and hungry," said student and event organizer Laura Hartman. "This is a socially significant project for our class. The goal is to collect warm clothing, non-perishable food and canned goods to donate to the Salvation Army."

Donations can be dropped off in marked bins at the Albertson's stores on Foothill Boulevard and Madonna Road, Vons on Broad Street, and the Campus Market.

For more information, call Hartman at 786-4232. □

Cal Poly to celebrate National Chemistry Week

The Chemistry and Biochemistry Department will demonstrate that "great chemistry is everywhere, especially in the kitchen" when it celebrates National Chemistry Week on Friday (Nov. 3) in the Performing Arts Center Pavilion.

Senior project students have designed an interactive "Kitchen Chemistry" extravaganza to which they have invited 300 third-grade students from Paso Robles, Atascadero, San Luis Obispo, Oceano, Shandon and Santa Maria.

Cal Poly employees are invited to join the festivities from 9 to 11 a.m., 11 a.m.-1 p.m., and 1-3 p.m. To gain admission, please bring a non-perishable food item, which will be donated to the Women's Shelter of San Luis Obispo.

For more information, e-mail Mui Ly at mly@calpoly.edu or call faculty member Theresa Bolanos at ext. 6-2395. □

Resolving conflict focus of EAP training

The Employee Assistance Program is offering a 90-minute video training session, "Learning the Five Strategies to Resolve Conflict," from 8:30 to 10 a.m. Nov. 16 in the Veranda Café. Participants will watch a short video, analyze several case scenarios, and receive a booklet designed to help individuals resolve conflict both at work and at home.

For more information and to enroll, call ext. 6-0327. □

A diamond in the rough . . .

This gem is just one of the fields at Cal Poly's new Sports Complex.

New panelist to join national election forum

David Davenport, chief executive officer of Christianity.com and an expert in presidential campaigns and elections, will join a panel of six other analysts with special insight into the election process to discuss the factors underlying the Nov. 7 election and its implications for the future at the next Cal Poly Forum Nov. 14.

Davenport is replacing the Rev. Barry Lynn, executive director of Americans United for Separation of Church and State, who had to cancel his appearance.

The Good, The Bad, and Election 2000 will be from 8 to 10:30 p.m. in the Performing Arts Center's Cohan Center.

Davenport will be joined on the forum panel by:

- Frank Berry, West Coast regional director, NAACP;
- Steven Hill, West Coast regional director, Center for Voting Democracy;
- Peter King, syndicated columnist at the Los Angeles Times;
- Carla Marinucci, political writer and analyst at the San Francisco Chronicle;
- Judy Muller, national correspondent for ABC News; and
- Frank Newport, editor-in-chief, Gallup Poll.

This is the fourth forum in a series that Cal Poly began in February 1999 to explore important issues of the day with panelists noted for their expertise.

Seating will be on a first-come basis. □

Educational policy expert to address art in education

Stanford University professor of education and well-known art and educational policy expert Elliot Eisner will be the featured speaker at the Fall 2000 Educational Policy Symposium on Nov. 14.

His talk, "Can Current Reform Efforts Give Us Schools That Educate?," will be at 4:30 p.m. in Chumash Auditorium. Eisner believes that art might offer teachers both a powerful guide and a critical tool, according to Carol Barnes, advancement director for the University Center for Teacher Education.

Eisner has taught at Stanford University since 1965. He has written more than 300 articles and chapters and 15 books.

Cal Poly's third Educational Policy Symposium is designed for all public school teachers and administrators as well as Cal Poly students interested in educational policy issues.

"Because Dr. Eisner will focus his talk on the recent spate of standards issued by the State of California as well as the efficacy of testing to standards in the schools, this presentation should be of special interest to teachers and administrators at all levels of education," said Barnes.

The Educational Policy Symposiums are sponsored by the University Center for Teacher Education and the Political Science Department.

For more information call Barnes at ext. 6-5934. □

CAL POLY

CENTENNIAL CELEBRATION

To commemorate Cal Poly's Centennial, we are running this column of university history, upcoming Centennial events and additional tidbits that we hope you find interesting. The editors thank University Archives for providing much of the historical information.

Historical Highlights

1901 - 2001

- Compulsory military training for men begins in 1916 in response to state legislation. Military discipline and uniforms are required in the dormitories as well as the classrooms.
- The Polygram, the school newspaper, begins publication in 1916. The paper is issued every two weeks.
- Enrollment drops in the years 1917-21 because of WWI. Remaining students participate in war relief projects. Almost 150 students join the armed forces. California Polytechnic School provides special education opportunities for several hundred disabled war veterans.
- A Commercial Department is established in 1921 to offer courses in bookkeeping, typing and advertising.
- The Board of Trustees, composed of local businessmen, selects Nicholas Ricciardi as president in 1921.

STATE: For a complete listing of employment opportunities for state staff and management positions, you can:

- Check Cal Poly's Web site at www.calpoly.edu. Select "Employment" from the Cal Poly links drop-down box;
 - Come to the HREE office, Adm. 110, and view the posted positions;
 - Call the HREE Job Line at ext. 6-1533.
- For a listing of new openings, check The Tribune's Sunday edition.

Please note that applications for job openings must be received in the Human Resources and Employment Equity office, Adm. 110, by 5 p.m. on the closing date. Envelopes postmarked by the deadline will not be accepted.

If you have questions, please call HREE at ext. 6-2237.

FACULTY Candidates are asked to contact the appropriate department office at the phone number listed for more information or to request an application. Additional information and qualifications for each position may also be obtained online at <http://www.academic-personnel.calpoly.edu>. Please submit all application materials to the department head/chair unless otherwise specified in the ad. Rank and salary are commensurate with qualifications and experience (and time base where applicable), unless otherwise stated.

#13032: Tenure-track Assistant/Associate/Full Professor, Computer Science Dept. (ext. 6-2824). Closing date: Jan. 16.

#13036: Lecturer, Full Time, Statistics Dept. (ext. 6-2709). Closing date: Feb. 23.

#13038: Tenure-track Assistant Professor, Art and Design Dept. (ext. 6-1148). Closing date: Jan. 16.

#13039: Tenure-track Assistant/Associate/Full Professor, Electrical Engineering Dept. (ext. 6-2781). Closing date: Jan. 16. □

Nov. 7 Books at High Noon presentation cancelled

The Nov. 7 Books at High Noon presentation on Andres Dubus's "House of Sand and Fog" has been cancelled. The next talk is set for Nov. 13, when retired electrical engineering professor Richard Dickey will review "Voodoo Science" by Rober. Park.

"Voodoo Science" exposes erroneous work and fraud publicized by the media, including false cancer cures and nonexistent cancer causes.

All presentations begin at 12:10 p.m. in the Veranda Café. For more information about the program, including how to participate as a reviewer, contact Phil Fetzer, ext. 6147 or pfetzer@calpoly.edu. □

Extended Education to offer wine-making class

Extended Education is offering an Introduction to Wine-Making class 9 a.m.-4 p.m. Dec. 2 and 9.

Taught by Steve Rasmussen, the class will cover the basics of wine making with a class scheduled at Talley Vineyard in Arroyo Grande.

The class is part of the Wine Industry Certificate Program and costs $140 for certificate enrollees, $150 for others.

For a complete course listing and descriptions go to Extended Education's Web site at www.calpoly.edu/~exted.

For more information and to register, call Extended Education at ext. 6-2053. □

Students registering queried on athletics

To comply with the CSU CAL-NOW consent decree, Cal Poly students were asked the following question when they registered for fall 2000 classes: "Do you have the interest and ability to participate in NCAA athletics?"

Twenty-eight percent responded "yes," 65 percent "no," and 7 percent declined to answer.

In fall 1999, 20 percent responded "yes," 57 percent answered "no," and 23 percent declined to answer.

Academic Records, the department responsible for student registration, will ask students this question each year. □
