

Developed Card Stunts:

Democracy In Action At County Fairs, Says Russ

Russ Pettit, secretary-manager of the Santa Clara County Fair and nationally known authority on fair management and promotion, will address a joint Poly Royal board-department heads meeting in the Engineering auditorium next Tuesday evening.

According to Poly Royal General Superintendent Don Love, Pettit will describe fair and exhibition features suitable for Cal Poly's own "country fair on a college campus". The meeting has been opened to the public.

Pettit, who was cited recently for his outstanding fair work by the Saturday Evening Post, is widely known for his promotional stunts. He helped develop the football card stunt system at the University of Chicago and has since developed the rolling stage now in common use for grandstand and bleacher productions.

His promotional stunts have included everything from polka-dotted horses and Samoan fire-eaters to camel races and goat milking contests featuring local civic leaders.

American Heritage

Pettit believes that fairs are a part of America's heritage and says, "A fair is democracy in action. After all, what is a democracy but the liberty to be crazy over something, each in his own way?"

"Where can you find democracy on display more dramatically than at a country fair? In this country competition starts almost as soon as you learn to walk—in marbles, tops, kite flying, athletics, then lifework and hobbies.

Judged by Peers

"In half an hour's stroll around the country fair you can see all ages and many races having their chance to show what they can do in competition and being judged by their peers, whether it is raising prized Herefords, baking pies, knitting afghans, eating watermelons, throwing papers, making jelly or painting landscapes. Whether the grand prize is a thousand dollars or a twenty cent blue ribbon with gold letters on it, it doesn't matter—the opportunity to excel in something is there."

Males Wanted For Poly Royal Escorts

Would you like to be King for a Day—with a queen or at the very least a princess all your own?

That's the chance the Poly Royal board is giving the old Poly Mustang this year. They are throwing the very important job of Poly Royal queen and princess escort wide open to all comers.

Well, not all comers. But interested parties from the general student body may make their bids. Final selection of escorts will be made by a committee under the watchful eye of assistant activity officer Mally Stevens.

Local wolves may obtain further details from Miss Stevens, queen's committee chairman Ed Mevin, or Poly Royal superintendent Don Love.

Bob Bolman In Fair Condition After Car Wreck On Hy. 1

Robert E. Bolman, 24, junior AH major, from San Jose, was reported in fair condition at the San Luis Obispo General hospital, following an auto accident on Highway 1 last Sunday night.

Bolman was thrown from his Jaguar when he failed to make a sharp "S" turn three miles east of Morro Bay. The California Highway Patrol reported that the car was traveling at a high rate of speed when the accident occurred.

Even Guinea Pigs Get In The Act At "Learn By Doing" Poly

Even the laboratory specimens are learning mathematics at "learn by doing" Cal Poly. At least, the 16 guinea pigs recently brought to the biological science department are learning to multiply.

Presenting the animals to Dr. Glen A. Noble, head of the department, a Paso Robles woman told him an ambitious salesman had convinced her that if she paid two dollars for each of the beasts all she would need to do would be to sit back and wait for her dividends to roll in from sale of the young to laboratories and similar outlets. The only trouble: Nothing happened.

Dr. Noble's latest report: Something finally happened. The department now has 43.

South Africa Topic For Dr. Einstein

"South Africa, the Ungovernable Country", will be the subject of a speech by Dr. Norbert Einstein, first cousin of Albert Einstein, who will appear before a joint meeting of the Cal Poly student body and the World Affairs Council of San Luis Obispo at 8 p.m. this evening in the Engineering auditorium.

Einstein, born and educated in Germany where he received his Ph. D. in economics from the University of Frankfurt, has since acted as an advisor in the field of foreign trade and foreign investment in both England and the United States.

Award Presented To Five Outstanding AH Seniors

Five outstanding animal husbandry seniors were honored last night at the sixth annual Boots and Spurs club award banquet at the Veteran's Memorial building.

Lyman L. Hennion, AH department head, made the awards to Lester Emigh, Rio Vista; Lloyd Hokit, McFarland; Burt Caldwell, Redding; Jerry Biggs, Sacramento, and Dan Kennedy, San Mateo.

Burt Caldwell, president of the Boots and Spurs club, acted as Master of Ceremonies for the evening.

The names of the year's outstanding seniors will be placed on a bronze plaque.

Awards were presented to the livestock judging teams that won the three western inter-collegiate contests this season.

Members of the judging team receiving awards were: Roy Fellows, Modesto; Bert Thurnher, El Monte; Len Emigh, Rio Vista; Bill Corkill, Fallon, Nev.; Jerry Biggs, Sacramento; Lloyd Hokit, McFarland; Dan Kennedy, San Mateo; Warren Vander Hule, Petaluma, and Gordon Dick, Santa Rosa.

Showmanship awards for last year's Poly Royal were also presented. David Gage, Los Angeles, received the award for beef; Charles Jacobson, Redding, sheep; and Al Wellington, Monrovia, swine.

Featured speaker of the evening was John Baumgartner from Hollister. Baumgartner is past president of the California Cattlemen's association, and a prominent rancher in Santa Clara and San Benito counties.

Music Tour Draws Near

Sunday morning, March 20, the Glee Club and Collegians will leave on their annual spring tour for six days in the San Francisco area. A few of the 20 places the 59 men, including Harold P. Davidson, director, will visit are Redwood City, Salinas, San Jose, and Alameda Air Station.

The preparation for the tour involves much hard work, says Davidson. There is a basic pattern followed each year. First the area is picked. Then in June, of the year previous, letters are sent out to prospective schools in the chosen area. After the letters have been sent, Graduate Manager Harry Wineroth takes a trip to the area to contact the schools in person. This is usually done before Christmas vacation. Upon his return, he schedules the tour on paper, correlating it with the letters received. After the schedule is complete, contracts are sent to the schools, and the tour is under way.

Transportation Cost

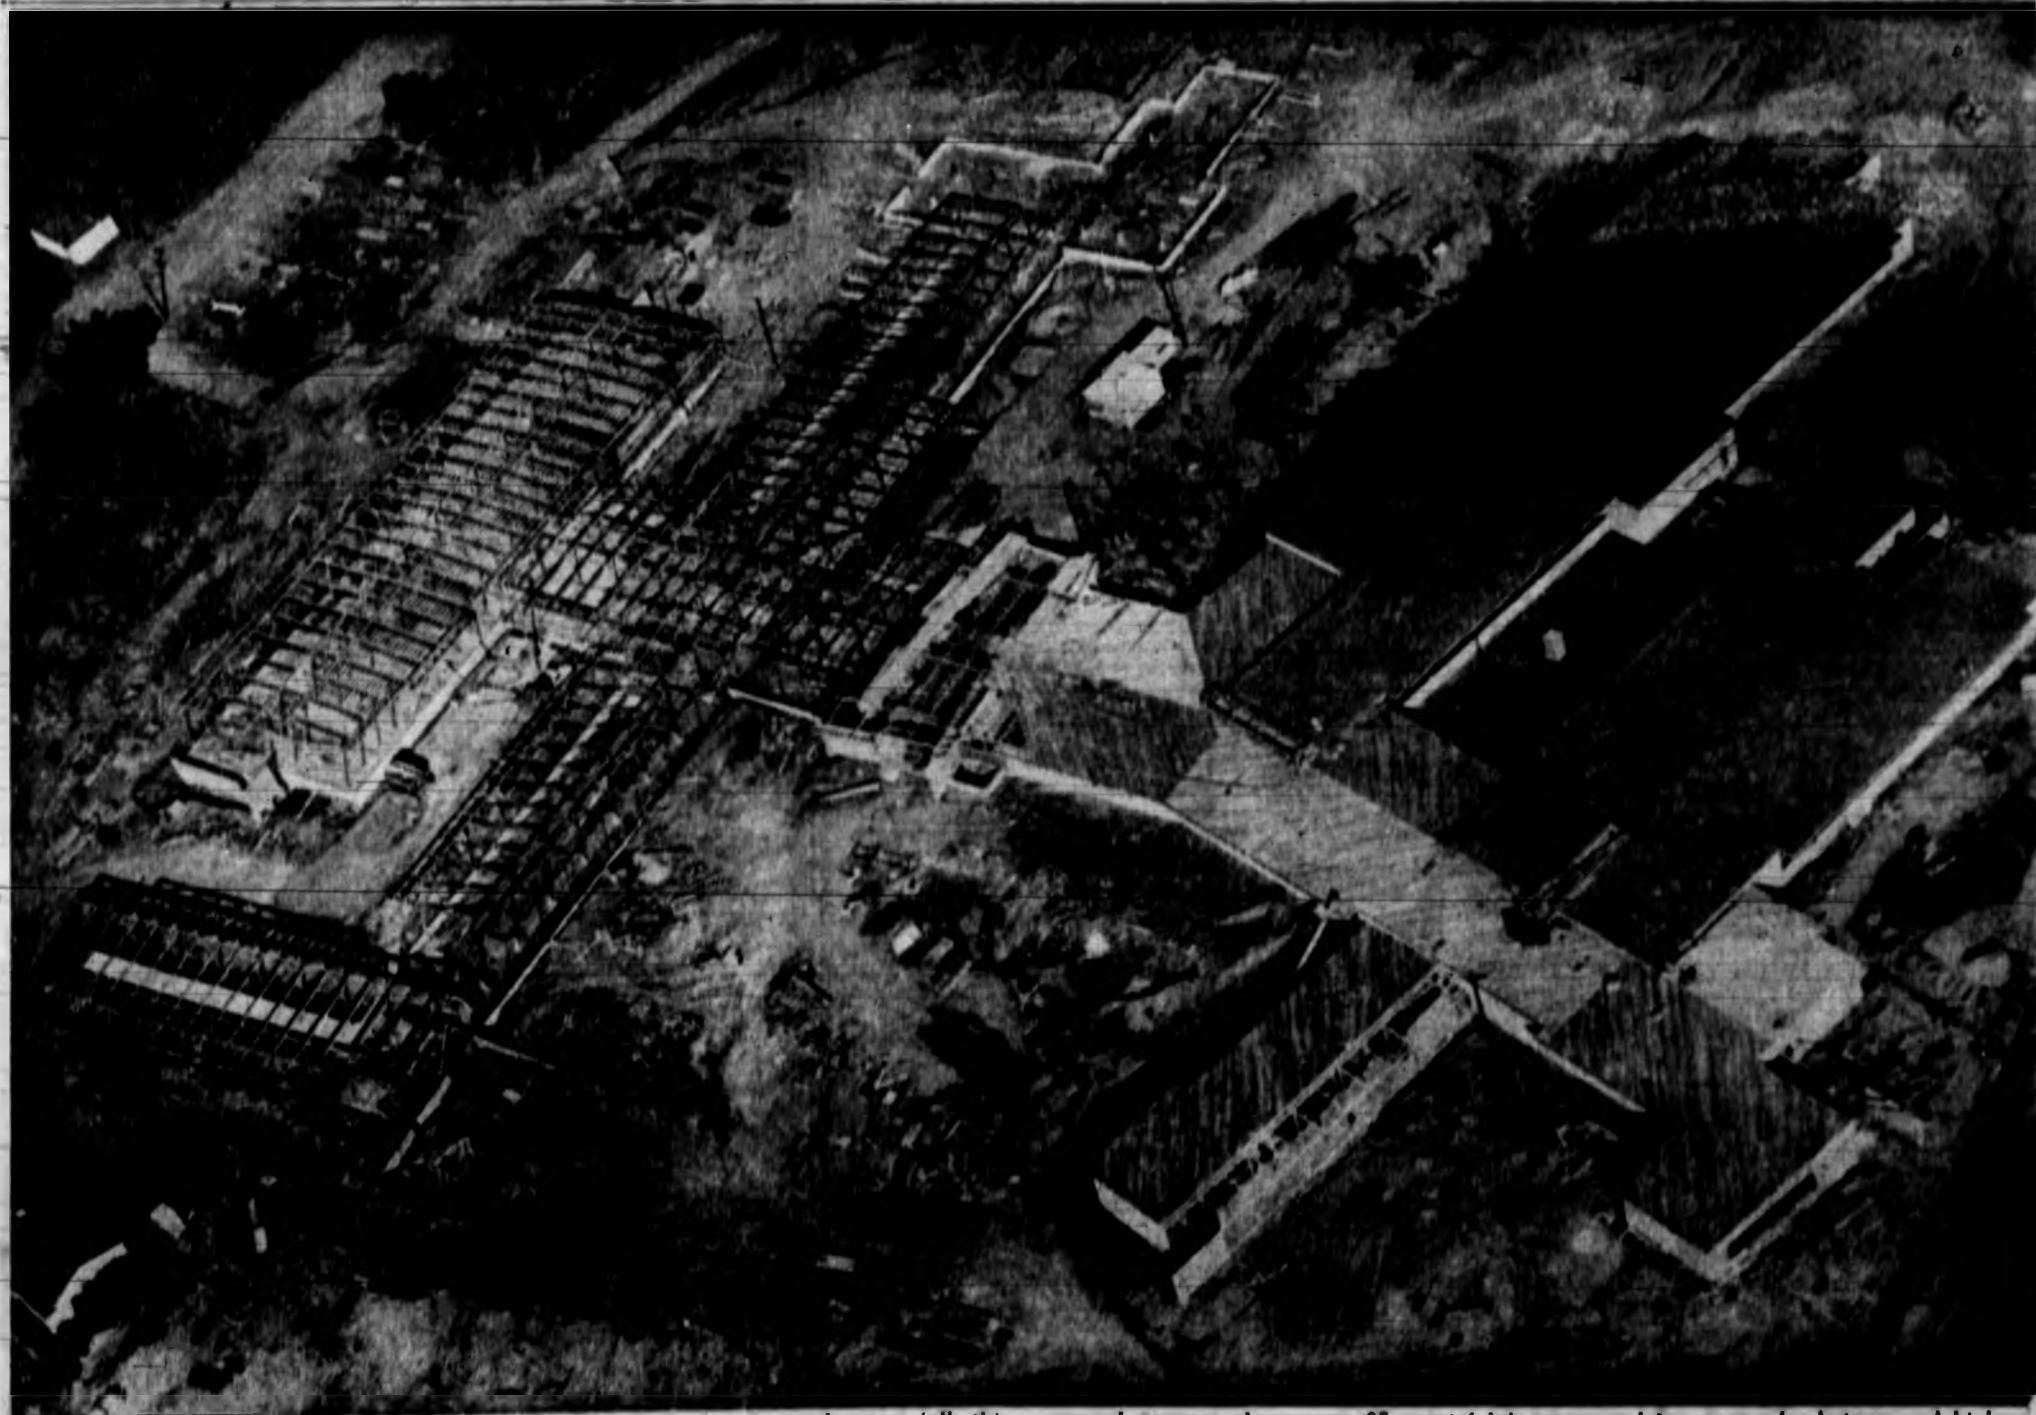

As everyone can't participate because of the costs and transportation problems, participation on the tour is determined, in the Glee Club, by various factors. The primary factor is the knowledge of the music. Tryouts are held toward the end of February. The second main factor is that of grades. All men who participate must have the minimum of a 1.00 GPA. There are other minor factors, but they are relatively unimportant, continues Davidson. From the 55 men in the Glee Club, this is a very satisfactory way of choosing the 40 men who do go.

Each program on the tour may vary as to content because of the time or other circumstances which may arise. Throughout the week three or four stunts are used to fill up for various backstage activities. It is an on-the-spot decision as to which stunt shall be used for the particular program. The Majors and Minors and the Quartet, both formed of men from within the Glee Club, each give several selections during the program.

Big Attraction

In the middle of the program the Collegians play a group of numbers. They are always a big attraction at the high schools on the tour. Also from time to time, throughout the week, dances are given at which the Collegians play. These are always crowded with students from the schools played previously, who have heard the band play at assemblies. The Glee Club has an opportunity, at these dances, to answer questions and to promote Cal Poly.

A BIG SKELETON GETS COVERED—Expected to be ready for classes by next fall, this huge and sprawling science building—having a seating capacity of over 1200 students—has an outside area of a mile and a half. The main corridor will stretch 500 feet with a cross corridor of 400 feet. As shown in the picture, there are five floor levels leading from the main structure. The building will have office space for 42 instructors with 12 general purpose classrooms, 27 special lab rooms and two rooms for botany and biology purposes. According to Dr. Robert J. Rodin, botany instructor, the museum part of the building will eventually have a representative of every plant and animal in the world. (Photo by Jim Dearing taken from a plane piloted by James F. Merson, head of the agricultural engineering department).

Course In Etiquette Seen, Says Stevens

"It is possible to run a social etiquette course in the evening adult education program at the high school," assistant activities officer Sally Stevens said this week.

She added that the course could be geared to both the single students and the married students and their wives, and that two separate courses could be taught if there is enough diversity in subject matter and interest by both groups.

"There must be at least 30 people in attendance each week and the cost would be $1 from Feb. to June," Miss Stevens added.

Interested individuals may sign up in the ASB office.

Research Engineer To Meet With IAS

Dr. W. B. Klemperer, head research engineer of Douglas Aircraft at Santa Monica and one of the United States highest recognized authorities on sailplanes, will speak to the Institute of Aeronautical Science, Cal Poly student branch, on sailplanes in the service of scientific research.

The IAS will have their business meeting Feb. 17 at 7:30 p.m. in Lib. 114. Dr. Klemperer will follow with his movies and slides. The doctor, who was one of the highest authorities of German aircraft before World War II, will hold a discussion period after the showing of his films.

The major part of the business meeting will concern the matter of the student conference to be held May 11, 12, and 13, at the IAS building in Los Angeles. Lester Gustafson, department head, and 25 students are expected to attend.

ZIEMER FUND

Dave Ziemer, Poly alumnus and outstanding athlete in 1958 is seriously ill, and is at present, a patient at a Fresno hospital. A fund raising campaign will be in progress soon, which will be highlighted by a benefit basketball game with the Santa Maria Dukes. Any donation to the Dave Ziemer fund may be deposited with the El Corral bookkeeper.

Poly Vue For Dimas Campus Slated Soon

The fifth annual Cal Poly Agricultural Education Field Day is to be held Saturday, April 2, at the Kellogg Unit of Cal Poly, student Chairman Don Campbell announced this week.

Contests in livestock judging, horticultural skills, tractor driving, seed and feed identification, hay loading, vegetable crop judging, pest identification, and citrus judging will be held during the morning.

A three-hour program has been lined up for the afternoon and will include the introduction of the Cal Poly queen, presentation of awards, a band concert, and acts from the famous Kellogg Arabian horse show. One of the outstanding events of the day will be the well known tractor square dance presented by the tractor rodeo team from Cal Poly's San Luis Obispo campus.

More than $400 worth of trophies and ribbons will be awarded.

More than 1000 high school and junior college students from southern California are expected to attend.

Sunspots Observed From Poly Campus

Cal Poly has a Palomar dorm, but not a Palomar Observatory. But even at that, astronomical phenomena may be observed from Cal Poly.

Sunspots were observed recently, both directly through a filter, and with the projected image, by three Cal Poly students, only one of whom was a physical science major.

Jesse Platts, PSc graduate student, George Kelton, sophomore math major, and Garth Jaehrig, senior math major, are the would-be astronomers.

They reported that one of the spots was about the size of the earth. Both had the black inner part and the lighter outer part, and were clearly visible. The other spot was in the opposite hemisphere of the sun and was very small.

Learn by Doing

Robert Carrick, OH senior at San Dimas wrote his senior thesis on "The Establishment of a nursery in the San Clemente Area." Now the student will have an opportunity to put his schooling to work. In January Carrick, with former Poly student Charles Lauderbaugh of Pasadena, opened a nursery called "Shore Gardens" in San Clemente.

Scientifically fed beef of extra quality is available at the Meat Lab, says AH instructor Roy Harris. Orders are accepted for quarters, halves or whole beef, cut wrapped and frozen to specifications. Orders may be placed by calling extension 228 or 223.

Corn On Central Coast

William Troutner, Warren Smith, John Talbott, and Paul Dougherty attended a meeting to promote the growing of corn in the central coast area last week. The meeting was sponsored by the DeKalb Company and the C. M. Volkman Company with Pat Cunningham, Cal Poly graduate who works for the latter firm, as one of the speakers.

"Broiler Growing", the national magazine serving the $800,000,000 broiler industry, carried an article by Hernal Bailey, Poly instructor, entitled "How Much Does It Cost To Grow Broilers", in its February issue.

Social Science Plans

Social science majors were to gather at a luncheon meeting today in cafeteria No. 1 to formulate plans for their 1955 Poly Royal display. Officers of the organization, representing some 40 majors enrolled include Dick Andrews of Santa Maria, president; Bill Gunn of Fullerton, vice-president; and Ralph Jarrett of San Luis Obispo, secretary.

Engineering Exams

Engineering students are reminded that March 1 is the final deadline to file application for the next semi-annual examinations in engineer-in-training, professional registration, and land surveyor. Students are urged to file earlier than this date if possible. The deadline applies to all applicants—both new and those who have previously taken the examination.

Cal Poly Receives Soils Scholarship

Cal Poly will be the recipient of the William L. and Dorothy B. Jonson scholarship in soil sciences, providing for one or more annual $500 grants to finance demonstrations of horticultural techniques and practices, it was revealed recently.

The announcement came jointly from Cal Poly's president Julian A. McPhar and Mrs. Dorothy B. Jonson, widow of the late "Dr. Bill" Jonson, founder of the manufacturer of horticultural chemical products.

Jonson was known as a horticultural lecturer throughout the United States and was a leading proponent of soil conservation and natural conditioning of the soil.

Selection of the student who will be awarded the first scholarship is expected within the next month.

Smith's Plight At Poly Not Easy One For Four Smiths

How would you like to share your post office box with four other people with exactly the same name? Well Bob Smith does. In fact he shares it with Bob Smith, Bob Smith, and Bob Smith. Confusing? It sure is to these boys. Smith, even though it's only the third most common name, is the most confusing to the campus post office because of these four fellows with the same first name.

When asked how they could possibly separate their mail, Bob L. replied, "We just have to look at the return address and decide which one of us the letter is for. Sometimes," he added, "mail lays in the box for days and even weeks before one of us discovers it's for him." Bob says that his wife was not at all confused at using so common a name just after they were married. "Her maiden name was Jones," he said.

Other Bob Smiths at Cal Poly are Bob E., Bob H., and Bob F. Bob E. says that the only real trouble he ever had with his name was in high school. "They used to get my grades mixed up with another Bob Smith's," he said. "And it wasn't always to my advantage."

Surprisingly enough the most common name on campus isn't Smith, nor Jones, nor Brown. "Johnson" wins the title of the most common name with 22 listings in the student directory. This is followed by 19 Smiths, 16 Browns, and 11 Jones.

The Offbeat

By Litch

The big event coming up is the Home Concert to be held April 21 and 22 in the high school auditorium. It's a date to mark on your calendar. The usual two hour program will be presented by the Glee Club and Collegians. The Majors and Minors and Quartet, as well as stunts and soloists, will be featured. Toward the middle of May the records will be on sale. They will be sold, this year, by the members of the department at various spots around campus. Be sure to get yours as the supply will be limited.

The International Relations club dance was very successful. The Collegians' repertoire included "Pennsylvania 6-5000," "Boogie Blues," and "Jersey Rouser." Everyone had a fine time dancing to their music. They also enjoyed the expertly prepared "shikabab."

The Glee Club's program for the Young Farmers Convention at the Veterans Memorial went very well. Norbert Brule, head student director, opened the program with "Kiss High You Mustangs!!" Other songs included: "Bach Choral," "Gloria Patri," and "Ugly Woman" with Bob Verdugo, soloist.

Rumors say that school spirit is lacking. This was proven last Thursday night at the game. The pep band is there for your enjoyment and to provide added school spirit. So what happened? As the band was breaking into the strains of the Alma Mater, people were already out of the stands!! Let's everybody stay in the stands until "All Hail Green and Gold" is finished. Let's all sing too!!

College Quips...

WHISTLE WHILE YOU WORK

Special study music is being offered to College of Pacific students in Stockton. Radio station KCVN, during final week only, is offering "real soothing" study music from 8:00-10:00 nightly. The station advises to "sit back in a comfy chair, and study, Study, STUDY!"

50,000 signatures is the goal of a student committee at Arizona State college. The students through a petition to the state legislator, hope to change their name to UNIVERSITY of Arizona. The committee is making plans for a business-to-business, house-to-house canvass of Phoenix, Mesa, and Tempe, Arizona. Maybe we could start a petition for the University of San Luis Obispo???

WHY WORK?

Information leading to the arrest of any Stockton College student who attempts to peddle narcotics at Stockton College is worth $50. The student newspaper, the Collegian, is offering the reward.

HUNGRY? YOU BET!

Six UCLA coeds are on a daily diet of mufin, vitamin pills, mineral pills, protein pills, and butter-scotch pudding. No, they're not on a reducing diet, but it's all in the interest of science. The project is being carried on through the home economics department (sounds economical anyway) to determine body requirements for certain amino acids, the building block of protein. In a similar experiment last semester the girls neither lost or gained weight. Oh, now and then they're treated with a half a dozen gum drops.

TV STARS TOO

Did you know that the Cal Poly San Jose basketball game was televised? Station KVOB-TV which reportedly reaches 40 per cent of California, broadcast the tilt of January 27.

Many people have come to me and asked, "What happened to our team in Fresno last weekend"...well we wondered also, so here is the answer we have landed upon...we realize there will be a few people who will get "shook" because of the following statements but if they sit down and think about it maybe they will decide this is exactly what they needed...for those who don't know about the situation, there turned up a temperamental hoop genius...in our opinion it gets pretty bad when a player's pride stands in the way of a championship for his college...sure this sounds like a real red hot attitude but why is an individual playing any sport??? he must have some feeling for the team he is playing...at least we would think most coaches would hope so...it also appears to us that losing the Fresno game was also throwing away any good chances we had for a CCAA championship...it is possible to reach the top but in our opinion not very probable...personally if we were a coach we would much rather play with five fairly good ball players than three strings of all-american prima donnas...with a certain player in the Fresno tilt we had a good chance of again walking away with the top score...but his pride was hurt and he showed the squad exactly what they could do without him...we lost...it is surprising to us that anyone on the team tolerates him...with due respect to the coach we would like to explain that Coach Ed Jorgensen did do without him and played almost the entire game with other individuals...the Mustangs were beaten in the last five seconds by a field goal but they were not beaten in guts...we think each and every one of you realize it is not easy to keep one of your best men on the bench when you are losing the game, so for this reason we wish to commend Jorgensen...our only hope is the athlete has learned his lesson and will, in the future, play to his best ability for the squad and for himself.

Football season is far from the present but we have a good tip that the 1955 Mustang squad is going to be one of the best...many top gridders among the junior college transfers and you can tell why the "Silver Fox" is going around grinning to himself.

Rugby is still being talked up around here but it seems the only ones interested in the sport are the student's...appears from this side, that some member of the administration would be interested enough to donate some time helping the potential players get organized...from those in the know, rugby is considered one of the best possible ways to get in shape for the other bodily contact sports...let's not give up now when so many students have the interest...let's get a coach and do something about it.

The boxing squad will have a real tough test of their ability when they meet the Wolfpack of Nevada tomorrow night in Crandall gym...your support might mean the difference between a win or a loss...how about some spirit and support from the campus enthusiasts or is the Mustang all tired out???

Our wrestling squad has currently, a top record for the 1955 grappling season and with some more car trouble etc. we may hit the top...it seems the Green and Gold team has had lady luck riding with them...the first match against San Jose state saw the Spartans wind up without a few of their wrestlers and the Mustangs held them to a draw—by forfeit...the next match was against San Diego state and the Poly grapplers captured the meet, 28-11—by forfeit...with the PCI wrestling tourney coming up in March it seems the Poly squad might have a good chance to place near the top, that is—by forfeit.

Just another wild guess but do not be surprised if, in the near future, you see the Mustangs have signed with San Jose state for a three year football contract...don't be surprised if you don't see it either.

Opening the 1955 baseball season the Cal Poly Mustangs received a turnout of 40 men for the present practice sessions. The prospect's include 11 pitchers, 15 infielders, 11 outfielders and three catchers.

Heaton Signs Contract... "Battling Bob" the terrible tackle is pictured signing his professional football contract with the San Francisco 49ers while athletic publicity director John R. Healey makes sure everything is on the up and up. Heaton Inks 49er Pro Football Contract

By Ed Slevin

"Battling Bob" Heaton, 225 pound tackle and a two year letterman for the Mustang gridders today signed his contract to play professional football for the San Francisco 49ers. Heaton hails from Modesto where he played his beginning football at Modesto high school until graduating to the Modesto junior college grid squad. After two years of competing at tackle, guard and end for the junior college, Heaton came to Poly where he promptly earned a starting slot in the Green and Gold line.

Heaton Surprised
"When informed I was signed by the 49ers I was really surprised. I had an indication that I might be drafted but the Baltimore Colts were the most likely prospect," said Heaton. "I had received notice that the Colts were interested and I was awaiting the news when I heard about the 49ers. I think it was one of the happiest moments of my life," added Heaton.

Training camp starts on July 15 at Saint Mary's college in Moraga and it will be a tough grind for the speedy Heaton. The 49ers signed Heaton as a guard instead of his usual position of tackle and they also informed him they wanted him for offensive purposes. One advantage Heaton does have, is his good speed for a lineman his size. He runs the 100 yard dash in 10.9 seconds which will be a determining factor for him.

Heaton suffered a slight concussion the past season in the McMurray tilt but all effects have worn off. An injury that might prove harmful is the torn muscles he suffered during the year. Heaton figures he will strengthen his shoulder by working out with weights and various gym apparatus.

Top Competition
"My main competition will be the 10 year veteran for the 49ers, Bruno Banducci. Banducci is the only man left on the original 49er team and the years of experience should prove to be tough competition for a rookie," said Heaton.

"Battling Bob's" father has been a strict San Francisco rooster since their start 10 years ago and a happier man would be hard to find.

catcher Dick Jenkins.
Two intersquad games were held this week to determine who seemed the best among the crowd of prospects.
"This is quite early in the season for intersquad contests but they seemed very important to determine who had the best ability. To get any kind of an idea on how each man is, it is only fair you test them under the actual conditions," said coach George Mitchell.

Poly Mittmen Host Nevada Wolfpack In First Home Meet

Returning home for their first local encounter this season, Coach Tom Lee's Green and Gold mittmen will face a highly rated Nevada university squad tomorrow night with match time set for 8 p.m. in Crandall gym.

Coach Lee's squad added another victory last week as they downed an experienced Chico state squad and set their season record at two wins-two losses.

"As a whole, the team has definitely improved with each bout," commented Lee. "Looking at a snappy squad, I think we stand a good chance to defeat the Nevada mittmen," added Lee.

Fighting at 125 pounds, Eduardo Labatida defeated Benny Cooper of Chico state to boost his season total. Labatida has fought his way to four straight victories and no defeats. He has won two matches in the 119 pound division and has stepped up to 125 for the other two victories.

Boxing his first season for the Mustangs, Pete Godines 139 pounds, decisioned John Costello who hadn't lost a fight in 52 starts until Godines faced him. At 132 pounds, Lambert Lelevier suffered a broken nose and captured an automatic draw with Duncan McCowan. "The injury will probably keep him out of the ring for the remainder of the season," commented Coach Lee. "At the present time we don't have a replacement for the 132 class and I hate to forfeit this weight to Nevada," added Lee.

The remaining results are as follows: George Cox (CP) defeated Harris Perry (CB); 147, Frank Loduca defeated Don Simac (CB); 156, Jim Richardson TKO over Ralinal Johnston (CP); 165, George Maderan (CB) decisioned Vic Buccola (CP); 175, and Gene Vanderlaun (CB) decisioned John Rehder of the Green and Gold in the heavyweight match.

In the exhibitions, Jack Meheen, Ernie Hooper, and Gerald Burgess tangled with Ron Gallino, Clay Stapleton, and Jack Nelson in that order.

There are about 22 million bicyclists in the U.S., it is estimated. They will travel more than seven billion miles during the current year.

Gauchos Host Mustangs In CCAA League Tilt

Suffering a setback in CCAA play, a crippled Mustang cage squad will travel to Santa Barbara college tonight as Coach Ed Jorgensen's Mustang quintet make their bid to keep alive a CCAA title hope. Game time is set for 8 p.m. in the Gaucho gymnasium. The Mustang squad will play without the services of forward Jim Cox, improved to a point of earning a starting post, who was suddenly called home earlier this week. Forward Gene Knott is also a doubtful starter as he has had trouble with an injured foot, and has only engaged in light practice sessions this week.

Currently, Santa Barbara and San Diego state are tied for the CCAA lead so this tilt can definitely be tabbed as crucial. From all possible indications, the Mustangs will have to play top ball in their next three remaining conference games if they expect to wind up on top this season.

Following the Santa Barbara tilt the Mustangs will return home and take to the hardwood in heavy practice sessions in preparation for their next tilt to be played against the Westmont college Warriors next Thursday in Crandall gym.

Probable starting lineup for the Green and Gold squad are Bill Freeman and Jim Gilbert at forward; Madsen at center; and Tony Nunes and Sonny Grandberry at the guard posts.

Grapplers After Second Team Win In Three Starts

Going into tonight's contest undefeated in the Pacific coast inter-collegiate wrestling association, Coach Sheldon Harden's Green and Gold grapplers will play host to a strong Stanford wrestling squad here tonight in Crandall gymnasium.

In past season matches, the Mustangs are well ahead of the Indians. For the past three years Poly has won two and lost one to the Stanford matmen.

Coach Sheldon Harden's squad will be going after their third straight victory in as many starts, as the Mustangs are expected to go all out for a win. "This Stanford outfit is good, but we hope to take them without too much effort," commented Harden.

The men that will take to the mat against the Indians are Vernon Young, 123; Norman Gomez, 130; Jack Del, 137; John Studer, 147; Jim Claypool, 157; Jim Hoxey, 167; Bill Blagel, 177, and ex-football tackle; Bob Aston will take over the heavyweight duties for the Mustangs.

Air Force Looking For Teachers For Overseas Schools

World-wide employment opportunities for school teachers were announced by the Air Force this week, for teachers to staff the schools attended by children of military and civilian personnel overseas.

To obtain this employment, the Air Force Overseas Employment Office has outlined the following: To qualify, applicants must possess a Bachelor's Degree; valid state teaching certificate; and two years current teaching experience acquired at either the elementary or secondary level. Teachers with principal or assistant principal experience are also urged to apply. Men between the ages of 28 and 50 and women between the ages of 28 and 40 are eligible. Salaries range from $4205 to $5060 and the tour of duty is for one year. An additional salary differential up to 15% is paid in some areas. Housing and transportation are furnished at government expense together with purchasing privileges at Post Exchanges and commissaries.

Interviews will be conducted at the California State Employment Office, 817 Palm Street, San Luis Obispo Friday, Feb. 28th, beginning at 2 p.m. Applicants are urged to call the State Employment Office to secure appointments for interview.

Club Shares At PR Increased By 20%

A 20 per cent increase in the club shares of Poly Royal carnival concession profits was approved by the Poly Royal board recently.

Under the new policy a participating organization may retain 80 per cent of the net take. Formerly the split was 90 per cent for the board and 10 for the sponsoring organization.

A new public address and music system was also approved. Groups wishing a public address system or music for individual exhibits must make their requests through the Poly Royal board. No requests for equipment during Poly Royal will be accepted by the audio-visual center. The center is planning a campus wide network coverage of loudspeakers to supply background music.

General superintendent Don Love also had this warning for the general student body:

"Students planning an out of town guests should make reservations now for the April 29-31 weekend. Local hostesses will have little left but a place on the waiting list by April 1. A reservation now will assure your family and/or your girl friend a place to stay. Most motels and hotels require at least a small deposit for reservations."

New Location Site For Housing Maint.

The incorporation yard directly back of the machine shop is the new location of the school's housing maintenance department. The change, which took place during the Christmas vacation, was made so that the department might have better conditions in which to work.

A thorough investigation of the old location near the milk sales store showed its facilities to be extremely poor. The major inconveniences of the old site was found to be lack of working space, no storage room, and bad parking facilities. The present location was seen by the school as a possible solution to these problems, and so they approved the change.

Tom Eppert is the department supervisor. The school employs a crew of five men to maintain all housing units on the campus, including the cafeterias and the health center.

Poly Had Just $50,000 To Buy, Build, Maintain

This is the fourth in a series of articles on the early history of Cal Poly. The historical facts were gathered by Miss Margaret Chase, an employee of the college for over 27 years.

By Bob Flood

Cal Poly started on a shoestring in 1901 with a mere $50,000 appropriation from the state legislature for purchase of a site, construction and furnishing of the necessary buildings, and maintenance of the school. The location of the immediate campus, selected from 16 sites offered for sale, was purchased for $7,709.80.

According to old "Tribune" files, this tract of land, constituting the heart of the campus covered 281.04 acres. The farm land was bought for $40 an acre and the hill land, with a number of valuable springs, for $10 an acre.

Selecting the site of the campus brought some controversial reaction, especially when a few individuals suggested that the wording of the act of establishment would permit its location anywhere within the county.

Myron Angel ardently fought any attempt to place the college outside the circle of hills embracing the town of San Luis Obispo, pointing out the chilly fog-laden sea breezes farther west and the summer heat and winter frosts east of the Santa Lucias.

First Director Leroy Anderson, a Cornell graduate who had come to the University of California to organize a dairy department and teach dairying and animal husbandry, was appointed the school's "director", a title used for the head of the institution until 1921.

Shortly after his appointment Anderson made a trip East to inspect institutions which might give suggestions valuable in planning the infant Cal Poly. He returned particularly impressed with the Kansas Agricultural college.

It was the Kansas college that sold him the merits of dormitories on campus. He was convinced that students would do much better work when constantly on the grounds. This was one of his strongest recommendations to educational authorities upon his return.

Dormitories Unique

The dormitory system adopted was at that time unique in California. It was not until 1949 that another state educational institution was able to persuade the state to provide money for the accommodation of students in dormitories.

Because of the first limited appropriations, there was fear that Cal Poly trustees might limit the scope of the college to agricultural matters with the ultimate result of an unadulterated agricultural experiment station.

Branch of UC

This would have been opposed to the establishing act, which stated the following purpose:

"To furnish to young people of both sexes mental and manual training in the arts and sciences, including agriculture, mechanics, engineering, business methods, domestic economy, and such other branches as will fit the students for the non-professional walks of life."

Ironically, Myron Angel once expressed the hope that Cal Poly might eventually become a branch of the University of California. This hope has not been echoed since, although many today falsely associate the two institutions (not to mention the California Institute of Technology).

How Much Is Your Education Worth?

How much is college education worth in dollars and cents?

A recent Kiplinger Letter analysis estimates the cost of college education at $1,500 per year. That's $6,000 for a four year course. Here's the pay-off. Life time earnings of a college grad average $288,000. The life time earnings of a high-school graduate are $165,000. That's a difference of over $100,000 for an investment of $6,000 and four years time. There is little lag between the earnings of the two, the first eight years of work. After the age of 30, however, high school grads show average earnings of $3,500 a year and college grads average $5,000 a year. From the ages 45 to 54 the estimates show the college grad earning $8,000 a year, the high schooler $4,500.

CO-MUSTANGS OF THE WEEK—Don Tison, left, and Jerry Arnold this week were named for the honor of "Mustangs of the week." Poly Young Farmers Chosen As "Co-Mustangs Of Week"

Members of the Cal Poly Young Farmer chapter have been named as the "Mustangs of the Week." Selected as representatives of the chapter to receive the awards are Don Tison, Arvin, and Jerry Arnold of Whittier, co-chairmen of the chapter convention committee.

The chapter did an excellent job in hosting the annual Young Farmer Association convention, says Carl Beck, advisor for the chapter. Preparation for the annual three day confab began early in Sept. and developed into a lengthy time consuming chapter project.

Mustang Tison is president of the local chapter and has been a member of the organization for three years. He is a senior animal husbandry student and includes membership in the Sheep club and Bowling club in his extra-curricular activities.

Co-Mustang of the Week, Jerry Arnold is a senior animal husbandry major and is a veteran of the veterinary service of the Army. Arnold attended Pasadena City college prior to coming to Cal Poly.

Cal Poly's chapter boasts other outstanding members, including Robert L. Smith of Buttonwillow, immediate past-president of the state association and Elvin Juhl of Salinas, newly elected reporter of the state association.

For a job well done, Cal Poly's Young Farmers have been named "Outstanding Mustangs of the Week."

New State Officers For YF Elected At Poly Convention

California Young Farmers and Young Homemakers concluded their annual three-day convention at Cal Poly last Saturday with the election of state officers, and began planning for next year's at Modesto. Vernon Pielop of Riverdale and Mrs. Wayne Bowman of King City were named president of the respective associations.

Outgoing officers are Robert L. Smith of Buttonwillow and Helen Gubby of Lemoore.

Other Young Farmers named to posts are Ted Nichols of Wheatland, vice-president; Arnold Hoff of Modesto Junior college, secretary; Ed Gomez of Hanford, treasurer; and Elvin Juhl of Salinas, reporter.

Rev. A. J. Knoll, pastor of the local Presbyterian church, led the invocation for the annual banquet, which was attended by more than 250 Young Farmers, Young Homemakers and guests.

Bankers Awards
Paul D. Dodds, president of the California Bankers' association and vice-president of the Security First National bank of Los Angeles, presented the annual Bankers' awards and told the audience they were symbols of "real accomplishment." The awards are given each year to chapters who have done the most to carry out the ideals of the association.

Representatives receiving awards for their chapters were: Earl N. Wallis, Hughson chapter 87; Ed Gofas, Hanford chapter 88; Bill Iselin, Cal Poly chapter at San Dimas; Romeo Bertoli, Santa Rosa chapter 78; Carl Calvert, Princeton chapter 77; Wayne Bowman, King City chapter 86; and Mrs. Donald Hosking, Bakersfield chapter.

Certificates of merit and appreciation were given three supporters of the associations which carried the inscription "for unselfish support and service." Robert Smith, state YF president, gave the awards to Stewart W. Pettigrew, western regional director Bears Roebuck foundation; Paul Dodds, and Perry Joy, assistant secretary-manager for the California Bankers' association in San Francisco.

Charter Officers For Chess Club Selected

Officers for the Cal Poly Chess club were recently elected at their Thursday noon meeting. The charter officers for the newly formed club are: Bob Berg, president; Turaj Ghahreman, vice-president; Maynard Kepler, secretary, and Jorge Tarrico, treasurer.

Art Stobbe, librarian, remains undefeated in the current chess tournament with competition becoming keener all the time. All who are interested in challenging Stobbe to a chess match may contact him any noon period in room 200 of the library.

Any student or faculty member who is interested in joining the club may contact Maynard Kepler, Cal Poly Box 1808.
