SAC Floodlights Student Charge To Athletic Events Dropped For Year Student Body Receives Bill From Theatre

By Bob Flood

Students holding Cal Poly student body cards will be admitted FREE to all regularly scheduled athletic events under the jurisdiction of the Board of Athletics control for the remainder of the 1955-56 season. This was the decision of the Student Affairs council Tuesday night. The action means that the usual 25-cent charge will be removed from all basketball games and boxing matches of the forthcoming season, including the Fresno State football game Friday night.

The measure does not include the annual PCI wrestling tournament, which is not under the jurisdiction of the IAC.

Total revenue loss by dropping the charge for the season will amount to about $1450, the student Finance committee estimates. This loss of anticipated income will be absorbed by the AHB contingency fund, which now has about $2800.

A breakdown of the total loss estimate, as determined by the Finance committee, is as follows:

Football (homecoming and Fresno games)	$578
Basketball	544
Boxing	308
Total	$1450

In other business, the council voted to pay a bill of $15.26 submitted by the Obispo theatre for damages resulting from the pre-game rally Oct. 7. Itemized the bill calls for $4.81 for repair of a lamp and $10.45 for a 100-foot extension-cord. SAC voted Oct. 18 to pay the bills submitted by other business establishments amounting to $165.72. Thus, the total loss suffered by the student body now stands at $180.98.

Fleet Awards Discussed Today

Meeting in Engineering A at noon today, the Homecoming committee will discuss three proposed methods for awarding trophies at the 1956 homecoming.

Three systems of awarding trophies have been advanced by the committee, headed by Al Martinez, senior EE major from San Francisco. First, the annual alumni trophy for the most outstanding foot; trophies for the next five runners-up, plus group trophies.

Second suggestion is to have alumni and group trophies only. Group trophies, explains Martinez, are trophies put up by similar clubs or organizations; i.e. liberal arts department, service clubs and off-campus housing units. The clubs would be competing among themselves, but would also be eligible for the most outstanding award in the first suggestion.

Third system would award trophies by judges placing only.

Nick Named Head; Staff Revealed

Due to working complications, El Rodeo Editor Frank Reische has resigned his post and has been replaced by Nick Monnikendam, an animal husbandry major and a transfer from the University of California at Davis.

Monnikendam received a unanimous vote of approval from the Board of Publications last Friday. He has had previous yearbook experience and is a former assistant editor of the Davis yearbook publication.

Joe Doras, architectural engineering major, is currently working on the El Rodeo cover design.

Mustangs In CCAA Clash Here With Fresno Bulldogs Tomorrow

That annual pain-in-the-neck pack, the growling Bulldogs of Fresno State college, will slap the CCAA title on the block tomorrow night at 8:30 in Mustang stadium convinced we hope they'll not cause any mayhem in these parts this season. Whatever the Bulldogs thought of the Mustangs earlier, they're sweating it out since the locals returned from San Jose. At the same time, Coach Roy Hughes has told the Polyites not to underestimate the Bulldogs, either, and is putting them through the paces today for good measure.

Jack Sears, who came up last month from Poly's junior varsity, could be the lone quarterback to suit up this weekend, with Jerry Duncan of Sonoma and Vern Valdes of Lancaster nursing injuries.

Head coach Roy Hughes has told his players that their performance in the last two games of the season is an accurate indication of a team's morale, "when the stalwarts have been separated from the partywails and survivors—nursing large lumps, welts and abrasions—find strenuous exertion an onerous chore."

Hughes noted the Mustangs to be on trial the next two weeks against the Bulldogs and San Francisco State November 18, "not with our student body or our community," he said, "but by ourselves."

Commenting on a "natural let-down" after an all-out effort against the Spartans, Hughes asked the Mustangs to "show the competitive spirit we know we have and rise above that mediocrity and mental let-down."

In the meantime, with the coaches issuing warnings about not underestimating the opponent, Fresno State has started their antics. Two huge "FSC's" have been burned into the Mustang stadium gridiron.

Taskies Lloyd Stringer and Fred Odle may miss the game Friday, Stringer with an old shoulder hurt and Odle with an ankle injury which forced him out of Spartan action after two minutes of play.

The Mustangs have won six and lost two this season. The Bulldogs have dropped but one, to Utah State, while winning six.

Both clubs have defeated San Diego State, the only other eleven figuring in 1955 CCAA standings. The Mustangs edged the Aztecs, 12-6, while the Bulldogs scored a 20-6 victory last weekend.

It will be the 18th meeting of the two colleges, with Fresno State holding a 9-2 all-time-series edge. There has been one tie.

Mustang fans will see the green and gold in home action for the last time this season, and will

Architects To Hold Natl. Convention Here Nov. 20-22

Student architects from throughout the country will meet on the Cal Poly campus Nov. 20-22 for the 27th annual convention of the Scarab, professional architectural fraternity. This will be the first time the Cal Poly chapter, Anubis, has played host to the parent organization.

Highlight of the convention will be a panel discussion headed by R. Van Buren Livingston, south Pasadena architect and past national president of Scarab. The topic will be "Architect, Teacher, Student. What does each want? What does each get?" The panel will consist of two students, two instructors and two professional architects.

Delegates will journey from chapters at the University of Illinois, Pennsylvania State, University of Southern California, University of Virginia, University of Cincinnati, Washington State and Alabama Poly to discuss what member schools are doing in the way of architecture.

Officers of the Cal Poly chapter are: Donald Benson, president; Bill Richardson, vice president; Dave Lows, treasurer; Gene Cole, secretary and Jack Parrish, sergeant-at-arms. Wesley Ward, past president of the USC chapter of Scarab, is faculty advisor.

"For the past year members of the Cal Poly chapter, which has 50 students, have been making plans and preparations to assure that not only will the convention be a success, but that it will be the best that Scarab has had," discloses Bill Richardson, vice-president of the club.

watch four seniors close out CCAA competition. The Mustangs have only AF State of the Far western conference with which to cope after Fresno.

Those last year men are Perry Jeter, speedy little all-conart halfback who has gained 1672 yards through rushing over a three-year period; Bud Chadwick, named last season as all-CCAA and Little all-conart end; Marjion Anclah all-CCAA fullback, and tackle John Rehder.

Jeter has been named team captain.

Pat Base Named Queen Of Annual Poly Royal

Lovely Pat Base of Pomona, 18-years old San Jose coed who aspires to become an airline stewardess, was selected by the student body last night to reign over the 24th Annual Poly Royal here April 27-28. Miss Base will have as her princesses Rheuna Nell Chase, 18, of Sunnyvale and Patti Kaser, 19, of Fresno. Miss Chase wishes to become a kindergarten-primary teacher, and Miss Kaser would like to be a home economist in the business field with emphasis on advertising.

Dining Hall Hosts Poly-Bulldog Rally

Tomorrow night's pre-game rally to be held in Cafeteria No. 2 will feature the song girls from Fresno State with the rally getting underway at 8 p.m.

Also on campus for the game and dance will be the new Poly Royal Queen and her princesses from San Jose.

John Malkasian, chairman of rallies, says that the purpose of this rally is to promote more spirit for the game, the reason for inviting the Bulldog song girls.

"Fantasia" Theme Last Social Whirl Of Poly Football Season

Featuring the Cal Poly Collegians and a "Fantasia" theme, Poly's Ornamental Horticulture club sponsors the last football dance of the season following the Fresno State game tomorrow night in Crandall gym.

The Poly Royal queen and her attendants will be there. Special features include ultra-modern decorations, door prizes and entertainment during the intermissions.

Exchange Show Success

Cal Poly's exchange show performed before a jam-packed auditorium at San Jose last week. Members of the crowd, mostly coeds, later acclaimed the show "one of the best we've had."

Poly Experiment Reveals Smog's Effect On Citrus

Students in the new agricultural biochemistry laboratories, after intensive research have concluded that oranges raised in the Los Angeles "smog belt" contain less vitamin C than oranges in other parts of the state. Dr. Bruce Kennelly, biochemistry instructor, reveals that oranges from all areas of California were gathered by

The royal delegation, who arrived from the Santa Clara valley yesterday evening, will remain here through the week end. The girls are touring the campus today and tomorrow, with a rugged schedule of publicity photos on the agenda, according to Larry Litchfield, director of publicity.

Having already appeared on television last night, the coeds will wind up today's activities by attending a Poly Royal board dinner. They will appear tomorrow night at the Fresno State-Cal Poly football game, and will also attend the dance in Crandall gym.

Carefully screened from an original field of 45 who entered competition, the three finalists were selected by a special Poly Royal board committee which traveled to San Jose last week.

The elimination process took longer than formerly anticipated. It was "a very difficult choice to make," according to Don Halstead, general superintendent of Poly Royal.

The three girls were driven onto the field at half time during the Cal Poly-San Jose State game Saturday and introduced to the Cal Poly rooting section, which greeted them with cheers.

The queen will be officially crowned at the Poly Royal Coronation Ball by last year's queen, Miss Nedra Prouse, who came from Long Beach State college.

It is the second time that San Jose State, which abounds with members of the opposite sex, has named a Poly Royal queen. The last time was in 1946.

students on the project, with careful note on the climatic variations under which the oranges were grown. It was found that smog reduces the chlorophyll content and slows the process of photosynthesis. The process of food manufacturing is impaired and results in plant products of reduced size and vitamin content.

The damaging agents in smog are the oxidation products of unsaturated hydrocarbons mixed with ozone, Kennelly explains. The chief sources of these vapors are the refining and burning of petroleum products. Ozone, an active form of oxygen, is produced by the action of sunlight on the atmosphere.

Research on the smog effects in oranges was started at the beginning of this quarter, but will continue for several years before any scientific reports will be written for publication, Kennelly emphasizes.

Because of the significance of the present findings, studies are being extended to evaluate losses of vitamin A and other food factors from human foods and animal feeds. Research is, at present, being carried on with lemons, spinach, celery and lettuce by the agricultural chemistry students.

Smog produces a characteristic discoloration of vegetation which only now is being evaluated in terms of nutritional losses. The yearly crop damage caused by smog has been estimated at $3,000,000 in the Los Angeles area alone.

Dr. Kennelly points out that Cal Poly's research projects and findings would not be possible without new labs and facilities in the Science building.

Tickets for Sale

Under sponsorship of the Cal Poly Young Farmers, a turkey drawing will be held Nov. 22, during the regular SAC meeting.

Tickets will be on campus-wide sale by club representatives, for 25 cents with all proceeds going to the Young Farmer scholarship fund. Winners need not be present.

Upper Classmen Meet

A movie and a free drawing of the future senior class ring will be the main feature of the senior class meeting to be held in the Eng. aud. next Tuesday at 7 p. m.

Only those class members with senior class cards will be admitted to the meeting. Cards may be purchased anytime in the student body office, according to John Boston, senior class president. Also, cards will be on sale at the door before the meeting. In addition to the business side of the meeting, refreshments will be served.

Narrow Escape

Dan Parkinson, freshman animal husbandry major from La Canada, accidentally triggered his 30-30 rifle while cleaning it Monday in El Dorado dorm. The bullet traveled through four wall partitions, barely missing one of the dorm residents.

Parkinson had previously cleared the rifle through Security for a week end hunting jaunt. On his return, and while cleaning the rifle, he accidentally triggered the rifle, causing the near fatal accident.

Welder Coming Here

Fred L. Plummer, one of America's most colorful welding figures, will be on Poly's campus Wed. Nov. 16, to speak to the student AWS chapter at 8 p. m. in mechanical engineering lab room 202.

For two terms president of the American Welding society and director of engineering for the Hammond Iron works, Warren, Pa., Plummer has been instrumental in designing and building many of the nation's most important welded structures.

His illustrated talk will be on "Design and Construction of Field-Erected Storage Vessels" and will deal with such projects as reservoirs and elevated tanks for water storage; fixed valves, floating room, lifter roof and variable-volume tanks for storing and conserving petroleum products and chemicals. Visitors are invited.

Authorization for the formation of an Outings committee was given by the College Union board at a recent meeting.

Those interested are invited to attend a meeting Monday, Nov. 14 at 7 p. m. in Adm. 204. Suggested outings will be discussed.

Los Angeles County Sends Most Students

Los Angeles county sent more new students to Cal Poly this fall than any other county. L. A. county sent 257 students, San Luis Obispo 112 and Alameda county 59. Oregon and Washington sent more new students than did any other states outside California. Modesto and Pasadena junior colleges tied for first place in the number of transfer students sent with 23 each. Glendale J.C. was next with 17.

Letters to Editor

Dear Editor:
 In last Friday's El Mustang appeared an unsigned editorial entitled, "This Thing Humor..." This editorial went into great detail to explain why there was no place for humor, of any form, in El Mustang. Humor is not realistic, nor sound, nor practical, was the general text. It also stated that some 100 other college papers, not one single joke was found—an almost unbelievable statement!

After careful thought I have arrived at the conclusion that this is just the work of a misinformed individual who has not bothered to gather any consensus of opinion, of any group.

To support my statement I offer the following observations:

In the same issue of El Mustang there were some 25 column inches used for humorous purposes (87 counting the editorial). If the Mustang staff shared this opinion would there be 25 inches dedicated to humor? I don't think so!

If this no humor trend is the viewpoint of the campus student leaders, they would not have agreed at the last leadership conference that there should be more humor in the El Mustang, would they?

From the views expressed to me by members of the student body, I doubt very much if this is a general consensus of their opinion.

From the faculty, I have heard no disparaging criticisms about past satire in the form of Jack Axe, and as co-author I should think I would be one of the first to hear, if there was.

I do agree that news, as such, should have top priority as to newspaper space, however, I feel that there is a definite place in our lives for humor and that more effort should be put forth to acquire it. Rather than let this individual set a policy that affects so many of us, let's leave it to the students as to what should be omitted from the school paper—after all, it's their paper. Who has a better right to decide?

Ernest Bailey

Your point is taken. The editorial was meant to condemn low-grade humor in the newspaper, and ever-emphasis of higher types at the expense of news coverage. Perhaps it did not convey this.

Even the straight news story can have humor. The 25 inches to which you refer (excluding cartoon) was not necessarily "dedicated" to humor. The material was also informative.

We still fail to find even one joke among some 100 college exchange papers which we've received. The papers are in our files for your inspection. Happy hunting.

Editor

Dear Editor:
 Quoting from your editorial of November 4, "Lacking in our weekly four to eight pages is satire..." May I venture to ask what the Jack Axe (I don't lip) series was supposed to be? Practical, I presume.

I am one of those who don't think El Mustang is a failure. In fact, I feel that it is a very successful college newspaper, accomplishing its goals and serving its purpose. However, this matter of humor should not be dismissed so lightly, especially just because other college newspapers don't publish such things. Personally, I am all for a campus humor column, consisting primarily of humorous happenings on campus.

Perhaps something similar to Herb Caen's comments in his "Baghdad by the Bay" column in the 'San Francisco Examiner' would be just the thing. Alton Pryor's column, "To Say The Least," is a good start in the right direction.

Anyway, keep up the good work as a college weekly newspaper.
 H. W. Ludwick

Mustang Of Week

Cal Poly's claim to fame... at the recent Grand National Livestock Exposition held at the Cow Palace in San Francisco is Joe Williamson, Senior AH major from Hollister, who this week holds the reins as Mustang Of The Week. Williamson took high individual honors in the livestock judging competition.

Off Beat

By Litch

Attention Mustangs: Here's a little background info for halftime tonight. George Beatty, director of the Arroyo Grande high school band, has recently published a group of halftime stunts. He and Davey got together, with Beatty agreeing to visit Polyland to show our band the way the stunts should go. There are many stunts with fill-in music between them—taking a total of seven minutes. This will give Beatty an idea of the worthiness of published repertoire.

The new halftime activities are based on the light opera "Rose Marie." It's the story of the Indian maiden in the Canadian woods. Among the formations will be a tree, church, drum, canoe, and teepee. Band member Terry Cook will be the narrator.

As the novice wrestling tournament nears, the freshmen loom, as in past years, favorites in the 1955 mat show. Last year, the first year matmen won most of the trophies, taking wins in seven weight divisions. Sophomores took two weight classes—125 and 180—while a senior took the 191 pound crown.

Mustangs Muster 'Moral' Victory Over Spartans

by WILLIAM E. THOMAS

SAN JOSE, Nov. 8—We saw a ball game that was a ball game here tonight—Cal Poly's Mustangs leaving some deep imprints in Spartan stadium before being overtaken by San Jose State college, 20-14.

Gaining an exciting "moral victory" over the favored Spartans, Poly staged a near upset before some 8,500 nail-biting Mustang-Spartan rooters by keeping San Jose behind for three quarters. In their toughest of games, the Mustangs played their finest brand of football.

The Mustangs have not defeated San Jose since 1927, but one of two things—perhaps a dash of each—indicates new stature following the scare thrown into the puzzled Spartans tonight.

ONE—Either the Spartans should return to smaller college competition—as the bay area press prints, or TWO—Cal Poly has jumped a step above the CCAA—as the San Jose press writes.

Poly has come a long way since its 47-0 loss in 1949 to San Jose; yet the Spartans have tapered off, outclassed recently by both COF and Stanford, and now, shock-waved by Poly.

Teresa Stars

Tony Teresa, Spartan quarterback, led San Jose to victory with a third quarter 18-yard touchdown pass to halfback Stan Hensley and a fourth period 21-yard aerial to Mel Powell for pay dirt. Hensley converted twice. Joe Elm's second quarter smash from the three ended a 78-yard Spartan drive. Hensley missed the point after the touchdown and Poly held a 7-6 halftime lead.

The feeling persists, however—and we'll go along with it—that had Mustang quarterback Jerry Duncan, who was unmistakably having "his" night, not been injured after only five minutes of action, the story would have shown a Poly win.

Hip Pointer

Duncan—who was not wearing hip pads—tossed four for four, one a touchdown aerial to little all-rounder right end Jim Cox for Poly's first period score. The first string quarterback is not expected to be ready for action against Fresno State. He's suffering from a hip pointer.

In the first period, the Mustangs in 10 plays moved from their own four to the SJ 48, from where Duncan hit Cox on the 35. Cox went over untouched and Clive Remund converted. After holding SJ to four downs, Poly in the third quarter took over on the Spartan 35, and in seven plays spotted the ball on the SJ 25. Halfback Perry Jeter, on a double reverse, passed to Cox, who was standing in the end zone and outjumped Teresa to grab the tally. Remund converted again.

Mermen Down UCLA; Enter State Meet

Coach Dick Anderson's water polo team this week will travel to San Francisco State for the state tourney after coming out even in competition last weekend.

The state tourney will be held at the San Francisco State pool Saturday with four teams entered—San Francisco State, San Jose State, Los Angeles State and Cal Poly.

The mermen last week dropped a 25 to 1 game to a strong USC squad. Karl Bell was Poly's lone scorer.

The Andersonmen came back the next day to down UCLA, 7-5. Steve Olmatoad's three points were high effort for the locals.

Lee Seeks Greater Novice Ring Turnout

Success of the novice boxing tournament depends upon student participation, says Tom Lee, Mustang ring coach. Last year's tournament produced several outstanding boys and Lee hopes for the same this season.

Prospects are now working out in the boxing room in preparation for the festive event, Nov. 29, 30 and Dec. 1. There is still a need for more participants according to Lee, and urges clubs and organizations to sponsor boxers.

There will be a meeting of December senior graduates next Thursday at 11 a.m. in Library 318.
