Cagers Host Long Beach Tomorrow in CCAA Clash

Poly's chance to record their first CCAA basketball victory appears bright as Coach Ed Jorgenson's Mustangs entertain the Long Beach State Forty-Niners tomorrow night at 8 P.M. in Crandall gym. The visitors will be the first loop member the locals have met this winter that claims similar height, depth, and experience. The hometowners so far have dropped tilts to Fresno State and Los Angeles State—co-favorites to make a shambles of the CCAA cage race this year. Including the two circuit defeats, the green and gold claims a six win-nine loss standard to date.

Coach Al Hobby's Colts will be gunning for a triumph over the Arroyo Grande High school five in a six o'clock preliminary. The squad will be looking for conquest number eleven, compared to five set backs.

No Pushover

Though the Long Beach encounter will feature two evenly matched fives, the hometowners will have their hands full in beating the Forty-Niners. The visitors boast more height than Poly, and man-for-man the respective personnel shapes-up to a whale of a ball game.

All-conference forward Bill Bar-on and center Jed Young are two big reasons the LBS'ers are not to be considered pushovers.

Troxel Names Three More to Poly Royal Committee Posts

Poly Royal general superintendent Jim Troxel has announced three appointments to the 1958 Poly Royal Board. The 26th annual Poly Royal will be held April 25-26.

Bruce E. Wilson, Soil Science major from San Luis Obispo, will serve as Queen Committee chairman. Wilson has been a member of the Poly Royal Queen Committee in previous years. Dan Hall, Architectural student from Long Beach, is new signs committee chairman. Marilyn Christensen, Home Economics coed from Galt, is Opening Ceremonies chairman.

January 31 is the deadline to submit design entries for the Poly Royal button. The contest is sponsored by the collegiate F.F.A. Buttons should include the words Education in Action, California State Polytechnic College, San Luis Obispo, Poly Royal, and the Poly Royal dates, with a suitable cartoon or device. A prize of $15 will be awarded the winner. Entries should be submitted to the Agriculture Education office, class room 11.

Poultry Banquet To Attract Alumni Here Tomorrow

Attracting alumni and industry figures from throughout the state, the Poultry Husbandry department will hold its twenty-sixth annual "Turkey Banquet" tomorrow night at 6:00 P. M. in the south cafeteria.

Traditionally chief item of the banquet menu is Turkey.

Equally noted amount per man: two pounds.

Visitors tour the poultry husbandry department's instructional facilities which feature Cal Poly's student-project approach to training. exchange industry information and discuss poultry problems.

"But the banquet is always the climactic feature," explains Poultry Husbandry Department Head Richard Leach. "And while the old-timers among us are beginning to find a little difficulty in stowing away that traditional two-pound serving, the younger ones have no difficulty at all."

El Wives Meet Wednesday

A meeting of the Electronics Wives Club is scheduled for Wednesday, Jan. 29 at 7:45 P. M. in Ag Ed Bld., Room 125, announces Mrs. Jane Gates, Publicity Chairman.

Refreshments will be served.

Veteran guard Len Oswald is scoring 15.8 points per game and has gone ahead of Vic De Giovanni in the pair's race for runner-up

Architect Calls Campus Visit "Gratifying"

"The practical work in Architecture that is being done at Cal Poly is a gratifying experience. This is an approach that is not followed by other architectural schools."

This was the opinion expressed by Raphael Soriano a prominent San Francisco architect, after his tour of the architectural facilities at Cal Poly with Paul R. Noel, president of Cal Poly's AIA, and George Hasselein, head of the department.

Soriano, a native of Italy, was the recent guest speaker at a special meeting of AIA, Cal Poly student chapter of the American Institute of Architects.

Soriano discussed modern architecture, and functional design. He

SAC Debates Proposal For Hike in El Rodeo Price

Board of Publications and Publicity Control has asked Student Affairs Council for approval to raise the price of El Rodeo to five dollars for student body card holders and six dollars to non-card holders. The motion, declared a major item of business at last week's SAC meeting, brought about much debate among SAC members at Tuesday's meeting.

Publications board feels that this price increase must be made in order that the year book operate in the black and still not be subsidized by ABB to make up actual cost of the book and income received by selling page space. BOP & PC estimates that this year's El Rodeo will be approximately $485 in the red, assuming to Publications Board chairman, Jeff McGrew.

The motion has been referred to finance committee. Interested students may attend the Finance Committee meeting Monday at 5 P.M. in Lib. 302.

Finance Committee recommendation to re-evaluate the distribution of Poly Royal Carnival net-income has been accepted by Student Affairs Council.

PR Queen Will Be Chosen In Campus Election Feb 5-6

Five lovely coeds were chosen last night to reign over Cal Poly's 26th annual Poly Royal, April 25-26. This is the second year our "Country Fair on a College Campus" will be graced by the presence of a "homegrown" queen and princesses.

The five finalists were chosen at a reception held in Dexter Memorial Library last night. A general student body election will be held Feb. 5-6 to choose the Poly Royal queen. The other four coeds will serve as the royal court during the annual campus celebration.

The queen and princesses are scheduled to make several personal appearances on television, and will receive gifts and numerous other honors. They will be official hosts during Poly Royal.

BULLETIN

Five coeds passed a rigid screening committee to become official candidates for the coveted Poly Royal Queen title late last night. Facing a Student Body Election Feb. 5-6, where the winner will be selected, are Deanna Larramendy, El. Ed., Freshman from Ventura; Barbara Brewer, Sophomore, Home Ec., Long Beach; Mary Rich, Freshman, Home Ec., Glendale; Gale Manley, Freshman, Phys. Ed., Hollister; and Roberta Keoble, Freshman, Phys. Ed., Concord.

The queen will be crowned during the formal Coronation Ball, held April 26. The Ball will be held again this year in the National Guard Armory at Camp San Luis Obispo, where it has been held in previous years.

-Deadlines-

The next edition of El Mustang will appear Tuesday, Jan. 28. Copy deadline for the paper is today, Jan. 24, at 5 P.M. El Mustang office is Room 21, Administration Building. Phone extension 337.

Deadline for the Friday, Jan. 31, edition is Tuesday, Jan. 28, at 5 P.M.

Noted Sales Engineer Will Speak Here Soon

All students interested in sales are invited to hear R. D. Turpin, apparatus sales engineer for General Electric Corporation, Los Angeles.

Turpin will speak in the Engineering Auditorium at 11 A.M., Monday, Jan. 27, on "The Sales Engineer—His Training and Future."

"This is an opportunity to hear and meet a top level, successful sales engineer," says Millard J. Potter, head of the Industrial Engineering Department.

Turpin is speaking to the IE-401 Sales Engineering class.

Student Wives Plan Progressive Dinner

Husbands, are you tired of studying every night? Like to spend an inexpensive evening out, see old friends and meet new ones?

Then mark March 8 on your calendar and attend the annual Progressive Dinner put on by the Cal Poly Students' Wives Club.

Tickets for this big event will be on sale at the next business meeting of Students' Wives on Feb. 4 in Library 118. The number of tickets is limited.

Harold Young Elected Proxy Of English and Speech Club

Harold Young has been elected president of the English and Speech Club. He will be assisted by Lars Potter, Secretary; Marcia Will, Treasurer; and Will Penne, Reporter-Historian.

On the club's agenda for the year will be theater parties, literary symposia, guest speakers at meetings, and preparation for departmental exhibit for Poly Royal.

All English and Speech majors are invited to attend these meetings, says Robert Andreini, acting department head and club advisor.

Doug Horne was voted in as an SAC member to represent Arts and Science division.

"Spring Music Tour of the Collegians and Men's Glee Club brings about a tremendous amount of publicity and good will to Cal Poly," says Harold Davidson of the Music Department as he reported to SAC. "The group is asked to explain our college program as well as entertain while on tour," he went on to say.

Davidson is hoping to have a concert band and Christmas program next year for ABB as part of the department's musical extension program.

Matmen in 'South' Today; Host SD Aztecs Thursday

Poly's "magnificent matmen" open their home schedule next Thursday against San Diego State at 8 P.M. in Crandall Gym.

Today, Coach Rheldon Harden's undefeated wrestlers are out for wins eight and nine against Los Angeles State and Long Beach State.

Banging-out a 17-12 triumph over San Jose State last Monday night, the Mustangs are favored to annex both matches today. SJS was considered a huge obstacle in Poly's drive for an undefeated—and nationally recognized—season.

Heavyweight Pat Lovell, with both Poly and SJS deadlocked at 12 apiece, bruised and battered Spartan Nick Sanger (220 pounds) into a default forfeiture to give the locals the victory.

Three Mustangs have not lost a bout in their outings this year. Tom Hall (147) has registered seven wins and Bill Corcoran (187) has taken six. Harold Simonek has six triumphs and a draw at 180 pounds.

Once-beaten Mustangs Freddie Ford (177), Jerry Canfield (187), and Lovell are undefeated against college foes. Their individual setbacks came at the hands of either San Diego NTC or San Quentin teams.

Howard Bryant (128) has a 5-1-0 mark—and Bob Machado (167) a 4-3-1 standard. At 180 pounds, Norm Geiger has lost his only bout, along with Lynn Dyche, 177 pounder.

Dale Clark (157), up from Norm Gomes' JV's, was to make his first appearance on the varsity today. Heavyweight Del Seales has yet to appear for Poly.

TAINT NECESSARILY SO... Though it appears number 32, unlike most normal basketball players, has a melon head; it is not true in this case. This effect came about when photographer Karen White caught a Mustang eager taking a pass on his way down court against the San Diego Marines. The player actually has a head, and can be identified by a bit of sleuthing at tomorrow night's CCAA cage outing between Poly and Long Beach State. (Photo by Karen White) position. The scrappy Di Giovanni claims a 14.1 standard to date.

Starting Five

Regulars Bob Thetford and Rich Russell improve with each outing. Thetford dunked 14 against the San Diego Marines and displayed improvement under the boards. Russell continues his aggressive floor game, figuring greatly in rebounds and in Jorgensen's "hustle and go" brand of play. This duo will team with Simmons, Oswald, and Di Giovanni as starters against Long Beach tomorrow night.

Hanks Scouring Links For Varsity Material

Golf mentor Charles Hanks is scouring nearby links and the Poly campus looking for likely candidates for the Mustang golf squad. With only one letterman—Tom McFadden, last year's team captain—returning for action this Spring, the coach has many vacancies to fill.

Students interested in trying-out for the varsity golf crew are asked to contact Hanks in his Ag Ed 101 office.

Tony Amato, faculty member of the O. H. Department, was selected as "Faculty Advisor of the Year" by SAC last Spring. He was presented with a lifetime Associate Membership in the ASB at last year's Spring Leadership Banquet and his name is engraved on a perpetual plaque.

Thirty-three Game Baseball Schedule Released by Hicks

Coach Hicks, in his first year as mentor of the Poly baseball squad, has released a 33-game schedule for the 1958 season. The Mustang nine opens practice sessions Feb. 1. The coach indicated the need of a manager for the club. Individuals interested in either the manager's position or trying-out for the team should contact Hicks in his upstairs gym office immediately.

The diamond slate for '58 includes 14 home games. The Mustangs will also tangle with UCLA and USF, besides service nines and CCAA outfits. California is to invade the local lot April 2-3 for a brace of contest and the annual Mustang Booster barbecue.

Poly Rope Climber Nears World Mark

Herman Farlough, fastest rope climber in the history of Cal Poly's gymnastics team, has great hopes to break the world record for the event. Herman's fastest time last season was 3.5 seconds in the 20 foot rope climb—just three-tenths of a second behind the world mark.

In all dual meets last season, Herman captured first place for Poly. In tournament competition he placed first in the Nevise AAU, time 3.9 seconds; first in the Junior AAU, 3.7; second in the SPAAU senior invitational, 3.8; third in the Metropolitan AAU, 3.5; and tied for fifth in the Senior AAU meet with a 3.9 seconds effort.

Farlough is a sophomore Social Science major and hails from Los Angeles. After graduation he plans to continue his rope climbing with the Los Angeles Turnverein AAU gym club.

Farlough will be one of three returning lettermen on the Mustang gym team this year. Charles Plath has replaced Dr. Glenn Noble as coach of the squad which opens its '58 season March 7. "This year's gymnastic team is shorthanded and anyone who wishes to participate for the team is welcome," mentioned Herman.

The Way We See It

If The Shoe Fits ... Watch Your Language

The addition of coeds to the Cal Poly campus has failed to curtail students' excessive use of vulgar language.

As reported in the news columns of last Tuesday's EL MUSTANG, two CP students attending a recent basketball game in Grandall Gym were so discourteous by their use of obscene language it became necessary for an administrative dean to ask them to leave.

It goes without saying that such conduct is not socially acceptable. Students involved in the affair were asked to appear before Dean of Students Everett Chandler. They received only a verbal reprimand.

In the case of one student it appears to have been effective. The student has taken it upon himself to apologize to the coach of the L.A. State team. His action in doing so is certainly far more of a compliment to him than was his display in Grandall Gym. It is unfortunate that the students and campus visitors who packed the gym to watch something entirely different can not be informed of his apology as dramatically as they were of the foul tongue of the individuals involved.

All Cal Poly students (and these two in particular) are fortunate to have an administration that is more interested in improving the final product of this college than in "controlling the masses" by expelling individuals who do not conform to their standards.

Poly's men are not the only members of this 4,000-plus campus family who, far too often, fail to display this basic expression of common decency toward their fellow human beings.

One current girl's dormitory president points out that vulgar language used by a resident of her dorm was so abusive it embarrassed the girls when their dates came to call. She reported to the EL MUSTANG the girl's dorm-mates finally had to ask the girl to conduct herself in a more becoming manner.

Similar reports from other coeds in other dorms show this is not an isolated incident.

One need go no farther than El Corral College shop to find more examples of conduct than any future employer would most certainly consider a liability.

Students of this college do not want to be known as coming from an institution that produces graduates with vocabularies so narrow they must rely upon vulgarity to express themselves.

What can we do to improve ourselves in this regard? The best way is to let others know you do not approve of the use of vulgar language by not using such language. People will readily note if their choice of words is out of place.

If they are intelligent enough to benefit from a college education they will know by your example that college-level thinking people do not find the use of vulgar language acceptable. If their minds are too narrow to see this they do not belong in this or any other college.

Certainly not every student at Cal Poly is so careless with their language. But when examples as above are so plentiful—there are too many who are too careless. It is up to you the individual student—if the shoe fits, watch your language.

TO SAY THE LEAST

By Alton Pryor

GRAB YOUR hat! Here goes! (Later, I'll grab mine) When are we going to face the fact that this is not a "rah-rah" school? With every sporting event it becomes more evident. A fenced-off rooter's section, containing the best seats in the gym, remained conspicuously empty last week while the areas on either end filled with basketball-interested students.

Remember, in the registration line, when you were handed a sheet signed by Rally Committee Chairman Lynn Dyche, asking all rooters to wear white shirts to basketball games "... in order to promote a better school spirit?"

Well, the spirit in those white shirts must have come out in the wash.

THERE WERE plenty of white-shirted rooters at the first game. Each game there appears to be less and less. It's evident that students do own white shirts; they wore them at the first game. Where, then, is the answer?

Let's hang the wash on the line. Students sitting in the end zones last weekend, both Friday and Saturday nights, did not appear to be lacking in a required amount of enthusiasm. Neither was it on display to the extent of contortionism.

LAST SATURDAY night the yell leaders, song leaders and sent monitors nearly outnumbered the organized (?) rooters. Is it possible that school spirit is not gauged at Cal Poly by the number of leaps, arm-lashes and body grinds a yell leader can squeeze between a hysterical "M.U." and a "fight, fight, fight"?

Let's analyze further. Is it not possible that our yell leaders are performing as much for their own entertainment and egotistical satisfaction as they are for other students?

I'M NOT ADVOCATING the abolishment of Rally Committee. But I am suggesting their efforts could be channeled toward objectives which students want, need and like. Suggestions I have include some sparkling half-time programs such as bands, student and outside performers, or of nothing else, a good old song-fest.

I'm sure that if the Rally Committee would get its many-numbered heads together that it could come up with several sterling ideas. Meantime, why don't they sit down and let us watch the game?

IF THEY MUST do their acrobatic exercises let them take this small entourage into the foyer, (it will hold them) and let those seats which are now empty be occupied by rooters who are satisfied with murmuring "Atta-boy, good shot," or merely uttering a low groan over a miss.

And that, is: To Say The Least.

Franchises Due February 1 On All Vending Machines

Franchises on all vending machines on campus must be renewed by Feb. 1 or the machines will be ordered removed, says Everett Chandler, Dean of Students. The new franchise will be strictly enforced, which is a protection for the students' investment.

El Corral Manager Duke Hill says that any club or organization that doesn't want to keep their machines should let him know by Feb. 1.

El Corral will deposit all funds and pay the bills to the vending machine companies at no charge to the clubs or organizations.

The President's Cabinet recently approved a new policy on operation of vending machines on the campus.

The operation of such vending machines shall be the exclusive privilege of El Corral College Store, which may sub-lease such operation on a franchise basis to student organizations recognized by the Associated Student Body. Franchises granted shall be issued only after such factors as appearance, utilities, maintenance, need for the machine, and competition with El Corral units have been considered.

The procedure outlined for a campus organization wishing to operate a vending machine involves submitting a signed copy of the vending machine franchise agreement with the Maintenance officer for utility hookup and maintenance problems, with the Business Manager for effect of the machines or general campus appearance, and with the Dean of Students for equity of treatment to student organizations. The Store Manager can either approve the franchise or refer it to a Review Board consisting of the members of the College Store Advisory Committee for final decision.

Broodmare Given To Cal Poly As Gift From CTBA

Two Cal Poly thoroughbred two-year-olds were sold last Monday for $8800 at the California Thoroughbred Breeders Association winter auction in Pomona, reports Bill Gibford, head of the campus horse unit.

A filly, Big Enough, by Conversion and out of Cal O' Battle, went under the hammer for $1000 to race horse owner Charles Russell. Low Call, a colt by Call Bell and out of Mabel Hygro, had sustained a leg injury prior to sale, but went to Agoura Stock Farm for $2800. Agoura also owns a full sister to Low Call, a mare named Leisure Lady which was a good placer in stakes. Both have as a full brother the good stakes placed horse Copper Bell.

Freeland Thorson, animal husbandry major from Weiser, Idaho accompanied Gibford on the trip. They brought back a broodmare, Favorable, by Grand Slam out of Nealap, a sister to Phar Lap, and in foal to Turk's Delight. The mare is a gift to the college from Lou Rowan, president of the California Thoroughbred Breeders Association.

"This mare has been highly appraised, and should be a valuable addition to our breeding program," Gibford said. He will leave Saturday for Laguna Seca Ranch in Monterey to pick up two other mares acquired recently from Frank Bishop. They are Dorinda R., by Bull Lea, sire of Citation, and in foal to Requested, and Silver Flight, by Blameless and in foal to Turk's Delight.

Cal Poly mares this spring are scheduled to drop six new foals, which will be sold at thoroughbred auctions at yearlings. The mares will be bred back to such stallions as Nathoo, by Nasrullah, winner of the Irish Derby; The Pie King, leading two-year-old of England in his year; Goyama, by Goya II; El Drag, by Khaled, sire of Swaps; Lodge Night, by Alibani; and Fair Truckle.

El Rodeo Advisor Recommends Early Appointments

El Rodeo advisor, Loren Nicholson, has recommended to the Board of Publications that selection of yearbook editors be made earlier in the year than is now the policy.

At present, the yearbook editor is selected late in the spring quarter. Nicholson recommended selection be made in the latter part of the winter quarter.

Nicholson pointed out that many major schools select their editors as much as a year in advance. They do this by appointing an associate editor who will become editor the following year, says the advisor.

He states two major reasons for the need of the early appointment.

Nicholson, who is also a faculty member of the board, says it would be possible for the editor to have the entire yearbook planned before the start of the Fall Quarter. In this way the editor would be in position to start immediately taking pictures and setting up the book.

Secondly, there has been no advance sale of the book in the fall. If the editor were selected as proposed, it would be possible for him to select a pre-sale staff early enough to sell the book at the fall registration.

The Board of Publications took no formal action.

paddocks are two just-turned yearlings, a sister to Low Call, and a colt by Orbit II-Topsy Ann. These will be sold this summer in the yearling sales.

Potential Rocket Club Will Meet Next Month

In view of the great interest shown here in amateur rockets, Charles Kimball from the aero department is calling together a meeting of all interested persons. The meeting will be held in EE4, Tuesday, Feb. 4 at 7:30 P.M.

Purpose of the meeting is to organize a rocket club on campus so that rocket projects can be coordinated and information used for the best purposes. Safety will be stressed.

Following organization of the club, members may elect to go into the American Rocket Society as a branch member.
