Rec Center wins two design awards

Cal Poly's Recreation Center has received two design awards: An Honor Award from the American Institute of Architects California Council and an Architectural Showcase/Facility of Merit award from Athletic Business magazine.

An announcement and photos of the center and nine other winning facilities will appear in the November issue of Athletic Business. A detailed article will appear in a later issue.

The 113,528 square-foot-facility, designed by Elbasani & Logan Architects, cost $14.8 million.

New location announced for curriculum forum

The President's Forum on the Year of the Curriculum, originally scheduled in Chumash 207, will be held in Chumash 205, the main auditorium. The time and date remain the same – from 1 to 2:30 pm Tuesday, Oct. 18.

The faculty, staff and students are invited to hear views on the curriculum and co-curriculum issues from President Baker, Vice President for Academic Affairs Robert Koob, Vice President for Student Affairs Juan Gonzalez, ASI President Erica Brown, Academic Senate Chair Jack Wilson, and Staff Council Chair Bonnie Krupp.

To request a copy of the Curriculum and Calendar Task Force's report, "Visionary Pragmatism," call Academic Programs at ext. 2246.

AIDS Awareness Week to be Oct. 17-20

Plan to attend a workshop, watch a video or stop by an information table in the UU Plaza during HIV/AIDS Awareness Week Monday-Thursday, Oct. 17-20.

Peer health educators will be on hand in the Plaza from 10 am to noon all four days to answer questions and

Stover named new associate VP

Vicki Stover is the new No. 2 in the Administration and Finance division.

A San Luis Obispo resident and Cal Poly employee since 1969, Stover has held a number of jobs here. She served most recently as an administration and finance associate and previously as associate budget officer, interim athletics business manager, assistant budget analyst, and accounting technician. She was named an outstanding staff member for the 1985-86 academic year.

She will work with Vice President Frank Lebens in managing the division, which has approximately 300 full-time employees in seven departments: Budget Planning and Administration, Facilities Planning, Facility Services, Fiscal Services, Human Resources, Public Safety Services and Support Services.

"Stover is responsible for coordinating and facilitating the re-engineering and quality improvements within the Administration and Finance division, overseeing benchmarking efforts and promoting strategic 'state of practice' technologies," Lebens said.

Stover will also work with department directors to improve service and lower costs and will serve as the liaison with student government and other student groups.

The Cal Poly alumna earned a bachelor's degree in 1979 and a master's in 1986 in business administration. She is pursuing a doctorate in public administration from the University of LaVerne. Her dissertation is on "Organizational Effectiveness in Higher Education."

Two Cal Poly writers will read Oct. 18

Two Cal Poly writers will present the first reading in Cal Poly Arts' 1994-95 WriterSpeak series at 7 pm Tuesday, Oct. 18, in Mustang Lounge (Room 203) in the UU.

The PolyVoices presentation will feature fiction writer Al Landwehr, a professor of English, and poet Hunter Lillis, a Cal Poly Arts staff member.

Landwehr has taught creative writing at the university for 20 years. His work has been published in a number of literary magazines and he is finishing a novel, "My New Life." His narrative voice is known for its irony and controlled humor.

Lillis, who earned a master's degree in English from Cal Poly, has also studied poetry with noted author Tess Gallagher. She was among a select group who attended the Squaw Valley Community of Writers during the summer of 1993.

For more information on the presentation, call Mary Kay Harrington of the Writing Skills office at ext. 2067.

'Wilderness medicine' offered by ASI Outings

ASI Outings will offer a three-day "Back-Country Emergency Care" course on campus from Friday through Sunday, Oct. 21-23.

The class, designed for outdoor leaders, guides and anyone interested in learning about wilderness medicine, will cover basic first-aid requirements of the National Safety Council.

The workshop will address the long-term-care aspects of emergencies and will include primary assessment and secondary survey, spinal cord injury management, and the handling of victims of shock, dislocations, hypothermia, and high-altitude illness. The emotional and psychological aspects of emergency care will also be covered.

The workshop uses hands-on scenarios and student participation to improve learning.

The course costs $70 and participants will receive a certificate valid for two years.

For more information or to sign up, call the Escape Route at ext. 1287.

Spiller to give recital in Theatre Oct. 22

William Spiller, pianist and Music professor, will open the department's 1994-95 series of faculty recitals at 8 pm Saturday, Oct. 22, in the Theatre.

Fast becoming a favorite among local music enthusiasts, Spiller will play Sonata in D minor, Op. 31, No. 2, ("The Tempest"), by Beethoven; Theme and Variations on a Theme of Robert Schumann, by Clara Schumann; Ballad in G minor, by Chopin; and "Le Tombeau de Couperin," by Ravel.

Tickets for the concert are $10 and $8 for the public and $6 and $4 for students and senior citizens. Proceeds from the concert will benefit the Music Department's scholarship fund.

For reservations call the 24-hour Anytime ArtsLine at ext. 1421.

Collins, 92

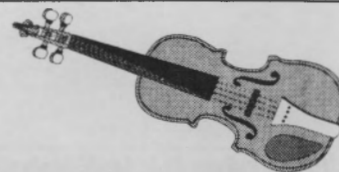

Spelman Collins died Sept. 19 in a Santa Barbara hospital. He taught animal husbandry at Cal Poly from 1940 until 1968.

A 1925 graduate of UC Davis, Collins was known throughout the state as one of California's most prominent livestock judges. He continued to breed and exhibit sheep until he turned 92.

Davis, 57

Jerry Davis, an administrator in Custodial Services, was found dead in his home Oct. 2.

Davis came to Cal Poly in 1972 as a custodian and was promoted to administrator in 1983. He was born in Elk City, Okla., and graduated from Santa Maria Union High School in 1956.

Century Orchestra Osaka to play in Pismo Beach

The Century Orchestra Osaka, featuring award-winning violin soloist Kyoko Takezawa, will be at the Church of the Nazarene in Pismo Beach at 8 pm Thursday, Oct. 20.

The concert, part of Cal Poly Arts' Great Performances series, will be preceded by a discussion with Cal Poly Music Department Head Clifton Swanson at 7 pm in Room 12 in the church's Education Building.

The orchestra will perform Symphony No. 95 in C minor by Haydn; Violin Concerto in E minor, Op. 64, by Mendelssohn; and Symphony No. 9 in E-flat major, Op. 70, by Shostakovich.

This marks the first major U.S. tour for Osaka's 60 young musicians, conducted by Uriel Segal.

Segal, who has been with the orchestra since its beginning in 1989, is currently the musical director of the Chautauqua Festival in New York. He has conducted all the major British orchestras and appeared with the Berlin Philharmonic, the Stockholm Philharmonic, Orchestre de Paris, Orchestre National de France and the Tokyo Philharmonic.

Violinist Takezawa began her studies at the age of three. When she was 11, she won first prize in the All-Japan Competition for Students.

A recent Los Angeles Times article said "Takezawa's debut appearance with the orchestra in the Mendelssohn E minor concerto contained many beauties and emerged almost pristine in its clarity. (Takezawa) has everything she needs for this test-piece: solid technique, a full and resonant tone of great carrying power, a Mendelssohnian reserve and ... a natural eloquence."

Tickets for the performance are $30, $25 and $20 for the public and $25, $20 and $15 for students and senior citizens. For reservations, call the 24-hour Anytime ArtsLine at ext. 1421. Tickets can also be bought at the Theatre Ticket Office.

The meetings will provide an opportunity to keep up on the status of campus curriculum discussions and to voice your opinions on the future of academic programs.

Silent comedian LaJoye to perform Oct. 15

Audiences of all ages will delight in the comic antics of Gale LaJoye in "Snowflake" at 11 am Saturday, Oct. 15, in the Theatre.

The first in this year's series of Cal Poly Arts performances for families, "Snowflake" silently brings to life a childlike street character living in a vacant lot strewn with discarded treasures.

Snowflake doesn't need big shoes or a red nose to make audiences laugh; he entertains by recycling objects into comic treasures - a crate becomes a ski hill, packing bubbles turn into a bed frame, and a saw becomes unlikely musical instruments.

LaJoye is a comic descendent of Red Skelton, Jackie Gleason, Buster Keaton and Charlie Chaplin.

Tickets are $9 and $7 for the public and $7 and $5 for students and senior citizens. For reservations, call the 24-hour Anytime ArtsLine, ext. 1421, or buy tickets at the Theatre Ticket Office.

'Great American pastime' topic of Oct. 23 talk

The Library Associates have planned a triple-header for their fall program, beginning at 2 pm Sunday, Oct. 23, in Room 202 of the Kennedy Library.

Paul Zingg, dean of the College of Liberal Arts, Mike Krukow, broadcaster and former pitcher for the San Francisco Giants, and Ritch Price, Cal Poly's baseball coach, will team up to present "The Great American Pastime - Baseball!"

Zingg will talk about his book, "Harry Hooper: An American Baseball Life." Hooper was the leadoff pitcher and right fielder for the Boston Red Sox from 1909 to 1920. Hooper was inducted into the Baseball Hall of Fame in 1971.

After Zingg's presentation, Krukow

and Price will speak about their experiences and careers in baseball.

Krukow won 66 games in his seven seasons with the Giants. He is San Francisco's ninth-winningest pitcher – the only one to win 20 games in the last 17 years.

Price, the former head coach and athletic director at De Anza College in Cupertino, came to Cal Poly in 1994.

After the presentation, a reception with refreshments will be held.

Division of labor topic of Oct. 24 talk

Is it true that the division of housework and child care reflects the power inequities that exist between men and women in the workplace and beyond?

That question and more will be explored by Psychology and Human Development Professor Shawn Burn from 12:10 to 1 pm Monday, Oct. 24, in the Staff Dining Room.

"Second Shifts and Leisure Gaps: Explaining Gender Differentials in Household Labor" is being presented as part of the Women's Studies Lunch-Time Seminar programs.

According to recent statistics, a significant inequity in the division of household chores exists between men and women – even when women are employed full time outside the home. Although women and men who are both working often agree that the division of labor should be more egalitarian, there is little evidence of actual change in that direction.

Burn will also explore such questions as:

- ♦ How does the traditional division of labor in the home contribute to gender stereotypes and women's lower status?

- ♦ Why don't men do more housework even when they agree they should?

- ♦ What can be done to bring about a more equitable division of household labor?

For more information, call the Women's Studies Program at ext. 1525, or stop by Faculty Offices North (#47) Room 25H.
