SAN LUIS OBISPO – Cal Poly students in Professor Nina Truch's speech communications class are organizing a concert on Wednesday, Feb. 15, to raise money for research for Hutchinson-Gilford Progeria Syndrome, or Progeria, a rare, genetic condition characterized by accelerated aging in children.

Seattle native musician Dan Purser will perform at 7 p.m. at the Downtown Brewing Co. (Formerly SLO Brew) at 1119 Garden Street in San Luis Obispo.

Tickets are $10 and will be sold at the door the night of the event. T-shirts and CDs will be available for purchase, with all proceeds donated to the Progeria Research Foundation.
