Mustangs Tangle With Linfield Saturday

SCOTS SATURDAY—Jim Antoine, with ball, is shown in a bit of last year's action and will be doing more of the same when the Cal Poly Mustangs open the season Saturday against Linfield college in Poly stadium. Kickoff time is 8:15 p.m. Antoine, one of four seniors, averaged close to 4 1/4 yards a carry last year. He caught five passes for 144 yards and averaged a good 39 yards a punt in 11 attempts. The ornamental horticulture major scored 24 points. El Mustang Photo

Poly Battles Northwest Champs in Season Opener

by ED SLEVIN
Athletic Publicity Director

Saturday night the lights will again glow in Poly stadium when the Mustangs of Cal Poly take on what expects to be a tough and rugged Linfield college in the opening tilt of the 1957 grid season. Game time is slated for 8:15 p.m.

The Wildcats of Linfield, coached by Paul Durham, are defending champions of the Northwest conference and boast 26 returning lettermen, many who will see action against the victory-seeking Hughesmen.

Head football coach, LeRoy "Silver Fox" Hughes, begins his eighth season as Mustang mentor by presenting the greatest home schedule in many a year. Such grid powers as Fresno and San Jose state plus other worthies as the University of California at Santa Barbara and Pepperdine will be featured in Poly stadium this fall.

The Cardinal and Purple eleven will be trying to better their 6-1-2 record of 1956 and with their host of letter-winners should prove to be stiff competition for the Green and Gold Mustangs.

Linfield guard, Vic Fox was picked as first string Little All-American by the Williamson system last season and many coaches in the Oregon area consider him as good a linebacker as there is on the Coast. Ron Parrish, quarterback for the Wildcats, engine-

Poly's Crack ROTC Battalion Captures Many Top Awards

Any student would be proud to be a member of Cal Poly's crack ROTC unit.

For the past three years, the local battalion has won an award in competition with 30 colleges from the Sixth Army area at the Fort Lewis, Wash. summer camp.

This year Cadet Lt. Col. William L. Lockwood, a math major from San Luis Obispo, won the trophy for the cadet ranking second highest in all around competition out of a field of 1360 cadets. Lt. John G. Reid of San Luis Obispo won the award in 1955. Also in 1955, Cal Poly won the Warrior of the Pacific trophy and in 1956 was rated number one in overall military proficiency.

Col. W. E. H. Voehl, who takes over command of the military science and tactics department this fall, says that "a student being able to enter the armed forces

Frosh Football Scheduled After Four Year Lapse

After a lapse of four years, Cal Poly will have a freshman football team.

Athletic Director Roy Hughes announces an abbreviated schedule along with a call for all former high school football players.

Hughes urges all freshmen interested to report to Coach Tom Lee in tunnel 8 of the stadium and sign up for practice which starts Monday afternoon, Sept. 16. All equipment will be furnished to aspirants.

The freshman schedule:

- Oct. 4 Fresno State Frosh at Fresno, 3 p.m.
- Oct. 11 San Jose State Frosh, here, 3 p.m.
- Oct. 26 Santa Maria JC at Santa Maria, 3 p.m.
- Nov. 1 College of Pacific Frosh at Stockton, 3 p.m.

New Students Arrive on Campus For Welcome Week, Registration

Officials Welcome, Offer Challenge to New Students

Welcome, freshmen and transfer students, to Cal Poly. In greeting you our first concern is that you shall use to their fullest the opportunities which await you on this campus. In the obtaining of an education, the initiative rests with the student. Instructors cannot give you an education, but they most assuredly can help you to acquire one. A highly qualified faculty is ready here to help you with your problems. I urge you to make use of this assistance.

You will gain more from the time you spend at Cal Poly if Welcome to Cal Poly. We are happy that you have selected our college in which to continue your education.

Your decision to acquire a college education is one of the most important in your life. Now you are faced with another important decision, that of active or passive participation in college activities. They are as much a part of your college career as your formal education.

In this modern world of organized group activity, whether it be here at Cal Poly, in your you become a good campus citizen in the fullest sense. That does not mean merely being law-abiding in observance of college regulations, although it certainly includes such conduct. The plus factor in being a good campus citizen is to be attained by becoming a real part of the college community.

You are training here for life and living. To do that properly you must get more than occupational proficiency. You must ready yourself to do your share as a citizen in the community in which you pursue your career after college. In our college community you can learn to do this. By taking part in the life of the campus you can learn how to work with others, how to exercise leadership and how to serve in the ranks.

Our welcome at Cal Poly is a broad one. It is a welcome to study, to campus activities, to hard work, to good times, and to lasting friendships. Be satisfied with nothing less.

Coffee Hour Planned With SP Division Heads

Want to meet the Student Personnel division on an informal basis? Times during the year when you will be able to do this will be few and far between.

Student Personnel division includes, to name a few, Dean Everett Chandler; Dan Lawson, associate dean of activities; Paul Winner, associate dean; Gene Rittenhouse, placement officer, and many, many more.

All of these officials, and others, too, will be at the coffee hour in the Temporary College union at 9 a.m. on Friday, Sept. 20.

community, or in the business world the ability to work with others is an important key to success.

It is because of this ever increasing need, that I urge you to become active in your dorm, your department and your college.

I know that you will become a real part of our growing spirit by taking an enthusiastic interest in our college projects.

Your experiences here will be as rewarding as you wish to make them.

Library Patio Scene of Get-together for New Wives

Wives of new Cal Poly students will have an opportunity to get acquainted with each other and with the campus at the get-acquainted session in the library patio. Cal Poly Student Wives club is sponsoring this session at 9 a.m. Saturday morning, Sept. 21.

The program, under the chairmanship of Mrs. Robert Brown, will include a coffee and social hour, a tour of the campus on tractor-drawn hay wagons, and a walking tour of El Corral College store, El Corral fountain, the administration building and the library. It is to be an informal dress affair.

Free baby sitting services will be available to new student wives who may wish to use them. Services are being provided by the Student Wives club.

The officers of the Student Wives club, Mrs. Malcolm Fraser, president; Robert Olson, vice president; Bertrand Anderson, secretary; and Donald Hendricks, treasurer, wish to extend a cordial invitation for all student wives to attend the club meetings that are held once a month on campus.

Top Skits Given At "Freshman Follies" Friday

During the three, two-day camps at Welcome Week camp, contests are going to be in progress. One of these contests will be to see which team has dreamed up the best skit.

At the "Freshman Follies," on Friday at 8 p.m. in the Engineering Auditorium, the prize winning skits will be presented to the rest of the student body.

You'll get to see more of Cal Poly's top stars, because they'll be on hand to give out with a little more entertainment.

"Freshman Follies" is under the direction of Welcome Roundup camp counselors. The program will be emceed by an upperclassman.

There's a good possibility that the "Follies" will be moved to Monday evening, so watch for an announcement concerning this.

Many Sports Organized for Frosh Week

If you can throw a ball at a bat, if you can fling your arms over your head to swat at a passing volleyball, or if you can only yell "Go, team, go," then you're eligible, and you're wanted.

Intramural sports have been organized for all Welcome Week celebrants who may want to participate. Games will be open to all students, either as a participant or as a spectator—preferably as a participant.

Intramurals have been scheduled for Wednesday, Thursday, and Friday, Sept. 18, 19, and 20 from 4:30 to 5:30 p.m.

Those students willing to look for their athletic talents should meet on the baseball diamond at the above stated date and time. An upper classmen, whether athletically qualified or not, will be on hand to help supervise and organize intramural contests.

At the end of the three days of contests, a play-off tournament will be held and the grand intramural champs crowned.

Dr. Harry Grace Tells Aims, Methods of Counseling Center

Editor's Note: Realizing the tremendous importance of counseling to the new college student, El Mustang requested Dr. Harry A. Grace, Cal Poly's new associate Dean of Students, to explain the function of the counseling center and how it attempts to help students with their various problems. Following are Dr. Grace's remarks:

Members of the Counseling center are very much aware of the extreme complexity of the human being. They are particularly cognizant that each individual is unique in his own right. Moreover, counselors agree that the total picture of an individual student can neither be broken down into pieces nor reconstructed like a jigsaw puzzle.

The student who wishes to be counseled, however, usually is bothered by one problem and not concerned with its part in the total pattern of his life. He wants to change his major. He wants to know if he should enter business. He is trying to decide whether to transfer to another college. He can't get along with his room mate. It's usually one problem like this that brings an individual to the Counseling center.

Thus counselors are forced to hold two contradictory points of view. With one eye they view the individual as a unique continuing totality, while with the other eye they dissect him into minor parts. As long as the two eyes are focused, counseling proceeds without unusual difficulty.

At Cal Poly we try to understand the individual student by looking at him from five different perspectives (much like the Blind men from Hindustan). We consider the experiences he has had in school, in the home, in the service, and on the job before coming to the college. We measure his probable success in college level work compared with his fellow students. We test the amount of knowledge he brings with him in English, mathematics, and for some students, in agriculture mechanics and animal husbandry. We question his personality characteristics in order to determine how deep his desire for a college education actually lies. And because he has made an early choice of his career, we examine his vocational interest in comparison with successful people in various fields.

The skill of a Counselor lies not so much in his ability to look in these five directions at once but in trying to reconstruct the unique continuing individual from these five different viewpoints. Most counselors find the face-to-face interview the best method for bringing their two eyes into focus.

'53 Engineering Grad Appointed To Naval Academy

Officials at Cal Poly have been notified that Lt. William A. La Rosa, a 1953 mechanical engineering graduate, has been assigned to the teaching staff of the engineering division at the United States Naval Academy, Annapolis, Maryland.

Son of Mr. and Mrs. William V. La Rosa, 1215 Ninth Ave., Delano, La Rosa was employed by Douglas Aircraft for two years after graduation as a liaison engineer and plant engineer. Entering the Naval Officers Candidate School at Newport, R. I., he received his commission as ensign in March, 1955, and has since been serving on engineering assignments afloat. His pre-Annapolis assignment was chief of engineering of the USS Betelgeuse following promotion to lieutenant, junior grade.

During the duration of his assignment at Annapolis, La Rosa and his wife, Barbara, will make their home at Annapolis.

Only Snow Will Stop the Beach Party Sunday

Barring rain, hail, sleet, or snow—but nothing else—there's going to be a beach party at Avila beach, sponsored by the Outings committee. The party will be Sunday afternoon, Sept. 22, and it will begin at 2 p.m.

To get to Avila, just follow 101 highway south eight miles and then follow the signs. Green and gold flags will be set up on the beach so you'll know which section has been reserved for the Cal Poly group.

Games are being planned, with lots of contests, fun, and sand. In case you get thirsty, what with all the activities, ice cold soft drinks are being furnished for all party-goers.

Students Arrive

Sunday, Sept. 22, 8:30 a.m., transportation to church begins. Meet at the Library lawn. Cars leave every half hour for any church in San Luis Obispo; 2 p.m., beach party at Avila, sponsored by College Union Outings Committee, recreation and soft drinks; 7 p.m., most church youth meetings begin.

Rally Committee Ready to Help Boost Mustangs

Friday evening many energetic Cal Poly rooters outfitted in white sweaters will be organizing and maintaining the football rooting section, Gary Garfield, rally committee chairman announced today.

"One of the functions of your Cal Poly rally committee is to organize the tremendous spirit generated by our highly successful athletic teams," Garfield stated. In order to do this the rally committee directs many activities.

This year the rally committee plans rallies for every home game, including bonfire and torchlight rallies, exchange rallies with two of our biggest rivals. Also the rally committee plans to travel as an organization to several away football games and participating in many other campus activities, explained the OH major.

The yell leaders help promote the organized cheering section for which Cal Poly is noted. The yell leaders headed by Bill Bradbury are Chris Bays, Ron Pardini, John Valentine and Bob Franchetti.

Your song girls have spent many hours training to give you the best show possible as they work out to the fine music of our Pop band, Garfield said.

Greta Garton is head song girl with Ruthie Holbrook, Claudette Fitzpatrick, Barbara Brewer and Jane Randall rounding out a very fine group of pom-pom shakers.

This year with the team showing well under Coach Hughes it is predicted that Cal Poly will lay claim to "The Bell," a perpetual trophy between Cal Poly and Fresno State college.

The rally committee openly asks your participation in all our activities and invites you to attend their meetings. See the "Pony" for meeting times.

New Students Meet Faculty At Barbecue

Classes will be starting in a very few days. At many colleges, students do not have an opportunity to meet the faculty members, their teachers, until their class meets for the first time. Not so here at Cal Poly.

The "Meet the Faculty" barbecue in Poly Grove on Saturday, Sept. 24 takes care of that. From 5 to 7 p.m. it is possible for you to chat informally with teachers in your own and other departments—and ask questions.

This is an annual event that has proven to be highly popular in the past. It is put on by the cafeteria and will feature the traditional barbecue meal: steak, chili beans, salad, hot, buttered french bread, and ice cream for dessert. The cafeteria will not be open on this evening. Everyone is invited to attend this barbecue.

Immediately following the "Meet the Faculty" barbecue a rally will be held at the grove. Complete with a pep band and Gary Garfield, Rally Committee chairman, participants will "rally on over" to the football stadium to help cheer on the green machine as they mow down the Linfield college team.

Football

(Continued from page one) ears their passing attack to the degree where it is considered the major part of the Linfield offense. Also slated to see plenty of action are fullback Sel Spray, ends Jerry Beier and Howard Glenn, tackle Terry Picknell and guard Howard Morris.

The Mustang attack will be led by 17 lettermen and will see quarterback Bob Beathard, a junior from El Segundo, with teammates Dan Delgado and Jim Antoine at the halfback spot. In the fullback slot, lettermen Dick Mannini and Walt Gurney will bolster the Mustang attack.

With the loss of Jim Cox, Little All-American candidate at end, Hughes will be looking for Lew Gentry, Craig Brown and 6' 2", 200 pounder Darwin Magill to fill in a position of leadership and responsibility equal to or greater than one's professional field is a compelling reason for completing the ROTC.

ROTC is a four year elective course teaching general military science. Cal Poly was one of the first schools on the Pacific Coast some very tricky and speedy shoes.

Tackles Bruce Butterfield, John Allen and 200 pounder Larry Mitchell of Santa Maria will be seen plugging the line, with guards Bob Williams, Mathias Medrano and Bob Moore opening those needed holes.

Big Richard Max, a transfer from San Francisco City college, should see a lot of action anchoring the line with his 217 pounds.

With these men suited up for action Saturday night, the Mustangs will be trying to outdo last season's 7-3-0 record with their first victory against the Wildcats of Linfield college.

to use this type of curriculum which gives the student the opportunity to choose his branch when he has completed ROTC. The four year course is divided into the basic course and the advanced course. Entrance into the advanced course is by selection. During that time the student is paid approximately $27 a month. Between the junior and the senior years the cadets attend summer camp held at Fort Lewis.

A ROTC rifle team competes in national, army and intercollegiate matches. A drill team participates at local functions while the Military Ball is the outstanding social event of the college and is sponsored by the Scabbard and Blade, an honorary military society.

The military staff includes Col. Voehl, Major Earl W. Fletcher, executive officer, and Captains Roland A. Kline and Robert J. Shively. Assistant instructors are Master Sergeants Lawrence E. Fouchs, Leonard W. Cutshall and Henry Bradley.

Col. Voehl welcomes students to visit the ROTC office and discuss the program. ROTC offices are located in the wooden structure northeast of the library.

Frat Sponsors New Students Party

There's a great big "howdy" being extended to all you newcomers on Thursday evening, Sept. 19, at 8 p.m. in the Temporary College union.

If you want to meet the campus leaders and find out about all the campus student organizations, or if you just want to free-load and enjoy the entertainment, this is the ideal set-up for you. It's a "Welcome Party" for all the new students, and it's under the sponsorship of the Alpha Pi Omega fraternity.

There are going to be representatives from many of the top campus student organizations on hand to give you a first-hand, inside tip on organizational set-up. (What they're really going to do is try to get you to join up.)

Some of Cal Poly's top stars will be on hand to entertain you and there will be all the food you can eat at the refreshment tables.
