Bookstore Sets Change For 1962

by Jim McLain
Staff Writer

To facilitate the construction of a new book store and student activities building, and to limit the extent of liability placed on its management, El Corral, the college bookstore, will begin operations as a non-profit corporation early in 1962. It was announced recently by the store's advisory committee.

Dean of Finance and Development, George C. Cline, said that the incorporation move will lead to completion of the new facilities, "sometime in 1962." He added that the state does not finance such buildings.

Since the 1920's, El Corral has been run by the college under the administration of an advisory committee composed of faculty members and administrative personnel. The group is directly responsible to College President Julian A. McPhoe for the store's operations.

Profits from all sales have been set aside for the construction of the activities building. According to Donald S. Nelson, college business manager, "This policy was formulated at the expressed order of President McPhoe. Items are priced so that net profits will not exceed 5%, and not fall below 6%."

According to Cline, "We have tried to make our prices match those of the downtown merchants. However, we have not always been successful in this respect."

Nelson said that the amount saved for the activities building so far is $284,400.

"All this money is being saved in savings accounts and bonds," Nelson stated.

Directing the new corporation will be an unpaid Board of Directors. Members of the board will include a representative of the president of the college, the dean of the college, the dean of students, the college business manager, the Associated Student Body president and the graduate manager.

Cline said that the board will begin preliminary plans for the new building complex soon after El Corral is officially incorporated.

Nelson said that by incorporating El Corral, less liability will

Drama Committee Slates 'All My Sons' Production

After five weeks of hard, concentrated rehearsal "All My Sons", a three-act play by the noted playwright, Arthur Miller, will be presented Thurs., Fri. and Sat. at 8:30 p.m. in the Air Conditioning Auditorium by the College Union Drama Committee.

"Death of a Salesman" won Miller the Pulitzer Prize, and ran for more than two years on Broadway. He is also the author of "Bus Stop", another Broadway long-timer, and presently playing on Broadway is his "The Crucible".

Not unlike many of Miller's plays, "All My Sons" is a modern tragedy, giving a profound and vivid conception of American business philosophy, its ethics and morals. It depicts many of the familiar tragedies so common in life.

Derek Mills, junior English and Social Science major portrays Joe Keller, the leading character. Kate Keller, his wife is played by Judy Mabana, Agricultural Journalism major. Chris Keller the son, is portrayed by Rawson Lloyd, Agricultural Business Management major. Ann Deever is played by Pamela Powell, Technical Journalism major.

The remainder of the cast includes Roger Mills as George Deever, Burton Ruten as Dr. Jim Bayle, Mimi Young as Sue Bayle, Dan Muller as Frank Lubey, Totty Spargens as Lydia Lubey, and Mark Nelson as Bert, the neighborhood boy.

"With rehearsals four times a week, and emphasis being placed on characterization, the play is slated to be one of the most outstanding ever presented on campus," says Keith Nielsen, English and Speech instructor who is directing the play.

Sets are being designed and built under the supervision of J. Murray Smith, English and Speech dept.

Tickets are on sale at the Little Theater box office from 8 to 5 p.m. and can also be purchased at the door. Admission is 50 cents with ASB card or 75 cents general admission.

MERCY BOWL

Ticket Peak Expected This Week

Ticket sales for the Mercy Bowl football classic will reach a peak this week with consignment tickets being recalled and sent to the areas where there is more demand.

Eight hundred tickets are being given to local merchants who in turn will contact all employees in hopes of selling the tickets. Lee Holmes of Chamber of Commerce, is pushing the move to sell tickets through personal contact.

The local merchants have also sent letters to all distributors urging them to donate to the Mercy Bowl fund. Many distributors have replied with monetary contributions.

Last Saturday night, Mercy Bowl game tickets were sold at the Cal Poly-Adams State football game in Mustang stadium. This Friday night, the Mustangs host the University of California at Santa Barbara and ticket booths will be set up at the stadium in hopes of selling more tickets. Tickets for the Mercy Bowl game are priced at $5.00 each and all seats will be reserved.

Today is the last day to purchase a ticket for the special Mercy Bowl train to Los Angeles on Thanksgiving Day. Unless 250 tickets are purchased, Southern Pacific will not provide a special train. As of last week, only 65 reservations had been made for the trip. Round-trip prices are $10.10 for children under 12. This price includes breakfast and dinner. Transportation from Union Station in Los Angeles to the Coliseum will be provided free by the City of Los Angeles.

Two billboards in San Luis Obispo are now covered with Mercy Bowl ads. Foster and Kleiser and the Bank of America have donated the billboard space.

Tickets which are not sold by Tues., Nov. 21, will be returned to the Coliseum for game-time gate sales.

Roving Reporter

Why should the students of Cal Poly support the Mercy Bowl? Barbie King, Home Economics, Soph., Glendale. We should support the Mercy Bowl because of the existing debt and to help the families of those who died. Reaction in the Los Angeles area was energetic then and now for some way to help the families. I believe the Mercy Bowl will help alleviate part of the financial distress.

Colleen Parrott, Ag Business Fresh, Chula Vista. If the players hadn't been on official school business in the first place they would have never been killed. I feel Cal Poly owes it to them to support the Mercy Bowl.

Lou Menville, P. E. Fresh, New-Port Beach, Calif. begins at home. If we don't support the Mercy Bowl, how do we expect others to? By fully participating. Cal Poly has shown others their sincere interest in the Mercy Bowl.

Betty Shelden, Home Economics, Fresh, Eastman- to. It affects everyone at Cal Poly because indirectly everyone has felt the result of the tragedy. We've all experienced tragedy and therefore should help this worthy cause.

Suppressing The Press!

One of the first big stories that EL MUSTANG reported to the student body this year was the Homecoming Queen Election mixup. In our next issue we suggested to the student body that the present Election Code should be either revised or discarded. Since that time the Student Affairs Council has asked the Constitution and Codes committee (an SAC sub-committee) to look into the matter and suggest changes.

One of the major points we stressed in suggesting the code revision was that the press be given the opportunity to be in attendance at the ballot counting. We have tried to point out that the press is the representative of the student body at the election and has the responsibility to report a factual account of what happens.

But we have been informed that some of the members of the Constitution and Codes committee feel that the press has no right to be in attendance. They have said that the chairman of the Election Committee should make a statement to the press of what happens behind closed doors.

In a sense they are suggesting we be fed "second-hand" information. We wonder why they are afraid to let the press view the counting. In all major national and local elections the press is admitted to the ballot counting room. Should Cal Poly elections be different?

We urge all SAC members to consider this issue very carefully. We point out that if this code is revised without including press representation then SAC is committing the same grave injustice of which they accuse the administration—SUPPRESSING THE STUDENT PRESS. B.B.

Bypassed EDITOR:

As a member of the College Union Assembly Committee, I feel that it is my responsibility to write this letter in response to ON THE INSIDE of Tuesday, Nov. 7.

Contrary to the statement about the cancellation of the Kingston Trio, they gave College Union at least THREE WEEKS advance notice. Also, 50% of the gate of at least $5000, would amount to $4000 leaving $500 profit to go to AHB general fund at no expense to the student body.

Damaging as this may sound, it is but the start of the truth. In the first place, decisions as to which concerts are to be given are never made by the College Union Board. (If the Board makes the decisions, they are entirely contrary to the duties of Assembly Committee as set up in the code.)

If the Kingston Trio were to be denied by anyone, it would have been Assembly Committee's responsibility. However, the Committee DID NOT vote against the Kingston Trio's request. In fact, the Committee did not even get a chance to vote. Those of the Committee who were so "graciously" informed about the offer, gave their definite approval. The Kingston Trio's offer was turned down entirely by the administration.

Assembly Committee

Outlaw Tackle Football

EDITOR:

Last year twenty-two persons tragically perished in an air plane crash on their return trip from playing a football game. This year a benefit game will be played to financially help the families of the deceased and to pay for numerous medical bills of the survivors. This horrible incident brought grief to everyone who heard or read about it because the sports tragedy could have been avoided if there had been some fore-thought.

Most people do not realize that approximately the same number of football players lose their lives every season and hundreds receive permanent injuries from participating in the sport. These individual fatalities and injuries are more tragic than the group one because they are not only avoidable, but they are unjustifiable cases of manslaughter.

A newspaper article stated that it is an obligation of all those interested in athletics to contribute to those crash victims by buying tickets to a "Mercy Bowl Football Classic". The "Mercy" in that title should be changed to "Murder". This memorial benefit also ought to be followed by another event to pay for the doctor, hospital, and possibly funeral bills that will result from that game. Furthermore, the obligation of the athletic enthusiasts is to abolish all forms of tackle football.

The principle of sports participation is to build sound bodies and minds not to destruct them. If every single football tragedy would make the headlines in the circulating periodicals as the air plane sports tragedy did, the game would be outlawed.

N.W.
EDITORS NOTE: If you eliminate football because of the danger involved why not all sports, they all have a certain amount of danger.

Adams State Indians Defeat Punchless Mustangs 10-6

It was a frustrating evening for the Mustangs as they dropped a 10-6 decision to the Adams State Indians last Sat., night in Mustang Stadium.

The Indians, who now sport a 7-2 record and are Rocky Mountain Conference Champions, jumped into a quick 10-0 lead on a 10 yard field goal by Bill Blatnick in the first quarter, and a 1 yard touchdown plunge by fullback Ed Hodnick in the second quarter.

The Mustangs got back into the game late in the second stanza when Ted Toller fired a 35 yard touchdown pass to end Fred Brown for the score.

In the second half, the Cal Poly squad twice drove deep into Adams territory, mainly on the running of Jim Fahey and Wayne Maples, but had the door shut on them by a determined Indian line.

The Mustangs had their golden opportunity midway in the final stanza when John Albie, Mustang guard intercepted a pass and returned the ball to the 11 yard line. From there the Cal Poly team drove to the two yard line. With third and goal to go, a penalty pushed the Mustangs back to the seven yard line, and a Toller pass intended for Brown then went incomplete to end the threat.

The Mustangs were to have one more chance, with but five minutes left in the game, they drove to the Indians' nine. On fourth down, Jordan's pass to Fahey fell incomplete, and for all practical purposes, the game was over. The visitors then kept the ball on the ground and ran out the clock.

The Mustang defense was hurt by the loss of Fred Whittingham early in the game. Whittingham reinjured his already sore ankle in the second quarter and returned to the game only briefly in the third period.

Adams State quarterback Bob Hidalgo, lived up to his press releases, as he ran and passed his team to victory. Hidalgo is the leading passer in the Rocky Mountain Conference and showed it last Saturday night.

Next week, the Mustangs wind up their 1961 season by hosting the Santa Barbara Gauchos Friday night. The Gauchos have a 1-7 record but are not to be taken lightly. In their game with Fresno State, they led the Bulldogs going into the fourth quarter 14-0 only lack of depth allowed the Bulldogs to come from behind and beat them 22-14.
