Cal Poly turned blue last week when more than 700 Future Farmers of America from 226 chapters throughout the state assembled on campus for the 34th Annual State Convention.

After hearing featured speakers, attending policy-making meetings, receiving numerous awards and participating in a number of competitive events encompassing almost every phase of agriculture, the Blue Jacketed rural youths elected six new officers to state posts.

Jerry Dieffenderfer, outgoing state president and freshman Farm Management major here, turned the gavel over to 18-year-old Flint Freeman, a high school senior from Holtville, California.

Elected to other positions were Max Mackleson, Petaluma, vice president; Jerome Falls, Clovis, secretary; Jim Edgerly, Dinuba, treasurer; Tom Conzoli, Manteca, reporter; and Dan Chutman, Madera, sentinel.

Robert Smith, Poly alumnus and keynote convention speaker, told the Future Farmers, "Your theme of Better Ways and Better Days is hard to picture right now with all the surpluses, but the problem would be more serious if the situation were reversed."

Concluding his remarks, the successful farmer from Buttonwillow said, "The Future Farmers of America is one of the greatest construction organizations in the world today."

Presentation of awards topped off the two-day convention. More than 230 high school Future Farmers were awarded the "State Farmer" degree, the highest honor given by the state organization.

A publication, "Pegasus," appeared on campus last Tuesday, publicized as Cal Poly's first off-campus "newspaper." The five-page mimeographed publication contained articles on the issue of "freedom of the press" but this is only the first of many issues to come, according to Derek Mills, English major, who heads the Pegasus staff.

Mills said, "We hope that Pegasus will stimulate the interest of the students in school activities so they will take a more active part in student government and thus reduce the power of the Administration and expand the power of the students and faculty."

"This college is growing," said Mills, "and we can no longer progress under its original system. What exists on this campus is a benevolent dictatorship. The trouble with a benevolent dictatorship is that after a certain amount of time, it ceases to be benevolent."

Jim McLain, editor of El Mustang, commented on Pegasus and its purposes:

"What do they think they can accomplish with this 'white paper?' he asked. 'There are a few things which I would like to straighten out. In the first place, the statement which appeared in Pegasus saying, 'Editor McLain had told the Pegasus staff that he has been threatened with expulsion,' is absolutely false! Also, the article that Pegasus implied that we 'lost,' was lost after it left the editor's desk for typesetting and was not found until after 4 on the afternoon before the paper was to be out. If we had taken the time to include this article, the paper would have been delayed."

As a closing remark, McLain said, "The next time they put out their newspaper, I hope they get somebody to type it who can cut a clear stencil."

Peace Corp Assignment Given to Poly Student

Rudy Ramp, an IE and ME double major, has been accepted by the Peace Corp for assignment in Malaya.

of work or classes, by special arrangement, will have their meal tickets honored in the Snack Bar on Saturday and/or Sunday. Under the same circumstances, arrangements may be made to obtain sack lunches.

Foundation officials point out, however, that with the increase, the board rate is still lower or at the same rate as other state colleges that feed 19 meals a week.

Under the new fee schedule, the price of meal tickets for those students living off campus but who wish to eat in the College Dining Hall, will be $155 per quarter.

Room and board fees at the Kellogg-Voorhis campus will be raised from $210 per quarter to $231 per quarter. However, only 15 meals a week will be served there as compared with 19 at the San Luis Obispo campus.

THE HIGH COST OF LIVING

Room and Board Go Up in Fall; Extra $15 Will Buy One More Meal

Room and board fees here will be raised by $15 per quarter beginning this fall, but students will receive an extra meal per week, it was announced by the Cal Poly Foundation Wednesday.

The increase will bring the room and board total to $245 per quarter and will affect the cost of meals only. Room fees are established by the State Board of Trustees and are subject to change at any time.

Advancing costs of food and labor are responsible for the increase, according to Foundation officials. They said since the last rate increase in 1950 of five dollars per quarter, wholesale foods costs have advanced approximately six per cent and basic salaries have increased by about 10-20 per cent.

Foundation employees, by action of the Legislature, receive the same salaries, working conditions and other benefits as State employees for comparable work. General salary and benefit increases as approved by the State Legislature are thus reflected in board and room costs.

Beginning next fall, the College Dining Hall will serve three meals Monday through Friday and two on both Saturday and Sunday. Presently only one meal is served on Sunday.

On weekends, breakfast will be served from 10 a.m. until 12 noon and dinner from 4 p.m. until 5:30. Students with conflicts because

Junior Class Barbecue

Junior class barbecue will be held Sunday May 13, from five to six in Poly Grove, announced Ed Zimmerman, Junior class vice-president.

Included in the meal will be barbecued chicken, beans, salad, punch and ice cream.

The meal is free to all Junior class card holders, and only $1.00 per person for others. Everyone is urged to attend especially the members of the Junior class.

Thomas A. Briner Wins Big Award

One year if Paris financed by a $5,000 scholarship has been awarded 27-year old Cal Poly Architecture instructor Thomas A. Briner.

Recipient of the 49th Paris Award, Briner will use the sabbatical to work on an assigned project with other students at the Ecole des beaux arts, and devote much time to personal study. The coveted award was presented as a result of an annual national competition in which college students and independent architects participated. According to Architecture Department Head George Hasslein, the prize extends back in history to the time of the early Beaux Arts school, founded in 1848.

Briner, a graduate of both Carnegie Tech and M.I.T., has been with the Poly faculty since Sept., 1961, this is his first teaching position. In winning the prize he was selected one of three to represent the independent entrants in the preliminary competition, and judged best in the finals. The Preliminary problem consisted

Young Demos to Host Cranston

The Cal Poly Young Democrats will have a "Coffee for Cranston" tomorrow in the Staff Dining Room at 8 p.m. Alan Cranston, State controller of California, will address the group on "Fiscal Problems in California," followed by a question and answer period.

Everyone is invited, according to Pat Owens, Social Science major who is publicity chairman of the campus Young Democrats.

Rodeo Team Tops With Five In A Row

The rodeo team moved closer last weekend to its goal of a second national collegiate championship in three years by surpassing all opposition at Poly Royal to take its fifth successive victory in regional competition this year.

Jack Sparrow, sophomore Animal Husbandry major from Danville, won the rodeo's all-around title, with a first in bulldogging and second in both bareback and saddle bronc riding.

Second to Poly in men's team totals was University of Arizona with 235 points, to Poly's 698. Arizona State was third with 170, followed by the University of Nevada. Fresno State, Pierce Junior College and Cal Poly of Pomona.

On the girls' side, Fresno State's Karen Lane, who won both barrel racing and calf tying, led her team to the girls' team title with 185 points to Poly's 180. Arizona State placed third with 70 points.

Before gaining the National Intercollegiate Rodeo association finals in Denver, June 21-24, Poly has two more meets to clear, a regional meet at Pierce and the regional finals. Poly won the U. S. crown in 1959-60 and is unbeaten in five regional meets this season.

Cal Poly took second, third and fourth in calf roping; first through fourth in ribbon roping; first in steer wrestling; first through third in bareback; first through fourth in saddle bronc riding; first through fourth in team roping; second in girls' barrel racing and second through fourth in calf tying.

"Poly Royal Queen should not be given the added title of Queen of Cal Poly," Homecoming Committee member Jim Dorr told SAC. He pointed out that his committee feels the full title puts the Homecoming Queen on a lower notch than the Poly Royal Queen.

Dorr said "The big event in Fall Quarter is Homecoming, while in the spring quarter it is Poly Royal. In the eyes of Homecoming Committee, both are of equal importance, and the representatives of each event should be given equal recognition."

Emitt Mundy, Poly Royal Superintendent, refuted Dorr's statement. "I have talked to some past Homecoming queens and princesses, and none of them ever said to me that they have felt discriminated against because of the Poly Royal Queen's full title," he said. Discussion on the subject was tabled because Homecoming Committee had not requested specific action by SAC.

SAC approved the following ASB officers for next year: Betty Kempf, Board of Publications chairman; James Grundman, 1962-63 editor of El Mustang; Penny Gardner, editor of El Mustang for the Summer Quarter and Harold Hinkle, College Union Board chairman.

State Colleges Mark 100th Year Of Progress

The California State College System celebrated its 100th Anniversary on Wednesday, May 8 after a full century of growth and expansion which represents the largest system of higher education in the Western Hemisphere.

On May 2, 1862, the State Legislature passed an act constituting a Board of Trustees for the Normal School of the State which would have the power to establish and maintain all the details necessary to carry out the purpose of the state college act.

Nineteen days later, when the first school was organized, the enrollment consisted of "one gentlemen and five ladies."

Any 15-year-old female or 18-year-old male was entitled to admission at the rate of $5 per month. At the close of the first term the enrollment totaled 31, and according to a release from the Chancellor's Office, "only three were gentlemen."

The original legislative appropriation amounted to $5000, which for the year 1863-64 was increased to $6000. From this modest beginning, the California State College system, now numbering 17 with an enrollment well over 100,000 students, has flowered in capital facility programs representing an investment in the billions of dollars.

On July 1, 1961, a newly constituted Board of Trustees was vested with full power and responsibility in the construction and development of all state college campuses.

Today, the nation's greatest system of state colleges is headed by Chancellor, Dr. Glenn S. Dumke, former president of San Francisco State College.

WHOOOPS! . . . Dave Grieb, a member of the Poly Rodeo team, came dangerously close to incurring a major injury during the Poly Royal Rodeo in the near-accident shown above. Grieb, who was slightly injured, was released last week from the Student Health Center.

FROM THE EDITOR'S DESK

Welcome Pegasus

They call the publication, "Pegasus," a word that refers to a mythological flying horse. They also term their publication a "newspaper," but that is their misuse of the term.

We thought the first Pegasus issue was mildly amusing, but certainly nothing to get worked up about. Some of the articles that ran in the "newspaper" (Since when is a newspaper's sole purpose the expression of opinion?) last Tuesday were pretty sensational. It's really too bad that their little pre-publication promotional sheet stating "the truth is coming" was wrong. A good deal of the "truth" never came in Pegasus.

But don't get us wrong; we're actually kind of glad that Pegasus came to Cal Poly. It might break up El Mustang's monopolization of readers here, but that is apparently the chance one has to take in a competitive society such as ours. We feel that we will be able to withstand the competition somehow.

The Pegasus staff might be interested to learn (they said they were seeking truth) that this editor was not threatened with expulsion from school and that he told them no such thing. Maybe they were having some sort of collective dream when they thought they heard this.

Winged Flying A horses (of the type that can be seen at many gas stations about town) and those that would soar to the top of Mount Olympus to the contrary, we sincerely hope that the next time Pegasus unfurls its all-encompassing wings, the editors will give a little more attention to the fact content of the opinionative articles.

Welcome, Pegasus.

Compromise Coming On Food Problems At Cafeteria

Jack Bertram, cafeteria supervisor, and his staff are going all out this quarter in trying to reach a compromise with the students concerning the food problem, Bertram reported at a recent interview.

"The newly established cafeteria managers, whose many duties include taking complaints and criticisms concerning the food, are working out much better than I had even hoped for," Bertram said.

Each night the managers make out reports on their findings and give them to Bertram or his staff. These are discussed at once and action for improvement has already begun.

Student managers were selected according to their grade points after screening by committees.

Those chosen were Ray Scialaba, Leroy Ward, Etta Oeltman, John Spreitz, Robert Russell, James Beaver, Scott Adler, Elden Sandy, Nancy Boutonnet, Robert Frawley, Stan Reynolds, Billie Carr, Dick Gerow, and Paul Lewis.

VIEWPOINT*Parking Explained*EDITOR:

I think most of the students interested in the parking problems at Cal Poly know that the Legislature has directed the Trustees to establish parking fees so as to make parking self-supporting at the schools.

At the present time, parking fees for all State Colleges are uniform throughout the State.

It is also true that parking facilities are very limited at some of the schools. The tremendous growth of our State Colleges has not permitted as rapid expansion of parking facilities in some areas as we would like, but priorities must go first of all to classrooms.

In California we are faced with the problem of having to triple the size of our State Colleges within the next 10-15 years. The land for expansion of these schools and building new ones is very expensive. Whether that land is used for classrooms, laboratories or parking, the cost is the same.

I am asking the Trustees to look into the entire problem of parking at all of our colleges and especially the fee structure itself and I will ask them to report on the subject to me.

Governor

Awards Program Set Up For Outstanding Women

An honor awards program for outstanding women students has been initiated by the Cal Poly Women's Club.

An honor award of $50 accompanied by a certificate of merit will be awarded annually to women in each of the four classes.

Selection will be based on a minimum of a 3.0 GPA, superior character including moral values, dependability, good citizenship, participation in activities, and outstanding leadership.

Presentation of the first of these awards will be at the Annual Spring Awards banquet to be held Sunday, June 10.

Spring Football Practice Begins; 60 Hopefuls Ready

Sheldon Harden, new head football coach, got his first look at the athletes who will comprise the 1962 Mustang grid squad when approximately 60 team hopefuls came out for spring practice Tuesday.

In the group of 60 there were 21 returning letterman from last season, and two from the 1960 team.

Harden, who took over the head coach's spot following the resignation of LeRoy Hughes, put the grid hopefuls through fundamental drills in spring practice, concentrating mainly on blocking and tackling. The backs were put through a good deal of ball control work.

On the list of returning lettermen from 1961 are linemen John Albee, John Brennan, Bill Dauphin, Larry Edwards, Robert Erbland, Bruce Messer, Roy Schalabba, Ken Tachiki, Bob Whitmore, Dick Greene, Brent Jobe, Doc Tuthill and Fred Whittingham.

Returning backs include Jim Fahey, Jack Jordan, Paul Lewis, Wayne Maples, Dick McBride, Bob Parker, Freddie Rugatz and Stan Reynolds.

Oil Stork and Johnny Ramsey, center and quarterback respectively, didn't play last year.

There are 19 prospects up from coach Tom Lee's freshman team. Several transfers and hopefuls who will be taking their first shot at college round out the list of 60.

Drills are being held weekdays behind the outdoor basketball courts. Workouts will continue for four weeks, with a spring practice game scheduled to climax drills on May 26.

HIT 'EM AGAIN . . . Cal Poly's grid squad began the slow and painful process of getting back into shape last week as the annual spring practice got underway. Under the leadership of new Head Football Coach Sheldon Harden, this year's team will play the annual Spring Practice game May 26.

'Poly's Pet Peeve' Takes First In Poly Royal Turtle Race

"Poly's Pet Peeve," a turtle representing "Men of 40 Casa," an off-campus residence, won the Poly Royal Turtle Race at the Friday evening Carnival.

"Peeve" was immediately shipped to Detroit, Michigan to compete in the International Turtle Race, which was won last year by Cal Poly entrant, "Poly Pacor." "Peeve" was shipped for $4.45, and insured for $50. This year's race was held last Saturday, and at press time, results of the event were not known.

At the Poly race "Peeve" beat its closest opponent by a "hind leg."

"Peeve" is approximately six and one half inches in diameter, and was fed a special diet of baloney and hamburger by his trainers. They are Ed Brabham, Dick Jones, Ray McKray, Gene Leong and Andy Lidell.

Cal Poly is only one of four institutions to offer curriculums in Metallurgical Engineering.

FALLACY:
Crystal-Clear diamonds are worth less than those with color.

FACT:
Perfect "Blue-White" diamonds are perhaps the most valuable, but these are found in only about 1 in 800 gem quality stones. Crystal clear stones, which have no interior color at all but which have the flashes of rainbow color we call "fire" are among the most beautiful diamonds, often more valuable than stones with color.

McPhee Proclaims Poly Royal 'Success'

With a present revenue of $15,170 and more to come, the 1962 Poly Royal was termed a "success" by President Julian A. McPhee.

So far, the revenue has but $308 to go to meet that of the 1961 Poly Royal, which had receipts totaling $15,478.

In a congratulatory letter to Emmitt Mundy, Poly Royal Board chairman, President McPhee confirmed his opinion of this year's event.

"You, Carl Beck, and the entire Poly Royal Board are to be congratulated for the work you did this year in making Poly Royal a success."

President McPhee received an appreciative letter from Ferron C. Lones, Poly Royal Honored Guest. In reference to this President McPhee said, "It is always a pleasure for me to receive letters of this kind expressing sincere appreciation for the courteousness and friendliness of our students and staff."

To illustrate spectator participation in Poly Royal, Dewey Sampson, Food Processing Plant head said, "We had a total of 8000 visitors."

Of the total receipts deposited at the ASB Office thus far, the Bar-B-Q and Carnival netted the highest income with $4,820, and $4,406 respectively. The Rodeo was a sell-out with $3,402.

According to Mrs. Phyllis Stewart, ASB bookkeeper, "There is still more money to come from the Carnival, and receipts for general concessions financed through clubs are not in yet. So our total should surpass last year's."

SAE Will Sponsor Mobil Safety Run

Plans for a Mobil Gas Safety Economy run are almost jelled according to the Society of Automotive Engineers, campus sponsors of the national event.

Final discussion of the run will be at an organizational meeting May 10 at 7:30 p.m. in Science A-12. All interested students and staff are urged to attend.

Beginning at 7 a.m. on May 19 from the parking lot across from the Mechanical Engineering Building, the run will cover a distance of 110 miles. Two free tanks of gas will be furnished all contestants. Determination of winners will be based on number of miles per gallon attained.

Four large trophies will be awarded the winner of each of four classes: domestic-automatic transmission; domestic "stick"; domestic compact; and foreign and sports car.

Posters will be displayed around campus to give further information. Anyone not able to make the organizational meeting on May 10 is urged to contact James Anderson in the Mechanical Engineering Lab.

110 Grads Employed By General Electric

General Electric Company and the college placement office have announced that 110 Cal Poly graduates are employed with G.E. in 42 cities in 15 states and the District of Columbia. Fifty-four of the 110 have received degrees since 1959.

'Tags' Drop To 35 Daily

No students have been expelled for having three violations, according to Dean of Students Everett Chandler.

He explained that four students were brought to his attention for receiving three citations but due to the circumstances in which the citations were received, the violators were allowed to remain in school.

One violation, says the dean, involved a student's wife who parked on campus to buy milk at store.

According to Chief Security Officer George Cockriel, the number of citations issued for parking violations is decreasing daily.

Compared to the hundreds of tickets issued on several days at the beginning of the quarter, the number has dropped to about 35 a day as May 1st.

"There seems to be less resentment and a better over-all attitude towards the situation," says Chief Cockriel. He noted that "there are still a few stubborn individuals who insist on parking without proper authorization."

Cockriel explained that he has placed his men so two or three men can cover the entire campus daily.

Deadline Set For Plans Of O.H. Design Project

of drawing a site plan for a park on Blackstone's Island in East River, New York City. He completed his winning work in 72 hours.

The final portion of the competition was to develop a finished design for one component of the park, a 1000-room hotel. The hotel was to include a ballroom, conference rooms, pool, lounges, eating facilities, and other related features. Realizing the limitations imposed by the time limit of five weeks, Briner concentrated on what he called the spirit of the unit, creating a "garden-like, playful, but logically ordered and controlled" structure.
