

Services Pending For Student

Funeral services are pending for Piero G. Cariccia, 29, an Agricultural Business Management major from Italy, who was killed early Tuesday morning when his car swerved off Highway-101 near Templeton.

Cariccia, a native of Simaxis, Italy, was a sophomore.

Everett Chandler, dean of men, said that Cariccia was an ardent anti-communist and was a member of a youth group that led a movement against communist action in his hometown of Simaxis.

The Italian consulate in San Francisco is attempting to contact the victim's mother who lives in a rural area having poor communications.

Cariccia was a transfer student from the University of Sassari in Cagliari, Italy.

REVERSED RATIO . . . "Sadie Hawkins, here we come. We got our man or at least a third of one," say Carol Finley, Home Economics major from Claremont; Joan Hays, Elementary Education major from Culver City; and Gigi Green, Elementary Education major from Pacific Grove, as they sit on their conquest for the Sadie Hawkins Dance to be held at the Men's Gym, Saturday from 9 p.m. to 1 a.m. The overcome "Little Abner" is Jack Vincent, Business major from Laguna Beach.

JOIN THE DOGPATCH GANG

Sadie Hawkins Dance Tomorrow Night

Straight from the comic strips, Dinky Mae, L'il Abner, Sadie Hawkins and the Dogpatch gang will be out in force Saturday night for the Sadie Hawkins dance at 9:30 o'clock in the Mens Gym.

Girls will be picking up the tab for the evening in true Dogpatch style. Male victims are to be provided with a vegetable corsage by their escortette. The creator of the most original corsage will receive an unusual prize.

Prizes will be awarded for the most original and imaginative costumes. Free dinners at a local restaurant will be awarded to the couple with the best-matched costume. A $5 gift will be given to the boy and girl with the best costumes.

Music for the affair will be provided by the Collegians.

Miss Ruth Dietrich, activities director, stressed that the event was not necessarily a date affair and that all students were invited.

Tickets are 25 cents per person and are still on sale in the ASB office. Tickets may be purchased at the door.

Debate Group Open To All Students; Meet On Tuesdays

Like to argue? Want to improve this talent of argumentative communication?

Cal Poly's debate group has received a charter and is meeting at 7 p.m. Tuesdays in room 241 of the Erhart Building. The meeting is open to interested persons.

Dr. DeYonon is group advisor.

Presently, debates are being scheduled with other colleges and universities. The group is sponsoring a Central California sectional debate tournament in the Spring Quarter.

Frosh-Soph Brawl Is Nov. 3; Loser Must Maintain 'P'

Freshmen spirit will be pitted against sophomore experience in the upcoming Frosh-Soph Brawl, 9 a.m. Sat., Nov. 3, at the track field.

In the past years the upper class has taken the battle of the fittest, but the freshmen are planning to add a point to their side of the statistics.

The class that wishes to eliminate lots of climbing this year will have to prove their power by winning the brawl. Penalty for the defeated class is maintenance of the Poly "P" located behind the dorms.

Events of the brawl include a six-legged race, tire drag, barrel race, bullhorn destroyer, feed bag, wheelbarrel race, push ball, polka race, and tug-of-war. Featured event of the day will be the greased pole climb, where the two classes compete in climbing a slippery, oily greased pole. Three seniors will act as judges for each event.

Only rules for the annual brawl are no shoes or belts and old T-shirts, which will be dyed green for the freshmen and gold for the sophomores, must be worn by all contestants. A medical doctor will be present during the entire affair.

Fifteen men from each class will be needed for the six-legged race, with five on each team. With their legs tied together, they must run from the 50-yard line around the goal post and tug the next team, which repeats the sequence. The class finishing first wins.

Brute force will prevail when 25 members of each class compete for 25 tires in the tire drag. The team to get the most tires to their goal line wins the event.

The girls get into the action with the balloon destroyer. Twelve coeds per side will be given a balloon. Each in turn must blow up a chair placed on the 20-yard line. She must break the balloon by sitting on it and then run back to the team, tagging the next member. First team to finish wins.

The barrel race will be another female specialty. Tied back-to-back, the girls will run figure

Architect Teaches Classes In Russian

Beginning and advanced Russian classes are being taught from 7 to 9:30 p.m. in room 25 of the Junior High School Building, according to Anatol Helman, the instructor. Helman also teaches Architectural Engineering.

One dollar entitles anyone 18 years or older to enter the San Luis Obispo Adult School at any time during the Fall Quarter and enroll in any of the classes offered. Helman said. He noted that Cal Poly students have enrolled in several evening school courses by registering directly with instructors at the time the class is offered.

Interested students may get information about evening courses at the Adult School Office in the Junior High School Administration Building, or by phoning Mrs. Jeanne Whitney, adult school secretary, at LI 3-2239.

Florists Gather On Campus Sunday

The Ornamental Horticulture Department will play host Sunday to the California State Florist Association for Florist Day.

Some 50 members of the Association will visit the campus to meet students in the horticulture department. Two former students, Robert Franchetto of Antioch and Charles Bleundell of Sacramento, will be guest flower arrangers.

The agenda includes a 10 a.m. coffee hour at the campus greenhouse, a tour of the horticulture facilities and a tour of the campus. A luncheon in Poly Grove is planned for noon followed by afternoon activities in Ag. Eng. 128. The session which starts at 1:30 p.m. will feature floral design and arrangements, informal discussions of new ideas and labor-saving devices in the retail florist business.

Frosh Map Strategy

Plans for the Frosh-Soph Brawl will be discussed at the meeting of the Freshman Class, Mon., Oct. 29, at 7 p.m. in the El Corral "A".

Band Day To Attract Musicians

County high school bands have been invited to participate in Band Day to be held on campus Nov. 3. The high school bands will join the Cal Poly band in the half-time program during the Los Angeles state football game. Band routines will feature Election Day and Veterans Day.

Scheduled to start rehearsals at 3 p.m. in the stadium, the bands will rehearse for two hours before being hosted to a dinner and a campus tour by members of the College Band.

The six schools invited to participate include Paso Robles, Atascadero, San Luis Obispo, Moraga, Coalinga Union and Arroyo Grande. The Los Angeles State band will perform the pregame ceremonies.

George Beattie, music instructor and director of the band, says "there will be more than 350 musicians participating with 60 yards of formations".

$200 Scholarship For Freshman Coed

An 18-year-old freshman Social Science major from Gonzales has received a $200 education scholarship, announces W. D. Schroeder, Education Department head.

Carol Wilson, recipient of the Central Valley Teachers Association scholarship, was notified last week by Mrs. Glen Morton, secretary of the association.

Miss Wilson attended Gonzales Union High School and graduated with a B plus average and 10th ranking. She lists her hobbies as reading and tennis.

She will receive her degree in Social Science education in 1966, and she hopes to teach. "I would like to enter the Peace Corps, or possibly teach in a foreign country and be exposed to another way of life," she said.

Field Trips Slated For Crops Students

Crops students will journey north this weekend to visit various crop production and processing sites.

The Vegetable Harvesting and Packing class will spend Friday and Saturday in Salinas and King City. The five students and Van DeVanter, faculty advisor, will visit various packing sheds and in field harvesting and packing of lettuce, carrots and tomatoes.

The Oil and Fiber class will visit Shafter, Wasco and Bakersfield in the San Joaquin Valley. They will view a variety of cotton operations from ginning and harvesting to grading and oil processing. Their itinerary also includes stops to cotton breeding stations, USDA field stations and privately owned cotton processing plants.

Freshman students will tour numerous ranches and farms in the Valley and get a general look at cotton ginning, rice growing and processing, land reclamation and general farming operations.

Lose Your Shirt? Call Lost-Found

Isao Okada was pretty unhappy for a while. He lost a pair of tennis shoes, gym socks and a petri-fied rock.

But he reported his loss to the campus Lost and Found Office and within two weeks claimed his possessions.

Whether it be petrified rocks, books, jackets, lipsticks or pens, Lost and Found has 'em. Located between the fire station and auto shop, the office receives articles left in classrooms, the cafeteria and snack bar, and other areas on campus.

Items turned in are labeled usually find their owner because Lost and Found informs the students through the Post Office. As precaution to permanent losses, Lost and Found urges the use of labels on anything that might be left behind.

European Countries Are Interested In Starting Peace Corps Program

Arne Arnesen

Marcel Leon Pochet

Hans G. Kirschstein

West Germany, Belgium, Norway Send Diplomats

Representatives of three European countries took a look at Peace Corps training activities at Cal Poly this week and decided they liked what they saw.

Arne Arnesen, first secretary of the Norwegian Ministry of Foreign Affairs in charge of assistance programs to underdeveloped countries; Hans G. Kirschstein, chief of the German Economic Corporation's office dealing with Peace Corps-type activities; and Marcel Leon Pochet, director of the Belgian Office of Cooperation and Development's division of Experts and Technicians, told a press conference Tuesday afternoon they were impressed with the Peace Corps idea and its activities.

The three are touring various United States Peace Corps training centers to get a close look at what American trainees go through before they are sent abroad.

According to J. Corderon Gibson, Cal Poly's assistant dean of agriculture and director of the Peace Corps training program on campus, the three are equivalent to R. Sergeant Shriver, director of the United States Peace Corps training program.

Belgium, their governments are considering establishing assistance and development programs for foreign countries of their own, the three are looking over all facets of Peace Corps activities. They had just returned from a 42-nation conference in Puerto Rico at which nine countries indicated they were considering the establishment of Peace Corps programs.

"In Germany, we announced our intention to start a program similar to that of the Peace Corps last June," said Kirschstein. "We think a real service to other parts of the world." Germany's tentative program has been dubbed: "Learning and Helping Overseas."

The German diplomat said his country's Peace Corps plans include a two-fold purpose:

It will teach his country's young people how to work with natives of underdeveloped countries, and it will, in Kirschstein's words, "render a real service to other parts of the world." Germany's tentative program has been dubbed: "Learning and Helping Overseas."

Arnesen said the Norwegian government was not too enthusiastic about the Peace Corps idea when it was conceived, because they thought it impractical. Now that it has been demonstrated that the idea can work, however, he said his country is readying plans for its own Peace Corps program and will probably concentrate its efforts somewhere in Africa.

Because Norway has too limited a supply of man-power for a Peace Corps project as extensive as that of the United States, he said his country would work in small areas and in limited fields of specialization.

Arnesen, who served as Norway's delegate to the United Nations for three years before taking on his present position, said his country's program will probably not be named "Peace Corps." "Because 'Peace' sounds too ambiguous, and 'Corps' sound too military."

Belgium's relationship to a possible Peace Corps program is unique, according to Pochet, because the country has had much experience in working with people in less developed areas. Pochet said establishment of a Belgian Peace Corps program is well underway.

He said his government has done much work with people in the former Belgian colonies of Congo and Ruanda-Urundi.

Pochet said Belgium's government recently decided to donate $1 million to the United Nations to help with the organization's underdeveloped nations program.

The three foreign diplomats were accompanied by Clifford Grayson, a United States State department interpreter, who helped arrange their tour and served as interpreter for Pochet.

All three said they felt that Cal Poly's facilities for Peace Corps training are "excellent," and that they had so far enjoyed their stays in the San Luis Obispo.

As a climax to United Nations Week the group will have entertainment and refreshments during the evening and the opportunity to meet the people of the community.

Belgian To Speak

Frans Taelmans, consul general of Belgium, will be the guest speaker of the Staff Club Luncheon noon Thursday, Nov. 1. He will speak on the Congo situation.

In the afternoon he will tour campus and in the evening will be the dinner guest of the Social Science Club. At 8 p.m. in Agriculture Building, room 220 he will talk on the European Common Market.

Taelmans entered the foreign service for Belgium in 1947 as an attaché at the Belgium Foreign Ministry in Brussels. Since then he has been Vice Consul, Chicago, 1954; Consul General, Kansas City, 1954; Director of Press Department and spokesman for the Belgium Foreign Ministry, Brussels; 1958, and Consul General, Los Angeles, 1961.

As Press Chief of the Ministry of Foreign Affairs, he participated in all meetings of the Security Council and the United Nations meetings on the Congo. He also attended all important meetings of the North Atlantic Treaty Organization (NATO).

Quarter Horses Sell For $2950

Two quarter horses were sold for $4,015 at the first annual Quarter Horse Show and Sale held recently at the Cow Palace in San Francisco. The sale was linked with the 18th Grand National Rodeo, Horse Show and Livestock Exposition.

A Cal Polycolt, Quick Chant, was sold for $1,950, and a filly, Logarithm, was sold for $1,000. The average price paid for horses at the sale was $2,065.

Carol Ramsey, an Animal Husbandry senior from Atherton, reigned as queen of the show. Carol owns three registered quarter horses and has been showing horses for 12 years. Her animals have won 300 trophies in western shows.

Animal Husbandry instructor William Gifford was chairman of the sale and was elected 1962-63 vice president of the Pacific Coast Quarter Horse Association.

Gifford said the show had more entries than any other Quarter Horse show on the Pacific Coast this year.

Division Statistic Figures Corrected

Last week's enrollment story in El Mustang was in error.

Figures for last year's enrollment by divisions should have read: Engineering 1,743, Applied Arts 1,427, Agriculture 1,297, and Applied Science 616.

Figures for this year are: Engineering 1,915, Applied Arts 1,743, Agriculture 1,401, and Applied Science 788.

Polyites Active In FFA

Recently returning from the annual Future Farmers of America convention in Kansas City, Mo., were four Poly agricultural students.

Flint Freeman, president of the California FFA chapter and an animal husbandry major from Holtville, was one of the team members to journey to the mid-Western convention. Along with Freeman were Jim Edgerley of Dinuba, serving as state treasurer; Tom Connell, an Ag Business Management major and state FFA reporter; and past president Jerry Dieffenderfer of San Luis Obispo. The students were accompanied by George Couper, FFA campus advisor.

The convention lasted for three days, and included a wide variety of activities such as the election of national officers and the presentation of awards to outstanding farm youths in America. In addition, there were countless visitors and spectators from all parts of the world and the 50 states.

Among the guest speakers were former President Harry Truman, and President of the National Farm Bureau, Charles Shuman.

The group toured Portland, Ore., at the end of their journey. Each year a different section of the country is visited and in coming years the Carlsbad Caverns, New Orleans and the Grand Canyon will be on the traveling agenda.

SAC REPORT

Council Hears Reports; Approves Election

In a one-hour session Tuesday night, Student Affairs Council heard several committee reports and approved the election of Pat Bright as 1962 Homecoming Queen. Under codes which the student body is now operating, elections cannot be officially approved until two weeks after an election, an SAC official explained.

For the purposes of balancing budgets, the council set a 10 cent entry fee for the Ping Pong Tournament. Ted Shuger announced plans for the Board of Athletic Control after being endorsed as the athletic board's chairman for the coming year. Shuger said he plans to make the body into something of importance, and give it a lasting place in the student government organization.

Tom Bragg and Art Vos, Chairmen of Camp and Campus Welcome Week, gave reports on activities of the past year, which included elections, planning and meetings as early as last January. Vos recommended that a better chain of communication be set up between the camp and campus staffs.

ASB Secretary Carol Ann Risso reported on a conference of student presidents she and Joe Zallen attended in San Jose. The meeting of the California State College Student President's Association was held at San Jose State College and was attended by presidents or their representatives from all state colleges. She reported that in keeping with the current trend of advertising Proposition 1A, five of Cal Poly's horsemen will ride soon through downtown San Luis Obispo carrying banners in favor of the bond issue.

Announcements followed: A report that the Sadie Hawkins Day Dance will be held tomorrow night from 9:30 p.m. to 12:30 a.m.; a meeting of those interested in participating in Welcome Week will be held Nov. 8 in Ag 220-221.

...WORLD-SCOPE...

NEW DELHI—India has announced her worst defeat so far in the war with Red China. A New Delhi official says communist troops have smashed through to the monastery town of Tawang in the northeast border area. Premier Nehru reportedly has sent a note to Moscow saying he cannot accept present Chinese terms for cease-fire talks.

WASHINGTON—President Kennedy is expected to reject a proposal by U. Thant that both sides cease actions in the Cuban dispute for two or three weeks. The President is said to feel the proposal does not contain adequate safeguards against secret Russian moves.

UNITED NATIONS—The U. S. dropped diplomatic niceties in the United Nations last night and challenged Russia to deny that it has in the past and is now arming Cuba with medium and intermediate range missiles.

Ambassador Adlai Stevenson asked Soviet Deputy Foreign Minister Zorin to give an immediate "yes or no" answer in the Security Council without even waiting for translation of the dare into Russian.

Zorin laughed loudly and said he was "not in an American courtroom" and would answer "in due course, don't worry."

Stevenson replied that he was prepared to wait for his answer as he put it, "until Hell freezes over."

SAC Duo Attends San Jose Meeting

Carol Ann Rizzo, ASB Secretary, and Joe Zallen, Engineering Council Representative, attended a California State College Student Association meeting last weekend. The two-day conference, for student presidents or their delegates, was held at San Jose State College.

Included on the agenda were: College Union progress, Proposition 1-A, People to People program, and State College-name change, proposal. State College Chancellor Glenn S. Dumke attended the conference.

Congratulations

Editor: Speaking as an old-time faculty member at Poly (18 years), I should like to compliment the student body. I have never seen a little "horse-play" and "Joe college" atmosphere. You are the most serious student body we have had since the veterans of the late '40s. And I should like to commend the coeds on their dress! No more levis, etc. Neatly dressed young ladies really makes the campus attractive. One can learn as much from campus life as from books! Walking across the campus just how I felt an urge to tell the students how pleasant it is to work with such fine young people.

Parade Clarification

Editor: In the Oct. 23 issue of El Mustang you printed an article concerning Homecoming on the first page. In the eleventh paragraph, a sentence reads: "Parade officials said the march through the streets was delayed because San Luis Obispo police were late in providing a motorcycle escort."

As treasurer of the Cal Poly Penguin Motorcycle Club, I feel it is my job to clarify this situation. First, San Luis Obispo police do not have and did not have any motorcycle units in the parade or available for escort duties. Lt. William Mulmen will also, I am sure, testify that the San Luis Obispo police units, as well as the Cal Poly Penguin members who were acting as motorcycle escorts, were in place at 10 a.m. ready to start the parade.

Due to the recent activity concerning Cuba, I feel there should be some mention about this particular event. A lot of people feel the way I do about the action taken. There was no other way out but to stop this growth now and forever. Many people will say that it should have been done sooner and no doubt they would be right. But the past is history and this country is now faced with a situation so delicate that any wrong move by the parties involved will bring war down upon us. It is a frightful thought but we must face the facts.

To my way of thinking the present world tensions have come to a head which will create great uneasiness. But isn't it better to get it over with now than to go on and on living under a constant danger and threat to our way of life? No matter what happens this growth of Communism has got to be stopped. As soon as it is, maybe then we will be able to live in peace and without fear of being attacked.

M. Y. Sola

This is a story about anything. At least, that's what the editor of this little column wanted — a story about anything.

The word "anything" runs the gamut of things from the crisis in Cuba to the gloriously wonderful taste of a fresh glass of orange juice for breakfast.

As you can see, "anything" is pretty much an all-inclusive term. It is one that should be used only in glittering generalities. And one should never use glittering generalities — or any other kind of generalities.

Have you ever heard a child exclaim, "Golly, Mom, I want that bike more than ANYTHING!" Or have you ever heard a coed say softly to herself, "Gee, I'd rather go out with him than ANYBODY?"

You see? It's not really the "thing" in "anything" that makes the word such a generality. It's the "ANY."

And, I think writing this thing has been a bigger waste of time than ANYTHING.

"FINAL GRADES MUST BE OUT."

Musty Gone Again; Reward For Return

Musty, the Cal Poly Mustang, has been reported missing again by Mac Dyer, Rally Committee chairman.

The horse was stolen from the Skyroom above the ASB office on Monday by persons unknown. According to Dyer, the committee discovered the theft when they began construction on Musty's wife.

A substantial reward has been offered by the committee for information leading to the discovery of Musty's captors, and the capture of "them dirty skunks."

3. The Dairy Club float traveled at a maximum of one mile per hour, which slowed down the escort into town.

4. The judging of the floats took an extra long time.

of the floats, was informed by a parade official that the delay was due to the judges not having yet reached a decision on the float awards. Witness the fact that the persons who carried the banners identifying the winning floats were not assigned to their places until just before the start of the parade.

Such a delay as occurred could easily happen, and I fully realize the difficulty the judges must have had in reaching a decision with so many outstanding floats this year. Nevertheless, this does not give parade officials the right to cover up the facts by making a statement such as they did.

WARREN JONES

EDITOR'S NOTE: According to John Blacaglia, assistant to the Parade Chairman James Dorr, the Homecoming Parade was late starting for four reasons:

1. The floats were not in the formation area at the stated time (7 a.m.) some arrived as late as 7:30.

2. The San Luis Obispo Police Department was late in supplying the escort for the floats to the formation area.

Some recent college graduates talk about job opportunity at Pacific Telephone

Noel Grogan, Cal Poly '62 Marketing Staff Assistant
"I knew that Pacific Telephone was a highly respected and integral part of the California business community, and I had heard that it offered college graduates challenging management assignments from the beginning. My brief period of employment has proven my choice a sound one, for my initial assignments have provided genuine opportunities to exercise individual judgment and creativity. Also I have seen first hand the tremendous opportunity for advancement provided by the company's dynamic nature and progressive philosophy."

Jack Suttich, Cal Poly '57 Traffic Supervisor
"I think my own history with Pacific Telephone points up the variety of assignments the company offers a college graduate, with the opportunity to find the field that interests you most. In five years I have worked in the Plant, Commercial and Traffic Departments; have been Senior Engineer with a Traffic Equipment group, and most lately with Traffic Planning, deciding the "hours" and "whys" a given area will be served. Presently I am on temporary transfer as Assistant Director of a new Personnel Assessment Program which is being put into effect."

The men to talk to about your job opportunity at Pacific Telephone are Bill Moore, Blair Smith and Frank Zimmerman on Campus, October 30 & 31

They can tell you all the advantages the fast-growing communications business here in California offers technical, engineering and liberal arts graduates. Sign up now with your Placement Office for an appointment to talk it over with them.

SACRAMENTO STATE COLLEGE—"Students in college do not assume enough responsibility for their own college education," declared Dr. Guy West, college president. In discussing the meaning of a college education he said that students could obtain this responsibility to a certain degree by honestly answering these three questions: "Why am I here? What am I going to do about it? What is it all about?"

Orange State, with temporary facilities and bulging at the seams with students, was chosen as a prime example of why 1-A is so necessary to the educational health of the state.

It was felt that any school that had to borrow desks to accommodate students was suffering growing pains that could be graphically portrayed.

SAN DIEGO STATE—In reply to an editorial concerning women and discipline, the women reporters of the school paper went on strike. "When women in such a profession as journalism live up to male standards, they're called unfeminine," one striker said. Why can't there be a mandatory military service for women? It couldn't be the extra-strong physical training the men go through, but at the same time could retain an emphasis on discipline. There are plenty of "soft" jobs in the Army that women could do, the editorial said.

THREE A.M. . . Waxing more than a million square feet of floor space is the job of Supervising Custodian Ray Hesse and his 36 crewmen—even though it may require working all night.

Cigarette Burns on Floors Plague Custodian Crew

How would you like to wax one million square feet of floor? Well, that is what the custodians at Cal Poly have to do. Of course there are 36 of them to do it.

Ray Hesse, supervising custodian, said this week that as of July 1, 1962 the custodians at Cal Poly are responsible for 1,058,800 square feet of floor space. With the 36 full-time custodians and the 100 to 180 part-time student custodians this figure works out to about 15,000 square feet per man.

The custodial staff which is divided into three separate shifts is working around the clock to keep the rooms and corridors of Cal Poly in top shape. A casual passer-by could very likely see one of the custodians waxing a floor

Scholarship Given To AC Students

James M. McGrath, head of the Air Conditioning and Refrigeration Engineering Department, has announced a $350 scholarship will be awarded to a student in the department.

The scholarship is being granted by the North American Heating and Air Conditioning Wholesalers Association, with headquarters in Columbus, Ohio. News of the scholarship was made to McGrath by Wilbur R. Bull, executive director of the association.

Cal Poly was selected for the scholarship because it is the only college in the United States granting a four year bachelor of science degree in Air Conditioning and Refrigeration Engineering, McGrath said.

Students Are Praised

Student cooperation and patience during the recent dining hall reorganization was praised by Supervisor Jack Bertram.

Everyone who helped Student Dining Hall managers and submitted suggestions on service and meals was a great help, said Bertram.

A number of suggestions given to the menu board have been used and the dining hall supervisor noted that anyone who eats in the dining hall is welcome to attend board meetings.

Folk Songs And Witticism Highlight Bud-Travis Show

By JUDY KURAMITSU

Applause, whistles, and a bravos brought the Bud and Travis duo on for two encores Wednesday night after their two-hour performance.

The popular folk singing duo delighted the audience of 1111 paid attendance in the Men's Gym with their rendition of folk songs and witticisms.

With a variety of tempos and rhythms, they sounded out well known favorites from around the world such as "Rhapsody in Strawberries" and "Yellow Bird."

Architects Will Leave Memories

Architectural Engineering students and faculty will leave behind some fond memories when the department moves to new quarters in the West Engineering Building.

W. A. Phillips, architecture instructor, says "the move will give us a chance to get the department together again."

In the past only juniors and seniors used the architecture area, and other students had classes throughout the campus. The new area for the architects includes the entire wing facing the library and some of the wing which faces the Administration Building.

Memories of the old architectural area are in the many senior projects and Poly Royal exhibits, now sort of permanent reminders of graduates. Some structures, like the Gendele Dome and perhaps the Hyperbolic Parabola, will be moved to the courtyard of the new building.

"We don't know of we'll take the fireplace in the seminar room," says Phillips, "which was also built as a senior project."

The majority of the student projects will be used for testing of stress and strain. Those not demolished by this method will be left for the construction crews to disassemble.

Aero Department Head Will Attend NASA Meet

Charles P. Davis, Aeronautical Engineering Department head, will attend a National Aeronautics and Space Administration conference in Illinois, Nov. 1-3.

The NASA-University conference on the Science and Technology of Space Exploration will be held in the Sheraton-Chicago hotel in Chicago.

The majority of their songs were chosen from Mexico and the Latin American countries.

Numerous American popular and folk songs such as "I Talk to the Trees" and "Two Brothers," a stirring civil war ballad were included. In addition, the evening concert encompassed melodies from the Caribbean, Ireland, Africa and France.

After the musical feat, the audience commented to one another on the versatility and virtuosity of the folk singing duo. One coed summed it up by saying, "I sure feel sorry for those that missed it, it was simply great!"

Officers Elected For Writers Forum; 'Syllables' On Sale

Members of Writers Forum, sponsor of the campus literary magazine, Poly Syllables, met on Thursday to elect officers and discuss the club program for the coming year.

Officers elected were: Gordon Jones, sophomore Social Science major, president; Rusty Stratton, Air Conditioning Engineering junior, treasurer; Roger Lowery, sophomore Animal Husbandry major, vice president; and Kathy Gardner, sophomore Social Science major, secretary.

Tom Gartland, junior English major, and Kathy Gardner will serve as program chairmen, and Roger Lowery and Kathy Gardner will act as representatives from the group on the Arts and Sciences Council.

During the meeting the club members selected Thursday, Oct. 26, as a special sale day during which Poly Syllables will be on sale in the Snack Bar. The current issue is a collection of short stories, essays and poems written by students.

Poly Syllables can be bought at any time at the AHH office, the book store, or 302 E. It can also be purchased downtown.

NEW ALUMNI DECAL . . . Winner of the $100 prize for the new alumni decal design was Robert Engman, Architectural Engineering senior. The design features long, clean sans-serif letters with bars of green and gold separating "Cal Poly" and "Alumni."

Hayride, Dance Slated By Juniors

A hayride and barn dance will be held by the Junior Class Friday, Nov. 2 at Atascadero, from 6 p.m. to midnight.

All juniors are invited and must bring class cards to participate. Members of the class are to report to parking lot 0-2 (near the Health Center) at 6 p.m. to form a car caravan. Drivers will be given instructions on how to get to the ranch where the dance will be held.

Students are asked to fill out a form, which may be obtained in the Student Body office, and return it to Box 37 also in the ASB Office before Oct. 30. A 25-cent charge for guests will be required and if the form is not filled out in the period allotted the participants will not receive a meal ticket which entitles the student to the food.

Dress for the event will be jeans and slacks for the boys and slacks and sweaters for the girls.

Do You Know Fats? He Hasn't Been Getting Mail Lately

"Nobody wants me! Everybody rejects me!"

So wails the stack of mail addressed to "Fats Frank, Squirrel Hall."

These little envelopes aren't alone, however; they're tearfully piled on top of thousands of other letter rejects.

"What's the matter with me? Wasn't my stamp any good? Doesn't anyone know where I belong?" Out of his deep dark bag, "Little Reject" peers for his owner. What he doesn't realize is that someone has jokingly addressed him to "good ole Fats" and not to John R. Fellows, the name on his registration slip.

What's more, his pen-reeling originator didn't print Cal Poly on the front of him, and he's stuck down at the main Post Office until he can be returned home. Poor old Fats, he may never find out that vital news from Aunt Nellie!

If you're one of those lucky people who has acquired an endearing nickname, it might be to your advantage to have your friends and family address their missives with your registered name on the envelope and then send them in care of Cal Poly. You see, the San Luis Obispo Post Office has the same box numbers as Cal Poly.

Please, don't make "Little Reject" take that long journey back home. Keep him out of that "dead-letter bag." Have your friends address him correctly!!

HIGH TEST, LOW TEST, NO TEST

Just the other night I was saying to the little woman, "Do you think the importance of tests in American colleges is being overemphasized?" (The little woman, incidentally, is not, as you might think, my wife. My wife is far from a little woman. She is, in fact, almost seven feet high and heavily muscled. She is a full-blooded Okishian Apache and holds the world's hammer throw record. The little woman I referred to is someone we found crouching under the sofa when we moved into our apartment several years ago, and there she has remained ever since. She never speaks, except to make a kind of guttural clicking sound when she is hungry. Actually, she is not too much fun to have around, but with my wife away at track meets most of the time, at least it gives me somebody to talk to.)

But I digress. "Do you think the importance of tests in American colleges is being overemphasized?" I said the other night to the little woman, and then I said, "Yes, Max, I do think the importance of tests in American colleges is being overemphasized." (As I have explained, the little woman does not speak, so when we have conversations, I am forced to do both parts.)

Actually, she is not too much fun to have around

To get back to tests—sure, they're important, but let's not allow them to get too important. There are, after all, many qualities and talents that simply can't be measured by quizzes. Is it right to penalize a gifted student whose gifts don't happen to be of the academic variety? Like, for instance, Gregor Sigalpos?

Gregor, a freshman at the New Hampshire College of Tanning and Belle Letters, has never passed a single test; yet all who know him agree that he is studded with talent like a ham with cloves. He can, for example, sleep standing up. He can do a perfect imitation of a vaudeville tanager. (I don't mean just do the bird calls; I mean he can fly through the window.) He can pick up B-B's with his toes. He can say "Toy boat" three times fast. He can build a rude telephone out of two empty Marlboro packs and 100 yards of butcher's twine. (Of all his impressive accomplishments, this last is the one Gregor likes to do best—not building the telephone, but emptying the Marlboro packs. Gregor doesn't just dump the Marlboros out of the pack. He smokes them one at a time—settling back, getting comfortable, savoring each tasty puff. As Gregor often says with a winsome smile, "By George, the makers of Marlboro took their time finding this fine flavor, this great filter, and by George, I'm going to take my time enjoying 'em!"

Well, sir, there you have Gregor Sigalpos—artist, humanist, philosopher, Marlboro smoker, and freshman since 1939. Will the world—so desperately in need of talent—ever benefit from Gregor's great gifts? Alas, no. He is in college to stay.

But even more tragic for mankind is the case of Anna Livia Plurabelle. Anna Livia, a classmate of Gregor's, had no talent, no gifts, no brains, no personality. All she had was a knack for taking tests. She would cram like crazy before a test, always get a perfect score, and then promptly forget everything she had learned. Naturally, she graduated with highest honors and degrees by the dozen, but the sad fact is that she left college no more educated, no more prepared to cope with the world, than when she entered. Today, a broken woman, she crouches under my sofa.

© 1962 Max H. Hirsch

And speaking of tests, the makers of Marlboro put our cigarette through an impressive number before we send it to the market. But ultimately, there is only one test that counts: Do YOU like it? We think you will.

Saturday's Loser Could Finish In Grid Cellar

The Cal Poly Mustangs will attempt to get back on the winning trail Saturday night when they travel to Long Beach to test the Long Beach State 49ers. Neither the Mustangs nor the 49ers has lived up to preseason forecasts. Long Beach State has a two win four loss record while the Mustangs are one and four. However, after last week's games, both teams hinted that they may be ready to play some good football.

CCAA ROUNDUP

San Diego State and Fresno State meet tomorrow in the game which probably will decide the 1962 CCAA championship. The Aztecs are the current league leaders with a 4-0 mark with Fresno's Bulldog right behind with a 3-0 record, and looking for a fifth straight title. Tomorrow's contest in San Diego should decide who's taking home the marbles for 1962.

Last weekend, the Aztecs turned up by walloping UC, Santa Barbara 46-8 while Fresno thumped the Los Angeles State Diablos 34-0 on the loser's field. In league play, the Bulldogs have allowed only six points in three contests, that being the touchdown scored by Cal Poly in a 51-6 game. Fresno State's other CCAA win came over UCSB, 26-0.

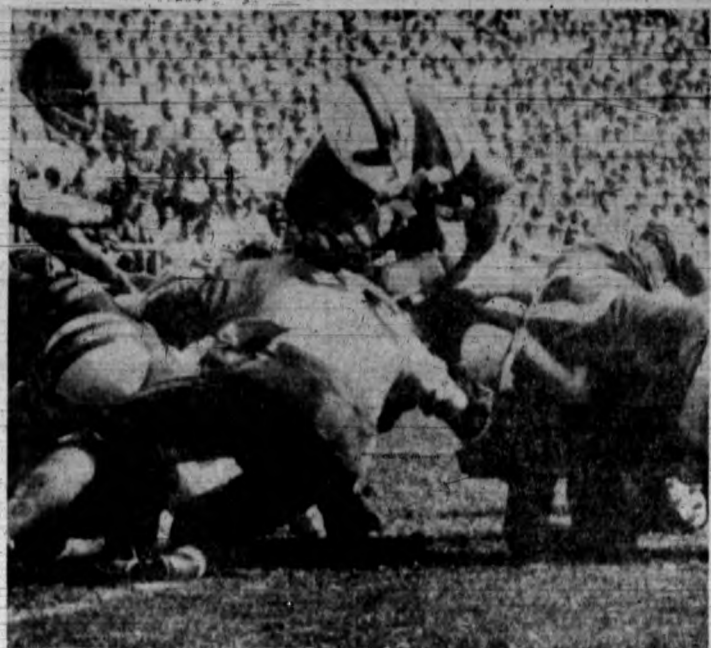

The Gauchos of Santa Barbara are in third spot in the CCAA with a 2-2 record following last Saturday's loss. The Mustangs follow with a 1-2 mark in the league and lost a non-league game to Arizona State 21-20 last Saturday afternoon.

Long Beach State garnered its first win last Saturday as they smothered San Fernando Valley State 41-6 to leave the Matadors winless in CCAA action. Also winless in CCAA play are the Los Angeles Staters with three losses.

Led by halfback Dee Andrews, the 49ers romped to a 41 to 6 victory over San Fernando Valley State Matadors. The diminutive Andrews broke out of a season-long slump to score three times on dashes of 41, 12 and 78 yards. He carried the ball 12 times for 206 yards for an average of 17.2, scored three touchdowns and caught two passes for 50 yards.

The Mustangs will throw their big guns at the Long Beach eleven. The "Green Machine" will be led by hurly fullback Jack Clark, who was the big ground gainer last week with 88 yards in 16 carries, and the fine passing of quarterback John Ramsey and Stan Reynolds.

It is expected that Bill Dauphin will be back in the line to team with Jim Milligan at the tackle positions for the Mustangs. John Albee and Fred Whittingham will be the guards and John Brennan will man the center post. Wayne West is expected to play one end while Skip Lovern will be on the other flank. With Ramsey and Clark in the backfield will be Jim Ramos and Paul Lewis at left half and right half, respectively.

SIX POINTS... Mustang fullback Jack Clark dives into the end zone for a touchdown against Arizona State. The Mustangs will be out to repeat this scene many times tomorrow at Long Beach State.

Taft JC Hosts Colt Gridders

Couch Vic Buccola will attempt to get his freshman grid squad back on the winning trail tomorrow night at 8 p.m. when they take the field at Taft JC in the Colts' fourth game of the season. Taft JC will provide one of the biggest tests of the season for the Colts only a week before the Colts face the always rugged University of Southern California frosh. Taft has always been noted for fielding big and fast teams and last season Taft downed the Colts 20-14.

Couch Buccola will be hoping to get more fine performances from his stars of last week: Dick Eshback, Chuck Jones, Martin Baccaglio, Dan Heibel, John Davis, and Linzie Daniel. Last week Buccola announced that he got some fine individual performances but the team as a whole is still inexperienced but they are improving every game.

Poly Harriers Host Westmont

The Mustang cross country team will host Westmont College tomorrow morning at 11 o'clock for a meet which will be run on Cal Poly's 3.4 mile course. Top runner for the Mustangs is Don Fields who against Fresno State last week set a course record in the fast time of 17 minutes and 19 seconds. Taking fourth place for the Cal Poly cross country team last week was Robin Lint who is also expected to do good tomorrow.

The meet will start on the Mustang track.

Wrestling, Free-Throw Competition Planned

The intramural football season passes the halfway mark this weekend and the free throw contest starts, and the wrestling tournament will be coming up Nov. 5.

The basketball free throw contest begins Tuesday Oct. 30. Vaughn Hitchcock, intramural coordinator, has announced that organizations may enter as many contestants as desired. The top five marksmen will comprise the official team, as their cumulative score will be the team point total. Each contestant will receive 25 shots and the top six men of the tournament will battle it out with an additional round of 25 to determine the individual champ. The winner will be the contestant in the top six with the most shots in 50 attempts.

Narsity and frosh basketball players are ineligible. The wrestling tournament will be a single elimination affair with each contest going three, one and one-half minute rounds. One point toward the all-college intramural championship will be awarded each match winner's organization. Each contestant who wins by a pin or fall will receive an addition point.

The following weight classes have been established: 123 pounds, 130, 137, 147, 157, 167, 177, 191 and heavyweight. One weigh-in will be held prior to the opening matches with a two pound allowance permitted.

The tournament will be run under NCAA rules. Contestants may practice from 4-6 p.m. daily.

Soccer Team Makes Debut Sunday, 3pm

The soccer team will meet at Santa Maria eleven Sunday at 3 p.m. on the varsity football practice field in the first scheduled game of the season.

The team was organized as a part of the intramural program with practice sessions held every Sunday afternoon.

Many foreign students are squad members. According to Vaughn Hitchcock, intramural coordinator and soccer coach, there are many good players on the squad. However, the team needs more teamwork as players have been only practicing together for two weeks. The Santa Marians boast a 3-0 win-loss record.
