Student Community Service Awards doubled for '89-'90

The Service Awards program encourages Cal Poly students from all fields to contribute their talents to help meet human and social needs. Over the past three years, the program has provided $500 mini-grants. Funding available for this year has been doubled, making 40 to 50 grants possible.

Faculty are asked to alert students to the program. The application deadline for winter and winter/spring projects is Nov. 6.

Grants are for community service projects related to the applicants' majors or career goals. The projects are conducted in cooperation with a nonprofit or governmental agency or a school. Recipients frequently make arrangements with appropriate faculty for academic credit. However, this is not a requirement.

Past projects have included a needs assessment for the American Red Cross, a computerized alcohol services program, a feasibility study for a local "big brother/sister" organization, and other programs designed to enhance human services.

Students who are interested, but do not have a specific project in mind, can stop by the Community Connection in UU 217. This computerized data base contains information about more than 500 community requests for help. For more information, students should contact Sam Lutrin, Student Life and Activities (ext. 2476) or Dianne Long, Political Science (ext. 2984).

Library Associates announce events

Events ranging from a slide show featuring picture postcards of California's Central Coast to a restored print of the film, "A Star is Born," and a trip to the Carrizo Plains are among the events planned by Cal Poly's Library Associates for 1989-90.

The kick-off event will be the group's 10th annual Fall Banquet on Friday, Nov. 10. The guest speaker will be Los Angeles Times columnist Jack Smith, who is the author of a new book, "Alive in La La Land." The banquet will be held at the Madonna Inn, with the 7:15 pm dinner being preceded by a 6:15 cocktail hour.

On Sunday, Nov. 19, local author and journalism professor Loren Nicholson will present a slide show on his recently published book, "Old Picture Postcards: A Historic Journey Along California's Central Coast." Books will be available for signing and refreshments will be served. The program will begin at 2 pm in UU 220.

Ronald Haver, head of the film department at the Los Angeles County Museum of Art, will speak about his newest book, "A Star is Born: The Making of the 1954 Movie and Its 1983 Restoration."

The Judy Garland/James Mason film will be screened from a restored 35mm print with Dolby sound. The benefit, on Sunday, March 11, will begin at 1 pm at the Palm Theatre, 817 Palm St., San Luis Obispo.

The final event of the 1989-90 academic year will be a trip to the Carrizo Plains on Saturday, April 7. Participants will meet local rancher, naturalist, and conservationist Eben McMillan. He will offer a tour of the natural human history of the Carrizo Plains, including Soda Lake and Painted Rock. Accompanying the group will be David Darlington, author of "In Condor Country," a book about McMillan, his brother Ian, and the beautiful, austere Carrizo Plains.

Established in 1979, The Library Associates organization provides a means of support for the Robert E. Kennedy Library by sharing an enthusiasm for books and related materials. Some events on the group's calendar require reservations. For more information call The Library Associates at ext. 2305.

Lucas appointed to foundation board

Dr. Robert A. Lucas, associate vice president for graduate studies, research and faculty development, has been appointed to the Cal Poly Foundation's board of directors. Lucas was selected to fill the unexpired portion of a term that will end in May 1990.

The 50-year-old administrator came to the university in 1975 as director of research development. He took over his current duties in 1986.

Lucas, a feature editor of Grants Magazine, is a reader for the GTE Foundation Distinguished Lecturer Grant Program; a member of the Education and Research Committee of the Associated Western Universities; and member of the Editorial Advisory Board for Research Management Review, a professional journal.

Author of more than 30 articles on research development and administration, he is a frequent leader of workshops on the writing of scholarly articles and research proposals. His manuscript titled "The Grants World Inside Out" is in the final stages of review at the University of Illinois Press.

The board of directors provides policy direction for operations of the Cal Poly Foundation, a separate legal entity that operates as an integral part of the university under procedures established by the trustees of The California State University came as part of the university's centennial celebration.

Velasquez Trevino was selected, in part, because of her works as a fiction writer and poet. She received the 11th Chicano Literary Prize for a short story from UC Irvine in 1985. She has been a guest author at numerous international programs, including the International Conference on Hispanic Women Artists in Puerto Rico and the Roundtable of Authors at the Hispanic International Conference in Paris.

CPR schedule

Cal Poly Report is published weekly during the academic year by the Public Affairs Office.

Typewritten, double-spaced copy may be submitted to Jo Ann Lloyd, editor, by 4 pm the Thursday prior to the next publication.

The dean of the School of Agriculture has been appointed to a three-year term as a member of the board that develops policies for agriculture programs at the nation's land-grant universities.

Dr. Lark P. Carter will represent the nation's non-land-grant institutions on the 20-member board of the agriculture division of the National Association of State Universities and Land Grant Colleges.

The board, which meets three times a year, deals with budget, organization, and policy matters related to agriculture extension, research, and teaching programs of the 72 member universities of NASULGC.

'90 Poly Royal theme chosen by students

"The Innovative Edge" has been selected as the official theme for the 1990 Poly Royal, scheduled for April 27 and 28. The theme was selected from more than 390 entries.

The winning entry was a combination of suggestions made by Shannon M. Irons, a freshman speech communication major, and David A. Rizk, a senior city and regional planning major.

Because Poly Royal is a showcase for prospective students, families of current students, and the community, the committee wanted a theme that represented the learning experience at Cal Poly.

The contest to select a design for the 1990 Poly Royal poster will run through Nov. 13. Any Cal Poly student may submit a design to be critiqued by student board members as well as graphic design professionals.

Guidelines for poster entries can be picked up at the Poly Royal Board Office in the UU, the Graphic Communication Department, and the UU Information Desk.
