

10 Poly Royal Queen Candidates Seek Title

"Miss Cal Poly—Queen of Poly Royal," will reign over the 32nd annual "country fair on a college campus," which is expected to attract between 20,000 and 25,000 visitors to the campus April 24-25. Students will cast their ballots for their favorite candidate on Feb. 26 and 27 in a general election which will select "Miss Cal Poly" and her court of four princesses.

The 10 finalists were chosen from a field of 110 senior women in the academic top quarter of their class.

Following is a short biography on each coed.

SHARON BOYSEN... "I'm so excited. I was home sleeping like a log when I was notified." The 21-year-old former maid of cotton is from San Luis Obispo and is majoring in Home Economics. Sharon's college activities include Women's Glee Club, Campa WOV Club, Homecoming committee, Poly 4-H, Applied Arts Council and the Music board of control. What does she enjoy most? Hunting and swimming.

Sharon is sponsored by Circle K. CATHY DE GASPARI... The pert coed from Guadalupe was just "fooling around" at home when the phone rang. Cathy is the Home Economics major and enjoys sewing, art and reading. She has reigned as ROTC Queen and Homecoming Queen here at Cal Poly and has been a member of the Home Economics Club and honorary society, WOW counselor, Arts Council and was selected as a trainee for the Southern Counties Gas Co. Training Program. Sponsored by the Ag Business Management Club, Cathy is student teaching this quarter at Paso Robles High School in the Home Economics department.

NANCY GOLDSMITH... Via a telephone call, Nancy learned of her selection from her roommate Jana Mosgar-Zoulal. Nancy was in Santa Barbara for teaching interviews. Sponsored by the Los Lecheros Dairy Club, she is an Elementary Education major from Galt. The 21-year-old coed lists among her activities membership in the Women's Glee Club, Music board of control, campus 4-H Club and Who's Who in American Colleges and Universities.

ROWENA HUEN... The Institute of Aeronautics and Astronautics is sponsoring the only Math major in the queen elections. The petite Rowena is from Hong Kong and waited till 9 p.m. for her notification. When it didn't come, she went to a movie and on her return was "most pleasantly surprised." Rowena lists among her collegiate activities: Math Club, assistant in the Math lab, secretary of Women's Glee Club and social chairman of Poly Chi. Most of all, Rowena is interested in "being of service to others."

GLORIA LANINI... The Mustang Flying Club has set their wings on this 21-year-old Home Economics major from Hollister. Gloria hopes to student-teach next quarter and lists her activities as Home Economics Club, honor society, camping, hiking and the domestic arts. Gloria is the recipient of scholarships from various organizations.

JANA MOSGAR-ZOULAL... Farm Management Club is sponsoring this 20-year-old ASB secretary from Walnut Creek. Jana was ironing and "nearly burnt a hole in the garment" when she was notified. She's majoring in Social Science and has been quite active in student government as secretary for the Junior Class and Welcome Week and also a member of SAC. Above all, she likes singing, dancing and tennis.

ANN PROUT... The former ROTC princess and Printing Week Queen was told she "had the wild reaction yet" as she let out a blood curdling scream. Sponsored by Mat Pica Pl, the 21-year-old miss is a Home Econ major and lists her activities as Kaydette secretary, lettergirl and Home Economics honor society.

CAROL ROTOLLO... Coming in from a coffee date, Cookie noticed a small note on the switchboard and when she read it, discovered she was a finalist. Crops Club is sponsoring this 21-year-old Elementary Education major whose activities include SCA and Ski Club. Her outside interests range from outdoor activities to music.

SONDRA SHAW... "And the popcorn began to really pop" when Sondra heard the good news. The 20-year-old Elementary Education major from Long Beach is under the sponsorship of Rally Club and has done student teaching at C. L. Smith and Pascese schools. A member of Who's Who in American Colleges and Universities, Sondra is active in Rally Club, Women's Glee Club, Welcome Week and was a former head song girl. Other interests are musical.

LINDA WOLF... A pizza date turned into a celebration Friday night when Linda was notified of her candidacy. The Elementary Education major from Santa Barbara is resident manager of the City Hall, Spring Sing committee and recipient of a FFA scholarship.

The 21-year-old coed is sponsored by the Ornamental Horticulture Club and enjoys tennis, sailing, art, sketching and all outdoor activities.

SAC Approves Feb. 26, 27 Election Ballot

By LANI CAIN

Student Affairs Council approved eight propositions to appear on the ballot for the Feb. 26 and 27 election in a four hour meeting held last Tuesday night.

The ballot will contain eight propositions to help update SAC by-laws to correspond to present procedures and existing board coeds. At this election students will also choose their Poly Royal queen and her court.

In other action ASB President Roy Killgore read a letter from Cal Poly President Julian A. McPhee acknowledging receipt of the SAC coed resolution. McPhee is waiting to confer with other college officials, the letter said. According to Killgore, "He is very optimistic and with minor changes I expect them to be accepted."

Graduate Manager Hub Spink gave a grim financial report. In the main the student body is expected to go $1,946.40 in the red this year. According to Spink the students are going to have to make a decision between modifying existing programs or cutting some out entirely.

Included in the line of the Finance Committee Report was a request for $227 from contingency for the purpose of buying a safe for the Student Body Office. The motion carried.

Poly Royal Western dance admission price has been raised from $1 to $1.50 to help increase projected profits. And also in the realm of finances SAC moved to spend $35 for publicity of All-Poly Weekend.

Incorporation election of Jan. 22 and 23 was pronounced official and there was a unanimous vote to initiate corporate proceedings. Gordon Jones presented a report on All-Poly Weekend to the council. Also presented was a report on the Wintercarnival (inter-collegiate skiing).

A proposed press conference date with President Julian A. McPhee was refused by the council because Dave Kishiyama, Editor of El Mustang, said the date was inconvenient.

Issues that were passed by SAC to appear in the coming election were:

1. A point of clarification on the election of the candidate for chairmanship of a board.
2. Music Board of Control proposal changing their representation on their board from two to at least three individuals.
3. Three changes by Board of Publications. One eliminates a Press Club representative on its board and provides for an Advertising Manager and a Business Manager as representatives. The other brings the code up to date by raising the number of faculty advisors to four. The last stipulates that all members of a board shall vote with the exception of the faculty representative appointed by the college President, who shall have a veto power.
4. Board of Athletic Control had

Film, Talk On Taiwan Subject Of CU Event

A revealing film of the miracle of Formosa, entitled "Taiwan Today," will be presented in person by Margaret Baker at the Air Conditioning Auditorium Wednesday, Feb. 19 at 8 p.m.

The event is open to the public at admission prices of 50 cents for ASB card holders and $1.25 for non-ASB card holders. There are also season tickets available for $5. Admission may be obtained at the door.

Margaret Baker, noted lecturer, photographer and authority on the Far East, has been to Taiwan 10 times since 1951, and has had an opportunity to observe the progress that has been made.

The documentary film which accompanies her lecture makes it clear that Free China has worked a quite miracle. In the heart of the Orient, where famine is familiar, the rice bowls of Taiwan are full, and its standards of living are among the highest for Asia though the population has doubled since 1949, when the communists took over the mainland.

New industries have been expanding, partly through funds given the large land holders. Miss Baker points out that it is in Taiwan that the leap has really been taken. In her visits there she learned that ancient Chinese traditions are still being carried on, and that modern commerce is practiced. In city village, and countryside she found it to be a beautiful and stirring land.

Taiwan received its western name of Formosa, meaning beautiful, from the Portuguese, who gave it that name when they visited there during their age of exploration in the early 16th century. Japanese influence is still apparent, particularly in housing. This stems from the Japanese occupation, beginning in 1905, and ending with the defeat of the Japanese in World War II.

Margaret Baker's documentary is a gripping account of democracy in action. Her own life is a most unusual one. She was taken abroad for the first time when she was 5-years-old, and has been traveling ever since. Recently she returned from her tenth complete round-the-world journey. For many years she and her mother owned a rubber plantation in Malaya and spent much time in the Far East.

All-Poly Weekend Is For Everybody; Hootenany, Greek Tragedy Scheduled

Whether your interests are tramping around on campus tours, stomping in Crandall Gym or singing your favorite folk songs at a real rootin'-tootin' Hootenany, All-Poly Weekend has something for you.

All-Poly Weekend, Feb. 21-23, is the uniting of the two campuses with students from Pomona visiting San Luis Obispo for three days of festivities.

"This is also a good opportunity for students from both campuses to develop better understanding of mutual problems like the Rose Bowl float and student body fees," said Dan Lawson, dean of activities.

All students who are interested in attending are asked to sign up at the registration booth that will be located by the college snack bar today from 10 a. m. to 3 p. m. and tomorrow at 11:30 to 1:00, and Monday, through Tuesday 10 a. m. to 3 p. m. A reception sponsored by the CU Social Committee will be held in the TCU at 7 p. m.

Antigone, a Greek tragedy will be staged from 8:30 to 10:30 p.m. in the Little Theater and a stomp will be held in Crandall Gym from 10 p.m. to 1:15 a.m. with music by the Squires. Admission is 25 cents.

Saturday's festivities will begin with a movie in the Little Theater. Admission is 25 cents. Campus tours will be conducted from 10 a.m. to 3 p.m.

Field games will be from 2-4 p.m. and will include the ice tug, polka relay, six-legged race, egg in a tablespoon with mixed teams; women only, balloon destroyer, the back to back barrel race; and for men only, the wheelbarrow race and the ungassed pole climb.

The Mustang baseball team will play a double header baseball game starting at 12:30 p.m. with UC Santa Barbara.

Antigone will be at 8:30 p.m. in the Little Theater.

A wheelchair Basketball game will be held at 8 p.m. in the men's Gym and the Hootenany will be in Crandall Gym at 8 p.m.

A Sock Hop will end Saturday night's festivities with music by the Regents. Admission is 25 cents. The dance is sponsored by the Junior Class.

Beginning Sunday, breakfast will be held in the Snack Bar from 9-11 a.m. Rides to church will be provided.

According to Rose Mary Thompson, news editor of "Poly Post", a southern campus newspaper, "There are a lot of students interested in going and SLO should expect a big crowd."

Jerry Coffin, director of publicity and head of All-Poly Weekend arrangements at Pomona, said he expects about 1000 Pomona students to attend.

Auditions for the Hootenany will be Tuesday, Feb. 18 at 7 p.m. in MND 130.

Gordon Jones is head of All-Poly Weekend on campus. His committee consists of Karen Froyland, Linda Lansing, Jana Mosgar-Zoulal, Fran Seymour, Marlys Winterbourne, David Abbott, Dawson Mabey, Larry Hubbell, Kirby McCullen, Linda King, Sandee Sautter and Kathleen Flynn.

Food Fighters Risk Fines, Suspension From College

Two students may be suspended from the college as a result of a food fight last week in the College Dining Hall, Everett Chandler, dean of students, said yesterday.

The two students either threw glasses and dishes or carelessly dumped them on the floor without regard for injury to fellow students, said the dean.

After talking to student managers, cafeteria employees and the students themselves, the dean said that there appears to have been about six people who started the "fight" and about 20 to 30 people involved in throwing food and dishes.

"Students who throw cream puffs at each other are one thing, but it is beyond reason for students to throw hardware (dishes, plates, trays) at each other; it shows a total disregard for other students. Hitting a person with anything is an assault even if it is only food. If someone starts the fight threw hardware, the college can and may file criminal charges."

The damage as a result of the commotion is about $100, Gene Brendlin, head of the foundation, estimated yesterday.

When a definite list of students who were involved with the fracas is actually made up, upon recommendation from the dean, then the foundation will bill these students for the damages, Brendlin indicated.

The foundation manager said that there will be no refund on the meal tickets for these students themselves or to their parents. The students without meal tickets will be billed directly.

During the period of time that the bill is not paid for, the student's records and transcripts will be held by the college. After this if the bill still is not paid, a professional credit collection agency will take care of the bill and this may result in taking the student to a small claims court.

These steps are taken in order to protect the other students who were not involved in the abuse of the facilities, said Brendlin.

Students threw dishes, glasses and whole trays of dishes and food blindly at each other. Reported one student manager who was on duty when the commotion occurred. The whole affair lasted "about 45 seconds." After it was over, students ran out of windows and doors.

The fracas happened so fast that there was nothing anyone could do but duck and get out of the way, reported the manager. The whole thing was such a "blur" that he couldn't recall if there was any yelling and screaming.

Memorial Service Slated Sunday For Ghana Student

Memorial service for Nuku Assem, student from Ghana who was killed in an automobile accident Jan. 31, will be held Sunday at 3 p.m. in Grace Tabernacle Church, Ocos and Pismo Streets.

Assem died in a single-car accident near Blackwells Corners, an intersection of U.S. 466 and state highway 33, 60 miles from Bakersfield.

Last week the body was flown from California to Ghana. The Educational attaché from Ghana, representing the ambassador to the United States, made arrangements for the flight and took charge of Assem's personal effects.

Dean of Agriculture Warren Smith, who is contact officer for the Agency for International Development, said at Cal Poly, reported that the U.S. State Department paid all costs for the air trip.

Smith also said that President Julian A. McPhee sent Assem's father a letter of condolence.

'Rural Youth' Is Theme Of May 6-8 FFA Confab

"Rural Youth—Backbone of a Nation" is the theme of the 1964 Future Farmers of America convention to be held on campus May 6-8.

The convention will be held in conjunction with state FFA judging championships and during the week 1,900 FFA members from 226 high school chapters will visit the campus.

This year's convention will feature two panel discussions. The first panel will include four national FFA presidents: Bob Jones, 1965 president who now manages the San Diego County Fair; Marvin Jagels, 1962 president, who works in a speed production center in Bakersfield; Robert Bowman, 1964, a big-scale farmer in Corcoran and Neil Ackerman, 1964 president from Indiana.

Moderator will be Jerry Diefenderfer, Farm Management sophomore from San Luis Obispo and past FFA national vice president.

The second panel will be composed of representatives from the Grange, Future Homemakers of America, 4-H, FFA national vice president and an exchange FFA student from Oregon. It will be moderated by Roy Killgore, senior Soil Science major from Santa, and the six members will discuss what they want.

Cal Poly has hosted the conventions since 1933. Arrangements for this year's gathering are made by George Couper and past and present state FFA officers attending college here.

Delegation Selected To Model UN

Selected from a record number of applicants, three Social Science juniors will be the Cal Poly delegation to this year's Model United Nations conference April 14-18 in Spokane, Wash.

Robert Wilson, Jim Sillman, both from San Luis Obispo, and Ken Borelli, San Leandro, were selected on the basis of a competitive examination given recently by delegation advisor, Thomas Nolan, Social Science instructor.

Each member of the delegation must propose at least one resolution on an issue for a standing committee of the Model United Nations and prepare to have it adopted by the committee and the plenary session.

Over 1,000 delegates representing 100 colleges and universities take part in the annual conference. This year's Cal Poly delegation will represent the tiny nation of Luxembourg at the Whitworth College conference.

Thirty-three students took the examination, the largest number to participate in the history of the Model United Nations at Cal Poly.

Moslems Celebrate Fast-Breaking Festival Tomorrow

Cal Poly students from around the world believing in the Muslim religion will celebrate the Festival of the Fast-Breaking (Eid-ul-Fitra) at 10:30 a.m. tomorrow on the baseball field.

The festival takes place as the sacred month of Ramadan is ended. Primarily a feast of Allah giving Moslems around the world join in clarity and celebrate the ending of the month-long fast, offering thanksgiving congregational prayers.

"The fast's purpose is to train the body of man to survive and know what hunger is like. To understand what hunger is, is to be able to help other's suffering," explained Javed I. Qureshi, a junior Air Conditioning major from Pakistan.

Remaden, the most religious month, began Jan. 16. From dawn to dusk a Moslem will not eat, drink or smoke anything during this observance.

Regular Juma (Friday) prayers will be held at 1 p.m. at the baseball field every Friday also, Qureshi said.

For Your Valentine, Carnivorous Plants?

For that different Valentine, for that gift to the person who has everything, see Russ Comer or Harry Nakagawa, Ornamental Horticulture majors.

Darlingtonia Californica is one of their suggestions. The name sounds "hearts and flowers," doesn't it? The other of their plant projects is Dionaea Muscipula.

Darlingtonia Californica, as its name implies, is native to California, specifically northern coastal California. Too, it is found in southern coastal Oregon. This plant crawls. Commonly it is called the cobra plant. It is hooded like the head of a cobra, and its hood is textured like a cobra, it eats. It is carnivorous.

For the person who wants a reptilian that is a plant, or who wants a plant that is a reptilian, Russ and Harvey have grown the answer.

Dionaea Muscipula to the layman is known as Venus Fly-Trap. The "Venus" part gives it a Valentine connotation.

The Venus Fly-Trap is a dainty growth with sensitive trigger hairs and delicate white flowers.

Russ and Harvey grew the plants from seed as their project. Ray Houston is advisor to the project.

Venus Fly-Trap is native to the Carolinas along the East Coast. It too is carnivorous. It doesn't stop with flies, which one might infer. This fragile looking plant catches things as large as frogs.

The plant consists of a prostrate stem, petite leaves and a traplike blade with marginal trigger hairs. Usually there are three trigger hairs on the upper half of each blade.

The plant looks delicate and passive. That is only how it looks. Let an insect, fly, spider or frog brush against the trigger hairs and a complicated mechanism is set in motion. Quickly the blades close, imprisoning the victim. After the initial closing the trap continues to tighten. Glands on the blade secrete a clear, sticky liquid which is released to dissolve and digest the tissues of the victim.

In approximately 30 minutes the blades open. The exo-skeletons of spiders or other hard substances are released.

Better place your order quickly. As it is obvious, these plants are the ideal Valentine. That special person will remember you every time there are fly carcasses to pick out of the plant. How does that grab you?

Hawaiians Outline Luau Preparations

The date for the annual Hui O' Hawaiian Luau has been set for April 11, in the Veteran's Memorial Building. Sponsoring the yearly event is the Hui O' Hawaii club.

Charles Onaka, Luau chairman, reported the plans of the respective committees are well underway. The food shipment of this year's luau will be the largest import made since the club started transporting native Hawaiian food from the islands in 1954.

Professional Hawaiian entertainment will be part of the program planned for this year's affair. In addition to the professional performance, entertainment co-chairman Corky Bryan said he will try to bring back the karate exhibition which made a hit with the guests last year.

Crops Class Studies Ranching Practices

A study of equipment, planting and fertility practices, as well as storage facilities and weed control practices in east San Luis Obispo County, was made by some 90 members of the Combine Harvest Crops class.

During a recent day-long field trip the group visited the Hellmann Brothers Ranch in Atascadero, the Cooper Ranch in Carrizo Plains and the White Ranch in Shandon to gain first-hand knowledge of local farming and ranching problems.

Although all three ranches produce mainly cereal crops, students had the opportunity to observe different operations because of the variety of topographical and climatic conditions within the areas, according to Corwin Johnson, head of the Crops Department at Cal Poly and leader of the field trip.

Good Instructor vs. Bad

We often wonder why some teachers come to class. There must be some reason, yet when an instructor mumbles in a low monotone and forgets what he's saying half way through the hour, we can only wonder.

It reminds us of a story about three men who were quarrying rock. A spectator asked the first one what he was doing and he said, "I'm quarrying rock." He asked the second and he said he was making blocks. But, when he asked the third he said, "I'm building a cathedral." The latter had some insight into the future of his present moldings.

And yet, we wonder when some teachers come before us and state, "Now you ask the questions. I've taught this class for 10 years and I'm bored with it." Is he building a cathedral, or is he just quarrying?

It takes a lot of effort for good teacher is to prepare a class and make it interesting. They realize what it means to the student, and go out of the way to do a good job.

But the instructor who prepares his class 10 minutes before the hour, who repeats the book verbatim, or the teacher who presents out-of-date material to his students, isn't doing the job for which he was hired.

The pay isn't good, the hours are miserable and the work is abominable, but if they would only realize the influence they wield on the lives of 6,200 Cal Poly students, perhaps the classes would be better places in which to learn.

They've got the moldings of tomorrow's leaders in their hands. With a little shaping, a little chipping, a little adding, they can be the sculptors of great men and women.

But we can only wonder, are some instructors interested enough to take the time?

Letter Writers Lacking

Newspaper letter writers are a strange breed of people. They usually have a particular gripe or bone to chew.

They feel strongly about issues and controversies, and they debate them openly.

A year ago, there was much response to "Mailbag," so much in fact that a downtown merchant sponsored a column called "Voice of the Student," specifically devoted to letters to the editor.

Thus far this quarter there have been five letters, two by the same author and three on the same subject. One came from a Poly Pomona student. The other was in response to an El Mustang editorial.

When compared to other campus newspaper letter columns, El Mustang's "Mailbag" is sadly lacking. Most papers devote a fourth or half a page for student opinion, while this paper has used space for five letters.

El Mustang editorial policy is to print all letters received which in the editor's opinion are not in poor taste or libelous. Only other requirements are that the letters be 200 words or less and that they be signed by the true name of the author.

Letters may be delivered to El Mustang office, GA-226 or in the maildrop, GA-228.

We hope that students will not wait until their toes are stepped on to reply or voice opinions, for El Mustang is not only published by the students, but for the students.

'Missing Links' Featured On TV Show

By MITCH HIDER

It was almost time for class to begin. Chatter seemed to be along the same lines.

"We had a better turnout for that television program than for any dorm meeting," a coed remarked.

The girl behind her added, "You know, the Ed Sullivan show was really good with them on. Better than jugglers and acrobats."

Another coed sat down and quickly joined in. "I've seen pictures of them when they didn't have their hair so long. They didn't look bad either, but now!"

She added, "Other acts work years for success. All they did was let their hair grow."

Another girl was trying to classify the subject matter. She thought they looked like neither male or female, but more like "the missing link."

In the other corner of the classroom, it was the same. With a smile, a cute blonde defended them. "I think they're terrific."

Two fellows were listening to the chit-chat and smiling. Finally one turned to the other and said dryly, "Did you see 'em on television?"

"Uh-huh," replied the other. "I thought they were pretty grubby."

"Who they talking about?" an older student asked the girl next to him. The instructor then walked in and the class quieted.

"The Beatles. They were on Ed Sullivan," she whispered.

"We're having a test a week from Friday," the instructor said.

U.S. Students Aided by Foreign Study

Nearly 19,000 American students attended foreign universities during 1963, while 78,000 foreign students were enrolled in American schools. The rapidly growing trend toward international studies is worldwide, a phase of the "education explosion." More than a quarter of a million students are at schools outside their countries. They are aided by thousands of free fellowships and scholarships.

The 1964 edition of "Study Abroad" just published by the Unesco Publications Center in New York, lists the opportunities for support in advanced studies outside the United States.

More than 130,000 scholarships and fellowships worth hundreds of millions of dollars are available to assist the world's traveling generation of students. The grants cover every branch of learning and come from universities, governments and foundations in 116 countries. Some are for periods of a few weeks, others extend for as much as seven years.

The book lists 105 different fields of study, ranging from "administration" to "zoology." Many of the opportunities for foreign study are offered under broad headings such as literature, languages or science. Others are more specific. For example, an American student of oceanography, consulting "Study Abroad," can find more than 60 grants in his specialized subject available in countries as diverse as Canada, the Dominican Republic and Monaco.

But a student of acting would find only five opportunities specifically earmarked for the theater, all of them from the International Theater Institute.

International and intergovernmental organizations, including the United Nations, provide more than 10,000 scholarships. More than 290 American universities and colleges offer assistance to students from abroad. Most of them also grant fellowships abroad to American students. The United States government and private foundations have thousands of additional fellowships available for Americans as well as for students from overseas.

A comparison with previous editions of the $4 "Study Abroad" reveals how political and economic changes affect education. Castro's island now offers only three types of scholarships. Last year, Cuba gave nine.

Russia now provides foreign undergraduates with a living allowance of 80 rubles a month, reduced from 90 last year. On the other hand, Russian grants to scholars for advanced training have been increased to 150 rubles monthly from the former maximum of 100 rubles. Scholarship grants to students from Africa, this year as last, include a 300-ruble allowance for warm clothing.

In Japan the number of grants available to Americans has been almost halved from last year's 87 to the current 49, but Japanese students are being offered increased opportunities by their government and universities for study outside their country.

All relevant data are given for each grant listed in "Study Abroad," including standards of eligibility and where and when to apply. Handy classification codes show the field of study for which financial aid is offered.

Robert Burns Subject at Humanist Meeting

The Humanist Club is sponsoring a speech on "The Humanism of Robert Burns" to be given by Alexander Mackay Monday, Feb. 17 at 8 p.m. in Sc-B 5.

Mackay of Santa Barbara, a native of Scotland, is 78 years old and blind, and, in his own words, "somewhat an authority on Robert Burns." The meeting is open to all students.

Greek Drama Will Feature 'Chorus' In Unique Setting

Modern theater-goers are apt to think they are about to see a musical if they are told there is a "Chorus" in a production.

Those who attend the College Union Drama Committee production of "Antigone" will find a new idea for a Chorus.

"Antigone" will be presented in the Cal Poly Little Theater Feb. 21, 22, 28 and 29. Curtain time is 8:30 p.m.

Students will see a rather unique play for modern day college students and they will see the ancient practice of using a Chorus.

In their plays, the Greek dramatists used the Chorus to set both the scene and the mood, to comment on events.

One of the greatest plays to come from Greek theater, "Antigone" was written by Sophocles. The tragedy of the play was a powerful questioning of California Gov. Edmund G. "Pat" Brown (center) in a special student press conference. From l. to r. the students are Jim McLain, Nikki Hoffmann, Diana Vos, Bruce McPherson and Karen Jorgensen.

Nurserymen To See Poly Green Thumbs

The Tri-County and Monterey Bay chapters of the California State Landscape Contractors and the California Association of Nurserymen will visit the college on Friday afternoon, Feb. 21, as guests of the Ornamental Horticulture Department.

Approximately 120 persons are expected, says Dr. Howard Brown, head of the department.

Study Abroad Program Offered At Low Price

By EDNA TOGAWA

Students who are interested in studying for a year in Europe, Taiwan or Japan for the same price as 30 would cost for a year's study here may apply to Jerry Landdowne, Social Science instructor, Ag. 287 by Feb. 20.

The California State Colleges International Programs, directed by Dr. Thomas Lantos, provides study abroad for students at the following universities: the University of Aix-Marseille in France, the University of Heidelberg and the Free University of Berlin in Germany, the University of Madrid, the University of Stockholm, the National University of Taiwan and the University of Tokyo.

Proficiency in the language is a necessary qualification for application to the programs in France, Germany, Spain, and Taiwan (Chinese). The programs in Japan and Sweden are of two types—for students with proficiency in Japanese and Swedish or with instruction in English.

The student must be junior, senior or of graduate standing at the beginning of the 1964-65 academic year. Preference will go to those applicants who have had three quarters of course work (45 units) with a grade point average of 3.0 or better prior to Fall 1964, said Landdowne who is an advisor on the committee for international programs.

The cost for the student participating in the program, plus transportation, is approximately $1500. The round trip cost of transportation between California and the European universities is approximately $450. A limited number of fellowships and assistantships are available, ranging in value from $125 to $1,150 for students who are unable to assume the full financial commitment of study abroad and who have outstanding academic qualifications. Participants in the international programs are also eligible for the National Defense Student Loan (NDSL) program.

An advisor of California State Colleges will be at each one of the campuses abroad to assist the students with any problems that may arise.

Undergraduate students will earn between 24 and 30 semester units of credit on their home campuses, for work successfully completed abroad during the academic year.

The academic agenda of students selected for the International Programs is divided into two parts.

From Sept. 2 through Oct. 28 there will be an intensive language study period, beginning immediately upon arrival in the host country.

From Oct. 27, 1964 through July 31, 1965 there will be two academic semesters of study.

Students proficient in the language of their chosen country may enroll as regular full-time students and will undertake studies in that language in their chosen field. Students who do not have prior knowledge of the language will have instruction in English and these students will select their academic program from selected areas of study.

During the period of the intensive language study students in most programs will be housed in student residences and dormitories with students of the host country.

This program is in its second year and through it 108 students from the various state colleges have gone abroad. Negotiations are now under way with universities in Switzerland and Latin America for additional programs in 1964-65.

Everett Chandler, dean of students, and Landdowne will rank order of all applicants.

Wife Is Honored By Ag Ed Club

Ruth Burlingham, wife of H.H. Burlingham, head of Agricultural Education, became the first woman to receive an honorary membership in the Agriculture Education Club. She was honored at a recent banquet.

Mrs. Burlingham earned the honor through her years of service as advisor to the Ag Ed Wife's Club.

Wesley P. Smith, state director of vocational agriculture, was featured speaker at the banquet. His speech, "Magna Carta for Vocational Education," centered around the new legislation for trade education put through Congress in 1963.

Smith wove into his talk an emphasis on the opportunities and challenges for today's youth in vocational as opposed to university training.

THE BELL TELEPHONE COMPANIES SALUTE: HERB SUTTON, JR.

Herb Sutton (B.S.E.E., 1961) got a good basic foundation in telephone communications. Outside plant work involving engineering and actual physical construction validates Herb's claim of starting from the ground up. But up he came, and fast!

Herb advanced from an assistant engineer in construction work to Chief Line Assigner where he is responsible for the maintenance and service of all outside telephone equipment in the San Bruno area of Pacific Telephone. His present assignment puts him at the hub of telephone operations, a pressure job that demands the very most of his telephone knowledge and his supervisory abilities.

Herb Sutton, like many young engineers, is impatient to make things happen for his company and himself. There are few places where such restlessness is more welcomed or rewarded than in the fast-growing telephone business.

IT'S ALL MINE... Norm Angell, sophomore forward, hauls down a rebound for the Mustangs in last Friday night's action against San Fernando Valley. Mustangs Win One; Face 49ers, Aztecs

With the assurance that they will not go through the season without a league win due to the 86-83 overtime win over San Fernando Valley last weekend, the up-set Mustangs will face rough foes from San Diego and Long Beach.

Hosting the Mustangs tonight will be the San Diego Aztecs who are presently in third place in the CCAA standings, one half game out of second place. In the first meeting between the two clubs, San Diego gave the Mustangs a rough go, downing them 84-72.

San Diego is led by Jack Shawcroft and Jim Bowers who have averaged 13.3 and 14.5 points per game. The Aztecs still have an outside chance to capture the league crown.

Saturday night, the Mustangs travel a little north and attempt to get what took three overtimes before last time the two teams met—a win. Long Beach posted a 93-92 win over the home court Mustangs in three overtimes in their Jan. 11 meeting.

Long Beach presently holds a 2-4 league record, good enough for fourth place in the six team league.

CCAA Roundup

Because of his 38 point output that gave him a new CCAA scoring record, Bob Horwath was selected as the CCAA Player of the Week.

Horwath has scored 578 points in the three years of CCAA competition and last week surpassed the former record of 577 held by Mike McPerson of Fresno State in 1961. With three games to play yet, Horwath has a good shot at the 600 mark.

By virtue of his 38 points, Horwath has a total of 131 points in seven games for an 18.7 average per game and fourth place in the league.

WAA NEWS

Feb. 26 is it! What is it? The greatest fun time of the quarter. In fact, maybe even the whole year. More about it later.

Trinity 2, San Lucia, forfeit. Off Campus 14, Heron, 8. These were the final scores of games played Jan. 4. In intramural basketball, top scores for the evening was an Off Campus team member, Ruth Rusk, with six points.

A reminder to all girls on intramural teams. Your WAA dues must be paid or your team will be required to forfeit any and all games played.

An introductory foil meet for women is to be held Feb. 15, at San Francisco State College at 1 p.m. Any woman student with a year or less fencing experience is eligible. Those representing Cal Poly are Pat Gardner, Pat Stone, Kathy Jones, and Chris Iverson.

Gymnastics Team Home Debut Tonight

Cal Poly gymnastics team will host Long Beach State, winners of second place in last week's UCLA invitational, for its first home meet tonight. The competition will start at 8 p.m. in the Men's Gym.

Long Beach, one of Southern California's better gymnastic teams is being lead by Jim Mills in the free exercise. Another outstanding visitor will be Laggit on the still rings, and the word is that Long Beach also has a winner on parallel bars.

Mustang coach Vic Buccola is optimistically looking forward to the first home meet even though the visitors made a good showing last weekend. Long Beach had a majority of their team, while Poly's team, made primarily of frosh, were not eligible for the UCLA invitational.

This weekend will be the first time Poly will have its whole team together under the same roof for competition. The Mustangs are expected to make an especially good showing on the trampoline, rings, tumbling and side horse.

A pleasant surprise for Coach Buccola has been the discovery of Jerry Holmes, a transfer from Pierce Junior College, who excels on side horse.

Poly's chance for a victory will primarily rest on the performance of the team's seniors, O'Bannon, Clay Christman, Dave Ethington and Nick Brown. Lou Monville, John Lauer and Steve Endicott also will give the Mustangs some added strength. Cal Poly is expecting more points to come from Mark Fleming on longhorses.

To round out a busy weekend, Mustangs will travel for a pair of two way meets, Saturday. They will travel to San Fernando Valley to meet the Matadors and the University of Southern California.

Brown Testimonial Scheduled Feb. 26

A testimonial for Ed Brown, quarterback for the Pittsburgh Steelers, will be held Feb. 26 at the San Luis Obispo Country Club. Included in the ceremonies will be a golf tournament and a banquet.

The function will feature Harland Sware, head coach of the Los Angeles Rams, and Lou Cordell, currently a lineman for the Pittsburgh Steelers. Each guest is expected to speak and highlight the Pittsburgh Steelers in 1963 will be shown.

Those interested in entering the golf tourney are not obligated to attend the barbecue or banquet.

The tournament will begin in the morning and prizes will be given to those who score lowest on the 18-hole country club greens. Up to 20 prizes will be given and anyone interested should sign up at the country club or Morro Bay Golf course for further information.

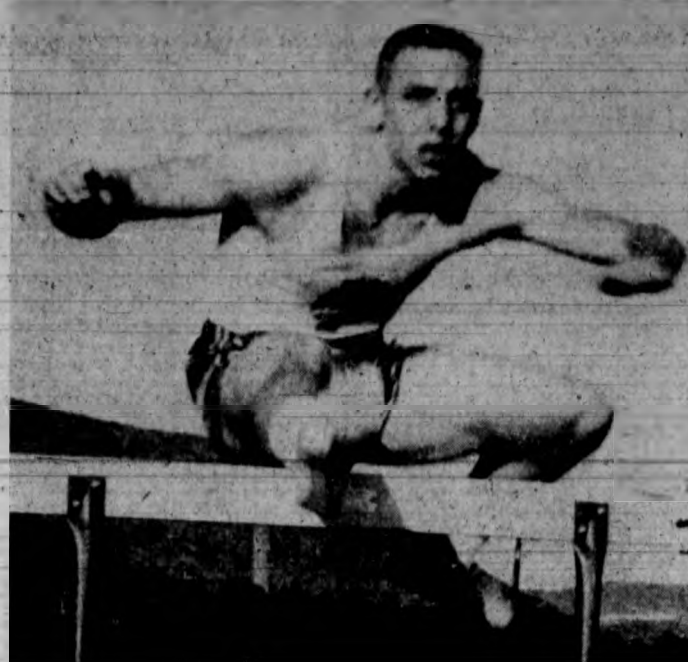

The tickets for the barbecue and banquet are $5 and can be obtained at downtown business houses.

Impressive Outlook For '64 Cindermen

In spite of a tough schedule that includes eight dual meets, one triple meet, and numerous championship meets, Track Coach Walt Williamson has expressed his feelings that this may be the best track team Cal Poly has had in recent years.

This year's schedule features four home meets and will begin Feb. 22 with a dual meet against Westmont. Williamson gave his optimistic views for a good season and said this year's squad will be aided by transfer students and returning lettermen.

Probably the biggest asset to the team will be Ben Laville, a sophomore from Dominica, British West Indies. At the present time, Laville holds the school record for the javelin throw with a heave of 234 feet 11 inches. Williamson said Laville has an outside chance for the National collegiate championship and should fare well in league competition. He may represent his country in his event this year in the Olympics held in Japan.

Another valuable returning letterman will be Lloyd Petroelje, considered a favorite by some fans to take the honors in CCAA competition for the discus throw. Petroelje has a good chance of breaking the school discus record and has thrown it 160 feet. He also has a chance to place in the national meet championships, according to Williamson.

Returning to Poly after a three-year hitch in the army is Charlie Smith who might be labeled as a triple threat. Smith enters in three events and does a capable job in each, Williamson indicates. He may also be a contender for conference honors and holds bests of 47 feet, 24 feet 6 inches and 6 feet 6 inches in the hop-step-jump, broad jump and high jump respectively.

Gary Curtis and Ken Wolf, both transfers from junior colleges will possess most of the strength for Cal Poly in the spring events. While at Orange Coast, Curtis ran a 9.7 100-yard dash and scampored the 220-yard dash in 21.4. Wolf also ran the 100-yard event in 9.7 while at Monterey Peninsula. Gary Walker, another member of the squad who enters in three different events, will be facing some of the toughest competition in the league when he competes in the 120-yard hurdles. Walker has run an impressive 11.6 in that event. He has come close to 14 feet in the pole vault and holds his own in the 330-yard intermediate hurdles.

The track team has been working out since Jan. 7 and appears to be rounding up to good shape. Roland Lint, who ran the mile in 4:21 last year as a sophomore is expected to get his time down to 4:10 in that event. The Mustangs' other top distance runner is Don Fields who competes in the two-mile.

As for this year's outlook, Williamson said, "This squad looks deep as we have had in the years before, but we have quite a few good individual performers who may do very well in league competition. I look for a good season and expect that we will give a lot of teams plenty of trouble."

Here is the track schedule for the 1964 season. All home meets will begin with the field events at 1:30 and the running events will start at 2 p.m.

TWO POINTS, WOOL... Harvey Wool, senior on decision over his Santa Barbara opponent. Cal Poly the wrestling team, makes another take down to so beat Santa Barbara last Tuesday and will travel to gain two of the 12 points he scored in his 12-2 two matches this weekend. (Photo by Dase)

Grapplers Travel Following Victory

Following an impressive 23-12 win over Santa Barbara, the Cal Poly wrestling team travels south to face Long Beach tonight at 7:30 p.m. The grapplers will then trek to San Fernando Valley for an afternoon match against the Matadors on Saturday.

Three consecutive pins eased the way for the Mustangs to gain their eighth victory in 11 dual meets. The grapplers also had to settle for a tie against San Diego in their other previous meet.

The victory against Santa Barbara was the second the Mustangs have posted over the Gauchoes this year.

In the 123-pound class, Peter Franklunde, from London, England wrestled to a 8-8 draw with Dennis Fumoto. Fumoto had defeated Franklunde in their first match Dec. 4.

After Poly had forfeited the second match, Jim Teem pinned his man in 2:40 of the second period to start the three consecutive five-point wins for Poly.

Sam Huerta, who is 10-0 this year, made quick action of his match as he pinned Doug Vlear in 20 seconds of the second period. Spencer Tamoto made it three straight as he pinned Bill Bridger in the 157-pound class in 1:37 of the second period. Tamoto was wrestling with a pulled muscle, but that didn't seem to cramp his style.

Sam Cereceres won a 4-3 decision and Harvey Wool followed with an easy 12-2 win. Wool had his opponent nearly pinned on numerous occasions.

Santa Barbara finally got on the scoreboard after six straight losses when James McMahon pinned Hill Dauphin in 2:09 of the first period.

Following this week's trip, the Mustang matmen will return home for four straight home meets, beginning with San Jose State Feb. 18.
