Cowboys Ride Saturday

Rodeo teams within the school will compete for the first time in the jackpot rodeo sponsored by Rodeo Club, Saturday, Nov. 7 at the Bud Collet Arena, reports rodeo chairman C.W. Adams.

The regular rodeo team will be split into two teams. Every contestant will be a member of one of these teams.

The idea of the team system is a new one designed to acquaint members with the point system employed by the National Intercollegiate Rodeo Association. The jackpot will be run according to NIRA rules. Men's events will include bareback and saddle bronc, calf roping, bulldogging, bull riding and team roping. Women's events are barrel racing and calf tying.

The rodeo will begin at 9 a.m. and will end at noon. Adams estimates that 70-75 contestants will participate.

Tour Of Highway 1 Set For Tomorrow

This Saturday will be a day of fun beginning at 6:30 a.m.

A tour of Highway 1, including a tour of Hearst Castle, Jude Rock in Big Sur, the 17-mile drive in Carmel and a trip to Monterey Bay is being sponsored by the College Union Outing Committee. All students are invited.

The trip begins at 6:30 a.m., leaving from the Men's Gym. The cost will be $5 per person, which includes transportation and the tour of Hearst Castle. It is estimated the tour will return to Cal Poly by 7:30 that evening.

Anyone interested may still sign up in the activities office.

Campus Animals Win Carload Title For Seventh Time At Cow Palace

Four proud beefmen saw their herd of Hereford steers go Grand Champion at the Cow Palace last week.

Dave Abbot, Jack Menefee, Ron Pollard and John Squires watched their carload sell for 32 cents per pound at the Grand National livestock auction.

Other highlights in the beef division were first placings in junior yearlings, Angus; junior calf, Angus; and group of three Angus steers, making three wins out of the five Angus classes entered by the Poly showmen. Owners of the Angus were Kent Chesborough, Al Deltoro, Wayne Jensen, Tim Smith, Dick Schader and John Vanze.

Dick Anderson and Tom Coffman showed their two Shorthorns for third placings in senior yearlings and summer yearlings.

Steve Jaeger, Ed Botelho, Randy Linquist and Norm Nesmith showed the individual Herefords.

Cedric Matsushima and James Ellis took six head of crossbred Herefords to the Cow Palace all-barrow show. The huge took a first, second and third in the heavyweights; reserve champion crossbreds; first place pen of three heavyweights; second place pen of three lightweights; fifth in pen of five; and reserve champion pen of crossbreds.

Three Southdowns came through for the sheepmen, winning reserve champion pen. Nancy Ferguson, Robert Cummings, Peter Cooper and H.C. Vincent exhibited the Poly-bred Southdowns, Hampshire, Suffolk, and Crossbreds, all of which won premiums.

'Betsie' Leads Way To Victory Circle

The winner's circle is seeing a lot of the Dairy Department this year and the Cow Palace was no exception.

"Betsie" came through for the boys with a flourish, winning Grand Champion and first in her class. "Betsie" is a Holstein cow, properly named Polytechnic Leader Betsie.

Coaches To Explain Football To Foreign Students, Anyone

Hotdogs, souvents, marching bands, cheering fans and 22 men. All this is to be found in football. But what is the real purpose for the puzcountry that make up this great American sport?

These terms and more will be discussed this Saturday at 1 p.m. in MSD 278 in a football origination presented by the Cal Poly "People to People."

Explaining the aspects of the game will be instructors Willard Peterson and Edward Jorgenson. They will cover the strategy and rules of the game.

The other activities, such as songs and yells and their purpose, will be covered by the Mustang song and cheerleaders.

To supplement both topics, pamphlets that cover the excitement of the game and what happens on the sidelines will be given to each person attending.

Homecoming Promises Fun For Everyone

Fall crispness and a whirl of plans for Homecoming fill the air as Queen Joanne Dockwiller, the Idaho State Bengals, and far flung alumni prepare for the big event, Nov. 13 and 14.

Flora illustrating the theme of "Mustang Memories" will be under construction until the small hours Friday night, preparing for Saturday's gala parade.

Wood gathers will be out in force next week. These ambitious Homecoming committee members will be laying in supplies for the bonfire rally behind the Men's Gym Friday night. Following the rally, a Bonfire Stomp is scheduled in Crandall Gym.

Alumni activities will begin with registration Saturday morning from 8 a.m. until noon in the Administration Building Lobby. Returning graduates will be provided with taxi service by the Joultry Club. No doubt, many of the alumni will visit their departments' open house on Saturday morning.

A luncheon honoring the Alumni of the year and Homecoming Court; an Old Timer's Dinner; and a dinner-dance at the Madonna Inn will round out activities scheduled for the returning Nineteen-year-old Brown-eyed, brown-haired Joanne Dockwiller was all smiles Wednesday night as she was announced 1964 Homecoming Queen. The junior English major reigns with princesses Phyllis Armstrong, Jeanette Brickey, Janet Cline, and Cathie Love.

Sponsored by the College Union Club, Miss Dockwiller won "one of the closest elections in Cal Poly history," according to Bob Mattos, ASI vice-president and head of the Election Committee.

In a relatively light vote turnout, the new queen gathered a plurality of the 2,605 votes cast on Tuesday and Wednesday. Although the election was conducted in the shadow of the 1964 general elections, the campus vote was still 600 more than last year's. Balloting was so close that three "lost" ballots would have been a basis for an election challenge. The ballots were later accounted for by the Election Committee and did not change the final results.

Voting was done on IBM cards with one vote cast for each queen contestant per ballot. The girl receiving the most votes was named 1964 Homecoming Queen, while the next four girls were announced as princesses. The IBM tally was completed in a half-hour, but official results were not known until the three "lost" votes were accounted for.

Queen Joanne calls selection as "one of the greatest honors of any girl's life." She promises "to represent the life and spirit of Homecoming plus every single student at Cal Poly."

The new queen is a 1964 Maid of Cotton finalist, 1964 Military Ball Princess, a member of the English Club, College Union Club, 8K1 Club, and Young Democrats. The 5-foot, 54-inch Trinity Hall coed hails from Anchorage, Alaska.

Princess Phyllis Armstrong, a 22-year-old blue-eyed blonde senior, is one of the four princesses in the 1964 Homecoming court. She is an Ag Business Management major from Blythe.

Also serving on Queen Joanne's court is Jeanette Brickey, an Elementary Education major from Santa Maria. The senior hazel-eyed brunette was sponsored by the Music Club and the AIA. Sponsored by Mat Pica PI was princess Cathie Love, a sophomore Social Science major from Santa Clara. The 19-year-old blue-eyed blonde enjoys sewing, surfing, skin diving, sailing, and people.

Janet Cline, the fourth member of this year's court, is an 18-year-old sophomore from Tombstone, Ariz. The hazel-eyed, black-haired coed was sponsored by Alpha Phi Omega, national service fraternity.

Eliminations for queen contestant started two weeks ago when a panel of judges narrowed a field of 16 hopefuls down to ten. Judging was on a basis of appearance, poise, and personality.

Over a week of hectic electioneering followed, with the campus blossoming with posters, signs and pictures. Unlike past elections, no protest was filed concerning election rule violations during this quietly conducted campaign.

Queen Joanne and her court will face a busy schedule during Homecoming. They will ride on the Queen's Float in the Homecoming Parade which begins Saturday morning, Nov. 14. Various radio and picture engagements will be met and their attendance at the bonfire rally will highlight preparations for the Cal Poly-Idaho State game Nov. 14.

The queen and her court will be presented at the half time ceremonies at the game. Celebrations will culminate with the Homecoming Coronation Ball that evening. At the ball, Queen Joanne will be officially crowned and begin the first dance with the elected "Ugly Man."

SAN LUIS OBISPO, CALIFORNIA

FRIDAY, NOVEMBER 6, 1964

Fall Performance Debuts Tonight

A trio of freshmen have been cast in leading roles of "Two Blind Mice," the fall quarter presentation of the student College Union Drama Committee.

The play, which opens today, will also run tomorrow and the evening of Nov. 20 and 21, with curtain time for each performance slated for 8:30 p.m. in the Little Theater.

The play, a comedy, involves two sweet "little old ladies" who run an abolished government office known as the Office of Medicinal Herbs (OMH), which operates as a federal "lost department" resulting from bureaucratic overgrowth.

When OMH is taken over by a newspaper reporter, it diversifies into such fields as rhumba instruction, herbolgical warfare, and obitistics. As expected, situations develop that make the tale.

Cast in leading roles are Sarah Blankenship and Donna Kobusky, both freshmen English majors, who play the "little old ladies," and Paul Strybing, a freshman Technical Journalism major, who plays the reporter.

Entirely staged and produced by members of Cal Poly's student body, the "Two Blind Mice" is being directed by Mike Lovewell, a junior Biological Sciences major. Stage manager is Julie Dutton, a senior Biological Sciences major, and technical director is Clem Michel, a sophomore Mathematics major.

Coronation Ball At Homecoming Scheduled Nov. 14

Will he ask me? What will I wear if he does?

Now is the time to ask her to the important Homecoming Coronation Ball scheduled for 9 p.m. Saturday, Nov. 14. She'll be delighted if you do, and probably will go with someone else if you don't, so the only answer is action.

Swinging to the theme of "Mustang Memories," the dance is sponsored by the Agricultural Business Management Club. And swinging to their own melody and rhythm, the Keith Williams Orchestra will provide entertainment as well as memorable dance music.

According to co-chairmen John Smith and Bill McGregory, both sophomore AHM majors, tickets for the semi-formal affair are on sale in the Associated Student Office. Also to be sold at the door, tickets will cost $2 per couple.

The Ornamental Horticulture Club is cooperating with the AHM Club by providing flowers and plants to be used in the decorating scheme.

No Edition Tuesday; Six Pages Friday

El Mustang will not publish Tuesday, Nov. 10, but will come out with a six-page Homecoming issue next Friday. With Veterans Day on Wednesday being a school holiday, thus breaking the week, the editors feel more complete coverage of Homecoming can be given in a single, large issue.

Veterans Day, Nov. 11, is a school holiday which puts the signing of the armistice which ended World War I. Originally called Armistice Day, in 1954 the name was changed so as to include veterans of World War II and the Korean Conflict.

While no special activities will be held, a two minute period of silence will be observed at 11 a.m. on Veterans Day.

Argentine Traffic Amazes AIA Prexy

By Edna Togawa

"The traffic in Argentina is amazing, everybody drives where they want to drive—pedestrians do not have the right of way," related Gil Labrie, a senior in architecture, in a recent talk.

Labrie gave a lecture on the people, politics and architecture of the regular meeting of the student chapter of the American Institute of Architects. He also showed 90 slides of the cities that he visited.

He was one of five architectural students selected from America to spend two weeks in Argentina on a cultural exchange and familiarization program sponsored by an international organization representing schools of architecture in North and South America.

"Probably the most exciting experience was to take a taxi cab ride at night," said Labrie. There is a regulation that drivers are not allowed to "use horns at night over the streets. Very few intersections have stop signs and only a few major streets have stop signs. Everytime drivers come to an intersection they blink their head lights, at other times they drive around with their parking lights only.

eqs jo avoidnd eqs eqsuy program was to get architectural students together to discuss problems, common ideas and education in architecture, politics became involved according to Labrie.

Prior to the opening of this congress which was held in Buenos Aires the United States delegation was asked by representatives of the Buenos Aires group "if we (US delegation) would object to having the flag of Cuba flown along with the flags of the Americas even if Cuba was not represented. The United States delegation didn't want to cause any incidents so there was no objection made." The flag of Cuba was "very small and hard to see among the others," commented Labrie.

During the congress, "students from Uruguay, a minority from Buenos Aires and part of the Brazilian delegation made digs at the United States, calling the United States an imperialistic country and claiming that South America depended too much on United States policies. The students never really made a concrete proposal for a solution to these problems except that South America should be left alone," said Labrie.

To promote "Pan American solidarity" the Mexican delegation ran a student from the United States delegation for an office in a commission (discussion group) and the student was elected vice-president, according to Labrie.

"The economic situation in Latin America has hurt the building industries. For instance, the frame of a building would be completely constructed, but because of the changing value of money, construction of the rest of the building would not be able to continue for another 10 years," said Labrie.

Tomorrow Noon-Deadline for Class Withdrawal

Students are not permitted to withdraw from classes after 12 a.m. Saturday, Nov. 7, except for college recognized emergencies, according to Jerald Holley, registrar.

Each quarter there are many students who have excellent reasons for withdrawing but are denied the privilege because their requests are not considered college recognized emergencies.

Fall Horse Show Saturday, Nov. 14; Entries End Nov. 7

Western and English horsemen will get an early chance at the winners' circle in Cutting and Reining Club's first intercollegiate fall horse show, Saturday, Nov. 14, in the Bud Collet arena.

Entries close Nov. 7. Horsemen wishing to participate are urged to get entries in on time since no post entries will be accepted. Blankets may be obtained from Ag 141 or Ac. E. 17.

Classes for the show include trail horse, western and English pleasure, western equitation, novice working horse (open to any horse under five years that has never won a first place) hackamore class with cattle, stock horse with cattle, individual and team cutting.

Sheila Varian, horsewoman from Arroyo Grande, will judge the show. Top horses and riders will receive trophy buckles and winners through sixth place will win ribbons.

Points will be given for placings in the show that will count toward the Kenneth Carroll high-point perpetual trophy to be awarded during Poly Royal in April.

The show is open to any horsemen carrying 12 units or more in good standing from this or any other college.

New IBM Printer To Be Explained

Two talks on use of the new IBM 407 printer, which has just arrived on campus and is now being used in the Computer Center, have been scheduled for next week by the center.

The new machine, which is particularly suitable for data processing problems, will be discussed by a representative of IBM at separate meetings planned for Nov. 10 and 12, beginning at 7 p.m. in MUE 145.

Frosh-Soph Brawl Should Be Fun

Pass a grapefruit under your chin up a greased pole using three legs? Well, not quite, but the Frosh-Soph Brawl promises to be almost that mixed up and at least that much fun.

The brawl is an annual event held between the freshmen and the sophomore classes, the loser of which is responsible for maintaining the "P" overlooking the campus for one year.

This year's brawl is planned for 10 a.m. Saturday on the track field adjacent to Poly Grove. Among the events planned are the greased pole climb, three-legged race, grapefruit passing, and an all-class tug-of-war.

The junior class will officiate the activities and the seniors will be judges. All freshmen and sophomores interested in participating should meet either today at 4 p.m. or Saturday morning at 8 a.m. in front of the cafeteria, dressed for the activities.

Bud and Travis

Folk Singing Concert Scheduled Wednesday

Bud and Travis, the guitar-playing folk singers with deep roots in American history, will perform Wednesday, Nov. 11 in the Men's Gym. The concert is scheduled for 8 p.m.

This will be return performance for the duo. They were at Cal Poly for a similar show about three years ago and drew a large crowd of folk music enthusiasts, according to the College Union Assembly Committee.

Tickets are available at the ASI office now. General student tickets are priced at $1.50 and student reserve tickets at $2. General public tickets cost $2 with public reserve tickets selling for $2.50. Tickets will be sold at the door the night of the concert as well. Doors open at 7:30 p.m.

The two will use their linguistic ability to perform songs in French, Italian, African, Spanish, Haitian, Japanese, Hawaiian, Paraguayan, Portuguese and Yiddish.

Writing music is another specialty of Bud and Travis. Travis has had many of his originals recorded by other folk groups. "South Wind" was recently re-recorded by the Kingston Trio and "The Time of Man" is one of the Limerickers' upcoming releases.

Both are from widely varied backgrounds. Bud's mother was a singer and dancer in the famed Follies Bergere and his father, a foreign correspondent for American publications. Bud spent seven years in the Army and saw most of the world during that time.

Travis, a native of Nogales, Ariz., learned Spanish at the same time he learned English. While in college, he undertook as his thesis to write a dictionary of the Yaqui Indian language.

FOLK DUO . . . Bud and Travis, popular folk singing and guitarplaying duo, will appear Wednesday, Nov. 11 in the Men's Gym. A return performance for the veteran performers is the Cal Poly campus, the Bud and Travis concert promises to be one of the biggest draws of the College Union Assembly Committee year.

Books At High Noon

"Capitalism and Freedom," a book by Milton Friedman, will be reviewed by John Carew of the Social Science Department at the Tuesday noon luncheon meeting of Books at High Noon.

Friedman advocates the laissez faire economic system which was orthodox one hundred years ago. Now he is considered unorthodox by most American economists who accept the Keynesian doctrine which justifies government intervention to justify full employment.

The Friedman book seems to be a defense of what the author assumed to be Senator Harry Goldwater's economic philosophy, so said the Oct. 11 issue of the New York Times Sunday Magazine.

Band Will Have Lots Of Help Saturday

Cal Poly's Band directed by J. Martin Baum will play host to over six high school bands during Saturday night's football game at Mustang Stadium.

The event brings together such top-notch bands as Arroyo Grande, Atascadero, Coast Union, Morro Bay, Paso Robles and San Luis Obispo plus the Paso Robles Girl's Drill Team.

This year's annual Band Night promises to be the largest event of its kind. According to Baum, there will be more than 370 bandmen in addition to the regular half time show being staged by Los Angeles State and Cal Poly.

Letter To Editor Expresses Indignation

Poster Thieves TO THE EDITOR:

This letter is addressed to the student body in general and especially to those who get sticky fingers whenever they see a poster.

There is a definite reason for posters. They are the major publicity media for this campus' organizations. Posters may advertise specific events or be a permanent background for related events throughout the quarter or year. They may contain information of interest to all students or to just club members. But whatever they publicize, a lot of blood, sweat and tears goes into the making of a good poster. Money is involved too. I seriously doubt if any club has unlimited funds to devote towards publicity.

Most groups here at Poly have a chairman or committee responsible for publicity. Besides distributing posters, they are supposed to remove them after the specified event, or otherwise keep them up to date. Granted some clubs are lax concerning this detail, but that's no excuse for you to prematurely turn Junior Woodchuck. College students always seem to want adult treatment, even when they don't merit such treatment. It seems to me your not acting very adult when you appropriate posters that advertise events still to come. If the poster is so vital to your keepsake collection, ask for one. In a sense your robbing yourselves by prematurely removing them.

Those of us who handle publicity wish you would grow up. To us, poster-phile people are expensive nuisances.

Mustangs Host No. 2 Small College Team

Nationally ranked California State College at Los Angeles will invade Mustang Stadium tomorrow night at 8 p.m. in the next-to-the last hurdle in their quest for a second successive California Collegiate Athletic Association (CCAA) crown.

The Diablos, who trounced the Broncos of Pomona in a non-league tilt last week 55-0, are rated by UPI as No. 2 in the nation among the small college division teams.

The Mustangs return to their home field after a four-game losing spree on the road, and have named senior-end Bill Brown from Albany as captain for the game with the Diablos. Brown is currently ranked second in the CCAA pass receiving statistics.

Couch Sheldon Hardon's eleven will be meeting one of the league's mightiest teams tomorrow night, despite the loss of All-CCAA full-back Art Robinson who is out with an injury.

Robinson's replacements, however, led the onslaught on the outmanned, but determined Broncos from the Pomona campus of Cal Poly in their nonconference affair last week.

With a 2-0 conference record, and first ranking in the Camellia Bowl race, Cal State at Los Angeles will be looking for a lot of passing Saturday night from the Mustangs who have gained over 1,100 yards in the air, but have failed to win a single game in seven starts.

PLAYER OF THE WEEK

Jim Fogarty, 195 pound guard from Pasadena, was named player of the week by coach Sheldon Hardon for his outstanding offensive blocking and defensive play against the California State College at Long Beach 49-ers.

Harriers Enter Invitational At San Diego

With a two week breather from competition behind them, a well-rested Poly cross country team tours San Diego Saturday to compete in the 22nd Annual Aztec Invitational.

The race, which will see most of the California Athletic Association teams entered plus a host of other schools and track clubs from the Los Angeles area, will be staged on a four and a half-mile circuit near the San Diego campus.

Freshman Dave Anderson, who was the Mustang finisher in each of the last two weeks' Meets, will displace Roland Lint as Poly's number one man Saturday. Lint moving to the second position. John Angelo, Fred Rich, Pete Gudmundson, Jarvis Savage, and Fred Frye will follow in that order.

ROTC Rifle Team Sights On Santa Barbara

University of California at Santa Barbara is slated to fire against Cal Poly this Saturday at 10 a.m. on the Cal Poly Rifle range in an interschool ROTC rifle team match.

Representing Cal Poly are team co-captains Stephen Freeman and John Fox, Stephen Plath, Barry Johnson, George Shaw, Howard Miller (ROTC Marksmanship Commander), Tom Grundy (President of Cal Poly Rifle and Pistol Club), Mike Brundly, Tom Roth and Joe Masarra.

UCSB has at least two strong men on its team with returning shooters Edward Alston and Randy J. Young. Both have had experience in match competition, including the National Sectional Collegiate Rifle Match held last year at the University of California at Berkeley. Santa Barbara is favored to win this match by 89 points.

Colts End Season

The Cal Poly Colts play their last game of the season tomorrow when they travel to Stockton for a morning game with the University of Pacific freshmen prior to the University of Pacific-Santa Clara Homecoming game.

Freshmen coach Stu Chestnut feels that his team has done very well this season against some tough competition from schools that do serious athletic recruiting.

The opening lineup for the Colts in tomorrow's game will be Mike Brins at quarterback; Dave Rensch and Bill Gentry, halfbacks; Ron Hasson, fullback; Mike Cole and Terry Flanagan or Stan Logston, ends; Jim Rickard and Stuart Smith, tackles; John Woods and Pat Whitlatch, guards; and Joe Wells, center.

Second Place Mermen Defend Against Diablos

Still smarting from last week's loss to Long Beach State, Coach Richard Anderson's die-hard waterpoloists tackle Cal State Los Angeles Saturday with the knowledge that they must win in order to preserve their second place standing.

Staged in the Crandall Gym pool, the game will see Poly put its 3-1 conference record on the line against the Diablos at 3 p.m. tomorrow. A loss would plunge them to the third rung of the loop ladder.

Long Beach State's Forty-Niners are responsible for all the local splashers problems, having blent their perfect slate by a 12-0 count last weekend. Poly could not put together any kind of an attack in the first half and for all intents and purposes that was the game.

In earlier games this season the Forty-Niners have won by such atrocious scores as 30-0 over Poly Pomona and 30-1 over San Diego State, which gives a lot of credit to Mustang goalie Benny Bendel who made a phenomenal 21 saves in the game. Coach Anderson describes Bendel, who has been a key figure all season, as the "best goalie in the conference."

All was not a loss last week, however, with the team dumping University of Pacific 7-2 and San Fernando Valley State 10-1 for their third CCAA win.

Coach Anderson will go with the same starters Saturday that saw duty last week.

Intramurals

Women's Intramural volleyball is now entering its fourth week of play. Seven dorm teams and two off-campus teams have been participating in the tournament every Tuesday night between 7 and 9 p.m.

The present standings show Trinity and Palm Royal battling it out for the first place over Off Campus II. The two teams are determined to take the winning spot away from Off Campus who has won the tournament for the last two years. The three teams are now tied for first place.

Second place is held by Off-Campus I, and third place is a four-way tie between Trinity II, Chase, Jespersen, and Santa Lucia.

The women's Intercollegiate volleyball team travels to San Fernando Valley State this Saturday, Nov. 7, to enter the Intercollegiate volleyball preliminary tournament.

The team must take a first, second, or third place in order to return to the finals Nov. 21 at Long Beach State.

The traveling team members include Jeri Wood, Rachel Stillman, Coco Collesimo, Karen Brown, Shirley Davis, Ruth Rusk, Janet Hagler, Anna Howard, Sandy Blaine, A.L. P.E. MAJORS AND MINORS

There will be a potluck get-together this Sunday, Nov. 8, at 2 p.m. in Crandall Hall.

Sign up to attend and bring food are posted on the P.E. bulletin board at Crandall Gym.

The purpose of the get-together is to acquaint and unite all P.E. majors and minors. You are urged to attend.

CCAA News

The next step for Homer Bent's nationally ranked Cal State Los Angeles Diablos will be Saturday night when the CCAA leaders meet Cal Poly (SLC) on the Mustang gridiron. A sure thing to move up in the ratings following their one-sided 55-0 triumph over Cal Poly Pomona last week, the Diablos need only get past the Mustangs and Cal State Long Beach in order to grab their second straight CCAA title. Prior to last week's win, the unbeaten Diablos (5-0) were ranked fourth among the College division eleven.

Hoping to keep their title hopes alive, the Cal State Long Beach Bears take an impressive 0-1 season mark into this week's game with Fresno State. A victory over the Bulldogs would make the Diablos' game slated next week one of pivot games of the current season.
