Enrollment Open Now for Cal Poly Organic Farm's Weekly Produce Program

SAN LUIS OBISPO - The Cal Poly Organic Farm is accepting new members for the spring and spring/summer seasons of its Community Supported Agriculture Program, which provides members with a weekly box of the farm's harvest.

The 12-week spring season runs March 30 through mid-June. The 24-week spring/summer season runs from March 30 through early September.

Along with fresh produce, members will receive a weekly newsletter with recipes highlighting the week's bounty.

Members can purchase a subscription for a large box, designed for a family of three to five and available for $318, or a small box, designed for a family of one to three people for $240. Quarter-long student boxes are also available for $190.

The 24-week share can be purchased at a discounted rate of $604 for a large box or $456 for a small box.

Members can pick up their produce on either Monday or Thursday at the Cal Poly Organic Farm or have their box delivered to a countywide drop-site location for an additional fee.

Fruits and vegetables in the box vary weekly depending on seasonal availability. Spring/summer crops include items such as lettuce, onions, arugula, leeks, carrots, beets, summer squash, strawberries, potatoes, kale and raspberries.

Most of the produce is grown on 11 certified organic acres on the Cal Poly campus. Additional produce is purchased from a network of local, collaborative growers to increase product diversity and support the local agriculture economy.
