Advisory board meets; discusses future plans

The College Union Advisory Board held its first meeting Thursday, April 14, to discuss its purposes, objectives, and order of priority of its activities.

The committee, recently appointed by Dale W. Andrews, college vice president, was established to review and select the policies and operational procedures for the $3.5 million College Union building during its construction and initial stages.

Plans for the building have been approved by the State College Board of Trustees, and financial arrangements are being made with a federal agency.

Chairman of the Advisory Board is Bob McDonald, also chairman of the CU Program Board. Other voting members are George Soares, ASI president; Donald Nelson, college business manager; Everett Chandler, dean of students; and Gene Brendlin, college foundation manager.

In addition, two students appointed by Soares from the Student Affairs Council are on the committee. They are Mike Nero and Wayne Parks.

Appointed to represent the Faculty-Staff Council was John McCombs, instructor of, Electronic Engineering.

Ex-officio non-voting members to serve in an advisory capacity are Dan Lawson, associate dean of activities and Douglas Gerard, college building coordinator.

Holding high priority on the agenda is the immediate selection of the equipment to be used in the ten-lane bowling alley. This may effect the architectural arrangements. Mike Nero and Ray Morton, business service officer were appointed to research the problem.

Another matter attracting immediate surveillance is the organization relationships. This includes chain of command, job descriptions, and employment time-tables.

Members serving on this sub-committee will be McDonald,

Lawson, Chandler, Soares, and McCombs.

Brendlin, Nelson and Parks were selected to review the foundation and business services for the building.

Committee studies faculty evaluation

A committee to study the feasibility of publishing a faculty evaluation booklet for instructors is now in the initial planning stages.

Pending agreement on the basic issues between the student body and the faculty staff council, the committee will be primarily concerned with gathering and analyzing information from other colleges where the evaluation booklet has been used.

ASI president George Soares described the committee's purpose as "the study of the positive and negative aspects of the possibility of publishing an instructor evaluation booklet."

Soares stressed the point that the idea behind the evaluation booklets would not be a slander or smear sheet, but would be an honest attempt to evaluate teachers in order to aid the students and teachers.

Although no definite number or arrangement of members has been set yet, Soares suggested that the committee should be made up of three or four students and two or three faculty members. He felt that the committee chairman could be one of the student members.

"Whatever the committee's recommendations are," Soares concluded, "it will be the responsibility of the next ASI president to carry out the program."

Pat Brown invited to Poly Royal

Gov. Edmund Brown was presented a hat, a pair of boots, and a special invitation to attend Poly Royal recently by the Poly Royal Executive Board.

According to John Gootwald, publicity director for Poly Royal, the governor will probably not accept the invitation, but the invitation offers good publicity for Poly Royal.

A banner across Higuera Street welcoming visitors to Poly Royal from April 21 to the end of Poly Royal weekend, will also help advertise the event.

Clyde Hostetter will film color movies of the Poly Royal events. The film will be used for short television broadcasts for next year's publicity campaign.

Posters and brochures are available in the ASI office, public relations office, and the book store. Gootwald urges everyone to pick these up and distribute them at home and to friends.

Invitations to men

Cal Poly's chapter of the Blue Key National Honor Fraternity is presently presenting letters of invitation to prospective members who will attend an introductory meeting on April 20.

An anticipated 23 male students, outstanding in campus activities with a GPA not less than 2.5, are expected to attend the meeting.

Founded in 1923 by Major Bert Riley at the University of Florida, this honor fraternity now contains chapters on 136 university and college campuses.

"Blue Key," states chapter president Mike Elliott, "is the highest non-academic honor a college male can attain."

Elliott went on to say, "When we tap a man for membership, it is not so he can rest on his laurels but that he may have the opportunity to further serve his campus."

A sister group to Blue Key is the Cardinal Key for women.

HOME CONCERT . . . Hi jinks and mad cap fun are the products of this sunny company of barbers, known as the Majors and Minors. The group will perform at the 25th Annual Home Concert this Friday, April 22, in the Men's Gym at 8 p.m. Tickets are 75 cents for students and $1.25 general admission. Tickets may be gotten from any student in the groups performing at Home Concert or from the ASI office.

Hog calling contest set for Poly Royal

A hog calling contest sponsored by the Farm Management Club, has been added to the Poly Royal activities. The event will take place on the library lawn Saturday, and the best hog caller will be awarded a trophy.

Hamus Alabamus is the name the club gave to its drawing for half of a hog, cut and wrapped, which will be held Friday night during the carnival.

Tickets are now on sale for 50 cents. Proceeds from the drawing will go toward two $50 scholarships to be used in the field of farm management.

Student politicians vie for 3 ASI offices

Six student politicians are spending the week trying to secure the support of other students in their bid to be elected to one of three student body offices.

Competing for the top office, that of ASI president, is Mike Elliott, an Aero major, and Tom Jones, a Social Science student. Both candidates have been active in student affairs.

Trying for the vice president position are Architecture student Peter Gudmundson and Frank Mello, an Animal Husbandry major. Aspiring to be ASI secretary is Katie James of the Business Administration. She is running against Alan Meeder, a Farm Management major.

The official campaign statements of Elliott and Jones are printed on pages 2 and 3. Tonight the candidates will speak before the Student Affairs Council. Thursday, at 11 a.m. In the Snack Bar Patio, the candidates will present their views at an open meeting.

Jones 'ability, experience, enthusiasm'

Tom Jones

There are several issues that I feel should be considered by the students of Cal Poly in making their selection of student body officers.

First and foremost, the students will be asked sometime this quarter to decide on a student government reorganization proposal. This matter is of vital importance to the efficient operation of student government and to insure proper representation.

I am in full agreement with the reorganization, for if passed and enthusiastically implemented next year, it would solve many of the problems of communication, representation, financial planning, and the like.

While I am in full agreement with the outline of the reorganization and pledge to wholeheartedly work for its successful implementation if elected, I feel that a re-evaluation of student representation would be ideal at the time of the change-over, particularly with reference to representation for the dorms and foreign students.

The need for student government reorganization is amply demonstrated by the poor turnout for student body officers. This is only a sign of lack of student interest in general, the blame for which can largely be placed on the failure of the current system to meet the needs of the students and to bring the mass of students more directly into their government.

This will be greatly aided by the proposed organizational structure, but only if it is actively and enthusiastically implemented next year; this I pledge to do.

It must be remembered that any student government should be not only by the students but also for the students. With this in mind I will work for the establishment of a faculty evaluation booklet designed to help both student and instructor alike. After all we are all supposed to be here to get an education and this booklet would help raise and maintain academic excellence.

Along these same lines, I also strongly encourage further co-ordination or channels of communication between students and staff. Beginning this year a non-voting student began sitting in on Social Science Department meetings and I hold out great hopes for similar means of increasing understanding.

Finally I would work to give Cal Poly a greater voice in the large issues facing the California State Colleges. Most notable among these issues are the possibility of mandatory tuition for the state colleges within the next few years, representation on the state-wide Academic Senate (which has been offered but not accepted by the CSCSPA), and other policy decisions directly affecting the students on this campus, remote though it may be.

How is this to be accomplished? The instrument — the California State College Student President's Association — is already in existence, but currently rather dormant. I propose that, through energetic participation, Cal Poly could spark that organization into effective action for the benefit of the students of all of the state colleges.

Supercharged Mustang gets test

Darrell Droke, of Downey, Calif., who has enjoyed great success in the past two seasons at the wheel of a Fairlane powered by a 427 SOHC engine, currently is testing a new lightweight, altered-wheelbase Mustang with a supercharged version of the SOHC engine.

The car itself is similar to Geo Ronda's lightweight Mustang that has been running in excess of 150 mph with times below nine seconds with fuel-injection but no supercharger. Droke's car is the first of Ford's lightweight Mustangs to enter the growing field of blown cars.

To begin with, we're particular about the wood we use. Nothing but solid woods. Hemlock, Ash, and Walnut. Because they offer the best combination of beauty, durability and easy finishing.

And when it comes to construction, nothing but custom features throughout. Double secured tops. Detailed hardwood drawer sides and backs. Corner blocks for extra strength. Extra-deep, precision set drawers.

We make a wide selection of styles and sizes. We have a lever drawer line. Flat drawer line. Leg line. Sculptured base line. And wall line. Over 1,000 pieces in all. And we don't play hard to get. Woodland is open stock. You can get what you want when you want it.

And you can decorate it the way you want it. Stain it. Paint it. Antique it. Any color you choose.

What's more, you can get our furniture with or without laminated plastic tops in white or walnut. It's scratch resistant. Heat won't hurt it. Neither will fruit acids or boiling water. Don't settle for imitations. Look for the Woodland label.

Elliott: '1966-67 is year for change'

At present student enthusiasm for the student activities program is very poor and this lack of interest is understandable. The "hot" issues of the past years seem to have faded leaving an activities program with little imagination and at best, only just adequate. Student apathy can only be blamed on lack of creative leadership on the part of the present student government personnel.

The student body will soon be faced with a new issue — reorganization of student government. I stand fully behind reorganization and I further propose the addition of a foreign student representative from People-to-People Council to the existing representation on SAC. Considering the large number of foreign students who in actuality are not represented elsewhere, the proposal is modest. In addition, I favor executive approval of selected College Union activities.

Another weak spot in the student government system is the failing class structure. If no more enthusiasm is shown toward the class organizations than has been seen this year and past years, there is little logic behind their existence. If elected, an evaluation of the class system will be initiated.

In line with reorganization and reform, I propose the repeal of the 50-50 profit split between organizations sponsoring a dance and the College Union. This present taxation destroys most incentive within a group for sponsoring an activity since it takes half the profits which the sponsoring group makes and gives them to a group which has no share in the planning or the labor involved.

At present a student body group is studying the possibility of a faculty evaluation booklet. This is a good idea yet I propose to go further, and plan to initiate a faculty evaluation board, consisting of student and faculty members. This board would, by request of student and faculty alike, review the effectiveness and creativity of some of our choice faculty members.

Among the many student problems that exist, the following will reach SAC in the fall for investigation and review: 1. Investigation of El Corral Bookstore, in particular the high cost of books. 2. A study of the College Union structure in the realm of student entertainment. 3. Investigation of present dormitory check-out regulations.

Another problem is All-Poly Weekend. I propose the weekend be moved from the Winter to the Fall quarter and that it include an inter-campus football game. This proposal may not be too far from realization, but a rejection of inter-campus football should be the rejection of All-Poly Weekend.

This year will be an appropriate time to bring up the question of off-campus fraternity recognition, be it complete or just partial recognition. If elected, I will give full support to an intelligent investigation of fraternity recognition for the mutual benefit of both independent students and fraternity men.

In every campaign, the issue of "communication" comes up. Communications are basically the measure of the merit of student government and the programs presented. If programs are good, communications will in turn be good.

In conclusion, if elected, I will push for a student government responsive to student desires, and if there comes a time when we've run out of issues — we'll bring to life a few that are still lying around.

MIKE ELLIOTT, ASI presidential candidate

Mike Elliott

ROOMMATES REVISITED

This morning's mail brought a letter from a student at a prominent Western university (Princeton). "Dear Desperate," he writes. "In a recent column you said it was possible to get along with your roommate if you try hard enough. Well, I'd like to see anyone get along with my roommate Mervin Trunz (for that is his name) practices the conga all night long, keeps an alligator, wears knee-cymbals, collects airplane tires. I have tried everything I can. Mervin Trunz, but nothing works. I am desperate. (signed) Desperate."

Have you, dear Desperate, really tried everything? Have you, for example, tried a measure so simple, so obvious, that it is easy to overlook? I mean, of course, have you offered to share your Personna® Super Stainless Steel Blade with Mervin Trunz?

To have a friend, dear Desperate, you must be a friend. And what could be more friendly than sharing the beauty of Personna Super Stainless Steel Blades? Who, upon enjoying the luxury of Personna, the nickless, scrapeless, rustless, huckleless, scratchless, matchless comfort of Personna, the ease and breeze, the power and glory, the truth and beauty of Personna—who, I say, after such jollies could not harden his heart against his neighbor? Nobody, that's what—not even Mervin Trunz—especially not today with new Personna Super Blade bringing us new highs in comfort, and durability. And here is still a further Personna is available both in Double Edge style and for style.

No, dear Desperate, your problem with Mervin Trunz is far from insoluble. In fact, no roommate problems are, if you use pretty small potatoes. Compare it, for example, to the case of Basil Metabolism and E. Pluribus Ewbank.

Basil and E. Pluribus, roommates at a prominent Eastern university (Oregon) were at an impossible impasse. Basil could study only late at night, and E. Pluribus could not stay awake past nine p.m. If Basil kept the lights on, the room was too bright for E. Pluribus to sleep. If E. Pluribus turned the lights off, the room was too dark for Basil to study. What to do?

Well sir, these two intelligent American kids found an answer. They got a miner's cap for Basil! Thus, he had enough light to study by, and still the room was dark enough for E. Pluribus to sleep.

It must be admitted, however, that this ingenious solution had some unexpected sequelae. Basil got so enchanted with his miner's cap that he switched his major from 19th Century poetry to mining and metallurgy. Shortly after graduation he had what appeared to be a great stroke of luck; while out prospecting, he discovered what is without question the world's largest foldasper mine. This might have made Basil very rich except that nobody, alas, has yet discovered a use for foldasper. Today Basil, a broken man, squeezes out a meagre living as a stalagmite in Asbestos Chasm.

Nor has E. Pluribus fared conspicuously better. Once Basil got the miner's cap, E. Pluribus was able to catch up on his long-lost sleep. He woke after nine days, refreshed and vigorous—more vigorous, alas, than he realized. It was the afternoon of the Dean's tea. E. Pluribus stood in line with his classmates, waiting to shake the Dean's hand. As last his turn came, and E. Pluribus, full of strength and health, gave the Dean a firm handshake—so firm, indeed, that all five of the Dean's knuckles were permanently fused.

The Dean sued for a million dollars and, of course, won. Today E. Pluribus, a broken man, is paying off his debt by walking the Dean's cat every afternoon for ten cents an hour.

We, the makers of Personna Blades and the sponsors of this column, will not attempt to expertize about roommates. But we will tell you about a great sharing-mate to Personna—Mervin Shave! It makes rings around any other letters it comes in regular and mental.

SAC holds shortest meeting of year

The Student Affairs Council meeting lasted approximately 35 minutes last Tuesday evening. The meeting was the shortest held during this year.

About half of this time seemed to be devoted to the routine procedural matters such as reading of the proxy letters and listening to announcements.

One item of business which SAC considered was that $40 be allotted for materials to be used by the Special SAC Committee. SAC unanimously voted in favor of this request. The money will be used for posters and ink.

SAC also voted to postpone the Finance Committee's Recommendation No. 1 which proposed that $1,500 be allocated for additional parts for El Mustang's scanograver. (A scanograver is a photo-reproduction machine.)

Two senior projects win top awards

Margaret Hartman and Cheryl MacDonald, two Biological Science majors, used their senior projects to win first and second place at the Beta Beta Beta Regionals held last weekend at Camp Loma Mar.

Miss Hartman's senior project, which won first place, was on the organogenesis of the Trimeria pilleps (development of the crane fly). Miss MacDonald's second place winning senior project dealt with antigens and antibodies as pertaining to vital diseases in plants.

Many of the students from the other schools—San Jose State, Fresno State, Cal Poly (Pomona), and Redlands State College—were graduate students and had entered their masters' theses. But, apparently, they could not compare with Hartman's and MacDonald's senior projects.

Beta Beta Beta is a national honorary society for those in the biological sciences, and is represented on six college campuses in California.

The regionals were hosted by San Jose State College this year at Camp Loma Mar, which is about 40 miles north of Santa Cruz. Next year Cal Poly will host the contest here in San Luis Obispo.

Editorial

POTENTIAL FOR CHANGE . . . Once again students are being asked to elect three student body officers. In the past the choice has generally been between candidates with colorless personalities and programs. The influence and image of student government has continued to sink to the point where now students speak of it with contempt and refer to it as "sandbox government."

With this year's election comes a chance for a dynamic leader, with a program students want, to give new life and respectability to student government. In addition, it should be remembered that after June the college administration will change and the new student president will work with the new college president to establish the patterns for Cal Poly's future development.

We are glad to see that some of the candidates for ASI office are offering new programs for consideration. It is about time student government investigate those areas of vital interest to students. The prices of books and supplies at El Corral Bookstore are too high. The bookstore could be improved if students were represented on the board which runs it. We have already discussed the poor operation of the College Union Assemblies Committee. An investigation of this group and its policies is needed to prevent a re-occurrence of this year's performance. The investigation of dorm check-out regulations could be beneficial in modernizing the operation of the campus residence halls.

The suggestion that college recognition of off-campus fraternities be openly discussed is good. To date the fraternities have been Cal Poly's Red China. Students should have a chance to decide once and for all the status of the greek-letter fraternities.

It is encouraging that both presidential candidates favor student government reorganization and the publication of a faculty evaluation booklet. Reorganization will help to revitalize student government and the booklet will do the same for the faculty.

Student representation at department and division-level meetings should be continued and expanded. Student membership on the state college Academic Senate should be accepted by the individual campuses, not the CSCSPA debating society. The senate discusses and acts on matters of interest to college students and campus representation will help the communication between these two segments of the larger college community.

The future of this college in regards to student affairs is now, as never before, in the hands of those students who vote in the election April 26-27. The issues and positions of the candidates will be made clear during this week of campaigning. We urge students to consider the issues and to make their wishes known by voting next Tuesday and Wednesday.

Spikers knock off San Fernando

Rick Jones broke his own school record in the high jump to pace the varsity spikers to a 113-32 rout of San Fernando Valley State Saturday.

Jones, who originally broke his brother's high jump record, cleared 6'10" on his first try to set the new record. He then missed on three attempts at seven feet.

Coach Walt Williamson praised his high jumper, saying, "Anytime anyone gets over 6-10, it's a tremendous performance." Williamson went even further and said Jones will definitely clear the magic 7-0 before the end of the track season.

Mustangs lose

by Michael O'Connor

The Mustang Varsity baseballers added three losses to their league record this weekend to bring their win-loss record to 1-10 for league and 7-17 for the season.

Bob Dorn was credited with the close 7-6 loss in the first game of a double header with the Long Beach State 49'ers at Blair field in Long Beach on Saturday.

Dorn was assisted at the pitching slot by Tom Miller, who went one inning before being relieved, and Chase Gregory who pitched the final two innings.

The Mustangs' first run was scored by Dave Titaworth. Titaworth singled in the first inning and ended up scoring on an error by Long Beach right fielder Jim Gama.

The Mustangs tallied two more in the third inning. Shortstop Dick Mueller lead off with a single and was followed by first baseman Craig Brown who also grabbed a base hit. Both men then scored on a double by outfielder Jim Blanks.

Poly added three more runs; one each in the fifth, seventh, and ninth frames.

Big hitters in the game for Poly were Dave Titaworth and Dick Mueller each getting three hits for five times at bat.

The Mustangs were shut out in the nitcap by a score of 8-0. Jim Montano started for Poly and hurled for two and two thirds, but it was enough for him to be tagged with the loss.

John Bryan followed Montano and was in turn relieved by Gary McTaggart who finished the game.

On Friday the Mustangs dropped a night game to the Diablos of Los Angeles State College by a score of 5-2.

Poly scored their first run in the third inning. Outfielder Jim Duncan lead off with a double and was scored on a base hit by shortstop Dick Mueller.

The Mustangs' only other tally was scored by third baseman Jeff Carlovsky in the sixth frame.

Carlovsky was walked and advanced to second when first baseman Terry Ward also gained base on balls. Carlovsky was then scored from second when left fielder Al Montana cut loose with a double.

Chase Gregory started for the Mustangs and took the loss. Gregory pitched five innings and was relieved by Jeff Hearn who was then removed by Gary McTaggart who ended the game.

Al Montana carried the big atrick for the Mustangs going two for four.

This week the Mustang varsity will again meet the Diablos of L.A. State. The Diablos will meet the Mustangs on the Cal Poly diamond at 2:30 p.m. on Saturday.

The Cal Poly Colt baseballers won their game against the team from Taft Junior College on the Poly diamond Friday by a score of 6-3. Ed Dutra took the win for the Colts.

On Saturday the Colts traveled to Goleta to lose a pair to the UCSB Frosh. Bill Maxson took the 12-6 loss in the first game and Harvey Langston added a loss to his record in the 10-0 second game of the double header.

If You Ask Me...

A look at the spectator

By STEVE RIDDELL

SPORTS EDITOR

Well, in case you haven't heard by now, coach Bill Hick's baseball squad dropped three more games over the past weekend down South. One contest Friday at the hands of LA State, 5-2, and two Saturday by Long Beach State, 7-6 and 8-0.

Now most Poly students would read about this fact, say a few rash remarks (if anything at all) to the effect that the Mustang horseholders seem to be a farm squad of the "past" New York Mets, and then dismiss the whole matter.

I know for a fact, that when students are away from the campus and someone ask them how Poly does in sports, the average Mustang tries to change the subject.

Now I don't want to be labeled a crusader, but I don't understand how some students can be so critical of Cal Poly sports teams when they have not been willing to give the athletic program their wholehearted support. It is common practice for student body organizations in the colleges in our conference (California Collegiate Athletic Association) to provide funds for athletic grants—primarily in football, basketball, track and baseball. The Associated Students, Inc. of Cal Poly doesn't provide any athletic grants.

It remains to be seen with the up coming student body fee increase whether there will be any substantial increase in aid given to the athletic program.

The Mustang Booster Club provides the only source of scholarship aid for our athletes and due to the size of the community, the boosters can provide only meager aid compared to booster organizations at other schools in our conference.

Additional financial support isn't all our teams need.

Have you been out to the Poly diamond yet this season? The players on the field almost outnumber the fans in the stands. Our athletes play to the best of their capacity in games when the odds are overwhelmingly against them, knowing full well that a good share of the student body doesn't give a damn one way or the other.

The Mets have the crowds and are shaping up into a winning ball club. Bill Hicks has a fine team already. What they need now is a little support from the homefront.

From what I can see at this moment, it's going to take a great deal more financial help and moral support if we are going to have some winning teams in the CCAA.

By the way, the baseballers are going to be home this weekend. They have three games on tap with Los Angeles State. I hope I see you in the stands. . .

Bill Russell new Celtics head coach

Bill Russell of the Boston Celtics, has become the first Negro to win a job as a head coach in a major U.S. sport. He was named yesterday as new coach of the Celtics which he helped lead to eight National Basketball Association championships. The former University of San Francisco All-American succeeds Red Auerbach, who is retiring.

Fishin' Facts

Bas, brim and trout get all the angling headlines, but there are a lot of lesser known species that attract a loyal following among members of the angling fraternity.

Take the common sucker, for instance. Here's a lowly breed of fish that is frequently disdained as fertilizer in some circles. Yet, during his spring spawning runs, you may have trouble finding elbow room around many streams. Why? Because smoked sucker is a delicacy that rivals expensive salmon.

If you're partial towards big fish, then rig up a heavy salt-water outfit with a treble hook that appears more suitable for grappling than fishing, and go after the huge spoonbills that are migrating in many areas right now.

Intramuralists to try track

Olympic prospects will have a chance to demonstrate their capabilities in track and field competition Tuesday, April 20, on the Mustang oval.

Intramuralists will report at 3:30 p.m. and should wear regular gym suits with track shoes being permissible.

Competition, attached or representing a team, will be open to all who have not earned a letter in track or who are not enrolled in P.E. 251.

Awards will be given to individuals who place first and second, and team awards will be given to first and second place winners in both relays.

Participants cannot compete in more than two field events, one track event and a relay, or two track, on field event and a relay.

The following events will be held: Field events—high jump, long jump, shot put, discus, pole vault; Track events—100-yd. dash, 220-yd. dash, 440-yd. dash, 880-yd. dash, 70-yd. high hurdles, 120-yd. low hurdles, 440 relay, and 880 relay.

Revolution is underwayPast CORE head will speak May 12

James Farmer, former National Director of the Congress of Racial Equality (CORE), will speak on "The Civil Rights Revolution in America" in the AC Auditorium, May 12, at 8 p.m.

Tickets may be purchased at the door, admission is a dollar for adults and 50 cents for students. Farmer's speech will concern the problems of racial equality.

Farmer, the grandson of a slave, helped form the first chapter of CORE at the University of Chicago in 1942.

These pioneers intended to substitute non-violence for exhortations and to supply the struggle for racial equality in America the techniques on non-violence and passive resistance that Gandhi used so successfully in India," Farmer said.

Since that time, Farmer has been involved directly with the social, economic, and cultural problems of the American Negro population. CORE's militancy has captured the imagination of countless thousands of young Negroes, and they have willingly participated in sit-ins, sleep-ins, and even jail-ins.

Later, he was active in union movements in the United States, helping to organize the South for the Upholsters' International Union. He was also International Representative of the State, County, and Municipal Union, and served as a member of a five-man delegation from the International Confederation of Free Trade Unions to 15 African Nations. In addition, Farmer was also a commentator on radio and television programs sponsored by the United Auto Workers of Detroit.

Farmer has a unique talent for keeping Americans aware that there is now a civil rights revolution taking place in the nation right now. He led CORE members in America's first Freedom Ride, spending 40 days in a Mississippi jail as a result. Headlines across the nation and the world carried the story.

In 1963, Farmer, who believes a leader must do more than just plan, was arrested following a civil rights demonstration in Louisiana. Police, who used electric cattle prods and tear gas on the demonstrators, charged Farmer with "disturbing the peace" and "obstructing a sidewalk."

In 1964, he again made headlines when CORE and its supporters picketed the New York World's Fair, protesting racial discrimination and segregation practiced by many of the states exhibiting at the fair.

A few days after Lyndon B.

Johnson became President, one of the first persons the President spoke with concerning the racial problem in the United States was James Farmer, then the National Director of CORE.

He is internationally recognized as an articulate spokesman in the struggle for racial equality. In many emerging nations throughout the world today, he is one of the best known Americans, and his writings and comments are influencing men everywhere.

Farmer again attracted national attention during the hunt for the civil rights trio in Mississippi. Millions of Americans then saw him and heard his incisive comments when he appeared on many national television and news shows. Such national news magazines as Life, Time, Newsweek, Look, and others have carried articles on his work through CORE.

CORE SPEAKER . . . Nationally known civil rights speaker, James Farmer, will be the featured speaker next month. An head of CORE Farmer became known for leading the famous Freedom Ride in the late 1950's.

Utah picks nonprofit philosophy

The Bookstore Advisory Board at the University of Utah has adopted the philosophy that profit should not be a consideration in making bookstore policy.

"The bookstore can only properly be regarded as a source of revenue," the statement said. "This incompatibility between educational services and concern for profit is not overcome even when the profits are plowed back into the university to assist the financing of some enterprise or project."

The board also recommended a 10 percent discount off the immediate. Other recommendations:

The bookstore make it a policy to order more rather than fewer books than an instructor thinks he will need for a class.

A letter be sent to departments pointing out the "obvious chaos" created in the bookstore when departments allow extra people to enroll in classes.

A student book exchange be established after consultation with the Inter-collegiate Knights who provide a similar service each quarter.

A brunch store open evenings be established in the Union along with a sundry shop.
