Chilean poet to present reading

Raul Zurita, a young poet well-known in his native Chile, will present a poetry reading Friday at 1 pm.

The program, in University Union 220, is free, and the public is invited.

Zurita uses a unique poetic structure greatly influenced by his mathematical and engineering background. His most recent book, "Anteparadise," is both a synthesis of life in Chile after the 1973 coup that toppled the Allende government and a response to the violence that followed.

The Cal Poly reading will bring together the poet and his translator, Dr. Jack Schmitt, professor of Spanish and Portuguese at Cal State Long Beach. Zurita will read his poetry in Spanish. Schmitt will read his English translation.

Zurita's tour of the Western United States will include stops at UCLA, Stanford, San Francisco and Berkeley. The Cal Poly appearance is paid for by the Visiting Lecturer Fund of the School of Communicative Arts and Humanities and sponsored by the Foreign Languages Department.

Health testing lab here Sunday

This is a final reminder that the Health Exam-inetics Mobile Health Testing Unit will be on campus Sunday through Tuesday (March 11-13) for the annual health screening program sponsored by the Association of California State University Professors. This testing program is available to all faculty and staff and their families (age 13 and above). To schedule an appointment, call toll-free 1-800-542-6233.

Faculty, staff invited to learn Wordstar

A workshop to teach faculty and staff how to use the Wordstar word-processing program will be held during Winter Quarter break, March 19-23.

The five-day course will cover Mailmerge, Spellstar and as many other advanced applications as time will allow.

The workshop will be held in Room 255 of the Computer Science Building. Lecture sessions will be Monday through Friday from 9 am to 10 am. Participants will work on computers during the lectures. Problem-solving sessions are scheduled for Thursday and Friday from 10 am to 10:30 am.

Larrie Ciano, instructional computing consultant in the Computer Center, will teach the workshop.

Space is limited; call Ms. Ciano at ext. 2004 for reservations. No previous word-processing experience is required.
