Mission choral concert June 1

Cal Poly's Men's and Women's Choruses and the University Singers will present their final concert of the year at 8 pm Friday, June 1, in the Mission San Luis Obispo de Tolosa.

The program, under the direction of Thomas Davies, will include liturgical music from the 9th through 12th centuries, "Laudate Dominum" by the early French baroque composer Marc-Antoine Charpentier, and "Fragments from the Mass" by Emma Lou Diemer, a member of the music faculty at the University of California at Santa Barbara.

The University Singers will be joined by the Cal Poly Chamber Orchestra, conducted by Clifton Swanson, in Schubert's Mass #2 in G Major.

Tickets are $2 for Cal Poly students, $4 for the public, and are available at the University Union ticket office, all outlets of Boo Boo Records and Cheap Thrills, and at the door.

The program is sponsored by Cal Poly's School of Communicative Arts and Humanities, Music Department and Associated Students Inc.

Academic reorganization announced

Cal Poly President Warren J. Baker has announced an academic reorganization of the university that will establish new departments, merge others and transfer some programs from one school to another.

The changes, effective for the coming Fall Quarter, were detailed in a 15-page report from the president, received May 18 by members of the Cal Poly community.

The announcement followed two years of campus discussion, as an eight-member Task Force to Study Reorganization of the University took a careful look at Cal Poly's academic structure.

Baker made the following decisions:

- Establishing a Performing Arts Department, consisting of the Music Department faculty, the dance faculty from the Physical Education Department, the drama faculty from the Speech Communication Department, and the Cal Poly Theatre staff.
- Establishing, in the School of Engineering and Technology, a Computer Science Department consisting of the current computer science faculty from the Computer Science and Statistics Department.
- Establishing a new Statistics Department in the School of Science and Mathematics.
- Establishing a new department consisting of the faculty in child development and psychology.
- Moving the Graphic Communications, Military Science and Industrial Technology departments to what is now the School of Human Development and Education.
- Merging the dietetics and food administration program and faculty with the Food Science Department within the School of Agriculture and Natural Resources.
- Expanding the home economics program into a separate Home Economics Department.
- Transferring responsibility for the natural resources management concentration in fisheries and wildlife management to the Biological Sciences Department.

No changes were made in the School of Architecture and Environmental Design or the School of Business.

Baker suggested that some schools and departments may want to consider name changes.

"Further discussion of the appropriate names should be undertaken by the faculty concerned and recommendations for changes should be made prior to the end of the Fall Quarter, 1984," Baker said.

Junior Writing Test graders needed

A training session for full-time faculty interested in reading papers submitted for the Junior Writing Test will be held from 9 am to noon on Sept. 21. (Mark your calendars now before the summer takes you away from all this!)

Participants will learn the criteria used in grading the test and will practice scoring sample essays. The session will be limited to 20 faculty members and those who complete the session will be added to the pool of readers for next year's tests.

The JWT is given once each quarter, and the honorarium for the one-day readings is $125. In addition, most readers report that the skills learned as a reader transfer to assessing class assignments.

Interested faculty may call Pat Grimes in the Writing Skills Office, ext. 2067, to sign up for next fall's training session.

Public Safety Tip

The Public Safety Department would like to help you prepare for your summer vacation by offering the following suggestions:

At least one day before you leave

- Discontinue newspaper delivery.
- Notify the post office to hold your mail OR arrange with a neighbor to pick up and hold your mail.
- Make arrangements to have grass cut and watered while you are gone. Have someone check daily to remove throwaway papers and circulars from your doorway and yard.
- If you have valuables in the house, take them to your bank for storage in a safe deposit vault. Deposit extra cash in your bank account.
- Notify your sheriff's office or local police station about your departure and return dates and give a name and telephone number of a neighbor or relative to notify in case of a burglary, fire or other emergency.
- Make sure any broken windows, door locks or window locks are repaired.
- Arrange with a neighbor or relative to watch your house, give them a key and let them know where or how you can be reached in an emergency. Write their telephone number down so you can check with them during your trip. Give them your car description and license number.
- Move all ladders, tools, lawn implements, garbage cans and yard furniture to your garage, basement or storage shed.

...Academic reorganization

The task force, headed by Provost Tomlinson Fort Jr., made two types of recommendations: first, those related to reorganization and integration of academic units, major programs, concentrations and options that will better serve program objectives, and second, those related to phasing out or de-emphasizing majors, options or concentrations. The decisions Baker announced last week related to the first category. As for the second category, the president said those recommendations need to be considered during regular program review and curriculum approval processes.

"The Task Force has made an important point with respect to this latter type of recommendation," Baker said, "i.e., there are some things we need to stop doing so that we can reallocate resources to programs that are more pertinent to the future and more closely related to the mission and strengths of the University."
