

Cal Poly Report

Vol. 35, No. 7 Sept. 27, 1984

Suess named associate director of Personnel/Employee Relations

Michael Suess, a member of the Cal Poly Personnel Office for the past nine years, has been appointed associate director of personnel and employee relations. The announcement was made by Dr. Jan Pieper, director of personnel and employee relations.

As associate director, the 37-year-old California native will be responsible for the management of the fringe benefits program, employee training, classification, executive recruitment, and contract administration for the faculty and academic support collective bargaining units.

Suess, who served as interim director of personnel from August 1983 until February 1984, will continue to serve as faculty personnel officer.

The Cal Poly graduate has an undergraduate degree in business administration with a concentration in personnel and industrial relations, and a graduate degree in education with a major in counseling and guidance. He has also pursued graduate work at West Virginia University and Brigham Young University.

In a related announcement Dr. Pieper announced new responsibilities and titles for other members of the Personnel Office staff:

Robert Negranti, staff personnel officer and labor relations coordinator; Paul Fillo, compensation manager and training manager; Mary Smith, employment manager and assistant labor relations coordinator, and Barbara Melvin, benefits manager, and assistant faculty personnel officer.

Philosopher to open speaker series

Kenneth Burke, an 87-year-old critic, philosopher, translator, poet and short-story writer, will be the opening speaker for the 1984-85 arts and humanities series at Cal Poly.

He will talk "On Imagination" on Thursday, Oct. 4, at 11 am in UU 220. It is part of the 1984-85 series "Imagining the Imagination: The Varieties of Contemporary Creativity."

The programs have been funded, in part, by a grant from the California Council for the Humanities, the state-based affiliate of the National Endowment for the Humanities. The series is sponsored by the School of Communicative Arts and Humanities.

Salary increases for the 1984-85 Fiscal Year

Salary increases now have been finalized for eight of the nine collective bargaining units. Employees in these groups have received payroll warrants for these retroactive salary increases. Additionally, all covered employees of the CSU system received the increase in the state's contribution for health insurance with the payroll warrants released July 31, 1984. Precise salary figures for all classes will be shown on the salary schedule of the California State University, which will be published and distributed in the near future for the 1984-85 fiscal year.

Following are the approximate salary increases for the units/classes as agreed upon by the CSU and the various exclusive representatives. (All increases are effective July 1, 1984.)

Chamber ensemble opens 1984-85 Quintessence series

The Arden Trio, one of the country's finest young chamber ensembles, will open Cal Poly's 1984-85 Quintessence concert series at 8 pm Saturday, Oct. 13, in the Cal Poly Theatre.

The trio has earned an enviable reputation in only two short seasons. Its 1981 Carnegie Recital Hall debut and subsequent appearance at the 92nd Street Y were greeted with great acclaim. In 1981 it won the Concert Artists Guild Award.

The members of The Arden Trio are Suzanne Ornstein, violin; Clay Ruede, cello; and Thomas Schmidt, piano. They met as graduate students at the Yale School of Music.

Their program for the Cal Poly concert includes Trio in C major by Haydn, Trio in E minor, Op. 67, by Shostakovich, and Trio (1915) by Ravel.

Other concerts scheduled in this year's Quintessence Series are an all-Bach program for the Annual Baroque Concert on Saturday, Feb. 23, with oboist John Ellis. On Friday, April 12, Quintessence will present horn virtuoso Froydis Ree Wekre, co-principal horn with the Oslo Philharmonic Orchestra. Acclaimed pianist Sergei Edelmann will close the series on Friday, May 24.

Single tickets for The Arden Trio are $7 for the public and $5 for students. They are available at the University Union ticket office on campus and in downtown San Luis Obispo at the Dance Shop, Cheap Thrills and Boo Boo Records.

To reserve single tickets or order series tickets, call the Cal Poly Theatre Box Office at ext. 1421 between 10 am and 3 pm weekdays.

The Quintessence Series is sponsored by the Music Department and School of Communicative Arts and Humanities.

Photos of innovative shell roofs on display at Cal Poly

Eighty photographs of dramatic, sculptural roofs designed by Swiss engineer Heinz Isler will be on display in the ground-floor Gallery of the Architecture Building from Sept. 26 through Oct. 5. Gallery hours are 10 am - 4 pm weekdays, noon to 4 pm on the weekend.

Isler is known internationally as one of the foremost structural artists of this century. His non-geometric, freely shaped shell roof designs have been used in the construction of many sports pavilions, exhibition halls, industrial buildings, garden centers and other structures throughout Europe.

The Cal Poly exhibit of Isler's work is sponsored by Architectural Engineering. Isler is expected to give a public talk during a two-day visit to the campus later in October.

Program of 'Stars, Songs, Faces' in Cal Poly Theatre Oct. 5

The second phase of a collaboration by four Cal Poly faculty artists will be presented in the Theatre on Friday, Oct. 5.

The 8 pm program, called "Stars, Songs, Faces," will feature the work of Pamela Miller, oral interpreter; Cynthia Nazzaro, choreographer; Dan Piel, painter; and John Russell, composer.

The artistic collaboration recognizes various artists who died young but left lasting impressions. Music by Wolfgang Amadeus Mozart (who died at 35) and Franz Schubert (31) will be featured, along with a dramatic reading from the works of John Keats (26).

The collaboration began with portrait artist Piel of the Art Department faculty, who painted a series of heroic-sized portraits of media stars. Fourteen of his portraits are currently being exhibited in the Galerie of the University Union. They include John Lennon (40), Marilyn Monroe (36), James Dean (24), Buddy Holly (23), Jimi Hendrix (28), Janis Joplin (27), Rudolph Valentino (31), Elvis Presley (42), Jim Morrison (28), Hank Williams (30) and Jean Harlow (26).

Miller, a member of the Speech Communication Department faculty, worked with Piel to select quotations to go with each of the portraits. The Friday evening program will include an Interpreters Theatre presentation of "Eve of St. Agnes" by John Keats.

Music professor Russell utilized a digital synthesizer to compose a piece for two dancers called "Endymion and Selene" based on Greek mythology. Nazzaro, a member of the Theatre and Dance Department faculty, choreographed the piece. She and David Blood of the Oakland Ballet, the principal dancers, will be doing the performance live. A videotape presentation is part of the exhibit at the Galerie.

Musical works to be featured include Rondo in A minor, K. 511 by Mozart and performed by Ronald V. Ratcliffe on fortepiano; Schubert's Sonata in D major, Op. 137, No. 1 performed by Jeanne Clouse, violin, and Susan Azaret-Davies, piano; and Mozart's Quintet in E flat for horn and strings, K. 407 featuring Jane Swanson on horn, Jeanne Clouse, violin, Louise Roberts, viola, Cindy Feaver, viola, Luba Staller, cello, and Clifton Swanson, bass.

Tickets for the Oct. 5 presentation are $4 for the public and $2 for students. The artistic collaboration is sponsored by the School of Communicative Arts and Humanities and ASI.

Lost property not covered by insurance

The dramatic effect of lost or stolen property on Cal Poly's academic programs was the subject of recent remarks by Richard C. Brug, the university's director of public safety.

The losses are not covered by insurance, Brug, said. The cost of replacement property must come directly from the university's overall budget. "As a result, the financial resources available for the university's educational programs are reduced," he added.

Brug suggests the following steps:

1. Regular equipment inventories
2. Comprehensive equipment check-out procedures.
3. Securing equipment when it is not in use.
4. Installing alarm systems in areas containing valuable equipment.
5. Securing typewriters and microcomputers with lock-down devices.
6. Securing items when work areas are not supervised.
7. Reporting suspicious circumstances to the Public Safety Department.
8. Improving control of door and cabinet keys and reducing the availability of keys.
9. Utilizing surveys of security that are available on request from the Public Safety Department.
10. Keeping small equipment items such as calculators and tape recorders away from public access.

Supervisors and employees who wish to arrange for security surveys, obtain literature on property security, or gain additional information on how they can help reduce the incidence of stolen and lost property are urged to contact the Public Safety Department, ext. 2281.

Cyber system to be interrupted

The Cyber system at the Computer Center is scheduled for further hardware upgrades during Fall Quarter. This should result in better response time as well as increased system capacity. In order to prepare for the upgrade, it will be necessary to interrupt operation of the Cyber for extensive periods during the weekend of Sept. 29 and 30. On Oct. 6 and 7, service will again be interrupted as the first phase of the actual upgrade is planned for implementation on that weekend. All users should plan for such interruptions. Status can be checked on the recording at ext. 2004.

Hearst named publisher

William Randolph Hearst III, a member of the President's Cabinet, has been named publisher of the San Francisco Examiner, the post from which his grandfather launched his own career 97 years ago.

Outstanding staff employees honored by Cal Poly

The extra service and dedication that make a university campus a better place to study and work have won campuswide recognition for three members of the support staff.

Recognized as "outstanding staff" for 1983-84 were Jerald L. (Louie) Budoff of Housing Management, Walter Clark of Engineering Technology, and Gail Simmons of Agricultural Education.

Budoff, coordinator of residence hall services, has worked for the university's housing program since 1957. After beginning as a custodian, he held several other assignments before assuming his present duties in 1977.

Clark began his employment at the university in 1970 after having been a development engineer at the Hanford Project near Richland, Wash. After a year as an equipment technician with Metallurgical Engineering, he left the university staff and then in 1973 returned to assume his present assignment as equipment technician for Engineering Technology.

Simmons joined the Cal Poly staff in 1971 as a clerical assistant in the General Office. She was formerly a secretary for the County of Alameda. In 1972 she became departmental secretary in Agricultural Education.

Each of the outstanding employees received a certificate and a $100 check made possible by the Armistead B. Carter Endowment Fund.

Outstanding employees are named by university President Warren J. Baker on the recommendation of a committee made up of staff members who previously received the award. The committee reviews nominations made by faculty and staff members and studies the work of nominees before making its recommendations to the President.

Maggetti retiring

Mail Center Supervisor Jerry Maggetti will be retiring from Cal Poly after more than 18 years of service. A farewell coffee hour has been set for his last day — Friday, Sept. 28. It will be from 9:30 - 10:30 am at the State Receiving Warehouse, Bldg. 70.

Emeritus professor dies

Ralph Emerson Weston, 85, an emeritus professor, died on Sept. 14 in Santa Barbara. A member of the Mathematical Sciences Department from 1948-67, he was instrumental in forming the Computer Science Department. He moved to Santa Barbara in 1976.
