

President will speak today

President Baker will be discussing student issues and answering questions in a campus forum today. It will begin at 11 am in Chumash Auditorium.

Dr. Baker was asked by the Tassels Honor Society to hold the forum. He is expected to address issues concerning the future of the university, academic policies, and the relationship of the university with the community.

Farmland trust leader to talk tonight

Conservation and the politics of farmland preservation will be the topic when Ralph Grossi, president of the American Farmland Trust, addresses a campus audience tonight at Cal Poly.

Sponsored by a consortium of campus student groups, the program will begin at 7:30 p.m. in Chumash Auditorium.

Grossi, an alumnus of Cal Poly and a Marin County dairy rancher, is a charter director of AFT, a national non-profit organization devoted to preserving prime farmland and conserving soil resources.

Co-sponsors are Alpha Gamma Rho, the campus chapter of Alpha Zeta, the honorary society for agriculture students, and the ASI Speakers Forum.

Engle selected for Fulbright Grant

A Cal Poly professor will have an opportunity to update and extend her research on working mothers and child care in Third World countries thanks to a Fulbright award for the 1986-87 academic year.

Dr. Patrice Engle, a psychology and human development professor, will be conducting research in Guatemala from September 1986 into the spring of 1987. She will be affiliated with the Institute of Nutrition for Central America and Panama (INCAP) in Guatemala City.

In the mid-1970s she was one of eight scientists and 100 field researchers who gathered data from 1,000 Guatemalan families on ecological factors affecting the nutritional and mental development of children.

In addition to re-interviewing the families the Cal Poly researcher hopes to extend her work by examining the effects of changes that have taken place in the last 10 years on women's work, child rearing patterns, and children's welfare.

The U.S. Agency for International Development funded a part of her research so that she was able to utilize the assistance of a number of experts.

The purpose of the Fulbright Program, now in its 40th year, is to promote mutual understanding among the people of the world through educational and cultural exchanges.

Men's basketball team in playoffs

The men's basketball team (23-6) will be playing Cal State Hayward Friday night at Hayward in the NCAA Division II Western Regionals. The Mustangs earned an at-large berth in the tournament, after losing to UC Riverside (72-71) in the CCAA playoffs. Cal Poly won the regular season title.

New Holstein sale planned

The first presentation of a new sale of top quality Holstein dairy cattle will be featured among a series of events for dairymen, dairy industry leaders, and dairy science students on Friday and Saturday, March 7 and 8, at Cal Poly.

Also planned during the weekend are the annual planning conference of the California Holstein Association, the annual banquet of the university's Los Lecheros Dairy Club, and a barbecue and dance.

Former Mail Center Supervisor

Jerry Maggetti, Mail Center supervisor for more than 18 years, died last week. The 66-year-old San Luis Obispo native retired from the university in September 1984.

Former track coach dies

James J. Jensen, head track coach at Cal Poly for 15 years, died last week in Santa Maria. The 77-year-old native of Norway became a member of the Cal Poly faculty in 1948 after having been a football and track coach at high schools in Washington and California as well as Menlo College and San Francisco City College.

A graduate of Washington State and Stanford, he retired from the Physical Education Department in 1973. He lived in Atascadero for 34 years.

Folk singer-satirist to perform tonight

Folk singer Mark Levy will appear in concert at the Cal Poly Theatre tonight at 8 pm.

Levy mixes satire with his music, commenting on issues of our time — peace, social justice, the economy, and the environment. His humorous folk songs draw from styles ranging from bluegrass to ragtime to blues. He also incorporates lyrics in eight languages.

Tickets for the concert are available for $3 at the UU Ticket Office. They will also be available at the door. The concert is being sponsored by Students for Social Responsibility.

Pianist will perform March 15

Works by Mozart, Beethoven, Scott Joplin, and W.C. Handy will be featured in a piano recital at Cal Poly on Saturday, March 15.

The program, at 8 pm in the Cal Poly Theatre, will be sponsored by the French Club.

The soloist will be Harry C. Ison, a retired physician from Three Rivers, Calif. One of the highlights of the program will be some original works — including his "Three Rivers Suite."

Tickets for the program are $3.50 for the public, and $2.50 for students when purchased in advance. Prices will be an additional 50¢ at the door. Tickets are available at the UU Ticket Office, and other outlets in San Luis Obispo.

Suzuki workshop set for March 11

An informative workshop on the Suzuki method of music education has been scheduled for Tuesday, March 11, from 4 - 6 pm in Room 216 of the Music Center.

Designed for music teachers and interested parents, the workshop will be presented by Lorraine Fink, a specialist in the Suzuki philosophy and techniques, which can be applied to all instruments.

A student of Shinichi Suzuki, Fink studied with him at the Eastman School of Music and has worked with him extensively both in the United States and at his Talent Education Institute in Japan.

The workshop, which will be free, is being sponsored by the Music Department and Premier Music. For more information, call the Music Department at ext. 2406.

Summer program offered by Children's Center

Poly Trekkers, a summer "camp" offered by the Cal Poly Children's Center, is open to children from 6 to 9. It will run for six weeks— July 14 through Aug. 22— and is designed to enhance confidence, teamwork, motor skills, and conceptual abilities.

The program, for children of students, faculty and staff, will provide weekly themes—art, music, camping, science, nature, nutrition awareness, career awareness, and other planned activities. Cal Poly and community field trips are included as well as nutritious lunches and snacks.

The 9 am to 4 pm activity will cost $60 per week. Extended hours—8-9 am and 4-5 pm are available at an additional $1 per hour. Registration will be weekly, and forms are available by calling Kathy Danaher at ext. 1267. Enrollment is limited to 10 children per weekly session, and will be on a first come, first served basis.

Landscape Trade Show scheduled

Students, homeowners, and construction professionals will have a chance to learn about new and upcoming landscaping products and techniques at the second annual Landscape Trade Show, Monday, March 10, at Cal Poly.

The university's landscape architecture students are sponsoring a day-long exhibition containing over 40 displays and booths showcasing products and information from the industry.

Organizers say the show, from 9 am to 4 pm, will give people the opportunity to update their knowledge on product usage, learn about new ones, and meet other students and professionals. The show is in Chumash Auditorium. For more information, call ext. 1319.

Service awards lunch reminder

Faculty and staff are reminded that March 13 will be the last day to purchase tickets for the annual Service Awards Luncheon to be held on March 18 at 11:30 am in Chumash Auditorium. One hundred and eighty-nine colleagues will be honored for their years of service to Cal Poly.

Tickets may be purchased from the following: Larry Grimes, Bio Sci, ext. 2368; Martha Steward, Arch., ext. 2165; Sandy Tuttle, IT, ext. 2676; Carole Abbey, Art, ext. 1148; Donna Gang, Health Center, ext. 1211; Rosemary Cameron, Library, ext. 2415; Carol Schuldt, Library, ext. 2389; Homer Hoyt, Education and Retired personnel, ext. 2356; Dan Krieger, History, ext. 2641; Mark Shelton, Crop Science, ext. 2286; Jacquie Rossi, State Receiving, ext. 2872; Nancy Asbell, Dining Hall, ext. 1175; and Jerri Hobberlin, Payroll, ext. 2605. Tickets will not be sold at the door.
