

Wilson named interim academic affairs vice president

Dr. Malcolm W. Wilson, who has held a number of important academic positions over the past 11 years, has been named interim vice president for academic affairs.

In making the announcement Cal Poly President Warren J. Baker said that Wilson will take up his new duties on July 1. He succeeds Dr. Tomlinson Fort Jr., who announced earlier this year his intention of stepping down as chief academic officer of the university.

The new interim vice president joined Cal Poly's Education Department faculty in 1968 after having taught at the University of Arizona and at public schools in Colorado, Florida and Arizona.

He is a graduate of Western State College in Colorado, where he earned his bachelor's and master's degrees, and the University of Arizona, where he completed his doctoral studies in 1973.

At Cal Poly Wilson has played an important role in overseas educational programs and in development of the reading education programs in the university's Education Department.

He spent part of 1969, and all of 1970 and 1971 as a member of the Cal Poly teaching team at the combined University of Botswana, Lesotho, and Swaziland. While there, he was director of short courses for primary school headmasters from all three African nations.

On his return to Cal Poly he was a major contributor of materials for Cal Poly's teacher credential program in reading and worked on development of the reading laboratory and graduate courses which support that program. An acknowledged expert on mode-and-level funding formulas, Wilson will serve as interim vice president until a permanent replacement is selected. A search committee is presently being constituted.

Health Center Infirmary will close in June

The Infirmary at the Cal Poly Health Center will close on commencement day, Saturday, June 14. This is the usual date for summer closure. In September, the Infirmary will not reopen.

The decision to close was a joint decision of Health Center management and the dean of student affairs and his staff. There will be no personnel layoffs because of this decision.

The reasons for the closure are based on steadily increased costs and steadily decreasing utilization of infirmary beds.

The Infirmary was built in 1959 and at that time was the best equipped and most modern hospital in San Luis Obispo.

Future plans for the Health Center include new hours of service, increased staffing for peak load times and services, amplification of some specialty services, e.g., dermatology, and the addition of new services such as optometry.

Commencing in September, Health Center hours will be Monday through Friday, 8 am to 8 pm; Saturday and Sunday, 10 am to 6 pm. On weekends and from 5 pm to 8 pm, there will be a small fee for service. A prepaid program will continue to be available, but with different emphasis than the current health card program.

Staff, student, and campus input is actively being solicited as to the types of services and personnel desired.

Rec Administration accreditation

The B.S. program in Recreation Administration has been accredited by the National Recreation and Parks Association/American Association of Leisure and Recreation (NRPA/AALR).

Dr. Lynn M. Jamieson, coordinator of the Recreation Administration Program, and Dr. Dwayne Head, head of the Physical Education and Recreation Department, were in Cincinnati last month for the NRPA/AALR review hearing.

The university submitted a self-study document, and a three-member visitation team was on campus last February. The accreditation was for a five-year period.

PERS election will be held

'Ain't Misbehavin' ' opens May 8

The Cal Poly Theatre will start jumpin' at 8 pm next Thursday (May 8), when the Broadway hit "Ain't Misbehavin' " comes shimmying on the campus. Additional performances are set for 8 pm on Friday and Saturday, May 9 & 10.

The dazzling Broadway musical hit recreates on stage the gaudy glamor and excitement of a 1930s Harlem night spot when jazzman Fats Waller was at the height of his popularity.

Waller's music, popular in the '20s and '30s, was given new life in the '70s when one of his biggest fans, Murray Horwitz, an actor and clown, collaborated with lyricist Richard Maltby Jr. to create "Ain't Misbehavin' ," a show based on Waller's music.

Sanford Smith, Jacquelin Harrison, Crystal Culmer, Cesar Cordero, and Ramona Thomas are the featured performers in the Cal Poly production.

The show has been assembled and directed by Roger Kenvin with choreography by Sanford Smith. The sets have been designed by Russ Whaley and the costumes designed by Aaron Elmore. Howard Gee is both lighting designer and technical director and Mary Sue Gee is the vocal coach.

Tickets for "Ain't Misbehavin' " are on sale at the UU Ticket Office and in downtown San Luis Obispo at Cheap Thrills and Boo Boo Records. All seats are $5. Telephone reservations can be made by calling the Cal Poly Theatre, 546-1421, between 10 am and 4 pm on weekdays.

Time table for RSTS termination

The RSTS computer (alias the DEC 11/70 alias LTS, Local Time-sharing) is entering its final days at Cal Poly. A recent survey conducted by the Instructional Support Group of Computer Services indicated that the academic departments see no problem vacating RSTS by June 30. Since the maintenance contract on RSTS expires on that date, the system will become permanently and irrevocably unavailable at that time.

RSTS is being replaced by two PRIME minicomputers. The first PRIME arrived in January, and is currently supporting several Computer Science and Electrical Engineering classes. The second PRIME has been delivered and should be operational by the end of April. Accounts are available on the PRIME by application in CSC 101.

User files currently on RSTS may be transferred to the PRIME. However, only text files can be transferred. File transfer request forms are available in CSC 101.

The timetable for decommissioning RSTS is as follows:

- Now - June 13: RSTS is available for Spring Quarter classes.
- April 30: No new RSTS accounts will be issued after this date without adequate need.
- June 18: All RSTS classes must be moved by this date to a PRIME or an alternate computing resource.
- June 23: All RSTS accounts to be purged.
- June 30: RSTS to be decommissioned.
