Final exam policy

Instructors are reminded by Hazel J. Jones (Vice President for Academic Affairs) that final examinations in lecture courses are to be held at the time and place designated in the quarterly class schedule. Final examinations in non-lecture courses are held during the last class meeting in the regularly assigned meeting location. No deviation from the published schedule is permitted except under the special circumstances described in CAM 484.1 and with the approval of the school dean.

Caps and gowns

Janet Radovich (Checker Supervisor, El Corral Bookstore) notes that the time to order caps and gowns is here again. Rental regalia is available for approximately $20, and one-way (disposable) regalia is priced from $18.50 to $28.75. El Corral also offers a complete selection of durable custom-made regalia designed to be used year after year.

Complete information regarding caps and gowns is available at El Corral Bookstore. Cap and gown orders must be placed with Janet Radovich at the Customer Service counter in the bookstore by Apr. 9.

Fund disclosure

California's Fair Political Practices Commission has adopted rules that require faculty members to make a public disclosure of their financial dealings with private companies that finance their research. The policy will take effect sometime next month.

BRADBURY AUTOGRAPH SESSION AT EL CORRAL CANCELED

Because of a scheduling problem, author Ray Bradbury will not be available for the planned autograph signing at El Corral Bookstore today. However, he has agreed to a special autograph signing immediately following his 8 pm presentation in Chumash Auditorium. The public is invited to bring any of Bradbury's books with them to the evening presentation. El Corral has a wide selection of Bradbury's books available for sale.

Sanderson named head football coach

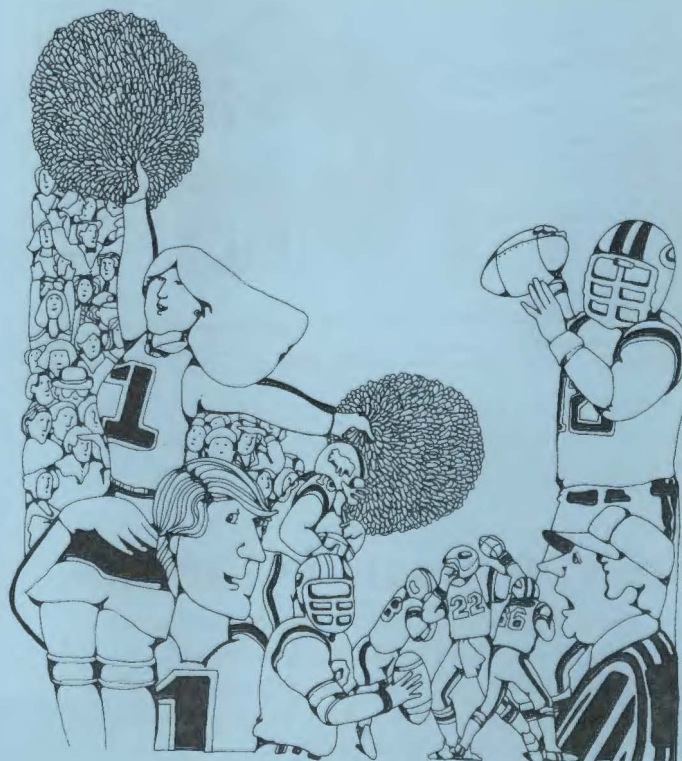

University Archives

Jim Sanderson, an assistant football coach at Cal Poly for the past 15 years, has been named head coach of the Mustangs. In making the announcement, President Warren J. Baker said that Sanderson "had been a key individual in the continued success of the university's football program, and his knowledge of the players will provide an excellent transition in the years ahead."

Sanderson's name was forwarded to President Baker by Acting Athletic Director Dick Heaton and Associate Executive Vice President Howard West. At Cal Poly Sanderson has been responsible for the defensive backfield and coordination of the play of the secondary, subjects that he knows well. At Fresno State he lettered three years as a defensive back, and he still holds or shares four pass interception records.

He was an outstanding athlete at Sierra Joint Union High School in Tollhouse, Calif., where he lettered twice as a tailback, and earned three letters in basketball and baseball, and two in swimming and track. He was named best all-around athlete in his senior year. At College of Sequoias in Visalia he earned two letters in football and swimming.

Sanderson is a Cal Poly alumnus holding a master's degree in education with an emphasis in physical education. He was a head football coach on the high school level before coming to Cal Poly. In his four years in the high school ranks -- Tulare Western and Sierra Joint Union -- he compiled a 23-14 mark.

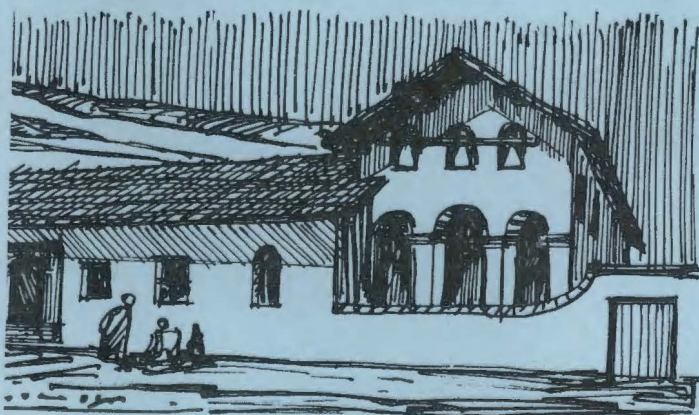

Choir missions tour

Performances at five of the California Missions are scheduled for the 12th annual tour of the Cal Poly University Singers. Consisting of 40 mixed voices, the Cal Poly choir will perform under the direction of James Dearing (Music). Prior to his appointment in 1979 as music director of the university's choirs, Dearing toured internationally as a member of the Roger Wagner Chorale.

The ensemble's 1982 tour will open on Wednesday (Mar. 24) at Mission San Miguel and conclude on Sunday (Mar. 28) at Mission Santa Ines in Solvang. Also planned are concerts at Mission San Diego de Alcalá in San Diego, Mission San Luis Rey in Oceanside, and Mission La Purisima Concepcion in Lompoc. A performance at yet another of the California Missions will come on Saturday (Apr. 3) when the Cal Poly choir presents a concert at Mission San Luis Obispo de Tolosa in San Luis Obispo.

All of the mission concerts will be free and open to the public. Numbers scheduled for the tour performances include "Inter Brachia Salvatoris Mei" by Heinrich Schutz, "Jesus and the Traders" by Zoltan Kodaly, and works by both Orlandus Lassus and Wilhelm Stenhammer.

The entire program will be performed without accompaniment with the exception of "Five Madrigal Lyrics" by Edmund Najera. This piece will be accompanied by a mixed chamber consort composed of flute, oboe, trumpet, cello, and percussion.

The April 3 concert at Mission San Luis Obispo de Tolosa will begin at 8 pm. General admission tickets for that event are priced at $4.

Service awards lunch

The menu for the Service Awards Luncheon scheduled for March 18, 1982, will consist of enchiladas, salads, hot rolls, dessert, and beverage at a cost of $4.25 per person. Chicken will not be included as originally announced.

Administrative Fellows Program

The California State University Trustees Budget for 1982-83 includes funds for continued support for the CSU Administrative Fellows Program. Although the Trustees' request must still be reviewed by the legislature and governor, there is at this time no reason to think that they will not support this program. All applicants must understand that appointments will be contingent on funds in the final budget to be signed approximately June 30.

The purpose of the Administrative Fellows Program is to provide an opportunity for upward mobility, especially aimed at ensuring that women and persons from ethnic minority backgrounds are given equal opportunities for placement and advancement in administrative, managerial and executive positions in the CSU.

Application is open to academic and administrative personnel who have a tenured/permanent or probationary position on their campus and who desire to prepare themselves for a career option into administration or management. Final selection of fellows and operation of the program will be on a nondiscriminatory basis.

Administrative Fellows who are selected will normally be assigned to a campus other than their own. Only under very unusual or compelling circumstances will fellows be assigned to their home campus. Therefore, applicants should seriously consider their mobility as a factor in making their personal decision to apply for appointment.

The fellowship is for the 1982-83 Academic Year. Fellows will receive their regular salary, vacation, and retirement benefits as if they were in their regular positions at their home campuses. The State will not reimburse relocation or moving expenses in connection with this program.

Full details of the program and application materials may be obtained from Mary Smith, Adm. 110. Completed applications are to be returned to the President's Office in line with the timetable cited below.

- Mar. 11: Announcement of the program on campus.
- Mar. 29: Deadline for applications. Applications must be filed in the President's Office by 5 pm. Confidential evaluation forms must also be submitted.
- Late May: Offers of appointment as Administrative Fellows will be made by the Chancellor's Office.
- Early June: Meeting of fellows and mentors.

NRM Department honored

Cal Poly's Natural Resources Management Department brought an award for outstanding service to forestry home from the recent Winter Meeting of the Southern California Society of American Foresters. SAF, the national organization representing all segments of the forestry profession in the United States, promotes excellence in forestry research, administration and education.

In presenting the award to Robert F. Wambach (NRM Head,) Southern California Society Awards Committee Chairman Sam Alfano noted the diversity of achievements of Cal Poly's forestry students as the basis for the recognition. He cited as example that the NRM Department's student chapter of SAF has been an active and winning participant in the Western Forestry School Conclave—an annual competitive event where students from all over the western United States challenge each other in logging contests, woodsman skills and academic forest management games.

The hard work Cal Poly's student chapter puts into commercial projects such as tree thinning, tree planting and mistletoe collection was a major reason the club was selected for the Outstanding Service to Forestry award, according to Wambach.

In addition to the award recognition, the NRM Dept. was an active participant in the Winter Meeting. Wambach presented the opening paper at the general session which followed the theme "Wood for Energy," Speaking as a member of the "Update on Research" panel, Wambach provided an overview of energy production from woody biomass and the types of tree plantations that have been developed in various parts of the world that are currently producing energy supplies.
