Trustees approve CSU Support Budget

A $1,032,473,800 proposed Support Budget for The California State University for fiscal 1983-84 was approved last week by the Board of Trustees.

The budget reflects a major effort by the CSU to respond to demands for education in high technology areas, and also recognizes the state's limited abilities for financing public higher education.

Only two additional unique campus programs were requested by the Trustees — a $304,829 Computer Aided Productivity Laboratory at Cal Poly, San Luis Obispo, and a $115,164 augmentation at California State University, Los Angeles to finance a Learning Assistance and Resources Center.

Chancellor W. Ann Reynolds noted that, though the budget is 9.6 percent more than the current year, over half of this increase (6.3 percent) is needed to adjust for inflation and to finance increasing personnel expenses such as a significant increase in retirement costs over 1982-83.

"I am committed to maintaining quality educational programs at the lowest possible cost and to addressing only those fresh needs of the system with the highest priority," Dr. Reynolds said.

The budget assumes an enrollment of 240,450 full-time equivalent students, or 550 more than projected for 1982-83. The Trustees authorized adjustments of this and other budget assumptions by the Chancellor if future events dictate.

For example, additional information concerning fall 1982 enrollment is expected in November. This may lead to an adjustment of 1983-84 enrollment projections and related amendment of the Trustees' budget.

The Trustees' budget seeks $17,185,990 to address challenges in new and changing technology, particularly in engineering, business and computer science. These funds would permit hiring additional faculty and related staff and procurement of specialized supplies and equipment.

Some 2,400 additional classes would be possible under this fund, enabling an increase in the student access to courses in these critical disciplines facilitating completion of graduation requirements of students majoring in these disciplines.

In 1981, 101,180 CSU students enrolled in disciplines requiring heavy use of computers, up 64.2

Gerald named associate VP for info systems

Dr. Curtis F. Gerald has been named to the newly created position of associate vice president for information systems at Cal Poly. The announcement was made by President Warren J. Baker, who said Dr. Gerald will begin his new duties immediately.

Dr. Gerald will be responsible for the university's Computer Center, the Audiovisual Department, the Computer Aided Productivity Laboratory, and telephone and data communications. He will continue as a campus-wide consultant on computer matters.

"We want to recognize the interrelationship between computing and communications, and the immediate need for coordination of the university's activities in these areas," President Baker said. "In addition, we will be able to take an integrated approach to managing voice, data, and video communications."

In his new position Dr. Gerald will report to Dr. Tomlinson Fort Jr., Cal Poly's vice president for academic affairs.

The new associate vice president joined the university in 1964 as an instructor in the Mathematics Department after several years in industry as a research administrator and research engineer. In 1969, he became head of the newly formed Computer Science and Statistics Department.

Since 1980, Dr. Gerald has been involved in the planning and coordination of computing and communications activities for Cal Poly. He has played a major role in the development of the university's Computer Aided Productivity Laboratory.

Currently in its first operational phase, the laboratory provides Cal Poly's undergraduate students in engineering, architecture, and other science and technology programs with hands-on experience with commercial computer-aided design (CAD) and computer-aided manufacturing (CAM) systems.

Dr. Gerald is a graduate of Iowa State University, University of Cincinnati, and Massachusetts Institute of Technology, where he earned his doctoral degree.

Before moving to Cal Poly he was involved in teaching and research at University of Washington, MIT, and University of Cincinnati. A registered professional engineer in Illinois, he also was a research engineer and chemist with Universal Oil Products Co. and El Paso Natural Gas Products Co.

The new associate vice president and his wife, Elsie, reside in San Luis Obispo. They are the parents of nine grown children.

Seminar topics at 9 and 11 am sessions at the University Union will be the "Small Computer and You," "Appreciating California Wines," "Stress Management," and "Managing your Finances in the '80s." An "Estate Planning Seminar" will be offered at 9 am only on Saturday, also at the University Union. Cost per person for each seminar is $10. The seminars are sponsored by the Cal Poly Alumni Association and Extended Education.

Watercolor exhibit

Over one hundred watercolors by artist and architectural historian, Vern Swansen, will be on exhibit at the Gallery of the Robert E. Kennedy Library Oct. 17 through Nov. 19. The exhibit, titled "A Search for the Essence of Certain Periods of Architectural History," is a non-traditional research project covering fifteen periods. The style ranges from realism to near non-objectivity. The compositions, done during the summer of 1982, are influenced by Parisian cubism.

This is the second exhibit of Swansen's watercolors that has been held at the Library.

Grant for CSU writing program

A $330,500 grant to complete one of the most comprehensive studies ever undertaken of collegiate writing programs was announced last week by California State University Chancellor W. Ann Reynolds.

The award, from the National Institute of Education, will be spent over the next 30 months on a study aimed at identifying approaches having the greatest likelihood of success in the teaching of writing at the university level.

Previously, $141,577 was authorized for the project. This, together with the new award for second- and third-phase funding, represents a nearly $475,000 federal commitment for the research activity.

The project uses the 19-campus CSU system as a working model of the variety of writing programs in American higher education. Interview and computerized survey data tracks the results of courses and writing support programs taught by nearly 1,000 writing teachers.

New NIE funding will provide for the accumulation and analysis of student test and survey data which will then be followed by interpretation by the project's faculty research team.

Magazine features Cal Poly

A full-page photograph of the spacious Cal Poly campus adorns the front cover of the October, 1982, issue of The Hexagon, the magazine of Alpha Chi Sigma, the national honorary society for professionals and students in chemistry.

It leads to a major inside article on Cal Poly, its Chemistry Department and programs, and the newly chartered Cal Poly-Gamma Zeta chapter of the fraternity. Much of the four-page spread was written by Philip S. Bailey Jr., associate dean of the School of Science and Mathematics, advisor to the campus group.

The Hexagon is published monthly and is circulated to the over 50,000 persons who are members of Alpha Chi Sigma.

Reception for Pellaton

Evelyn Pellaton, associate director of athletics, retired Sept. 30. A reception honoring her will be held in the Staff Dining Hall, Room B, Thursday, Nov. 4, from 2-4 pm. All faculty, staff, and friends are invited to join in wishing her well in her retirement.

Sabbatical leave info

Donald L. Shelton, director of personnel relations, has sent the list of eligible faculty members and the number of sabbatical leaves tentatively allocated to the schools for the 1983-84 academic year to each school dean. The distribution of the 30 sabbatical leave positions projected in the 1983-84 budget for the campus is based on the ratio of faculty eligible for sabbatical leave in each school to the total eligible in the university. The tentative distribution of positions is as follows:

Schools	Allocation of Positions
Agriculture and Natural Resources	5
Architecture and Environmental Design	2
Business	2
Communicative Arts and Humanities	5
Engineering and Technology	4
Human Development and Education	3
Science and Mathematics	9
	<hr/> 30

It should be noted that these allocations are based on the proposed budget. Allocation to schools will be confirmed when the 1983-84 budget is approved next June or July. Faculty members are reminded that applications for sabbatical leave and difference-in-pay leave must be submitted to their respective department head by Nov. 1. Application forms may be obtained in the Personnel Office.

The sabbatical leave timetable is as follows:

- Nov. 1 — Applications submitted to department head.
- Nov. 10 — Applications submitted to the appropriate school dean with the department head's recommendation following consultation with tenured members of the department.
- Nov. 15 — Applications submitted to appropriate school committee by school dean. Concurrently, the school dean will provide the Personnel Review Committee a list of names of all applicants and dates the applications were received by their respective department heads. School committees interview applicants Nov. 15 through Dec. 14.
- Dec. 15 — Priority lists recommended by the school committees forwarded to the school deans.
- Dec. 31 — School deans forward a copy of their priority lists, the school committee's recommendations, the applications, and a report of the procedures followed in the recommendation process to the Chairman of the Personnel Review Committee of the Academic Senate and Vice President for Academic Affairs.
- Jan. 15 — Report on procedural review of the recommendation process by the Personnel Review Committee of the Academic Senate to the President and Chairperson of the Academic Senate.
- Feb. 1 — Vice President for Academic Affairs notifies applicants of the President's action on their applications. Such action is subject to fiscal appropriations which are proposed for inclusion in the budget.

Fee waiver program deadline Nov. 10

Information and application forms are available in the Personnel Office for state employees to participate in the fee waiver program. Those who take Cal Poly courses under an approved program of career development, or who have had courses approved as work related, may be eligible for waiver of certain fees. Deadline for return of completed, approved fee waiver forms for the Winter Quarter 1983 is Wednesday, Nov. 10, 1982. This deadline has been set to correspond with the deadline for application for admission to the university and so that forms may be processed through the Personnel Office and forwarded to the employee to meet the employee computer assisted registration deadline of Dec. 6.

International Programs Resident Director openings

Applications are invited for full-time California State University International Programs Resident Director assignments in Germany and Sweden (12-month appointments); France, Italy, and Spain (10-month appointments); and part-time (1/5) appointments in Israel and Japan. A Resident Director is a faculty member or academic administrator of a CSU campus who is appointed to provide academic, administrative, and fiscal supervision of an overseas study center, under the direction of the Director of International Programs.

Applicants selected for interview will be contacted shortly after Feb. 15, and all applicants will be notified of the final selections not later than May, 1983. Appointments are made a year in advance of the year to be spent abroad so that those selected will have adequate time to plan for a year overseas.

Information and application materials may be obtained on campus from each School Dean, or from the Office of International Programs, The California State University, 400 Golden Shore, Suite 300, Long Beach, CA 90802; ATSS telephone 8-635-5655.

percent from the 61,612 just seven years before. The Trustees' request would improve the staffing of campus computer facilities to meet these expanding demands.

The budget request goes to the state Department of Finance, the Legislature and the California Postsecondary Education Commission. Traditionally, the Department of Finance prepares the budget which the Governor submits in January to the Legislature for its review and final action by midsummer.
