Distinguished architect to speak

"The New Traditionalists" will be the topic when Thomas R. Vreeland Jr., a nationally known architect and architectural educator, delivers the next address in the Distinguished Architects Lecture Series at Cal Poly.

Scheduled for 8 pm on Monday (Nov. 19), the free program will take place in the Architecture Gallery (Architecture and Environmental Design 105). Architecture professionals and the public are invited to join students, faculty, and staff in attending.

Presently a partner in the firm of Kamnitzer, Cotton and Vreeland Architects, Los Angeles, Vreeland is a registered architect in California, New Mexico, Florida, Pennsylvania, and Maryland, and a corporate member of the American Institute of Architects. He is also a professor of architecture at University of California at Los Angeles.

His practice over the years has included a number of health facilities and research laboratories, including the Richards Building at University of Pennsylvania and the Salk Institute in La Jolla.

His lecture at Cal Poly will be the last of the fall segment of the 1979-80 Distinguished Architects Lecture Series. The series is sponsored by the university's Architecture Department in cooperation with the university student chapter and the Central Coast Chapter of the American Institute of Architects.

Glee Clubs will perform

Cal Poly's Men's and Women's Glee Clubs will present their premiere concert of 1979-80 on Sunday (Nov. 18) under the direction of a new conductor, James Dearing (Music). Scheduled for Chumash Auditorium, the 3 pm concert will feature an unusual spectrum of choral works. Tickets, priced at $2 for the public and $1.50 for students and senior citizens, are being sold in advance at the University Union ticket office and by members of the glee clubs.

Programmed for the concert are Dufay's "Magnificat of 1425" with accompaniment on the university's new positiv organ; some recently discovered Renaissance music from the Spanish High Court in Lima, Peru, which will be sung in a combination of Quecha and a Negro dialect; Britten's Psalm 150 with the Cal Poly Chamber Ensemble; and avant garde Dutch music for women's voices.

Dearing, who joined the Cal Poly music faculty this fall after having been at University of Illinois at Chicago Circle and University of Virginia, is a graduate of University of Wisconsin where he studied under Otto-Werner Mueller, Robert Fountain, and Zoltan Kodaly. He has been on 15 concert tours as tenor soloist

Athletic materials available

Copies of draft materials regarding governance and the competitive level of intercollegiate athletics at Cal Poly, which will be the subject of a public hearing at the university on Thursday (Nov. 15) will be available for review prior to the hearing.

Duplication of the materials should be completed by noon on Tuesday, (Nov. 13) and those interested in studying them prior to the hearing can obtain copies in Adm. 413 from 1 pm to 5 pm that day, and between 8 am and 5 pm on both Wednesday and Thursday (Nov. 14-15). Howard West (Associate Executive Vice President), chairman of the Task Force on the Role of Intercollegiate Athletics, announced plans for the hearing early last week.

Persons in the local area who are interested either in expressing their thoughts on the university's athletic program or in listening to the proceedings are invited to attend. The hearing will begin at 7 pm in University Union 220.

with the Roger Wagner Chorale, including a 1974 tour of the Soviet Union, and a 1979 summer tour of South America.

Dearing's wife Kristi (Music, part-time) also a graduate of Wisconsin, will be one of the featured soloists for the Nov. 18 concert. She is a mezzo-soprano. This November performance is something new for the Cal Poly glee clubs, since only two on-campus concerts have been presented annually over the past many years.

"I wanted to increase the choruses' performance schedule to give our students opportunity to do more singing," said Dearing. "This year, we are adding a pre-Christmas performance, but next year, we will expand to a five-concert subscription series.

"That way we can present a combined program in November; a concert of works for women's voices and chamber orchestra in January; a Sweetheart's Concert on Valentine's Day with the Polyphonics, our swing choir; music for men's chorus and wind ensemble in March; and the year-ending Home Concert with the combined glee clubs," Dearing added. The campus concert is being presented by the Music Department.

"Our Town" opening

The young woman fumbled, trying to find the right words to describe her feelings about "Our Town." Then Patz Bryant smiled as she thought of her answer. "Well, how do you describe a beautiful sunset to someone?" she asked. "You can't. You grab them and take them outside to show them."

Miss Bryant was taking a break from rehearsing for the production of Thornton's Wilder's drama, which will be performed Thursday, Friday and Saturday, (Nov. 15-17) in the Cal Poly Theatre. "Like that spectacular sunset, it's too beautiful to miss," said Miss Bryant, a Cal Poly business administration major.

Curtain time is 8 pm and the doors open at 7:30 pm. Tickets, on a reserved seating basis, are $2 and are available from the University Union ticket office. Tickets will also be available at the door before the performance.

Arts and Humanities series continues

A man who believes the "American Dream" has been based on the provision of the necessities of life to immigrants will be the speaker for the next program of the 1979-80 Arts and Humanities series. Raghaven Iyer's lecture on "The Unfinished American Dream" will begin at 11 am on Thursday (Nov. 15) in University Union 220. The public is invited to attend the free program.

Dr. Iyer is the author of a new book, "Parapolitics: Toward the City of Man," in which he expresses the idea that "the unfinished American Dream has been historically founded upon the generous and equitable provisions of goods and services to vast numbers of disinherited immigrants from the world's proletariat."

His talk at Cal Poly is expected to focus on the proposal for a guaranteed annual income made by Edward

Bellamy in 1888. Bellamy, a utopian socialist author and newspaper editor, was concerned with the implications of a society that would "divorce basic income from work, and involuntary work from survival."

In spite of the utopian nature of the proposal, Dr. Iyer will discuss its realistic potential in light of the vital problems raised by the three previous speakers in the series: the need for social focus on the common good, the problems and drudgery of working, and the awesome implications of the cybernetic revolution. Dialogue on the issues he raises will continue later in the day on Nov. 15 with a free public presentation at 7:30 pm at the Discovery Motor Inn. Theme of the series during 1979-80 is "Work, Play, and Worship." Dr. Iyer's presentations will conclude the fall programs which have focused attention on the idea of "Work."

Soviet dissident will speak

The quest for human rights in the Soviet Union will be discussed by exiled Soviet dissident Alexander Ginzburg on Monday (Dec. 3). Ginzburg, who spent a total of nine years in Soviet labor camps for alleged offenses against the state, captured the attention of the international media last April after being released from prison, stripped of his citizenship, and exiled to the West.

His talk is scheduled for Chumash Auditorium at 8 pm. The public is invited to attend, with advance tickets priced at $3 for the public and $2 for students, and at the door for $3.50 for the public and $2.50 for students. Tickets will be available at the University Union ticket office, and at the door the evening of the lecture. His appearance will be sponsored by the ASI Speakers Forum, in cooperation with Congregation Beth David of San Luis Obispo.

Ginzburg was born in Moscow in 1936. He was active in the Soviet human rights movement from its inception. With exiled Nobel Prize laureate Alexander Solzhenitsyn, Ginzburg founded the Russian Social Fund, an organization which aided Soviet prisoners and their families.

Ginzburg was the administrator of the fund, and Solzhenitsyn donated all the royalties from his epic work, "Gulag Archipelago" toward the fund's support. Ginzburg's open opposition to the Soviet government's policies began in the late 1950's, when he edited the first typewritten literary journal, "Syntaxis," which contained poetry by young Moscow and Leningrad writers.

For this act, he was arrested in 1960 and sentenced to two years at forced labor. Upon his release, he was forbidden to resume his journalism studies at Moscow University, and had difficulty finding work. He eventually worked at odd jobs, which included cleaning sewers.

In 1966, Ginzburg was arrested for compiling a book about the celebrated trial of writers Andrei Sinyavsky and Yuli Daniel. Three other dissidents were arrested by the KGB (the Soviet secret police), and tried in an incident that became known as the "trial of the four," and resulted in Ginzburg's second prison term of five years.

After his second release, he was expelled from Moscow, and settled in Tarusa, about 70 miles from the capital. Soon after, he met Solzhenitsyn, and the two founded the Russian Social Fund.

Concert will feature two soloists

Baritone Tim Mussard (Music, part-time) and mezzo-soprano Kristi Jo Dearing (Music, part-time) will be the featured soloists during a concert by the Cal Poly University Singers on Saturday (Dec. 1). The concert will begin at 8:15 pm in the Cal Poly Theatre. Admission will be free and the public is invited to attend.

Mrs. Dearing is a graduate of University of Wisconsin who has appeared in the past six months as soloist with the Kansas City Philharmonic Orchestra and the Roger Wagner Chorale. The wife of James Dearing (Music), the new director of Cal Poly's glee clubs, she has studied extensively with Leonard Bernstein, George Loudon, and Phyllis Curtin, and will tour in concert with the Greg Smith Singers this winter.

A graduate of Cal Poly, Mussard is presently director of choirs at Lompoc Senior High School. He is the winner of numerous music competitions and awards and has studied with the renowned Martial Singher and at the Music Academy of the West.

John Russell (Music), conductor of the University Singers, said Mussard will perform works by Franz Schubert, Richard Strauss, and Gian Carlo Menotti, and Mrs. Dearing, a group of anonymous 8th through 13th century Irish texts in settings by Samuel Barber.

Also programmed for the University Singers' Dec. 1 concert, according to Russell, who has been conductor of the 36-voice choir since it was organized in 1969, are compositions by Orlando Gibbons and two contemporary English works by Benjamin Britten and John Gardner. The campus concert is being presented by the university's Music Department.

Three instrumental ensembles will make their first appearances in the Band-O-Rama Concert series when that traditional fall music event gets its 1979 renewal at 8 pm on Friday (Nov. 30) in Chumash Auditorium.

William V. The Brass Band was added to the university's band program after Johnson returned to campus from a sabbatical leave during which he studied the brass band movement in Great Britain.

With "A Wind Instrument Spectacular" as its theme, the concert will also feature the Mustang Marching Band's presentation of music from its pre-game and halftime shows from the 1979 football season.

RESEARCH COMMITTEE MEETING WITH PRESIDENT BAKER. On Monday, October 29, the University Research Committee met with Drs. Jones and Baker to discuss the role of research under the new administration. Because there is a great deal of interest on campus concerning the President's views concerning research, the Research Committee passed a motion at its November 5 meeting to share the minutes of that meeting with the faculty through the deans and department heads.

Copies of the minutes and the President's response to them were sent to deans and department heads on November 8. The members of the Research Committee are interested in receiving comments and reactions from the university community to begin discussions at its next meeting on November 29. University representatives are as follows:

Agriculture & Natural Resources	Del Dingus	2753
Architecture & Environmental Design	Ken Haggard	2573
Business	Alden Shiers	2931
Communicative Arts & Humanities	Ed Cairns	2178
Engineering & Technology	Phil Niles	2643
Human Development & Education	Mildred Roske	2617
Science & Mathematics	Ken Hoffman	2467
Social Sciences	James Coleman	2991
Professional & Consultative Services	Ilene Rockman	2344
Deans	William Langworthy	2226

PROPOSAL WRITING SEMINARS. In an effort to provide more support for faculty and staff intending to write research grants, a second series of seminars on proposal writing will be offered during the week of November 26. The seminars are given by the Coordinator, Research Development, in three one-hour sessions: the first covers getting organized and finding a sponsor; the second deals with the narrative of the proposal itself; and the third involves a critique of an actual proposal.

The series will be given from 10:00 to 11:00 a.m. on Monday, Wednesday and Friday, November 26, 28, and 30, in Agriculture 241, and will be repeated each day from 2:00 to 3:00 p.m. in Agriculture 241.

All interested are welcome to participate--the seminars offer an opportunity to both develop and improve proposal writing skills.

- * AWU - JET PROPULSION LABORATORY. The Jet Propulsion Laboratory (JPL) of the California Institute of Technology has joined the Associated Western Universities. Although JPL has been known for its unmanned lunar and planetary explorations, energy-related research has grown rapidly in recent years. Major efforts include studies in dispersed solar energy conversion systems involving photo-voltaics, solar-thermal technology, and the many aspects of applications and utility system interactions; coal mining, processing, and conversion; and the development of electric and hybrid vehicle systems. A list of selected current projects is available in the Research Development Office for review.

-  NATIONAL INSTITUTE OF EDUCATION - 1980 UNSOLICITED PROPOSALS. Approximately $1 million will be available for the first round of funding, with an estimated 20 awards to be made. NIE is particularly interested in having a broad range of academic disciplines represented in research proposals dealing with the improvement of educational equity and practice, especially for women and minorities. High priority will be given to proposals with national or regional significance and which are easily generalizable. Programs seeking operational and service funds will not be accepted, and curriculum development projects will generally receive very low priority. Equal selection weight will be given to the quality of a proposal's design, methods and instrumentation, and the likelihood of its success.

-  NATIONAL SCIENCE FOUNDATION - INTERNATIONAL TRAVEL GRANTS. The program provides funding to enable U.S. scientists to participate in international scientific meetings held abroad for the purpose of obtaining and exchanging science information and professional development. Both individual and group travel awards are provided. For further information, contact: Mildred M. Bosilevac, Assistant Program Director, International Travel Grant Program, Division of International Programs, National Science Foundation, Washington, D.C., 20550, Telephone: (202) 632-5741.
- * NATIONAL SCIENCE FOUNDATION - MATHEMATICAL SCIENCES POSTDOCTORAL RESEARCH FELLOWSHIPS. The NSF plans to award 30 postdoctoral fellowships to faculty in pure mathematics, applied mathematics, and statistics who have held the doctorate for no more than four years by February 1, 1980. The one-to two-year awards will be made for scientific research at an appropriate nonprofit U.S. institution. DEADLINE: 1/11/80.
- * NATIONAL SCIENCE FOUNDATION - RESEARCH IN SCIENCE EDUCATION. Preliminary proposals may be submitted at any time to NSF for its Research in Science Education (RISE) program. The program seeks to assist in creating and organizing a body of fundamental knowledge that can be used to improve the quality and effectiveness of science education for a wide spectrum of consumers. The focus of RISE for this year is in five areas of current concern: (1) science education for the early adolescent, (2) science for women, minorities, and the physically handicapped, (3) technology in science education, (4) science literacy, and (5) cognitive processes and the structure of knowledge. Strong arguments are required for support in excess of $200,000 or 36 months.
- * U.S. DEPARTMENT OF TRANSPORTATION - FACULTY FELLOWS IN TRANSPORTATION SYSTEMS RESEARCH. The U.S. Department of Transportation through the Transportation Systems Center in Cambridge, Massachusetts, offers faculty members an opportunity to work on multi-disciplinary research programs in the transportation field. Typically, a faculty member will spend a full year at the Center, although summer appointments are also possible. Tenure of the fellowship may begin at any time; several months are required to process applications. Rate of pay is comparable with present earnings.
- NATIONAL INSTITUTE OF EDUCATION - RESEARCH GRANTS PROGRAM ON KNOWLEDGE USE AND SCHOOL IMPROVEMENT. Regulations are to be drafted that provide for a research grants program on knowledge use and school improvement. The proposed program will expand previous work in dissemination and education in light of the Institute's recent reorganization. The proposed regulations will define a research program that will produce systematic information about school improvement processes and the roles of knowledge and dissemination in them, and lead to improved educational practice through use of the knowledge gained in enhancing the ability of federal, state and local education officials to formulate and implement appropriate new programs in effective ways.
