Cal Poly Hawai'i Club to Offer Summer Hula Classes

SAN LUIS OBISPO – The Cal Poly Hawai'i Club is sponsoring hula classes June 30 through Aug. 25.

Beginning hula classes will be held Tuesday evenings from 5:15 - 6:15 p.m. in the Architecture Building (Bldg. 5), Room 225. Dance experience is not required.

Intermediate hula classes will be held immediately following, from 6:15 to 7:15 p.m. Knowledge of hula basics is required in these classes.

All classes are open to the public.

“All you need is the desire to have fun while learning about Hawaiian culture, history and the movement of hula,” said Sylvia Hambly, class instructor with more than 10 years experience teaching hula.

The cost is $72 for all students, faculty, staff and community members. A $10-per-class drop-in rate is available. Participants can register at the class and should wear comfortable clothing. Parking permits are not required after 5 p.m. during the summer quarter.
