

Guitar as wisdom

by Randall Wood

These words are weak—the time that was enjoyed is over—Sunday is forever.

Nookie Boone, a local group of folk singers, came on stage first in Sunday night's concert with a refreshing style and renditions of "Cabbage Head", "For What It's Worth" and some of their own work. "For What It's Worth" stood out as a creative expression of group style.

The trio of Charlie Byrd, guitar; his brother Joe Byrd, bass; and Bill Reichenback, percussion; appeared with "I Want To Be Free" as their opening number.

The colorful Joe Byrd, dressed in black, came from his ominous appearance to dazzle us with deep melodies in songs as "Let Go", "Guitar Blues", and in an unidentified traditional jazz thing (a traditional jazz thing being the leaving of the stage by the guitar and bass and then their return).

Drums—percussion—these are inadequate words to describe the pulse of Bill Reichenback's rhythm. Amazing the audience with his part in the "Battle Hymn of the Republic" showed what jazz can do to tradition.

Charlie Byrd—bald—greying mutton chops covering his ears, showed talent that was widely appreciated. He presented his music with such communicative power that one was assured that it will remain forever.

The trio played the first half with the outstanding selections being "The Overture to Tommy", "Guitar Blues" and "Mr. Bo Jangles". The intermission was brought on with a standing ovation.

Showing his versatility, Byrd began the second half with three classical songs. His vivid portrayal of a Chilean song made one aware of his great range of talent.

Bill and Joe came back to play the theme from "Love Story," a cut from the "Jesus Christ Superstar" album, and "Empty Bed Blues". "Empty Bed Blues" had Byrd's voice as part of its communicative force. This song ended the normal proceedings only to have the audience demand an encore.

After the performance Byrd entertained questions from the press. Here he explained that the quintet he had planned to perform with was not available. He explained that the format, the songs, and the words in between, are all arranged on stage to the audience's response. When asked if he thought music is better today than the tunes of old he responded that "music does not improve." Good music lasts as long as there is talent to perform it.

Charlie Byrd is a great musician and projects himself as being a very wise man. After the interview I asked if he could define wisdom through music. He replied that whatever wisdom he had came from his pursuit—his diligence at what he had learned.

The Charlie Byrd Trio performed in the Men's Gym last Sunday night. The group's excellent performance was followed by an encore.

Youth work counts later

That's the way Steven San Jule remembers looking for teacher employment in California last year. He sent out 35 letters of inquiry to school districts ranging from Santa Barbara to Redding, California. The answers to all were the same: "Sorry, we have no openings in your field of speciality."

Now a social science teacher and coach of the JV basketball team at Morro Bay High School, San Jule did not seek employment outside of California. Salaries are too low there. He had two interviews prior to landing a position with the San Luis Coastal Unified School District. San Jule figures his advantage was that he had a lot of personal contacts with youth work in San Luis Obispo.

In his student teaching experience San Jule racked up an impressive win-loss record as basketball coach at Laguna Jr. High School. He also substituted at Morro Bay High School during May and June of last year under a partial fulfillment credential.

Obviously it helped to "get known."

San Jule advises teacher candidates to get experience in the industrial arts area because that's where the big need is right now.

Jeraldine Whipple graduated as a teaching candidate from this college last year. She was interviewed by only two local school districts and would not consider leaving the area because her husband was located here. After three separate interviews with the San Luis Coastal Unified School District, she obtained a job as elementary teacher at the C.L. Smith school in San Luis Obispo.

If she had not secured a full-time teaching position, Mrs. Whipple may have substituted.

She was not interested in any other employment. She felt her biggest advantage in trying to get a job was that she had experience with children. Her advice to future teacher candidates is to get as much student teaching experience as possible.

Steven San Jule talks basketball with the JV team he coaches at Morro Bay High School. He landed a position there as a social science teacher and coach after sending out 35 letters of inquiry to other school districts in California. His advantage here: personal contacts with San Luis Obispo youth.

Chemistry prof published

The personal and professional role of one man of science in 20th century technology is chronicled in a new book by a chemistry professor at this campus.

A STORY FROM MICHIGAN, written by Dr. Arthur L. Thomas, is about his baptismal godfather and lifetime friend, Dr. Clarke F. Davis; teacher, lecturer, chemist, researcher, legislator and industrialist.

"I felt leaders in other fields such as sports were being well-publicized while important figures in chemistry and the sciences seldom received the same kind of historical notation," said Thomas. Drawing on his personal experiences with Davis and additional research, he completed the book after two years.

The book is a biography-history. It tells of the many personal accomplishments of the man of science from Michigan plus intimate glimpses of his country boyhood.

"Clarke E. Davis is a self-made man," wrote a roommate of his. "He was one of the most terrific workers I have ever known. He was fortunately endowed with brains and a photographic mind—only perfection was satisfactory to him."

Davis, now 83 and living in Vermontville, Michigan, is often acclaimed for his achievements in statesmanship as well as education.

H. Whitaker

Dr. Arthur L. Thomas, author of A Story From Michigan.

The author came here in 1969 from a post as senior scientist with a chemical research firm in Newport Beach. Before that he served as research supervisor and chemical engineer with firms in New Jersey and West Virginia.

Thomas graduated with honors in chemistry in 1961 from Columbia and earned his doctorate in chemical engineering at Princeton University in 1966.

He has co-authored a science book called Phthalocya-sine Compounds, on chemical pigments, along with several journal articles, and is a member of the American Association for the Advancement of Science, the American Chemical Society, and the American Institute of Chemists. He is also listed in the 1970-71 edition of Who's Who in the West.

In an effort to alleviate dilemmas faced by students who get entangled with minor legal processes and have neither the legal understanding nor means to cope with such problems themselves, a group of students on campus is trying to determine the feasibility of a legal aid center on campus.

The group, members of experimental class Humanities 360-X, are also trying to determine student reaction to such a proposal. Today and tomorrow they will be handing out questionnaires in front of the library and in the cafeteria, gauging student reaction.

"What we are attempting to do," said Sami Madden, a member of the class, "is to help out students with minor grievances like housing contracts, parking tickets, or getting stuck with unwanted magazine subscriptions."

Madden also said that there will be a meeting Thursday, Feb. 18 in room 202 in the Science North building. The meeting will start at 3 p.m. and guest speakers are planned.

Other areas which the legal aid center might cover, Madden said, would be difficulties in getting back cleaning deposits, how to handle traffic accidents and communicating to students the true meaning of fine print legal lingo on contracts.

Students interested in working on the formation of the legal aid center are urged to attend the Thursday meeting or to call Madden at 844-6582.

2) You must have lived in California 90 days.

3) You must have lived in S.L.O. County 90 days.

(Most students over 21 satisfy these requirements) This election is an open forum for many issues such as housing, transportation and ecology. Express your feelings, register and then vote on April 20.

Skiing planned

The Ski Club is going to Mammoth on Feb. 19-21. Tonight is the last chance to sign-up for this trip at a general meeting at 7:30 in the Engineering Auditorium.

The agenda also includes election news, Poly Royal information, and a ski movie.

After many years and numerous requests, the Ski Club will be going to Mammoth. The cost is $25 for room, board, and transportation. Sign-ups are limited to 80 people, and the trip will be filled on a first-come basis. All those going on the trip must ride one of the chartered buses. Ski lessons will be offered again and a tentative race is being planned. Be sure to be at the meeting tonight to sign up for this mid-season ski trip.

Also at the meeting tonight a committee will be formed to plan and organize the club elections to be held in March. A committee will be organized to investigate the possibilities of having a money-making booth during Poly Royal. In addition, a Warren Miller movie, "Spring Into Skiing," will be shown.

Albee play this week

Tickets are still available for performances of the Edward Albee play "Who's Afraid of Virginia Woolf" scheduled for Wednesday through Saturday, Feb. 17-20, in the college Theater.

Cast in the roles of George and Martha Middleton, Nick, and Honey, are Bruce Wilkinson, Barbara Harris, George Dellaganna, and Debbi Ware, four student actors who have starred in previous campus productions.

Direction of the play is the senior project effort of Edwin Pinson, speech major.

Martha Auker, crowned ROTC Queen Saturday night, will reign over the remainder of the year's activities. A sophomore home economics major from Sunnyvale, she was escorted by Douglas Hidek.

Bus: end to parking headaches?

Would a bus system do this campus any good if no one used it?

In an effort to answer this question, a group of students interested in a bus system conducted survey in History 304 and 305 classes.

The survey asked students the general area in which they lived, and how many times a day they made a trip to or from campus. Another question covered how students traveled: by car, motorcycle, bike or on foot. Finally, they were asked if they would use a bus system if it existed, or if the campus would have to be closed to cars before they would consider using it.

The results of the survey now are available: 3,400 students would use a bus system if one existed, and 4,300 would ride the bus if the campus were closed to cars. This means 3,300 students would switch from cars to the bus, 160 from cars to walking, 250 to bicycles, 50 to motorcycles, and 210 would seek off campus parking.

An estimated 2,700 students now walk to school; of these, 600 would take the bus if there was one. Of these 600 bicycle riders about 160 would change to "bussing it," and probably many more during rainy weather.

The 8 a.m. parking headache could be only a dim memory if a bus system based on student population density goes into operation. A survey conducted on this campus shows that most students would favor such a system, and would drop other modes of transportation if shown the benefits to pocketbook and ecology.

BASEBALL KICKOFF

Power on the diamond

by Paul Simon
Sports Editor

An explosive offensive attack dominated the opening games of the 1971 Mustang baseball season last weekend. Augie Garrido's nine swept a three game series from San Francisco State College by scores of 10-2, 8-2, and 1-0.

By winning three now the Mustangs are far ahead of their pace of last year when their third triumph was attained the first week of March against Fresno State College.

First baseman Gary Knuckles started the attack Friday afternoon with a single in the first inning. Shortstop Rick Pence reached first on an error, Dave Oliver singled and Steve Freeborn walked. Two walks and a Robin Baggett safety later the Mustangs were ahead 3-0.

Centerfielder Freeborn and leftfielder Howard Casey added a pair of runs in the third and Casey and Lathan Marsh each scored in the fifth. Three runs in the sixth brought the Mustang total to 10, while the Gators did not score until the ninth. Kent Agler, Hary Landrith and Larry Sylva combined pitching duties and held the San Franciscans to five hits and a pair of runs. Marsh smacked three hits in the game and Baggett, Knuckles and Oliver added two hits apiece.

Knuckles, Pence and Oliver scored three runs in the first inning of the initial game of the doubleheader Saturday and the Mustangs raced ahead 3-1. Dave Snow's homer in the fifth made it 5-2, and a round-tripper by Marsh in the seventh brought the final Mustang runs in the 8-2 victory. Marsh also tripled and scored in the sixth.

Freeborn swatted three hits in the contest and Marsh belted -the homer and triple. Alan Noble, Charlie Wilbur and freshman Mike Krukow shared hurling duties.

The Gators put up a battle in the nightcap before falling 1-0. The sole Mustang run was a result of a single, walk and force play in the fourth and was tallied by Freeborn.

Casey had two of six

Mustang hits. Senior Bill Hall and Les Ohrn threw a one-hitter at the Gators. The only threat mounted by the opposition was a bases loaded-one out situation in the second, but Hall escaped without allowing a run.

Safe at first is Gary Knuckles on a close play during the second game of a series last weekend. Knuckles had three hits over the three games against San Francisco State College in which the Mustangs won everything.

Hard-hitting Steve Freeborn slides into third ahead of a relay throw Saturday. Freeborn, who had singled, took second and third on errors and rode in on Lathan Marsh' triple.

Three Mustang spikers hot in weekend meets

In track action last weekend three Mustang hopefuls gave an impressive preview of what lies ahead for anyone challenging this college's National Championship.

Olympian Reynaldo Brown won the high jump Saturday night in the Athens Invitational Track Meet in Oakland with a leap of 7 feet. The night before in the Los Angeles Times Meet held in the Forum, Brown jumped 7'1 1/2" but was awarded second on misses.

Mohinder Singh Gill, defending

National College Division Champion in the triple jump, took second place at both meets with his best jump being 52'9 1/4".

Mustang sprinter Bobby Turner turned in his best mark for the season in the 60 yard dash with a time of 6.1 seconds running in the finals in Los Angeles.
