Abolish Finance Move

Heads fairly snapped to attention in the special SAC meeting during the conference when Chuck Cummings, IDC representative, moved that the Finance Committee be abolished.

Speaking in defeat of his own motion, however, Cummings explained that SAC is not delegating enough authority to the Finance Committee. The motion was defeated.

The motion did serve to point out that there is not enough faith placed in the various committees by SAC. Many of these committees are not delegated power of positive action but are merely groups being used to relay information to SAC. Finance, Awards, and Rally committees as well as the five boards, are faced with this problem.

With this motion in mind, the discussion group on student body finances attempted to suggest methods whereby the finance committee could be made more effective. Conducted by Art Van Deventer, chairman of the committee, the discussion first brought out the functions of the committee and duties of its members.

Predicted Enrollment

An eventual enrollment of 10,000, expansion of the current curricula, rapid development of the present physical facilities of the campus, and auxiliary functions of the Cal Poly Foundation were outlined in a panel discussion which opened Saturday morning activities.

A "guesstimation" of the total enrollment of the San Luis Obispo campus shows that 6,000 full time equivalent students will be attending Cal Poly by 1966, with the enrollment reaching 4,000 at the Kellogg-Voorhis campus, related Dr. Douglas Miller, campus public relations director. The total here next fall will be approximately 4,800.

The increase will demand the addition of new majors, and plans are tentative for business administration, food processing, and industrial arts majors to be added here as the facilities become available.

New Campus Facilities

The $23 million of physical facilities that are being planned to accommodate a great influx of students was outlined by Dean Harold Wilson. The current program will result in 26 buildings for this campus and 26 for Kellogg-Voorhis.

Such features as a bowling alley, barber shop, and baby sitting room in the proposed College Union building were listed among the interests of the Cal Poly Foundation by Manager Gene Brendlin. In the Foundation's aid to instruction program, the establishment of a farm which would be entirely operated and managed by agricultural majors is in the offing.

New dormitories, which will eventually house 2,200 to 2,400 of the total enrollment, will be under the direction of the Foundation. In the area of student and faculty services, the further expansion of college bookstores and fountain facilities, which are now under the direction of the store advisory board, will be sought.

Brendlin also injected the thought that in the 1980's in a speech by President McPhee it was predicted that the ceiling enrollment at Poly would eventually reach a total of 400 students.

Administration Hush

Lack of communications between administration officials and students' affairs, was stressed as one of the most important problems fueling the students today.

It was brought out that this lack was most evidenced during last week's suspension episode in which students were kept in the dark as to what actually happened during the hearings.

Several students suggested that it was not the sentences the students involved received, but rather the decided absence of any confidence in the students who were not involved.

It was further pointed out that because of the hushed effect placed over the matter by the administration, rumors circulated, doing a great deal of damage to student prestige. It was generally felt by two separate discussion groups that a few concrete facts would have eliminated many of the rumors, as well as lessening some of the dissention which has been building between students and administration.

Several suggestions evolving from the discussions included the need of oral communication between the two factions, a student court, student representation during student hearings and dinner meetings which would allow students and administration to discuss problems and ask pointed questions of each other.

Conference Quips

Dean Harold Wilson said the new master building program includes plans which will place the home economics and math departments in the same building. Sounds like a neat way of putting figures together.

Wilson also left a wide open field for suggestions when he told the conference that anyone having ideas on how the new women's and men's dorms should be placed on campus should let him know. This writer can picture all the new dorms, both men's and women's, placed in a structure several stories high.

Gene Brendlin, foundation manager, pointed out that the new dorm rooms would have seven foot beds. These should not only handle the basketball squad, but could likely double as a practice court for the players.

Brendlin's talk: "I asked Dr. Lovett what would be good for this cold of mine," said Brendlin, but I don't keep that kind of stuff around the house."

The one person at the conference who should have kept warm seemed to have the most trouble. Pat Powers AC major decided he would rough it with an electric blanket. Worked out fine until his cabinmates began taking turns to keep the plug pulled.

Julie Smith introduced himself at the special SAC meeting during the conference as representative from Inter-departmental council, a completely non-functioning group.

Darrell Gordon, College Union chairman, said President McPhee has been able to sit on the $300,000 CU treasury long enough that other groups could not latch onto the funds for other purposes. This is about the nicest cushion a person could sit on, unless it would be a million dollar CU building.

Showdown Nears On Prop. Three

Forces will come to a showdown Tuesday on a large part of Cal Poly's future—forces which find "Yes" on one side and only "ignorance" on the other.

Proposition three, the springboard to accommodate many more thousands at Poly, will appear on Tuesday's ballot. Favorable vote will assure Poly of receiving some $23 million for building funds.

In reality, proposition three is a $200 million bond issue authorization. Points in favor of its passage include the tremendous increase in population anticipated for schools, hospitals, and correctional institutions by 1965.

Forecasts for increases include state colleges, 130 per cent; University of California, 60 per cent; mental hospitals, 80 per cent; adult correctional institutions, 27 per cent; youth correctional institutions, 70 per cent.

Holiday

November 12 is an academic holiday because Veterans Day falls on Sunday Nov. 11, says Leo Philbin, registrar.

Chandler Replies On Suspension Act

Dean of students Everett M. Chandler replied to the attack by students on the way last week's suspension episode was handled in a special statement to El Mustang this week.

"We of the administration readily admit that things could have gone smoother than they did in this situation," said Chandler, "and we are ready and willing to work something out with the students which will better communications between students and administration."

There is a place in certain hearings where a panel of students would be advisable, added Chandler. Cases involving police investigation would sometimes eliminate the advisability of such a group, however, he pointed out. "I am going to suggest to ASB President Ed Slevin that a committee be set up to work out the details of such a panel," he continued. "I am anxious to see any solution possible worked out to better relations among all campus groups."

Schedule of Torchlight Rally

7:00 p.m.—Talent show in Gym
8:00 p.m.—Captain lights first torch behind stadium
8:05 p.m.—Parade leaves campus on California
8:10 p.m.—Foothill and Hwy 1
8:20-8:30 p.m.—Dance torches at Monterey and Santa Rosa
8:30-8:40 p.m.—Marching to court-house steps
8:40-8:55 p.m.—Rally on steps

Hayride Tonight

The College Union Outings Committee will have hay wagon at the County Court House tonight to return students to the campus and take them on the marshmallow roast and outdoor dance. The number of students per wagon will be set by the college and enforced by members of the Outings Committee and Rally Committee. Please cooperate as we do not want any accidents, says Ben Platon, Outings Committee chairman.

Campus Dairymen In Grand National

BULLETIN

The Cal Poly Dairy Products Team has placed second in milk division judging at the 22nd Collegiate Students' International Contest in Judging Dairy Products in Atlantic City. Don W. Gibson placed second in individual competition in both all-products and milk division.

Two dairy animals from the Cal Poly herd are being exhibited at the Grand National Livestock Exposition in San Francisco, which opens today for a nine-day run.

A Holstein bull and cow will be sold in the Grand National Holstein-Friesian sale Thursday.

The bull, Polytechnic Rose Leader, has been a student project with the proceeds from the sale to go to the Dairy Judging Team fund for next year. The care and feeding of the bull has been done by members of Los Lecheros department club.

Owned by the Foundation, the cow will be shown in the class for three year olds and then will be auctioned to the highest bidder at the sale.

Car Caravan

There will be a car caravan to Fresno for the Cal Poly Fresno State game, according to the Rally Committee. The cars will meet at Stan's Drive-In at 7:00 p.m. where free decorations for your cars will be distributed. The caravan will go down the main street of Fresno and then to the stadium. "The victory bell will be in the lead with a P.A. system announcing our arrival," officials announced. There will be no signal lights or cross streets to worry about. We will arrive at the game in mass form and let Fresno know that Cal Poly is there by joining the car caravan."

We Came, We Saw...

SPIRIT SPARKER . . . ASB Proxy Ed Slevin (right) points to the guy whom Poly hopes will be carrying this sign around his neck come the dawn following the Fresno State-Cal Poly game Nov. 10. Intended "victim" is Bruce Fankrat, student body president at Fresno. In addition to the sign chore, the loser must wear a leash around his neck and carry the winner's books on Tuesday following the game (Matis photo).

Student Reports Attack By Polio

Another case of polio, the second since the beginning of school, has been reported.

James C. Stewart, social science major, reported that he has been stricken with a light attack, and is under the care of Dr. Anthony J. Kesse, San Luis Obispo Medical Center.

"Although it is not a serious case," said Stewart, "I will be out of school for the remainder of the quarter. My right leg is partially paralyzed and I will have to lie flat on my back for approximately three weeks." Stewart said he would probably be home during his recovery.

While attending Cal Poly, he was treasurer of the social sciences club. Stewart lives at 174 Del Sur Way in San Luis Obispo. He is the father of two children. His wife is a teacher at Atascadero elementary school.

If taken at once, students may still complete the series of polio shots, offered by the Cal Poly Health Center, before the end of the year. It is advised by Health Center officials that students take advantage of this last opportunity for the complete series of shots. A fee of one dollar is charged.

Hambly 'Polynino' Still Unconscious; Funds Needed

The condition of little Merle Hambly, five-year-old son of Mr. and Mrs. Frank Hambly, remains

El Mustang's statement that donation tickets for the Merle Hambly fund will cost 25 cents each was incorrect. A ticket will be given with the donation, regardless of the amount.

the same. From last reports, the little guy is still unconscious.

While expenses are mounting high at St. Luke's Hospital in Pasadena, campus clubs as well as service clubs downtown are contributing to Merle's fund wholeheartedly. The last figures showed that $471 had been collected as of 4 o'clock Tuesday afternoon. The ten-cent sum of coffee at El Corral has been discontinued. Figures for funds collected from this source amounted to $185.15; other fund collections are still mounting.

Donations can still be sent to the "Merle Hambly Fund," students' wives, c/o Cal Poly Post Office. Other donations can be taken care of through Evelyn Knowles, President of Students' Wives, LI 3-1747, or Margaret Crow, LI 3-5946.

'Religion In Life' Schedule

Letters To The Editor

Touche'

Dear Editor:

After reading last week's paper I decided to write you a letter and let some of the students that I represent know why I'm on SAC and why I have acted as I have in recent meetings.

First of all, I'm not against athletics nor am I being selfish for myself in this instance but for the people I represent.

When I see someone like this Gomez handle over $51,000 through his board out of a $116,450 budget, I'm going to make sure he has an upstanding character and has the right principles in mind if I can!

I want it understood that I am not dealing in personalities, but I AM DEALING IN PRINCIPLES. If at anytime anyone hears of, and can prove any reoccurrence of "vote selling," then this action should be repeated until student government at Cal Poly is placed on a high, unquestionable level—and kept there!

This very argument reverts back to "inadequate" constitutional representation—the victim of bloody battles for years! It has always been my opinion that we have to adhere to the constitution we have until a better, more practical system is adopted.

If "vote selling" is a part of this program, then let me know now and this representative's chair will be vacated as of now.

I sincerely appeal to you men of Cal Poly that we don't treat this as another prankish stunt, but as a serious situation that has in the past existed and will continue to do so unless we start stepping on toes—and HARD!

Nothing in student government has irritated me more than this underhanded statement. You men know my decision, now it's up to you! Are you willing to tolerate this rot and still live with your consciences?

ICC Representative to SAC
Garth Conlan

Parry

Dear Editor:

I was very surprised to read of the obvious misunderstanding which occurred between some of the members of SAC. I feel that this is more or less a personal feud, and not the opinion of ICC members.

I could not find any club president or advisor from any of the three college divisions who were asked their opinion of the situation before it was brought before SAC by the ICC representative.

The Rodeo Club, for one, definitely appreciates the help that has been given by SAC in the past. We hope that this situation will not effect the good standing of us, or any other ICC member.

Scott Redington
Rodeo Club President

Not Approached

Dear Editor:

This letter is to point out that the action of Garth Conlan in S.A.C., even though he is an Inter Club Council representative, was not the feeling of this organization. This organization was not approached as to its opinion regarding his action.

Ray Kliever, President

Wanted: Men

Dear Editor:

We, the coeds, understand that the general opinion of men on campus is that the coeds are dated-up (or going steadily) weeks head of time.

We would like to let you know that most of us would welcome the opportunity of meeting more of you.

Poly Coeds

Stale Mummy

Dear Editor,

I am happy to see that someone finally brought the news on the west hall (Library) bulletin board up to date. That Egyptian mummy was stale after five months of exposure.

May I make a request? There are those who would like to see the football league standings printed in El Mustang. I like to be on firm ground when I talk and brag about our fine Green Machine.

I have mimed the pony lately. Were they gone when I arrived, or are there other reasons?

Tight Budget Helps Jinx L. B. 49er's

Here's a story of practical economy.

The A.C. dept., operating on a budget that was tight enough to squeeze the beard from Abe Lincoln's classic profile, created a truly representative float for the homecoming parade.

With float chairman A.C. Mosher cracking the whip over two dozen able recruits, the theme "Cool the 49ers" was carried from conception to actual reality.

They practically reduced the Long Beach squad to absolute zero while putting the jinx on them. True, the float didn't resemble the Queen Mary steaming up Higuera street, but it showed what could be done with lots of free cardboard, 180 man-hours, and $24.00, which included coffee and donuts for the whole gang.

Credit for thinking up the timely theme goes to A.C. Dept. Head Norman Sharpe. Said A.C. Club Prezzy Dick Moorehead, "keeping the theme simple and down to earth certainly made the work much easier for all of us."

High Notes

By Marcia Will

Enthusiastic preparations are being made by Marching Band members for their coming jaunt to Fresno. Complete with spirited routines and colorful majorettes, the band will urge the Mustangs to victory as we invade Fresno territory.

Making their first appearance of the year, the Men's Glee Club will be a featured part of the "College Hour" during "Religion In Life Week." Under the direction of Harold P. (Davey) Davidson, the men are hard at work on such numbers as the school-alma mater; "Sit Down Servant," a spiritual; and a Latin religious number, "Ave Maria Stella."

Television stars in our midst? According to correspondence received by Bob Bostrom, graduate manager, arrangements are being made with the Los Angeles Chamber of Commerce allowing our Men's Glee Club to appear on the Southland television screens during Spring tour. Quite an honor for our "Ambassadors of good will."

A December debut of the Women's Glee Club will be enjoyed by local Rotarians. Numbers included in the women's repertoire are "Madam Jeanette," "Jesus Walked This Lonesome Valley," "Poor Man Lazarus," and "He Holds the Whole World In His Hands."

An "honest to goodness" "Poly Rat" recently visited a practice. Needless to say it caused considerable commotion among the coeds it was of the four legged variety.

Elected officers of the historical "first" in Women's voices are Marcia Will, president; Jean Boyesen, vice-president; Jean Thomas and Patti Patchett, co-managers; Dorothy Read, librarian; Bobbi Matuchek, representative to Music Board and Linda Lewis, representative to the Arts and Science Council.

Big plans are being made for November 29, night of the "Get Acquainted" music department Banquet.

Misrepresentation On SAC Gets More Light From Guest

By Alton Pryor
El Mustang Editor

Wildfire blazed through the Student Affairs Council meeting this week, in the form of a visiting aero engineering major by the name of George Blackshaw.

Blackshaw shed more light than a beacon on the improper representation on SAC. His first scorcher followed the Council's discussion on a bi-weekly newspaper on campus. "Has this been brought before the groups you are representing?" he fired at council members. "I know it hasn't been brought up in any Junior class meeting. Just who wants this paper? Is it SAC or is this the wishes of the students you represent?"

While most of the members agree there is an inadequate representation on SAC, Clinton McElheny, ICC representative, defended SAC's position by saying he personally had canvassed several students on the matter. McElheny pointed out that it was difficult to report back to an inactive group which a large portion of SAC members represent.

Asserts Disapproval

Chuck Cummings, IDC representative, firmly asserted his disapproval of the type of body he represented, but explained that it was not a fault of SAC members, who were doing their utmost to conduct ASB affairs properly, but of the constitution under which the group was working.

A committee is investigating several possibilities of a bi-weekly paper on campus. Their report is due at a later meeting.

Blackshaw's second surprise came in the form of a written statement which he read to SAC. "I would like to know what justification that the SAC found in donating $225 and a full page ad in the homecoming schedule to a yes vote on Proposition 3," he began.

Voting Yes

"I am voting yes on this proposition," he said, "because I think that our coming generation should have the same opportunity to a college education as I have had here at Cal Poly."

Blackshaw continued, "But this does not alter the fact that this proposition is an initiative on the state ballot of California, with a square opposite it for a yes and a no vote. This one fact makes this proposition a controversial political question which in my mind should not be monetarily contributed to by the ASB of Cal Poly without a proper amount of harmony with the majority of ASB members."

"This was not done," he added. "It was moved, seconded and approved on the same night. This is not fair or true representation by any stretch of the imagination. I again ask you for justification as to the principle of this matter."

In an interview with El Mustang following the meeting, attended by three SAC members, Blackshaw strengthened his point. He asked the group if they could assume that since some of the students in school are vets, SAC can also assume the ASB is in favor of the Veteran's bill. "If so," he added, "why not donate $225 to the Veteran's bill the same as to proposition three?"

Other Action

Other action taken by SAC was the approval of Skip Parker, AH major, as ICC representative. Hady Lee mentioned that as yet the Arts and Sciences division had no direct representation on SAC.

Two recommendations were made by the committee investigating "vote selling" charges of last week.

1. That the SAC chairman be reminded of the grave responsibility that is entrusted to him and that he be more careful about discussing issues of the SAC in a way that may lead to a misunderstanding among members.
2. That all members of the SAC seriously consider the responsibility that is entrusted to them and that their expressions of opinions are accepted by all students as matters of fact. Carelessness in discussing SAC business may lead to misunderstanding which may be detrimental to the individuals concerned, the SAC and associated students.

Much Haggling

Following a vote of confidence by SAC to the Finance committee, much haggling over a Finance recommendation to transfer $100 of the basketball guarantee item to an equipment item in the budget, resulted in making the issue a major item of business next week. Finance Chairman Art Van De Venter informed the group that the finance committee had covered the transfer almost identically to the way SAC had discussed the matter. Other items included increasing the Rally Committee budget $65 for travel to Fresno and an increase of $100 on the Rose Parade float due to increased expenses.

Pay Scale

The State Personnel Board has changed the minimum wage for student workers from $0.85 per hour to $1.00 per hour for all state colleges, says Donald H. Nelson, Business Manager. The old pay scale was $0.85—$1.00 per hour. The new scale is $1.00—$1.75 per hour.

Vacation Date

Thanksgiving vacation will start at noon Wed., Nov. 21. A calendar has been circulated that erroneously shows Thanksgiving to be Nov. 29 instead of Nov. 22 as it actually is, reminds Leo Philbin, registrar.

PLACEMENT CALENDAR

Those students who qualify and who are interested in interviews with the following companies, should contact the Placement Office as soon as possible.

Monday, November 5
MERCHANT CALCULATORS, INC., Oakland will interview seniors in ME, EE, EIE. They will also talk with junior students in the same majors for Summer Employment.

Tuesday, November 6
AEROJET-GENERAL CORPORATION, Sacramento, will interview seniors in Engineering, Math, Phys Sci.

Friday, November 9
AIR FORCE FLIGHT TEST CENTER, Edwards Air Force Base, will interview seniors in Aero, EE, ME, Math, Phys Sci.

Also, opportunities in Agriculture are listed in the Placement Office.

Cal Poly's own Perry Jeter is in getting the press raves this week following his Pacific Coast showing against the San Francisco 49ers. Jeter carried 18 times for 108 yards. Seems he is taking up pro ball where he finished in college ball. Perry averaged 5.5 yards a carry during his Poly career and is averaging 5.9 yds a carry for the Chicago Bears to date. He is also tops in punt returns and kickoff returns for the Bears statistic-wise.

Stan Sheriff, Cal Poly's little All-American center, is about to get out of the Army. "Stan the Man" is trying to get hooked-up with the San Francisco 49ers if he can get released by the Pittsburgh Steelers.

Alex Bravo, ex-Poly halfback, another Mustang Grid here is showing up well this year in the Canadian league. You can bet that professional scouts are going to keep a closer tab on Cal Poly's grid products from now on.

Coach Roy Hughes' "Sports Hi-Lites", featured each Saturday morning on KVEC-TV, will feature films on Perry Jeter's football career here at Poly this week. Program time is 10:30.

Frank Machade, bowling for the Poultry Club's Fighting Cocks, set a new high individual game record this week when he rolled a tremendous 275 game. Frank, a new addition to the Cal Poly bowling club, also registered the highest series to date with a 508 effort.

Negotiations between Cal Poly and Brigham Young University for a 1958 and '59 football home-and-home arrangement are now underway, Mustang athletic director Roy Hughes discloses.

In revealing the dealings with the Provo, Utah, school, Hughes said that while the transactions are as not yet final, he has hopes of scheduling the BYU club.

A letter from Eddie Kimball, BYU athletic head stated that the proposed meetings of the two institutions "are under consideration."

Cal Poly's cross-country team lost its first match of the season to the Santa Barbara Gauchos 85-22. Gordon McClenathan was the individual winner in the meet for Cal Poly with a time of 15:18.

Wear Rooter's Caps

Students are urged to wear rooters caps to the Cal Poly-Marine game here tomorrow night, according to Skip Quinn, rally committee card stunt chairman.

"The rooting section looks much sharper when everyone using those seats is wearing rooter's caps," added Skip.

Hats are on sale in El Corral bookstore and will also be on sale at the game, he said.

"Cooperation of students will be appreciated," he commented, "and it will certainly improve the looks of the rooting section and add toward the strengthening of school spirit."

Mixed Volleyball New Poly Pastime

Last Wednesday night found mixed volleyball competition getting underway in the Poly gym. League play will take place every Wednesday evening from six to seven p.m., Chairman Mary Ann Tomasini reports.

Teams composed of four women and four men students comprise the league. As of now, Chairman Tomasini says there are several squads organized, but that the program will facilitate as many teams as desire participation.

Sign-ups are not required; all interested parties should report to the gym this coming Wednesday evening if they are interested in finding a berth on one of the teams, the chairman said.

Mustangs Face Mighty Devildogs

Leaving behind their famous battle cry "Gung Ho", the Marines have landed with a newly adopted one fitted for the occasion, "Revenge." Remembering all to well last years bruising battle, the devildogs of head coach Capt. Joe Polidori are eagerly awaiting tomorrow nights opening kickoff. This will be the third meeting between the two clubs with each holding a victory.

The Marines will field a forward wall with plenty of beef. Not one man of the seven weighs under 200 pounds. The backfield will be somewhat lighter but plenty fast. Complicating matters more will be their powering offensive, the single wing. This will be the first time the mighty Mustang encounters this type of an offense. Strictly a power offense, tomorrow nights ground attack could be hard to stop, since the marines possess the necessary ingredients to run the single wing. These being, a big line and a fast backfield.

Having met only one mutual opponent, it would be hard to forecast the results of the game. Cal Poly fell before San Diego State 7-6, while the Marines held the Astores to a 19-19 tie. However, previous scores mean little when trying to pick a winner, because on any given day any team is capable of defeating another.

Engineers Guard Sounds For Space Message Try

Practically every department of the engineering division will play a part in gathering any on-the-scene scientific data that might possibly develop as radio station KATY waits for outer-space messages next Wednesday.

At the request of an internationally-known interplanetary society headquartered in London, KATY will go silent at 8:15 p.m. and at 10:15 p.m. for three minutes each time. The society has what it believes is evidence that interplanetary messages possibly can be received on earth at that time since, with KATY's consent, the society has been announcing to "the universe" that the station's frequency will be available.

Not Convinced

"While we're by no means convinced there will be any kind of messages," says Maynard Marquardt, one-time major network executive who now owns KATY, "we're willing to give it a serious try. To make it as objective as possible, we've asked the Cal Poly engineers to stand by."

Electronic engineering majors will man an inner and outer ring of signal and direction detectors that among other things can determine whether a message is originating from the earth or from the sky. Mechanical engineers will operate altitude and direction-finding equipment.

Milk Herd Keeps Production Fame

Two more Cal Poly Holsteins have completed official records that bring their lifetime production totals to more than 150,000 lbs. of milk each producing enough milk to have fed 5,000 average families a full week.

Official tests conducted by the Holstein-Friesian Association of America gave such records to: Polytechnic Ormsby Fria 2281154 (VG), 156,963 lbs. of milk and 6,790 lbs of butterfat in 3,197 days; Vernway Madcap Lady 2465766 (VG), 156,352 lbs of milk and 6,047 lbs of butterfat in 3,067 days on official test.

Association officials say the more-than-150,000 mark represents approximately seven and one-half times the lifetime total of the average dairy cow.

CSTA Officers

Officers recently elected to fill posts in the California Student Teachers Association included Victor Buccola, vice-president; Joan Neilson, secretary; Sue Howie, treasurer and Verla Neel, public relations.

Anyone interested in joining CSTA should contact Sue Howie or Russell Gorman.

W. C. Walker will be on campus November 30,

The diversity of activities at Bendix-Pacific... the opportunity of working with recognized authorities in important branches of mechanical and electrical engineering... and this company's liberal plans for advanced education and permanent security offer you unusual advantages. Your salary will match your aptitudes, education and experience.

TELEMETRY Bendix-Pacific pioneered and is the major source of FM/PM systems for missile intelligence.	MISSILE GUIDANCE Both hydraulic and electronic sensing and control systems for missiles, sleds and pilotless aircraft.	AIRBORNE RADAR Specialized radar for aerial navigation, mapping, terrain clearance, toll warning and missile guidance.	SONAR Largest producer of commercial and military underwater sound equipment, including world-famous "Fish Finder."
HYDRAULICS Systems and components for aircraft, missiles, tractors and automobiles. Major source for servo valves.			ELECTRO-MECHANICS Designers and builders of exclusive "Geneva-Loc" Actuators and aircraft light flashers. Recently developed the new "square" high torque motor.
