COLLEGE PRESIDENT CLARIFIES FACULTY EVALUATION PICTURE

President Robert E. Kennedy issued a written statement on Friday (May 19) addressed to the deans of Cal Poly's seven instructional schools for the purpose of eliminating current confusion as to his position on the subject of student evaluation of faculty. The confusion was due to a communications failure, Dr. Kennedy said. He noted that his stand on student evaluations is the same as it has been for the past five years. In June, 1967, he expressed in writing his hope that students, faculty, and administration could cooperatively develop a program of faculty evaluations which would include systematic student input.

Dr. Kennedy said recent interpretations of his desire for a systematic input of students on faculty performance resulted from two misunderstandings. First, he noted that he had not "demanded" a college-wide mandatory program by the end of the Spring Quarter. Secondly, he said he had not endorsed a single-evaluation instrument nor any procedure currently in use in any academic school as the "ideal" for mandatory use on a college-wide basis.

Students of the ASSIST program who met with President Kennedy on April 27 had recommended that a mandatory evaluation of faculty be adopted for the coming year. The results of that meeting had been summarized in a written statement by ASI Representative Hilary Findley and presented to the Academic Council. Dr. Kennedy said he was asked to attend the May 15 meeting of the Academic Council, primarily to verify the accuracy of the statements on which he had been indirectly quoted by Findley. During President Kennedy's short appearance at the Academic Council meeting he stated, "Mr. Findley's statement is accurate as to what I said and the remarks are consistent with the position I have been taking on this matter for the past five years."

ASSIST Recommendation

As a result of the discussion of the ASSIST Committee's current recommendation that a "mandatory evaluation of faculty should be adopted on this campus in the coming year" without having the results used in a publication, the Academic Council passed a motion that would recommend to the president a policy of "mandatory student evaluation of faculty with tabulated results to be included in the personnel file of the individual faculty members effective this Spring Quarter." Chairman Dale Andrews (Academic Vice President) appointed a committee of Messrs. Higdon, Coats, Findley, Voss, and Boche to develop procedures to implement such a policy and present a recommendation to the Academic Council at a regular meeting on May 22. Dr. Andrews made it clear to the council that no action on implementation would take place until a plan recommended by the council was approved by the president.

Reports on this recommendation led to action on the following day (May 16) by the Academic Senate, which a year ago had taken the following position: "... the Academic Senate SLO reaffirm its support of student evaluation of academic instruction and further that the Academic Senate SLO recommend full cooperation of all faculty, departments, and schools with student evaluation which is used in accordance with existing faculty personnel policies, but carried out by students with no interposition of faculty control or supervision of such evaluations."

In the May 16 meeting the Academic Senate's action opposing "the Administration's proposed imposition of a college-wide student evaluation procedure" was prompted, said observers, by the interpretation that President Kennedy had agreed to a single, college-wide, mandatory system of student evaluation of faculty to be implemented prior to the end of the Spring Quarter."

In his memorandum to the deans, President Kennedy said, "It makes no difference now how that erroneous information was circulated -- it is obvious that I am entirely to blame for my failure to communicate accurately. I am extremely sorry and I apologize to everyone who has been upset by the mistaken impression that I was ordering such a course of action."

Since President Kennedy was in Sacramento seeking legislative support for salary increases, additional EOP funds, increased funding for equipment and more capital outlay funds on both May 16 and 17, he was not able to be present at the Academic Senate meeting when the issue as to his intentions on the matter of faculty evaluation by students were discussed in floor debate. His subsequent memorandum of clarification circulated to deans and academic department heads on May 19 clarifies the following three points:

1. The student evaluation of faculty system to be used during the current Spring Quarter will be whatever pilot or trial system the school or department has already developed or is developing.
2. An ad hoc committee of student, faculty and administrative members will be assigned the responsibility of evaluating the various trial and pilot programs currently in use on this campus and will use the most effective procedures as guidelines for a general, college-wide set of minimum standards within which each instructional school will operate its own future evaluation program.
3. The resulting procedures would be ready for implementation before the end of the Fall Quarter, 1972.

SONOMA STATE PRESIDENT WILL BE COMMENCEMENT SPEAKER

President Thomas H. McGrath of Sonoma State College will be the speaker for the 60th annual Commencement at Cal Poly on Saturday, June 10. McGrath, an alumnus of Cal Poly and a former member of its administrative staff, was named president of Sonoma State College in June, 1971.

Senior Week Chairman Joe Petite announced that McGrath has accepted an invitation of the Senior Week Activities Committee to deliver the main address at the graduation ceremony to be held at 3:30 p.m. in Mustang Stadium. Nearly 2,800 graduates are scheduled to receive degrees, in a ceremony attended by some 6,000 family members, friends, faculty, and staff.

McGrath served for seven years on the staff of Chancellor of the California State University and Colleges, Glenn S. Dumke. Immediately prior to his appointment as president he was assistant executive vice chancellor.

Before joining the chancellor's staff, President McGrath was dean of students at Cal Poly, Pomona, and served as assistant to President Julian A. McPhee, when the Pomona and San Luis Obispo campuses comprised a single college.

The Sonoma State president earned a vocational certificate in air conditioning at Cal Poly in 1939, and entered Santa Barbara State College, where he earned a bachelor's degree two years later. He received his master's degree from Claremont Graduate School.

A licensed psychologist, McGrath also formerly taught at Mt. San Antonio College and served as a research psychologist in the Naval Electronic Laboratory in San Diego. His career also includes teaching at Cal Poly's Voorhis campus and research with the Human Factors group at the Navy Electronics Laboratory in San Diego.

His association with Sonoma State included assignment from the CSUC Chancellor's Office to head a group which investigated the college and its community relations. Since his appointment as Sonoma State president, McGrath has been active in explaining to the surrounding community the purpose and concerns of the College.

UNIVERSITY STATUS TO BE OFFICIAL JUNE 1, 1972

The Coordinating Council for Higher Education has indicated its approval of 13 California State Colleges nominated for university status. Under the Education Code the 10-member council, which advises the governor, the Legislature, and governing boards on matters concerning higher education, must approve such action.

An announcement by the CCHE said the formal confirmation will be made at its meeting on May 31 in Sacramento. Among the new universities, the Cal Poly's will be known as California Polytechnic State University, San Luis Obispo (CPSU), and California State Polytechnic University, Pomona (CSPU), effective June 1, 1972.

TWO PERFORMANCES OF MUSICAL PLAY SCHEDULED ON SATURDAY

Anthony Newley's musical, The Roar of the Greasepaint, the Smell of the Crowd, will be presented by the Thespians of Righetti High School at Santa Maria in the Cal Poly Theater on Saturday (May 27). The show will have two performances including a special matinee at 4 p.m. and an evening showing at 8 p.m. Both are being sponsored by the Cal Poly Speech Club.

Robin Lake, a speech instructor and director of Speech Department plays at Cal Poly, called the play, "easily the best high school musical I have seen in years . . . a very professional production."

Revolving around "the Game of Life" and continual confrontations between two main characters, the popular musical is being directed by Johnie Schlenker and choreographed by Mrs. Danute Konce. Musical direction is by Douglas Branchley with the set design by Lloyd Holcomb, lighting design by Paul Rea and Debbie Schultze.

Proceeds from the play will be donated to Camp Hapitalk, a summer speech therapy clinic for children with speech difficulties, sponsored by the San Luis Obispo County Schools Department. Tickets for the show are $1 and are available in advance at Brown's Music Store in San Luis Obispo. They will also be on sale at the theater box office prior to curtain time on Saturday.

EDUCATIONAL INNOVATION WILL BE TOPIC FOR DISCUSSIONS

Cal Poly faculty and staff who may be considering special programs connected with educational innovation will have a chance to discuss those programs and possible means of funding them this Friday (May 26) when John Smart of the new program development staff of the California State University and Colleges visits campus. He expects to be on campus for the purpose of discussing such programs with those who wish to learn more about them.

Background for Dr. Smart's visit is provided by Governor Ronald Reagan's 1972-73 budget, which contains a $4.5 million item for program innovation and development. Of that amount, some $3.2 million is earmarked for a variety of programs focusing on change in the educational process. These monies, pursuant to language in the Budget Bill, will be available for expenditure during fiscal years 1972-73 and 1973-74.

Those interested in visiting with Dr. Smart during the afternoon on Friday are invited to contact Dr. Howard Boroughs (Associate Dean, Graduate Studies and Research), Adm-309, 546-2630, to obtain further information or make appointments.

NEW OFFICERS OF PHI KAPPA PHI CHAPTER ANNOUNCED

TWO VETERAN EMPLOYEES PLAN RETIREMENT NEXT MONTH

Two veteran members of the Plant Operations Department staff have announced their plans to retire, according to information received from the Business Affairs Division. Frank Piper, who joined the college staff in 1937, and Frank Wyman, a member of the college staff since 1956, both expect to conclude their tenure with the college in June.

First appointed as a carpenter on an hourly basis in August, 1937, Piper served as a mechanical handyman from 1940 until 1944 when he returned to carpenter's duties on a full-time basis and has been in that type of work since. He plans to conclude his 35 years as a college employee on June 30.

Wyman joined the staff of the college in July, 1956, as a painter and has been in that position continuously since. He expects to complete his service as a college employee on June 13.

ORCHESTRA CONCERT WILL BE FINALE OF CAMPUS SEASON

An evening concert by the Cal Poly Chamber Orchestra on Friday (May 26) will conclude the 1971-72 concert season on campus. The program, which is being sponsored by the Music Department, will be presented in the Cal Poly Theater starting at 8:30 p.m. Admission will be free and the public is invited.

Variety, an ingredient that has become a trademark of the 40-member college orchestra, will be easily recognizable in the program selected for the May 26 performance by Clifton E. Swanson, conductor of the orchestra.

Swanson, a member of the Cal Poly faculty since 1968, explained this week that the orchestra normally specializes in music that is rarely performed because it was written for small groups or is little known. Even so, numbers by such familiar composers as Sibelius, Stravinsky, Vivaldi, and Mozart are all programmed for next week's concert.

Scheduled to join the Cal Poly orchestra for the performance in the college theater are soloist Ken Roth, presently a graduate student at Stanford University, and a String Quartet composed of violinists Mike Poleinski and Carol Kersten, David Cook on the viola, and John Hoyt on the violincello.

Roth has been a solo performer in the San Francisco area and in New England where he played with the Boston Philharmonic, the Cantata Singers of Boston, and the Cambridge Consort. Composed of members of the Chamber Orchestra the Cal Poly String Quartet has performed locally several times and took part in a recent concert tour with the Cal Poly Chamber Singers.

TALK BY ECONOMIC CONSULTANT SLATED THURSDAY MORNING

Arnold Paulson, consultant to four presidential hopefuls and the man who believes he has the answer to the United States' economic stability, will speak at Cal Poly at 11 a.m. on Thursday (May 25). Paulson will appear in the Cal Poly Theater under sponsorship of the Speakers Forum of the Associated Students, Inc. The public is invited and admission will be free.

Paulson, of Granite Falls, Minn., is executive director of the National Organization for Raw Materials, Inc., and of Citizens Congress for Private Enterprise. A former supermarket operator in Granite Falls, and later owner and operator of an electronics outlet, he has been active in Chamber of Commerce work for over 20 years. In 1950, the Minnesota Junior Chamber of Commerce named him "Outstanding Young Man of the Year."

Twelve years ago, through his chamber activities, Paulson became involved in efforts to recruit industry to rural communities. In developing data to support recruitment efforts, he became keenly interested in economic analysis. He was tutored by the late Carl Wilkins, who has served as an economic analyst for congressional committees.

Paulson supports guaranteed income for all, increased value for all production -- agriculture, industry, and labor -- and the abandonment of an economy based on indebtedness. He has been consulted by presidential hopefuls Hubert H. Humphrey, George McGovern, Eugene McCarthy, and George Wallace and has also presented his analysis of economic conditions before congressional committees.

WHO . . . WHAT . . . WHEN . . . WHERE ? ? ?

Harold O. Wilson (Administrative Vice President) has been named an honorary member of the Agricultural Commissioners Association of California in recognition of his "long unselfish service for the benefit of California Agriculture." The life membership and resolution commending Wilson was presented during the annual rural-urban barbecue of the San Luis Obispo Rotary Club at the Tar Springs Ranch near Arroyo Grande on May 15.

Kenneth Schwartz (Director of Curriculum, School of Architecture and Environmental Design) addressed a U.S. Senate committee hearing concerning the Lopez Wilderness Area in Washington, D.C., last Thursday (May 18). Schwartz, who is mayor of the City of San Luis Obispo, also attended the meeting of the Ad Hoc Committee on Architectural Articulation, which took place on May 5 in San Jose. He is a member of the ad hoc committee.

David M. Roach (Physics Department) will study physical oceanography at Oregon State University while on sabbatical leave during the 1972-73 academic year. Roach worked in an oceanographic laboratory as part of a research group at University of Hawaii last summer. Starting this summer, he plans to systematically expand his interest in oceanography, a rapidly-expanding specialty in physics.

Alan K. Settle (Social Sciences Department) spoke before the Santa Maria Rotary Club during the May 16 meeting of that group. Dr. Settle discussed the recent survey of voter reaction in San Luis Obispo. He explained the typical county concept of the television networks and how elections are declared "won" or "lost" by the national election projections.

Elmo A. Keller (Computer Science and Statistics Department) has been informed that a joint paper titled "Relative Efficiency of Computing Optimal Growth by Conjugate Gradient and Davidson Methods" has been accepted for publication in a forthcoming issue of International Journal of Systems Science. Dr. Keller wrote the paper jointly with Jati K. Sengupta of Iowa State University.

W. Reed Langford and Ralph A. Peters (both Physics Department) attended the spring meeting of the Southern California Section of the American Association of Physics Teachers on May 13 in Claremont. Highlight of the meeting was a description of the Lamb-dip effect, a recent innovation in high resolution spectroscopy, which may be used routinely to measure slight internal motions of the Earth.

Robert L. Hoover (Social Sciences Department) served as a member of a panel which discussed "Quantitative and Qualitative Approaches in the New Archaeology" during a meeting on May 17 in the Chumash Indian Center at Cuesta College. The meeting was sponsored by the San Luis Obispo County Archaeological Society.

J. Handel Evans and Joseph Kourakis (both School of Architecture and Environmental Design) and Kenneth Schwartz (Director of Curriculum, School of Architecture and Environmental Design) all attended the California Chapter of the American Institute of Architects and Junior College Architect/Educator Seminar in Los Angeles on May 19.

James Griffin (Economics Department) participated in a conference on urban economics at Wayne State University in Detroit on May 11-12. Dr. Griffin, a member of the college faculty since last fall, presented a paper titled "The Economics of Education: Social Benefits and Costs" during the conference.

HEALTH CENTER ADDITION APPROVED BY STATE ASSEMBLY

An addition to the Student Health Center at Cal Poly won approval of the state Assembly yesterday and now is awaiting action by the Senate and, finally by Governor Ronald Reagan. The $800,000 addition to the campus health facility was approved by the Assembly as part of a broad program for expansion of health centers at eight state colleges.

To be financed from non-tax monies generated by a $2 per quarter fee charged all state college students, the new addition to the Cal Poly Student Health Center is expected to expand the present structure to accomodate the college's ultimate student body. In use since 1959, the present Student Health Center was designed to handle the needs of a student body of 6,000, half the current enrollment.

E. Douglas Gerard (Executive Dean) said final approval of the project is expected in time to allow a construction start sometime late this fall or early next spring. The Robert Alexander and Associates architectural firm of Los Angeles designed the health center addition.

CHAMBER SINGERS CONCERT PLANNED ON THURSDAY

The Cal Poly Chamber Singers will conclude their 1971-72 concert season with a public concert on Thursday (May 25) morning. Scheduled for 11 a.m. in Room 220 of the Julian A. McPhee College Union, the concert program is being sponsored by the Music Department. Admission will be free.

The 34-member choir was organized by its conductor, John Russell, in 1969 and now includes both men and women from all seven of the college's academic schools. It recently returned from a tour which included concerts in several of the California missions in Northern California cities. Musical authenticity with many of the selections in Latin were featured during the tour performances.

Russell, a member of the music faculty since 1968, said next Thursday morning's concert will include madrigals, contemporary American choral music, and numbers by Scarlatti and Victoria with words in Latin.

notes

The College Research Committee voted to have one deadline each quarter for CARE proposals. CARE stands for Creative Activity and Research Effort, and is a competitive program for our own faculty to get started on a program of research, scholarly, or creative activity. The main source of the Committee's income is the National Science Foundation Institutional Grant. For details about the program see CAM 543.4.

The Committee originally had one deadline a quarter, but tried relaxing this constraint this year. The relaxation caused some difficulties so deadlines were reestablished. For the coming academic year they are:

Fall Quarter	Nov. 3, 1972
Winter Quarter	Jan. 12, 1973
Spring Quarter	April 6, 1973

Application forms may be obtained from this office.

The following CARE grants have already been made this academic year:

John Snetsinger (History)	$650
Dragoslav Mistic (Environmental Engineering)	$1975
Edward Mayo (History)	$500
Rex Hutton (Mathematics)	$500
Maurice Wilks (Architecture & Environmental Design)	$300
James Katekaru (Chemistry)	$900
John Healey (Journalism)	$350
John Stechman (Animal Science)	$450
Norman Eatough (Chemistry)	$1450

The House has approved an authorization bill for the National Science Foundation, and has specifically increased the Executive's request for such programs as institutional improvement for science, graduate student support, and science education. If the final authorization is approved at these increased levels (and if the President doesn't turn around and impound these monies anyway), this spells good news for us.
