Nixon airs feelings on POWs, amnesty

Prefers private family reunions

WASHINGTON (UPI)—President Nixon said today he will not personally welcome Vietnam prisoners of war back to the United States because they are entitled to privacy with their families.

"This is a time when we should not grandstand it, we should not exploit it," Nixon said in response to a news conference question whether he planned any ceremonial welcome for the returning POWs.

Nixon also told reporters he had every reason to believe China would release two American pilots it is holding prisoner "as the POW situation is worked out in North Vietnam."

The two are Lt. Cmdr. Robert Flynn and Maj. Philip Smith.

Of the Vietnam returnees, the President said they are entitled to get home to their families as soon as possible.

Pentagon officials were still waiting word from Hanoi on when the first contingent could be brought out of North Vietnam.

The President was less optimistic about the early release of John Downey, a CIA agent jailed by the Chinese on espionage charges. He noted that Peking already had reduced Downey's sentence from 3 to 5 years and because of the nature of the charges, they consider him in a different category than Flynn and Smith.

Nixon pointed out he had discussed the imprisonment of the two Air Force men during his visit to Peking last summer and said "we have every reason to believe these flyers will be returned on the initiative of the People's Republic of China."

Human relations name put on leadership group

The Leadership Conference has a new name and new leadership. The new Humans Relations Workshop will be held tomorrow through Sunday at Lake Cachuma.

The Human Relations Committee now puts on the workshop. It consists of about 30 people, all with the experience of at least one workshop and Psyc. 281.

The fee is $7.50, which includes room and board, and a memorable experience. Sign-ups are being taken at the Union information desk.

The weekend will begin by dividing into groups, and then doing exercises together that will familiarize the members. This exposure allows for general feedback that will be the basis of the weekend exercises.

This experience gives the individual a chance to find out in an organized manner how they come across to other people, and increase self awareness and relationships with others.

This weekend there will be four presenters and two advisors.

Draft dodgers must face penalties for violations

WASHINGTON (UPI)—President Nixon Wednesday rejected amnesty for draft dodgers and Army deserters, asserting they must pay criminal penalties for violating federal laws if they want to return to this country.

Nixon also heatedly told a news conference he doubted that Vietnam war critics were interested in healing the wounds and divisions in this country over the long, bitter conflict.

"It takes two to heal wounds," Nixon said in response to a question, "and I must say, when I see that the most vigorous criticism... the least pleasure out of the peace agreement comes from those who were the most outspoken advocates of peace at any price, it makes one wonder whether some want to heal the wounds. We do."

Nixon said he had taken a "big step" toward ending the war, "which was not begun while we were here." And he added "I am not casting aspersions on those presidents who were in office who can no longer be here to speak for themselves for the causes of the war."

"I am simply saying this: that as far as this administration is concerned, we have done the very best that we can against very great obstacles, and we have achieved a peace with honor."

Nixon said that as far as amnesty was concerned, his views "remain exactly the same" as he stated several times last year that he would never grant it. He said there might be a tendency now to say to those few hundred who went to Canada or Sweden or some other country "and chose to desert their country because they had a higher morality, we should not give them amnesty."

But he declared "amnesty means forgiveness" and he added, "We cannot provide forgiveness for them. Those who served paid their price. Those who deserted must pay their price, and the price is not a junket in the Peace Corps or something like that, as some have suggested."

Life quality is symposium subject today

Become aware of the effects your lifestyle, eating habits, and drug use can have on the children of the next generation. The "Quality of Life" is the featured topic for a symposium today in the University Theater, at 10 a.m. to noon.

According to Steve Everett, the March of Dimes' California state chairman of College Action Programs, the conference is designed so that the end result will be a better informed public and a protection for the next generation to help prevent birth defects.

Featured speakers include Everett on "Experiences: Then and Now"; Dr. Arthur James, ex-

Neural subject of math speech

When we recall a conversation we had an hour ago, or simple day-to-day things like where we put the mail, or who telephoned this morning we are asking our memory system to respond.

Dr. Gary Epstein, instructor of mathematics, will talk about a theory that someday may prove to be the explanation of the dynamics of our short-term memory systems.

Epstein will speak on "Hysteresis Loops in Neural Networks" tonight at 7:30 in Math and Home Ec 226.

STUDENTS BEWARE

Big fee hike proposed

SACRAMENTO (UPI)—A legislative report Saturday recommended that student fees be increased by as much as 1,700 per cent at California's colleges and universities.

The report said the increase would raise more than $1 billion a year to finance an expanded student aid program designed to enable more low-income students to attend college.

The Academy for Educational Development, Inc., of Palo Alto, a nonprofit planning agency, conducted the education financing study at the request of the joint legislative committee on the master plan for higher education, which released the report.

The study team recommended that student fees be raised to a level equal to the cost of instruction.

The action, the report said, would increase student fees from the current level of about $638 a year to $2,041 at the University of California and from the $117-$168 range to $2,047 in the California State University and college system. A fee of $1,040 would be established at the two-year community colleges, where no fee now is charged.

The report said $787 million of the $1 billion a year to be produced by the "full-cost pricing" plan would be used for an expanded student aid program. It said the aid would finance a college education for 26,000 students who have been prevented from obtaining one due to lack of money.

"Full-cost pricing, if coupled with need-based student aid, can maximize access (to higher education), but might be highly disruptive for many middle-income students," the report said.

For middle-income students who would experience financial difficulties under the plan, the report suggested that the state could operate a direct loan program, underwrite student loans under a guarantee program or set up a deferred tuition plan under which borrowers repay their tuition in proportion to their earnings after leaving college.

The report also said the state's policy of "little or no tuition" at its institutions of higher learning has failed in its purpose "to provide access to public higher education for all who wanted it."

Despite the low student charge policy, the report said, there currently exists a $246 million gap between available aid and the financial needs of students already attending a college or university in California.

It said tuition or student fees represent only a "small portion" of the out-of-pocket expenses of college students.

In addition to student fees, it said, costs range up to $2,700 a year for campus residents and $2,200 for students who commute between home and college.

Condemnation receives reply for a dime

Editor:
I wish to reply to Paul Duer who condemns persons who have stated that the presence of the United States in Vietnam has been a cause for continuing hostility.
Please let me point out that there is no recognized authority I know of on the political scene who denies that in 1964, the Vietnam war was over. The fact that the United States refused to sign the Geneva accords illustrates that it did not think the accords were proper or that the war was indeed over.
Now as to Duer's comment that America played no part in the "restart-up" of the war. I would like to know who forced the U.S. —lead Saigon Military Mission (under Colonel Lansdale to wage covert paramilitary actions in North Vietnam in 1954-55. Who forced the U.S. to give "under the table approval" to the overthrow of Ngo Dinh Diem in November 1963?

Who forced the U.S. to carpet-bomb civilians after failing to achieve success on both military and diplomatic fronts? Lastly, who in 1973, forces the U.S. to recognize the southern part of Vietnam as a separate and distinct sovereign nation when

ASI PRESIDENT Parking fee proposal out of sight—not mind

Robin Baggett
The battle is won, the enemy has retreated, but the war isn't over.
The Board of Trustees of the California Universities and Colleges has postponed the parking fee increase proposal until the next meeting of the Trustees in March of this year.
The Trustees have proposed an increase in the parking fee from $9 per quarter to $10 per quarter. This means the price of joining the 8,199 others at Cal Poly in the struggle to locate one of the 3,366 parking spaces will cost 1 more dollar per quarter.
Additionally, the majority of the fee increase money will be used to construct costly multi-story parking facilities for those urbanly located campuses. It's about time for the Board of Trustees to attend to the entire problem of transportation and not solely to the inflationary problem of building parking spaces for automobiles. We can continue building parking lots till Doomsday and still not solve the problem of moving people from one place to another.
If we are ever to live in a healthy environment we must devise a means to reduce the use of our worst polluting device—the automobile. Thus a feasible mass transportation system could be more beneficial and efficient than new parking lots.
One would think the Trustees could have gotten the hint from California State Legislature made significant amendments to Senate Bill 148 (provides for the transfer to the California State Universities and Colleges Parking Fund 50 per cent of the total fines collected from the courts) during its final week in the Legislature.
These amendments included restrictions placed upon the expenditure of the funds once they were obtained from the city or county courts. The legislation insures that the new revenues may not be utilized to purchase land or to construct any parking facilities, but may be used for the maintenance of existing parking facilities or alternative methods of transportation of students and employees of the State Universities and Colleges system.
The Los Angeles Civic Center has a transportation system of minibuses in operation and seems to be working fantastically. In the Los Angeles Times, Letters to the Editor, Susan Doctron of Encino commented about the system: "Constant running buses coupled with minibuses—a good beginning to a sane system of transportation."
What we need is a beginning and it will take some "sane" people to initiate any actions. It will probably take students—who supposedly know nothing,

Reporters to be denied POW interviews

CLARK AIR BASE, Philippines (UPI) — An Air Force spokesman said Wednesday newsmen will be barred from interviewing returning prisoners of war because hostile or bitter statements by the freed Americans could endanger POWs left behind in North Vietnam.

Although the POW evacuation task force gathered here was on full alert Wednesday, ready to leave on an hour's notice, there still was no indication when the first prisoners would be released.

"We're thinking of a basic point—not jeopardizing the position of returnees who have not come back with the first group" the spokesman said, explaining why the corps of 194 newsmen and cameramen gathered here would be prohibited from talking to POWs and the doctors, nurses and others who work with them.

"Obviously you can understand that any offhand remark someone might make that subsequently appeared publicly could jeopardize the others still in North Vietnam. It would be very tragic."

peace accord, a four-power Joint Military Commission in Saigon—composed of representatives from the Viet Cong, North and South Vietnam and the United States—must negotiate details of the release. So far, the Viet Cong representative has not arrived in Saigon and preliminary meetings between junior members of the commission have been marked by animosity and bickering.

A source in Saigon reported that Wednesday's meeting was held in a more workable atmosphere, however, giving rise to hope that the first group of POW's would be released soon, although no one here could say when that might be.

Colts attempt to stretch win streak at Pomona

The Colt baseball team, with a 2-1 record after a doubleheader sweep of Cuesta College last Saturday, will travel to Cal Poly Pomona this Friday and Saturday for a tough three game series.

The Colts, after dropping their first game of the season 7-6 a week ago, battled back to rip the Cougars by scores of 11-3 and 5-3 on Saturday.

Leading the attack in the two wins were Al Highstreet who had four hits, Scott Williamson, with three hits and two runs scored, Dave Fowler, with two doubles and Larry Silveira with four runs scored.

Gengler gained his first win of the year in the first game. Freshman Steve DeRose earned his first win of the year as he came in to relieve in the fourth inning of the second game, to pick up the win.

After three games coach Dave Schlenker commented, "The team picked up good concentration on certain situations on Saturday which enabled us to win. Our pitching has been very strong and should be an asset to the team in the future. Our only weakness has been too many physical errors."

According to coach Schlenker, the pitchers that have been impressive are Sam Solla, Ken Miller, DeRose, and Gengler.

Coach Schlenker also pointed out that the hitters have been making good contact. He named Highstreet, Williamson, and Fowler as those who have been swinging the bat well.

Cal Poly Pomona should provide a stern test for the young Colts, as will Hancock College, later in the year who were state small college JC champions last year.

Spikers claim two firsts

Two Mustang relay teams captured first place this past weekend in the San Francisco Examiner Indoor Games while several others finished in the money.

The sprint relay team of Eric Olson, Walter Mead, Joe Prince and Terry Lamb won their event in 3:36.6 It was the first indoor competition for the quarter this year.

The mile relay team of Kerry Gold, Art Markham, Dave Johnson and Tony Harris won their event with a 3:29.6 on the indoor boards. The meet was also the first action for the spikers.

Half-miler Niels Kalke ran 1:56.2 in the 800-yard run to earn a third place finish, barely nudging out the fourth place finisher, who ran a 1:58.3.

In the College Division pole vault the Mustangs grabbed second and third places. Don Pierce finished second with a 14 feet 6 inch vault while Ken Haagen placed third with 13 feet 6 inch vault.

Key Mustang performers did not fare as well. Hampered by the flu, Reynaldo Brown could make only 6-10 in the high jump, good enough for a tie for third place. Pole vaulter Dave Hamer waited until the bar was at 16 feet before jumping. He then was unable to clear the height and went unplaced.
