

CHAMPIONSHIPS

Wrestlers face the test

It's called the wrestling championships of the California Collegiate Athletic Association (CCAA). But for the past 10 years the conference meet has turned out to be an exercise in formality to crown this university as champion.

Today and tonight Cal State Fullerton, Cal State Northridge, UC Riverside, Cal State Bakersfield and Cal Poly Pomona will challenge Mustang wrestling dominance starting at 2 p.m. in the Men's Gym.

Consolation matches will follow preliminary bouts. Third place matches begin at 7 p.m. while championship bouts commence at 8 p.m.

The Mustangs have dominated the CCAA tournament since its inception in 1963, crowing 75 of the 113 champions. In 1969, 1970, and 1971, the grapplers won 9 of the 10 weights.

But coach Vaughan Hitchcock warns that Mustang domination may not be as great this year. He said that although the Mustangs easily handled all five opponents in dual meet competition, the number of Mustang individual titles could dip below seven for the first time since 1965.

Only two of the Mustangs' defending champions are returning. Undefeated Glenn Anderson, who won at 180 last year, will be seeking the 180 title today. His record stands at 29-0-0.

Heavyweight Keith Leland could be pressed to repeat. He will probably face Northridge's Larry Ramos for the title. Leland smothered Ramos last year for the title, 16-1. The Mustang has been going at 180 for most of the year.

Gary McBride at 135 also may have a tough time when he is expected to face Fullerton's Harold Wiley. The Titan pinned McBride for the title last year but McBride topped Wiley last week in a dual meet, 2-0.

Larry Morgan will be making his first league tournament appearance since he won the 143-pound title in 1970. He is expected to notch another title at 143 while adding to his perfect 28-0-1 record.

Steve Gardner goes after his second conference championship after having won the 143-pound title in 1971. He will be wrestling at 180.

Either Allyn Cooke or Bruce Lynn will battle for the Mustangs in the 167 bout. Cooke is 23-3 on the year while Lynn is 2-2. Pat Farmer will wrestle at 177 while Frank Barnhart will represent the Mustangs at 190.

Either Ed Levenson or Mark DiGirolamo will wrestle at 118 while Tom Robak will grapple at 134 to complete the Mustang lineup.

The meet is the last home appearance for seniors McBride, Morgan, Anderson, Cooke, Farmer, and Barnhart.

U.S.—China new relations

WASHINGTON (UPI) — The United States and China announced Thursday they will open "liaison offices" in each other's capitals, a step just short of full diplomatic relations, to arrange a vast expansion of trade, scientific, cultural and journalistic contacts between the two countries.

White House advisor Henry A. Kissinger said that as a further gesture of good will, Premier Chou En-lai had informed President Nixon that China in the next few weeks will release two American pilots downed and captured when they penetrated Chinese territory during Vietnam bombing raids.

Kissinger briefed reporters and congressional leaders at the White House at the same time that Washington and Peking issued a joint communique declaring that "the time was appropriate for accelerating the normalization of relations."

It would be the first time since 1949 that China and the United States have established a formal, working contact, and the first time that China has had official representation in the capital of a country which recognizes the rival Nationalist Chinese regime on Taiwan.

PLAY REVIEW

Women of every size and shape, and more

by TONY SANTOS

(Note: The Speech Department's production of Clare Boothe Luce's "The Women" was reviewed during dress rehearsal Wednesday. Performances of the play, which opened Thursday, are scheduled at 8 p.m. today and Saturday in the University Theater. Tickets—$1 for students and $2 for the general public—are available only at the door.)

Whoever thinks quality always suffers with numbers should take a good look at the Speech Department's presentation of "The Women."

Horse playday planned by Cutting and Reining

A playday sponsored by the Cutting and Reining Club of this campus will be held Saturday with classes starting at 9:30 a.m. in the arena behind the horse unit.

All events will be open to the public. Morning events will include showmanship, bareback equitation, western equitation, western pleasure, and trail.

Afternoon events will be a run, ride, and lead race, keyhole, egg in spoon race, clover leaf barrels, boot race, goat tying, ribbon race, and team penning.

Entry fees are 50 cents per event, $1 per team, or $5.75 for all day. Appointments will not count and rules for all events will be posted. Ribbons will be presented to first through fifth places and a high point trophy to be given at the end of the day.

The lunch break will feature a hamburger barbecue with all the trimmings for $1.25 per person. Rain date for the playday will be Saturday, March 3.

For further information call Buffy Hildreth, 543-1363, or Claudia Parrish 548-4373. Entry forms may be obtained in Ag 147.

Speech topic thought control

The Students' International Meditation Society will be sponsoring an introductory lecture on transcendental meditation this Friday at 8 p.m.

Barbara Ehrenburg, a student who claims that students have more energy after meditation, will be speaking on the mechanics of transcendental meditation in Union 219.

ASI lawsuit prospect dims

by ALFRED RUCKER

Poly Royal may still be cancelled, but a class action suit against the trustees doesn't look likely after Wednesday night's Student Affairs Council meeting.

Associated Students, Inc. Vice Pres. Denny Johnson appointed a committee to negotiate with the administration in an attempt to gain dorm reform demands. The proposed freezing of Poly Royal funds was tabled.

The resolution that contained the proposed reforms was presented to SAC last week. Freezing Poly Royal funds for this year and next year was proposed if the demands were not met.

Since the demands were presented to SAC for approval, the administration has announced that Santa Lucia Hall is to become co-ed with 24 hour visiting rights beginning in March.

Appointment of the committee came after long discussion on the rights of students. Among the demands they will seek are: the right of every student to choose if he or she wants to live in a coed or 24-hour visiting dorm, the right to display signs in windows, and the elimination of room checks.

ASI lawyer Richard Carsel told SAC there is a possibility that ASI could be faced with a law suit brought by a third party if the funds for Poly Royal are frozen. He said local businessmen could file suit if they could prove they were hurt economically by ASI freezing the funds.

Carsel had advice concerning the proposed law suit against the Trustees of the State University and College System also. The suit would seek clarification of the rights of students on this campus and all others within the system. He suggested the case not be pursued unless there was proof of flagrant violations of students rights.

He cited situations where a student was constantly harassed or subject to unreasonable search of his room as being flagrant violations. Carsel said if SAC decides to pursue the case it should seek financial help from other campuses that would be affected by the decision.

Carsel said, "I cannot in good conscience tell you to jump in a law suit."

"Brad Isaacson (Architecture and Environmental Design) said, "We have approached the administration and we still have abuses of basic rights and you tell us we don't have a prayer. What do we do?"

Lee Pitts (Agriculture and Natural Resources), one of five members who introduced resolutions, urged defeat of both of them and then use mass protest to get things done.

Carsel suggested as a possible alternative the court be asked for a declaratory judgement to determine if the license now signed by students is a lease or license.

SAC passed a resolution to pursue the law suit, pointing out that it's passage would not put the ASI in a law suit but just reaffirm its position on dorm reform. An amendment to the resolution concerning amending the education code to read lease instead of license agreement will be used as a contractual agreement between the state also passed.

Cadets selling tickets for Ball

Tickets are still available to the 21st Annual Military Ball to be held in the Madonna Inn Wine Celler from 7 p.m. to 1 a.m. Saturday.

The Ball, which is open to the public, is sponsored by this university's chapter of Scabbard and Blade. It will feature a steak dinner from 7 to 9 p.m., and dancing continuously thereafter.

Admission to the ball and banquet is $16 per couple, including tax and tip for the dinner. Admission to the ball only is $4 per couple. Tickets are available at the Union Information Desk.

Army ROTC pays.

When you're in, and when you're out.

Army ROTC pays you $100 a month during your last two years of college. But the money, handy as it is, isn't the real reason you should enroll in ROTC.

There is a bigger payoff. The one that comes after you've earned your degree and commission. After you've served your country as an officer. That's the time you'll know the real value of Army ROTC.

When you begin your civilian career you'll find you have the combination that just about guarantees success—a good education, fine tuned with military management and experience. Let us tell you about the options.

Students don't own the dorms

Editor:
 The controversy over living conditions in the dorms has been blown entirely out of proportion. A lot of people are wondering just how the gratification of less than 2,000 dorm residents justifies the freezing of Poly Royal funds and the inconveniencing of 80,000 people.

We students do not own the dorms or run the school. We ask permission to come to Cal Poly, as well as to live in the dorms, and more than a few of us find this arrangement perfectly satisfactory. Yet some people walk across their carpeted, air conditioned rooms, drop their clean sheets on a new mattress, pick up their private phone and complain that conditions in the dorms are intolerable.

Perhaps what the dorm reform movement needs is some level-headed thinking to replace the overblown, theatrical threats which have become its trademarks.

"The Women..."

the audience had 'em laughing before she got most of her lines out.

Where the audience found Sylvia's comical sharpness they also discovered Mary Haines' (Diane Johnson) warmth and gentleness. With Miss Johnson's interpretation it is easy to understand a woman leading the life of a lady and just where a lady draws the line. Her most touching scene was when she told her little Mary (Amy Smith) Daddy wouldn't be living with them anymore.

It is interesting to note that each of the 40 women in "The Women" was right on target with her expressly individual point-of-view. Mrs. "Mother" Morehead (Jessie Ray) presented the ideal mother image, school of hard knocks graduate. Miriam Aarons (Elaine Fournier) was earthy, and temptress Crystal Allen (Carol Maurer) was portrayed as more than a money grubber.

Craft Center

The craft center which is located in the basement of the College union, carries a variety of equipment which can be checked out free to all students. Come in and do Ceramics, Leather Works, Jewelry Casting, Silkscreening, or just about anything that we can help you with.

Our friendly Supervisors are willing able and ready to assist the crafter in whatever his or her needs are.

Our hours are 12-11 Monday-Saturday, and 9-11 on Sunday.

ATTENTION ALL CRAFTERS- If you care about the Craft Center, and its future then take time to blast the Craft Center and fill out a survey that the Craft Center Committee has prepared. We are located in the lower floor of the University Union, so drop on by and find out what is going on.

Yo-Yos in the UU

Yo-Yo's in the U.U. will occur at 11:00 a.m. on Thursday, March 1st as RAT spins off it's Second Annual Yo-Yo Tournament, assuring a very exciting University Hour. Entry blanks and rules are available at the University Union Recreation Center Desk; entry fee is 50 cents (up 7 cents from last year due to inflation); and the first, second, and third place prizes are currently top secret because we haven't decided what they are yet (last year's first place took in a $10.00 gift certificate!) As a reminder, the Frisbee Olympics is set for early Spring Quarter—details to be announced. And lastly, the announcement of the SPRING '73 PIE-IN-YOUR-EYE-STOMACH-STUFFING PIE EATING CONTEST. Fellow students, this is a spectacle you won't want to miss—fellow gluttons, this is a contest you won't mind losing! So, if you were thinking of going home Spring Quarter, DON'T! That's RAT's weekly poop scoop-hang in there wherever you are unless the rope looks like it's going to snap; if that's the case, cut it first. (RAT Words of Wisdom!)

Mystery Trip

Outings Committee will be running a mystery trip this weekend. The destination and activities of this one day trip are known only to two people. Leaving Friday evening and returning Saturday evening, all participants are assured of a fun time. Cost is a mere $3.00 for food, and sign-ups are open now at the UU Info desk. Details on the trip and a list of what to bring can be found at the Escape Route (U.U. 104). So if you don't know what you'll be doing this weekend, do something where you won't know what you'll be doing.

Ask Dr. Hip Pocrates

"DEAR DR. HIP POCRATES: The girl I intended to marry has had a special fusion and fears that certain nerves were destroyed in the operation. She claims she does not have a clitoris. Can this be true?"

She does enjoy sex, but appears never to reach a climax, no matter how long we make love. Can a special operation be responsible for this?—CONFUSED.

ANSWER: The most common letter sent to this column is from women who have difficulties in reaching orgasm. Rarely is there a physical cause for this problem. Your fiancée should be examined by a physician skilled in gynecology and or neurology if she was able to reach a climax before her surgery. Even so, a psychological factor could be involved.

Spinal surgery could possibly affect her sexual feeling but would not cause her clitoris to disappear unless the surgeon ran amok. If there's no problem involving nerve damage and the physician is more successful at finding the clitoris than either of you two, then sexual counseling is in order.

Call your local public health department for information about this problem. They should be able to tell you the location of the nearest sexual therapy clinic or therapist. After all, your fiancée suffers from one of the most common health problems."

Dr. Eugene Shoenfeld, San Francisco's Dr. Hip, known for his medical work in drugs and sex related areas will speak at Cal Poly Wednesday Feb. 28 at 8:00 in Chumash. Hip Pocrates earned his MD at the University of Miami and has since worked at several hospitals including the Schweitzer Hospital. Hip Pocrates is best known through his recent work involving drugs and sex. He worked at the Center for Special Problems, a public psychiatric clinic, in San Francisco with an emphasis on problems stemming from drugs and sex. In addition he writes a medical advice column featured in the San Francisco Chronicle and 24 other college and underground newspapers. The questions addressed to Dr. Hip Pocrates run the gambit from alcoholism and drug abuse to VD and unwanted pregnancy. He also has a weekly radio show in San Francisco featuring the same type of medical advice. He has written several books including "Dear Dr. Hip Pocrates—Advice your family doctor never gave you." Admission is students $7.50 and $1.25 public. Come and have Dr. Hip Pocrates solve your problems.
