COLLEGE UNION DEDICATION CEREMONY SLATED SATURDAY

The Julian A. McPhee College Union, nearly three years under construction, will be dedicated at noon on Saturday (March 6). President Robert E. Kennedy will give the dedication address. Mrs. Julian A. McPhee, widow of the late Cal Poly president, will cut the ribbon to open the building.

Paul A. Banke (President of the Associated Students, Inc.) will welcome the guests, and Rev. Bruce Tjaden (Campus Minister) will offer the invocation and benediction. The 84-piece Cal Poly Symphonic Band will provide music before and after the ceremony.

Immediately following the ribbon-cutting, guided tours of the $4 million, 106,000 square-foot student-financed facility will be conducted. More than 15,000 yards of concrete, tons of reinforcing steel, an acre of glass and more than an acre of carpeting have been used in the expansive building which houses the Associated Students Offices, the Activities Office, Cal Poly Foundation Offices, and the El Corral Campus Store.

Fund First Established in 1953

The college union has been an idea on campus for more than a quarter of a century. The idea was given impetus when the college union building fund was established in 1953 and surplus earnings of the campus store and other Cal Poly Foundation agencies were earmarked for construction of the "campus living room."

On May 26-27, 1964, the Cal Poly student body voted to assess themselves up to $20 per year to help build the college union building fund. The assessment, which has been $16 per year, will continue until the federal loan obtained to finance the building is paid off in 2007.

The college union is the fourth home for the Associated Students, Inc. and the Activities Office. First housed in a basement office space in the then Administration Building, now the Business Administration and Education Building, the two organizations next shared half of the old South Cafeteria building when it became the campus post office in 1961.

Three years later, the two moved to the Temporary College Union, a structure constructed as a recreational hall for the National Youth Administration when it operated an on-campus training program here during 1935-38. The building had been used for student recreational activities from 1950 to 1964.

The Julian A. McPhee College Union provides separate facilities for the Associated Students, Inc. officers, a meeting room with spectator seating for 150 persons for the Student Affairs Council, small conference rooms for committee meetings, and ASI Business Offices, all on the upper level. Nearby are offices for the Activities Office staff.

The upper level also houses the multi-purpose room which can accommodate 1,384 seated for concerts and similar programs and 900 at banquets. A carpeted lounge on the same floor accommodates smaller meetings. Also on the upper floor are the new offices of the Cal Poly Foundation.

Recreational activities are centered on the lower floor, where a 10-lane bowling alley and 12 billiard tables are located. The bowling alley and billiard room are not yet in operation. The Mustang Lounge, a meeting room, hobby shop and graphic arts room, and a Burger Bar complete the downstairs facilities.

A special program of activities has been slated for the various lounges, the Multi-purpose Room, and The Plaza on Friday, Saturday and Sunday. See the accompanying schedule for detailed information.

LYMAN BENNION WILL BE HONORED GUEST FOR 39TH POLY ROYAL

Lyman L. Bennion of San Luis Obispo, a man who spent 29 years making a major contribution to Poly Royal, will be the honored guest for Cal Poly's 39th annual open house event on April 23-24. David Wright of Fortuna, superintendent of the 1971 Poly Royal, announced the selection of Bennion last week. As guest of honor, he will participate in all of the special events at Poly Royal.

Bennion headed the Animal Science Department at Cal Poly from 1938 until his retirement on Sept. 1, 1967. In that capacity he supervised preparations for the Poly Royal live-stock shows, judging contests, and displays in the Beef, Sheep, and Swine units. He was a long-time supporter of the Poly Royal Rodeo, sponsored by a student organization of the Animal Science Department, the Rodeo Club.

The former department head's career with Cal Poly spanned the time when the student body numbered only a few hundred all-male students to the day when there were more than 10,000 co-educational students on the campus.

When Bennion joined the Cal Poly faculty, agriculture and engineering were the two divisions of the school, and the small student body and faculty worked out of buildings which for the most part were then 40 years old. During his career at Cal Poly he watched the campus expand to include five of the present seven instructional schools, and the acreage increase to 5,169.

A widely-recognized livestock judge, he played an important role in the development of the horse program as part of the Animal Science Department, and viewed the expansion of the beef, sheep and swine herds and facilities.

The 1970 edition of Poly Royal will include rodeos, horse shows, two dances, concerts, a student carnival, pancake breakfast, and displays in the 47 instructional departments of the college. Lindy K. Swanson of Miraleste has been named queen of Poly Royal and will join Bennion in attending all of the special events.

PROGRAM ANNOUNCED FOR ORCHESTRA CONCERT

The music of the masters will fill the program of a public concert offered to members of the campus community by the Cal Poly Chamber Orchestra. Scheduled for Friday (March 5) at 8:30 p.m. in the Cal Poly Theater, the program will include the music of Franz Schubert, Kent Kennan, W. A. Mozart, Gabriel Faure and J. S. Bach. Admission will be free.

The performance will feature the 35-piece Chamber Orchestra and soloists Ronald V. Ratcliffe on harpsichord and Shannon Cornish on flute. Ratcliffe (Music Department) is recognized as a prominent West Coast harpsichordist. He most recently appeared at the Peter Britt Music Festival in Oregon where he was a soloist.

Miss Cornish is a freshman majoring in ornamental horticulture. She is a member of many symphonic organizations in the country and was awarded first prize at the New Mexico State Solo Competition in 1966. She has studied music under Dale Kennedy, director of bands at the University of Oklahoma, and Barbara Stubbs of the Albuquerque Philharmonic.

The Chamber Orchestra, which is conducted by Clifton E. Swanson (Music Department), is dedicated to performing both little-known works and standard repertoire. The orchestra performs six to eight concerts per year.

BARROWS, CLEVELAND NAMED CONSULTANTS FOR PROJECT IN CHINA

Two members of the Cal Poly faculty have been named consultants to the Republic of China's Ministry of Education. Frank Barrows and Robert Cleveland will begin their duties as advisors on a $15 million project to improve vocational and technical education in public schools in Taiwan, in the next few weeks.

Dr. Barrows (Industrial Technology Department) expects to depart this week to begin his assignment as educational advisor and assistant director of the program. He will be on leave without pay from his duties at the college.

Cleveland (School of Architecture and Environmental Design), who joined the college faculty last fall, will begin his new duties following close of the Winter Quarter. He is resigning from the college faculty in order to accept the appointment in Taiwan.

According to Dr. Barrows, a member of the Cal Poly faculty since 1968, the Taiwan project involves expansion of vocational education programs in 14 vocational high schools, construction of a new technical junior college in the Taipei area, and expansion of vocational and technical teacher programs at Taiwan Normal University. The program is being operated by the Republic of China's Ministry of Education and partially financed by a $9 million loan from the World Bank.

USE OF PLASTIC CONTAINERS DROPPED BY CAMPUS DAIRY

Lack of proper handling equipment and a desire to take the lead in ecological improvement has resulted in the discontinuance of use of plastic milk containers by the Cal Poly Dairy and Campus Produce Store.

Carl Moy (Dairy Sciences Department), faculty member in charge of dairy services in the store, says budgetary limitations have prevented acquisition of the proper equipment for handling the plastic containers.

An attempt was made to provide the plastic containers for those who prefer them, but cost of the containers was excessive and product loss through use of equipment not designed for filling the plastic containers made it necessary to raise the price of half gallons to customers to 47 cents in September, 1970.

Because of the concerns of the effects of plastic container disposal on the ecology and the desire to provide products to the faculty, staff and students who patronize the store at the lowest possible price, the plastic container has been discontinued.

The Campus Produce Store markets the produce of student enterprise projects to the faculty, staff, and students of Cal Poly.

CHAMBER SINGERS WILL OPEN MISSION CONCERT SERIES THIS SUNDAY

A pair of concerts at missions located in the Central Coast area will open a unique series of concerts for Cal Poly's College Chamber Singers on Sunday (March 7). The first will take place at Mission San Antonio de Padua in Jolon at 11 a.m., and the second will be presented at Mission San Luis Obispo de Tolosa in San Luis Obispo at 4 p.m.

In all, six of California's colorful Old Missions will form the accoustical backdrops for the singing tour, which will end on March 21. Beside this Sunday's concerts, 90-minute programs will be held in the Missions at Santa Barbara, Solvang, San Miguel, and San Juan Bautista. All of the performances will be open to the public and admission will be free.

The concerts will stress musical authenticity and will offer selections primarily in Latin, the official liturgical language of the Missions in early-California, according to John Russell (Music Department), who conducts the Chamber Singers. "We'll take advantage of the resonance of the Old Missions, which provide excellent acoustics for this type of singing," Russell added.

Ronald V. Ratcliffe (Music Department), a widely-known concert harpsichordist and an eight-member instrumental ensemble composed of members of the Cal Poly Chamber Orchestra will accompany the vocal group and take part in the performances.

Performance locations, times, and dates after this weekend for the Cal Poly company's tour include:

Mission Santa Ines in Solvang, 11 a.m., Friday, March 19;
Mission Santa Barbara, 8 p.m., Friday, March 19;
Mission San Miguel Arcangel in San Miguel, 2 p.m., Saturday, March 20;
St. Paul's Episcopal Church in Salinas, 8 p.m., Saturday, March 20; and Mission San Juan Bautista, 2 p.m., Sunday, March 21.

Russell said the singing tour provides a unique and meaningful link with California's colorful history through the form of musical performances and should appeal to listeners of all ages, and to school students and those interested in mission history. "Although we won't be outfitted in costumes of the period, the singers will be performing authentic music of that time, and in some missions, may even be singing in the actual choir lofts," he said.

Musical selections for the concerts range from a 16th century hymn to contemporary liturgical spiritual-like songs, and include two scores of Mass highlights, one written specifically for the Old Missions by a talented Franciscan padre of the time.

WOMEN'S CLUB MEMBERS WILL HEAR GLEE CLUBS

The Cal Poly Men's and Women's Glee Clubs under the direction of Harold P. Davidson (Head of the Music Department) will present the program when the Cal Poly Women's Club holds a general membership meeting in the camput theater at 7:30 p.m. next Tuesday (March 9). Planned by the glee clubs is a preview of their programs for their forthcoming concert tour. Beside members of the Women's Club, faculty and students of the college Music Department, the music departments of the San Luis Coastal Unified School District schools and Cuesta College, as well as the Bel Canto Singers, have also been invited to the program. Also slated to take part in the program is the Women's Sextet.

Nelson (Director of Business Affairs). Such things as books, watches, jackets, sweaters, umbrellas, drafting supplies, and sunglasses will be displayed in the Temporary College Union Building and sold on a sealed bid basis.

Nelson pointed out that "lost and found" sales such as the one planned for next week are governed by Section 580.1 of the College Administrative Manual. Unclaimed items must be held for at least six months before being sold and proceeds from the sale are earmarked for deposit in a loan or scholarship fund for use of Cal Poly students. Nelson said successful bidders in the March 9-10 sale may pick up their purchases on March 12-13 in the TCU.

The second annual Cal Poly Gymnastics Meet, involving approximately 400 girls from secondary schools in the Central Coast area, will be held on Saturday (March 6), starting at 8 a.m. and continuing through the day, in the Men's Gymnasium. The meet is under the direction of Evelyn Pellaton (Women's Physical Education Department), who is being assisted by Andrew Proctor (Men's Physical Education Department). Approximately 50 Cal Poly students will be involved in the judging and running of the meet.

"ISSUES OF THE 70'S IN EDUCATION" WILL BE SPEECH TOPIC

A man who heads a vital national agency in college admissions will give his views on education for the 70's at Cal Poly on the evening of March 10. Fred Harclerod, former president of California State College at Hayward and president of the American College Testing Program, will speak in the Cal Poly Theater at 7:30 p.m. on "Issues of the 70's in Education."

Dale W. Andrews (Academic Vice President) said Dr. Harclerod's address will be co-sponsored by the college, the Graduate Education Club, and the Student California Teachers Association.

A 1948 graduate of Stanford University, the ACTP president wrote his doctoral dissertation on The Influence of Organized Student Opinion on the College Curriculum: An Historical Study. He is also the author of many textbooks and research publications, including Learning Resources in Colleges and Universities; Historical Background, Current Status, and Future Plans of the Developing State Colleges and Universities; and Issues of the 70's.

Dr. Andrews said the ACTP president's visit at Cal Poly is part of a continuing series which earlier included talks by astronaut Walter Cunningham and architect Charles Luckman.

In addition to serving as president of Cal State at Hayward, Dr. Harclerod formerly held administrative and academic positions at San Jose State College, San Diego State College, and Stanford University and has been a visiting professor at Pennsylvania State University, the University of Southern California, and the University of Hawaii. Since 1968 he has been a professor of higher education at the University of Iowa.

The American College Testing Program is a non-profit corporation governed by representatives from individual states. Membership is composed of more than 1,800 colleges, universities, and other institutions which require or recommend the ACT test battery.

Tests and other ACTP services are used in developing data for college admissions, educational advisement, scholarships, and career planning. Approximately 1 million students received ACTP testing last year. The program maintains more than 2,600 test centers in the United States and overseas.

TREMBLY BELIEVES THERE'S HOPE FOR LEFT-HANDERS

Left-handers, take hope! The world is becoming increasingly aware of the needs of left-handed people, so that a minority liability is becoming increasingly accepted and left-handers are able to find their right -- or left -- place in the world. That is the view of Dean Trembly (test officer) of Cal Poly.

Dr. Trembly, writing in an anthology just published, reports that manufacturers are making more and more things for southpaws: scissors, metal shears, fishing rods, golf clubs, baseball gloves, bowling balls, rifles, shotguns, potato peelers, apple corers, can openers, ironing boards, irons, pencil sharpeners, desk arm chairs, dental instruments, refrigerators, artist palettes, lettering pens, and drafting machines. He even reports that a bank is furnishing left-handed check books with the stub at the right.

The rate and benefit changes, which become effective April 1, 1971, were shown on a chart carried as an attachment to the Feb. 23 issue of Cal Poly Report.

In the article, "Should Your Child Write with the Left Hand?," Dr. Trembly explains how to determine the "sidedness" of an infant, how to determine eye dominance, and how to train a child to use the left hand -- a procedure that is recommended for the one quarter of the population which is also left-eyed.

Some of the tips for left-handers reported by Dr. Trembly include sitting on the left side of study halls where there are fewer distractions on the left, allowing better concentration. Also recommended is use of ballpoint pens, soft pencils, and hard paper to make handwriting easier, increased use of the typewriter, and choice of musical instruments designed for left-hand fingering or use of both hands.

Dr. Trembly, a member of the Cal Poly Counseling Center staff since 1961, received his doctorate from the University of Illinois and AB and MA degrees from Colorado College. He formerly was an industrial personnel consultant with the Human Engineering Laboratory in Ft. Worth, Tex.

The article on left-handedness appears in Building Handwriting Skills in Dyslexic Children, published by Academic Therapy Publications in San Rafael and edited by John I. Arena.

Both are being planned for both men and women.

Bridges said the cycling activity will include weekend trips, but no speed-cycling. He emphasized that experienced, as well as inexperienced cyclists and joggers, will be welcome in both programs. Fred Abitia (Industrial Technology Department) was a participant in the National Aeronautics and Space Administration Plastics Conference held at Moffett Field near Sunnyvale recently. Purpose of the program, which was sponsored by the Society of Plastics Industry, was to acquaint industrial educators in colleges, universities, and high schools with new raw materials, processes, and equipment in the plastics field.

Jack E. Girolo (Mathematics Department), who joined the Cal Poly faculty last fall, has received word from Iowa State University that all requirements for his Doctor of Philosophy Degree have been completed. Dr. Girolo formerly taught at Iowa State, Drake University, and University of Oklahoma.

Eli S. Jenkins (English Department) is the author of an article titled "A Creative Force in John Donne's 'Holy Sonnets,'" which appeared in the Autumn, 1970, issue of Psychological Perspectives. Dr. Jenkins, who first joined the Cal Poly faculty some eight years ago, re-joined the faculty last fall.

Philip T. McClung (Education Department) presented a paper during the national convention of the American Educational Studies Association, which took place last week in Chicago. Dr. McClung's remarks on "Anthropidiology: A New Discipline" were based on information he has been gathering for the past 10 years.

PHI KAPPA PHI MEETING WILL BE MARCH 11

The regular quarterly meeting of Phi Kappa Phi national honorary society will be held in Erhart Ag-241 at 4:30 p.m. on March 11, according to Kenneth G. Fuller (Computer Science Department), who is president of the campus chapter. Purpose of the meeting is to approve new members from eligibility arising during the Winter Quarter. A revision of the chapter's constitution and by-laws may or may not be ready for discussion at the March 11 meeting.

Typewritten copy intended for the next issue of Cal Poly Report must be received prior to 12 noon, Friday, March 5, in the Office of Information Services, Administration-210.

BASEBALL VARSITY WILL HOST HAYWARD NINE

Cal Poly's varsity baseball team will attempt to extend its already-impressive record for 1971 when it hosts California State College at Hayward in a three-game series this Friday and Saturday (March 5-6) on the Baseball Diamond near Poly Grove. The series will open with a single game at 2:30 on Friday afternoon and conclude with a double-header starting at 12 noon on Saturday.

The Mustang baseballers improved their won-lost record for the young season to 9-1-1 with a trio of victories (12-3, 4-0, 3-2) over University of Redlands last weekend after splitting a twinbill with Fresno State College 2-0, 1-3 earlier in the week. Coach Augie Garrido's charges are getting strong performances from a pitching staff that has allowed an average of less than one earned run per nine inning game through its first 11 contests.

Three other Cal Poly athletic teams, including Coach Vaughan Hitchcock's varsity wrestlers, Coach Neale Stoner's basketball varsity, and Coach Ernie Wheeler's freshman basketballers, wrapped up the regular portions of their 1970-71 seasons with road contests.

The Mustang matmen closed out their dual-match portion of their campaign by whalloping nationally-ranked University of Washington 23-9 and finished the week by easily out-distancing the field to win their ninth California Collegiate Athletic Association title in succession. The win over Washington gives the Cal Poly team claim to the mythical West Coast championship and a final 21-2-1 won-lost-tied mark for the season. They won nine of 10 individual titles en route to their victory in the CCAA tourney.

Will Enter Nationals March 12-13

Next action for the Cal Poly mat team will come on March 12-13 when they will be at University of North Dakota in Fargo to defend the National Collegiate Athletic Association College Division team championship they won last March. Following that action, team members who place in the top four will enter the NCAA University Division tournament, which is scheduled for March 26-27 at Auburn University in Alabama.

Stoner's varsity cagers are delaying storage of their uniforms pending a decision by the NCAA regional selection committee on which California teams will be invited to enter play for the national College Division Crown this weekend at University of Puget Sound. The Mustangs' chances of making the four-team field were hurt over the weekend when they were beaten 75-71 by University of California at Irvine in the final game of their regular season at Irvine, after wrapping up their CCAA slate with a 79-76 win over California State College at Fullerton the previous evening.

Even so, they managed to finish the season with a 16-10 won-lost record over-all and a 6-2 mark that is the best chalked up by a Cal Poly quintet since 1961-62. They finished second behind San Fernando Valley State College with a 6-2 mark in CCAA play.

Coach Wheeler's freshman basketballers managed to win two of three contests played last week and finished their schedule with a 21-4 record. En route to that record, the best ever turned in by a Cal Poly frosh cage club, the Colts managed to win the CCAA freshman basketball crown for 1970-71 with a 7-1 mark and won the 1970 Mid-State Holiday Basketball Tournament championship.

Guide to Proposal Writing

The following information is used by one program in the U.S. Office of Education in evaluating proposals. The questions asked are not universally applicable, but they are sufficiently broad to be very useful (I have edited the list to a small extent):

Needs: What local, regional, or national needs will be served?

Objectives: How will the stated objectives meet the needs? Are the objectives sharply focused?

Procedures: Is there a clear and detailed description of the process to meet the objectives - courses, practicum, selection of trainees, etc.?

Evaluation: Are there good procedures to measure the result (follow-up)?

Staff: What are the qualifications of the staff for planning and implementing a successful program?

Target group: Is there evidence of effective communication with the administration, faculty, students, parents, community?

Commitment: Is there evidence of commitment of staff, administration, faculty, students, and cooperating institutions in serving the need?

Innovation: Does the proposed program offer high promise for improvement over past practices or is it the same old thing?

Facilities: Are classrooms, laboratories, dormitories, etc. satisfactory?

Budget: Are all the dollars requested really needed to implement the program?

Here are some reasons why research proposals are rejected:

1. The problem is insignificant or one of very limited interest.
2. The theoretical base is weak (Read: The problem is more complex than the writer realizes).
3. The problem was poorly defined.
4. The proposal was too ambitious.
5. The persons involved had inadequate training for the project.

Just a reminder to those faculty who may be thinking of submitting a proposal to the National Science Foundation for a summer institute, seminar, or workshop for 1972: it's not too early to start planning.
