TALK BY FORMER PRIME MINISTER OF HUNGARY SET FOR THURSDAY MORNING

"The Communist Takeover of Eastern Europe" will be the topic of the former prime minister of Hungary, Ferenc Nagy, for his campus appearance on Thursday (May 13). Nagy, president of the Hungarian National Assembly in 1945, and prime minister for the short-lived republic of 1946-47, will appear in Room 207 of the Julian A. McPhee College Union at 11 a.m. The talk is open to the public without an admission charge.

A writer, statesman and lecturer who has appeared on many college campuses, Nagy has lived in exile in the United States since threats of kidnapping and physical harm to his infant son forced his resignation and flight from Hungary in 1947. The former prime minister's visit to Cal Poly is co-sponsored by the college and the History Society as a part of a continuing series of speakers and convocations.

According to Max E. Riedlsperger (History Department), Nagy's appearance is a great opportunity for students to hear an historical personage actually involved in important political events of our time. "In the light of the recent Warsaw Pact invasion of Czechoslovakia and general restiveness in Eastern Europe," Riedlsperger said, "Mr. Nagy's comments should be of general interest to many people concerned with world affairs."

During his exile, Nagy has participated in many international conferences and has traveled extensively throughout the world and in the U. S. as a speaker to economic and service clubs, civic groups, and other organizations.

A publicist and political columnist in the 1920s, Nagy was active in Hungarian politics during the 1930s, and became a member of parliament in 1939. In 1941 he founded the Hungarian Peasants' Association and in 1944 he was imprisoned by the Gestapo.

FALL SCHEDULE SALE, HOME DELIVERY SET FOR MID-JULY

The class schedule for the Fall Quarter, 1971 is the final stages of completion and should be received from the printer and placed on sale in El Corral College Store by July 15, according to Donald M. Coats (Associate Dean, Educational Services).

Coats said the schedule will be available this year about three weeks earlier than last year. Students attending classes during the summer will be able to purchase schedules for 30 cents in the college store; those who wish to have a class schedule sent by mail to a summer address may make arrangements with the store by providing their address and 55 cents.

The schedule includes a few more course offerings during the evening hours, Coats said. These are primarily sections of general education courses offered to provide students with greater scheduling flexibility. He pointed out that Saturday laboratory schedules are about the same as last year, and that it has not been necessary to schedule lecture courses on Saturdays for next fall.

TIPS FOR EDUCATORS

The following item, entitled "How to Survive and be Happy Though Surrounded by College Students," is by President Landrum R. Bolling of Earlham College, in Richmond, Ind.:

"1. Listen. You won't learn much from young people if you do all the talking. You'll be surprised at how much sense they talk.

"2. Keep smiling. A large percentage of us of the older generation unconsciously or deliberately glare, sneer, or frown when we look at college students. Most of them are remarkably perceptive; they know when we're hostile.

"3. Don't ask them why they look the way they do. If they can't explain it to their parents, they can't explain it to you. Anyway, they don't really know.

"4. Don't tell them how hard and how joyfully you worked in your youth. Theirs is a different world; they have no conception of the world through which we lived in the Depression and in World War II and little curiosity to learn about it. Sad or wrong, but it's true.

"5. Level with them. They are amazingly open and honest, if you approach them in a spirit of openness and honesty.

"6. Don't try to be one of them. Among the most pathetic creatures over 30 are those synthetic adolescents who try to dress, talk, act, and look like college students.

"7. Share with them your own highest hopes and finest purposes. It will surprise and delight them to discover that plenty of old people are idealists too. They have been fed too much nonsense about the lack of social purpose among their elders.

"8. Believe in them. They'll sense it when you do. And, as in all generations, they will respond, eventually, to that belief."

Talk By Former Prime Minister . . . (Continued from Page 1)

The holder of honorary degrees from the University of California at Berkeley and Bloomfield College and Seminary, Nagy is the author of Struggle Behind the Iron Curtain and of various magazine articles dealing with communism, the Cold War, and Central Europe.

"I cannot seclude myself from American youth," said Nagy in a letter to the college explaining a decision not to retire from lecturing. "I am the only former prime minister of a European country here in America who had to deal with the communists on the highest political level."

In addition to lecturing and writing his memoirs, the former prime minister has been a member of the Hungarian National Council since 1943, was chairman of the Assembly of Captive European Nations in 1961-62, and is president of the International Peasants' Union.

In his travels, he has had opportunities to confer personally with such political leaders as Prime Minister Nehru, President Nasser, President Chiang Kai-shek, President Magsaysay, Prime Minister Ikeda, and Prime Minister Mohamed Ali.

JOHN STEWART, JENNIFER SHARE BILLING FOR FRIDAY CONCERT

Two young and highly-acclaimed performers share the billing for a double-barreled concert scheduled on campus on Friday (May 14). Popular recording artists John Stewart and Jennifer are currently on tour together in the Western States and will share their song writing and singing talents in the public concert. It will take place starting at 8 p.m. in the Men's Gymnasium.

A native of California, Stewart was active in the 1968 Robert Kennedy presidential campaign. His deep sorrow over Kennedy's assassination was expressed in several songs which he wrote and recorded, including Clack, Clack, and Back Home in Pomona. Both were included in his second album, Willard.

Sharing the spotlight with Stewart is Jennifer, a retiree from Hair who prefers the singing circuit to the stage. Her talent and attractiveness have brought guest appearances on television's Smothers Brothers Show and the Dean Martin and Dick Cavett Shows.

The campus concert is being sponsored by the Assemblies Committee of the Associated Students, Inc. General admission tickets are priced at $1.50 for college students and $2.50 for all others. ### PERFORMANCES OF GREEK PLAY SCHEDULED THIS WEEK

An ancient Greek play that reveals how two social rebels, given an opportunity to set up their own model society, eventually establish a society exactly the same as the one from which they fled, will be staged on campus Thursday, Friday and Saturday (May 13-15). Aristophanes' play The Birds is being produced by the Cal Poly Speech Department as the final drama program of the academic year at the college. Robin Lake (Speech Department) is the director. All three performances are scheduled for the Cal Poly Theater. Curtain time will be 8:30 p.m.

The Birds contains many parallels between the societies of 5th Century Greece and 20th Century America, but they will not be emphasized, and no obvious morals will be drawn for the audience, according to Lake. The Cal Poly production is being based on William Arrowsmith's modern translation of the Greek play. Using slapstick, parody, and vaudeville, the play tells the story of two disenchanted Greeks who escape from the society of ancient Athens and choose to live among the birds in "Cloudeuckooland," where life appears to be happy and carefree. They soon become victims of Utopian idealism, however, and show how they cannot help but be products of their environments and upbringing.

The two leading roles for the production are being played by Greg Spencer, a freshman speech major, and Jeff Schultz, a senior majoring in history. Other members of the play's cast include Diana Daughters, a junior majoring in English; Lindy Groves, a freshman mathematics major; and Jeff Addis, a sophomore majoring in speech. Tom Anderson, a junior majoring in electrical engineering, and Libby Watson, a junior printing technology and management major, are stage managers for the play and Ken Kornelis, a junior majoring in biological science, is the music director.

General admission tickets for any of the performances are priced at $2 for adults, $1 for students, and 50 cents for children under 12 years of age. They are being sold in advance at the Speech Department Office and will be sold prior to curtain time each evening at the theater box office.

MUSTANG THINCLADS SET DEFENSE OF CCAA CROWN

Cal Poly's varsity track and field team will put its California Collegiate Athletic Association championship on the line this Friday and Saturday (May 14-15) when it journeys to Fullerton for the 1971 CCAA championship meet in that sport. Also on tap this week are a pair of make up games and the final game of the regular schedule for the Mustang baseball varsity.

Coach Steve Simmons' cindermen will get their sternest test in the CCAA meet from the host California State College at Fullerton team which posted an early season victory over the Mustangs in a triangular meet. The Cal Poly team has been building toward a late season peak and its performances in recent weeks indicate that it should be ready to defend the title it has won the past three years.

University of Santa Clara and Cal State Fullerton will provide the competition for Coach Augie Garrido's varsity baseballers this week. The Mustang diamondmen will journey to Fullerton to meet the CSCF nine in a make-up doubleheader billed for tomorrow (Wednesday, May 12) afternoon and then return home to host the Santa Clara team in a single contest scheduled for 2:30 p.m. on Sunday. The Sunday game will take place on the new Sinsheimer Field in San Luis Obispo.

WHO . . . WHAT . . . WHERE . . . WHEN ? ? ?

Marvin D. Brown, Starr Jenkins, and Martin Luschei (all English Department), along with Timothy Barnes, Lloyd N. Beecher, and Robert E. Burton (all History Department), were participants in the spring meeting of the Northern California American Studies Association held recently in Davis. General topic for the gathering was "American Studies and a Culture in Crisis."

Cal Poly was represented at the American Welding Society's National Welding Show, which took place at Brooks Hall in San Francisco on April 26-29. Richard C. Wiley (Head of the Welding and Metallurgical Engineering Department) reports that his department had an exhibit on display and that a number of students took part in the technical meetings that were held in conjunction with the show.

Clyde P. Fisher (Dean of Science and Mathematics) was a member of the Western Association of Schools and Colleges accreditation team that studied the programs and facilities of West Los Angeles College during a visit last month. The college, which has about 3,000 day students and another 1,500 at night, is part of the Los Angeles Community College District. Hubert Semans, a former member of the Cal Poly faculty and now president of Foothill College in Los Altos, was chairman of the WACS team.

Mary Lou White (Head of Women's Physical Education Department) and Alice Duffy (also Women's Physical Education Department) attended the American Association for Health, Physical Education, and Recreation Convention in Detroit, early last month. Miss Duffy conducted a session for AAHPER's Dance Education Division. The session, titled "Invitation to Explore," was attended by elementary, junior high school, and high school teachers from throughout the nation.

The University of Idaho has conferred the Doctor of Philosophy Degree in political science on Earl D. Huff (Social Sciences Department), according to word received on campus recently. Dr. Huff's dissertation topic was Zionist Influences Upon U.S. Foreign Policy: A Study of U.S. Policy Toward the Middle East from the Period of the Birth of Israel through the Sinai Conflict.

Harry L. Fierstine (Biological Sciences Department) has been chosen to participate in a National Science Foundation Summer Institute in field biology, which is being organized by Colorado State University. The program will be conducted from June 14 to July 24 with most classes at the university's Pingree Park Campus some 55 miles west of Ft. Collins at an elevation of 9,000 feet. The program will feature a unique, integrated study of the bioecology and geology of the Rocky Mountain lift zones. Dr. Fierstine is oiling his fishing reel and varnishing his flyrod in anticipation of co-curricular activities expected to accompany the institute.

Bernice Loughran (Head of the Art Department) took part in panel discussions and led an advanced training session in writing behavioral objectives during the annual conference of the California Art Education Association, which took place in Oakland on April 1-May 2. Theme for the conference was "Art and the Environment." Lee C. Combs, Philip S. Bailey, Leslie A. Whitaker, Max T. Wills, and Leland S. Endres (all Chemistry Department) attended the 161st national meeting of the American Chemical Society, which took place recently in Los Angeles.

Richard T. Carlston (Welding and Metallurgical Engineering Department) has been appointed to Committee T-3L of the National Association of Corrosion Engineers. The committee deals with electrochemical techniques as applied to corrosion.

GILL, OHRN TURN IN BRILLIANT WEEKEND PERFORMANCES

Senior triple jumper Mohinder Gill and Les Ohrn, a freshman pitcher, turned in brilliant performances in two widely separated parts of the state to highlight a full weekend of activity for Cal Poly athletic teams. Ohrn twirled a no-hitter in which he allowed only one opposing runner to get as far as second base as the Mustang diamondmen swept a three-game series from California State Polytechnic College at Pomona, and Gill recorded the second longest triple jump ever recorded in the U.S. to win the outstanding performer award at the West Coast Relays in Fresno.

The sparkling pitching performance by Ohrn capped a week that found Coach Augie Garrido's Cal Poly nine lose a crucial double header to San Fernando Valley State on Tuesday. They were beaten 6-5 and 6-0 by SFVSC but rebounded for the 1-0, 1-0, 4-1 sweep over the Pomona team on Friday and Saturday. Those victories extended the Mustang's overall record for 1971 to 38 wins, 11 losses, and 1 tie. Gill's 55-1 $\frac{1}{4}$  leap in the open division of big meet in Fresno overshadowed other winning efforts by sprinter Bobby Turner and high jumper Reynaldo Brown. All three were victors in the meet's college division and Turner finished in a dead heat for first in the open 100-yard dash, but was awarded second. Both places were clocked at 9.4 seconds.

In other results from events on last week's campus sports calendar, Coach Ed Jorgenson's varsity tennis team improved its won-lost record for the season to 17-5 with a pair of victories. The Mustang netmen dumped University of California at Riverside and Cal State Fullerton by identical 9-0 margins.

The Cal Poly Staff Club's annual Spring Fling will be held at Leffingwell Beach near San Simeon on Saturday (May 15), according to Robert Adams (Chief of Maintenance and Operations), who is chairman for the event. Tickets for the event are priced at $4 each and are being sold under the leadership of Joy H. Richardson (Industrial Engineering Department). Leffingwell beach, a day camp of the State Parks and Beaches System, is located on Moonstone Beach Dr. (Old Highway 1) near San Simeon Pines.
