"CRISIS" BILL APPROVES $900,000 FOR ENROLLMENT SURGE

Governor Ronald Reagan has signed emergency bill AB 93 to allocate $900,000 to state colleges to meet demands placed on the system by the 1968-69 enrollment surge. Assemblyman Pete Wilson (R-San Diego) and Sen. Clair Burgener (R-San Diego) were present at the signing. The original bill sought $575,000, increased in the Assembly to $2 million, cut back to the original figure, and finally compromised at the $900,000 figure.

The amount includes $325,000 to reimburse state colleges for use of student fee money as an emergency step to meet extra enrollment earlier this year. The full Cal Poly portion of the $900,000 has not yet been announced.

FACULTY ADVANCES REPORTED

In a final report requested by Trustee Louis H. Heilbron, C. Mangel Keene, assistant chancellor, faculty and staff affairs, cited the substantial improvement in faculty benefits and salaries achieved during the eight-year period the Board of Trustees has been in existence.

Dr. Keene's report compares advances with those of the University of California during the same period:

"The average weighted all-ranks salary for the regular faculty of the University of California in 1961-62 was 18.7% above that for the California State Colleges. By 1968-69 this differential had been reduced to 6.9%.

"In 1961-62 the average compensation (salary plus overall fringe benefits used by the AAUP) for the University of California was 20.3% above that of the California State Colleges. By 1968-69 this differential had been reduced to 10.5%.

Dr. Keene noted that, "Our efforts with the Legislature and the Governor to justify additional improvements, as well as the intensive recruiting campaigns conducted to satisfy the great manpower needs of the California State Colleges, have tended to obscure the upward trend in gains which have been achieved.

The full text of the seven-page report and covering letter has been made available to the following: President's Council, Academic Council, Administrative Council, associate deans, department heads, administrative offices, and Faculty Reading Room of the Library. Every faculty member is invited to read the full report, available for review at the above offices.

GRAVESIDE SERVICES FOR ROY DAVIS HELD THURSDAY

Military graveside services for Roy H. Davis, son of Charles P. Davis (Head of the Aeronautical Engineering Department), were held last Thursday (March 6) morning at Los Osos Valley Memorial Park near Los Osos. Young Davis, 21, was killed during a helicopter action while serving in the U.S. Army in Vietnam. He entered the service two years ago and was on his second tour of duty in Vietnam at the time of his death. Members of the Aeronautical Engineering Department faculty and staff have established a memorial fund in young Davis' name at Chris Jespersen School, San Luis Obispo. Others who wish to contribute may do so by sending their checks directly to the school.

TOUR OF HOMES PLANNED BY WOMEN'S CLUB

"Poly at Home" will be the title of a tour of homes planned for March 29 by the Ways and Means Committee of the Cal Poly Women's Club as a fund raising activity. Tickets for the event, which will be from 1 to 4 p.m., will be donations of $1. Mr. John K. Allen is chairman for the event and Mrs. Glenn W. Salo is in charge of ticket sales.

As the title suggests, the affair will be a tour of the homes of several members of the women's club, according to Mrs. Allen. Although the homes that will be included in the tour will remain a surprise, until tickets are purchased, she promises a full afternoon enjoyment. The project chairman said "Poly at Home" will be the club's only fund raising project of the year. Monies gained will be used to assist in the education programs of Cal Poly students from low-income families.

NATIONAL WRESTLING TOURNEY TOPS CAMPUS SPORTS CALENDAR

Four sessions of wrestling, scheduled as part of the National Collegiate Athletic Association's seventh annual College Division national championship tournament, tops the calendar of on-campus sports activity for the week. In addition to the tourney, varsity baseball and the opening home meet of the 1969 season for Coach Dick Purcell's Mustang track and field team are also on tap.

For Coach Vaughan Hitchcock's Mustang matmen, the NCAA tournament will be the climax of another great season. Cal Poly's wrestlers, presently ranked seventh among the nation's college and university teams, are a strong threat to successfully defend the national championship they won last year. Hitchcock's charges closed their 1968-69 season last week with a 34-2 victory over Cal Poly at Pomona to increase their record for the year to 16 wins and 2 losses. The win was the 74th in succession over California teams for the Mustang matmen.

The schedule of sports activity for the week opens this (Tuesday, March 11) afternoon when Coach Bill Hicks' varsity baseball team hosts the College of the Sequoias nine in a game billed for 2:30 p.m., on the campus diamond. That contest will find the Mustangs seeking to regain the victory column after varied success last week. They managed to sandwich an 11-5 victory between 4-0 and 8-2 losses to Chapman College's defending national College Division champion team.

California State College at Los Angeles will provide the competition when its varsity track and field team meets the Mustang thinclads in a dual meet announced for 1 p.m., Saturday (March 15) on the track field located adjacent to Poly Grove. The Cal Poly team will be in quest of its first victory of the season after having lost its opening meet to University of California at Berkeley and San Diego State College last weekend.

TRUSTEES APPROVE DISCIPLINARY POLICY

A new policy on disciplinary procedures for academic personnel has been approved by the Trustees of the California State Colleges. The new policy will allow a reasonable interim period for the 19 state colleges to revise their local disciplinary procedures.

The Chancellor's Office stressed that these procedures have been developed independently from the San Francisco strike issues, as recommended by the statewide Academic Senate following a three-year study by campus delegates.

By a substantial majority vote, the trustees reaffirmed an existing policy that "... this Board stands ready to discuss administrative procedures and grievances with any faculty or employee group so long as these organizations are meeting their employment responsibilities and are not disrupting the academic process."

CAL POLY PLACEMENT PROGRAM NAMED "BEST IN WEST"

Men in the best position to know believe employment placement opportunities for students at Cal Poly are the best among public colleges and universities in the Western United States. They have rated Cal Poly's placement operation first among those of 39 tax-supported colleges and universities studied by a committee of specialists in employee recruitment representing business, industry, and higher education.

Results of the study by the Research Committee of the Western College Placement Association, which represents the major employers of the 11 Western States, were announced by Eugene A. Rittenhouse, (Placement Director. "Recruiters from 213 businesses and corporations rated the placement facilities of all colleges and universities they visited on 9 categories on a scale from 1 to 6 with 1 being the highest score. On the average of 213 judgements, Cal Poly's placement operation rated 1.99" Rittenhouse said.

In addition to its first place among tax-supported colleges and universities, Cal Poly was second among a total of 61 public and private colleges and universities rated by the recruitment representatives. Only Brigham Young University of Provo, Utah, which scored an average of 1.91, finished above Cal Poly.

Among categories rated by the business and industry representatives were reception and assistance given, extent to which candidates meet employer's specification, apparent confidence of students in the placement center, faculty interest and participation in placement center activities, and adequacy of placement center physical facilities. A high rating in the survey, equated with excellent placement operations, is an important factor in attracting corporation recruiters to the college.

"Many representatives think twice about going to a campus where they have been poorly received in the past," Rittenhouse explains. Although the caliber of students is the main reason recruiters come back year after year, results of the WCPA survey indicate that they are satisfied with all facets of placement facilities. "You can be sure recruiters talk about their reception at colleges and universities," the Cal Poly placement director continued. "I am certain a few will visit Cal Poly next year who did not before this survey was announced. The increased recruiting will benefit our students who are seeking post-graduation employment," he added.

Cal Poly's season for recruiter interviews is currently at its peak. A typical day finds from 12 to 18 representatives of business, industry, public schools, and governmental agencies meeting full schedules of interviews with students who are prospective employees. During the 1967-68 academic year, 713 representatives held 5,744 interviews with Cal Poly students, Rittenhouse said.

A past-president of Western College Placement Association, the Cal Poly placement director is currently the Western college representative on the national College Placement Council. Rittenhouse has been in charge of placement operations at Cal Poly for the past 16 years. Before that he taught in the college's Social Sciences Department and served as administrative assistant for personnel.

Cal Poly Report is produced by the Office of Information Services, Administration 210. Material should be submitted in writing prior to noon on Friday.
