RICHARDSON, WHITSON NAMED "OUTSTANDING TEACHERS" FOR 1964-65

A highlight during the annual Fall Staff Conference held last week on campus was presentation of "outstanding teacher" awards to two long-time members of the faculty. Recipients of the college's second annual awards honoring outstanding performances by its teaching staff were Dr. Milo E. Whitson, head of the Mathematics Department, and Joy O. Richardson, a member of the Mechanical Engineering Department faculty. Their awards, each in the amount of $100, were made possible by a grant to Cal Poly from the Sears Roebuck Foundation.

The presentations, made by President Julian A. McPhee, who was assisted by Robert Holmquist, chairman of the selection committee, preceded President McPhee's speech to the faculty, entitled, "My Hope for Cal Poly's Future." Commenting on the college's two-year-old program for honoring outstanding teaching among members of its faculty, the president complimented the committee which handled the selections on its work. This year's recipients were selected from a group of 19 instructors, nominated by their students, fellow teachers, and former students.

Richardson received his BS degree from the University of Nebraska in 1940 and his Master of Engineering degree from Yale University two years later. Since then, he has been an instructor at Yale; New Haven Junior College, New Haven, Conn.; and at Orland High School, Orland, Calif. He became a member of the Cal Poly faculty in 1948. He has considerable experience in business and industry and is a registered professional engineer in the State of California.

Dr. Whitson received his Bachelor of Philosophy degree from Washburn College in 1937, MA degree from George Peabody College for Teachers three years later, and his Doctor of Education degree from the University of Southern California in 1949. At Cal Poly since 1947, he was a public school teacher and administrator in the State of Kansas, an officer in the US Navy, and a lecturer in mathematics at USC prior to joining the college's faculty.

ADDITIONAL EDITIONS OF "C S C REVIEW" DISTRIBUTED

Copies of the June and August editions of The California State Colleges Review are being distributed as attachments to this issue of Staff Bulletin. The June edition was overlooked during preparation of last week's issue, while that for August arrived on campus late last week.

A monthly publication prepared by the office of CSC Chancellor Glenn S. Dumke, the Review is designed to help keep members of faculties of the various California State Colleges informed of events and accomplishments of their colleagues at other campuses in the college system.

SALE OF PARKING PERMITS FOR FALL QUARTER CONTINUES

Sale of parking permits for the Fall Quarter, which began yesterday (Monday, September 20) is continuing at the Cashier's Window located on the first floor of the Administration Building. Price for the permit, which allows members of the faculty and staff of the college to park in marked "staff" parking spaces on campus, is $9.00 per quarter.

The need for having permits from previous quarters removed from vehicles continues. Both campus parking regulations and the California Motor Vehicle Code bear on this matter. Campus regulations call for removal of all permits not currently in effect, while the MVC requires that all decals of this nature be confined to the seven-inch-square area in the lower right-hand corner of the windshield surface.

Enforcement of parking regulations for the quarter began with the start of classes yesterday (Monday, September 20) morning and will continue through end of final examinations.

STAFF CLUB SCHEDULES COFFEE HOUR FOR NEW, OLD MEMBERS, OCTOBER 3

The patio of the Motel Inn in San Luis Obispo will be site of the Staff Club's annual coffee hour for new and old members, Sunday, October 3, from 3:00 to 5:00 p.m. New members of the college's staff and faculty are especially invited to attend and old members are urged to be on hand to welcome them. A table of snacks with coffee and tea will be available to help stave off hunger.

REVIEW OF "TELL ME JOSEPHINE" PLANNED FOR SEPTEMBER 28

Pearl Turner, curriculum librarian on the college Library's staff, will review Tell Me, Josephine, edited by Barbara Hall, when the Books at High Noon luncheon series continues next Tuesday (September 28), beginning at noon, in the Staff Dining Room.

"Tell Me, Josephine" is a personal advice column which appears in the Central Africa Mail, a weekly newspaper published in Zambia (formerly Northern Rhodesia). The editor of this book has selected letters which give a picture of everyday life of the African and his difficulties. Miss Turner's review should give an interesting picture of the world in which the Dr. Robert Motts, the Philip Bromleys and the George Furimskys lived while they were on the faculty of Evelyn Hone College of Further Education in Lusaka.

On today's (Tuesday, September 21) program, Ena Marston, chairman of the Books at High Noon series, will review the second edition of Fowler's Dictionary of Modern English Usage. Starting time and meeting place are same as those listed above for next week's luncheon.

TEA WILL OPEN SEASON'S ACTIVITY FOR CAL POLY WOMEN'S CLUB MEMBERS

The Cal Poly Women's Club will open its activity season with its annual Fall Tea, Saturday (September 25). Planned for Room 129 of the Library, from 3:00 to 5:00 p.m., the event will provide both new and old members of the club with an opportunity to sign up for any of the special interest section activities they may be interested in.

All women employees and the wives of members of the college faculty and staff are invited to attend.

COLLEGE EXHIBIT AT STATE FAIR RETURNS TO CAMPUS WITH THIRD-PLACE RIBBON

The San Luis Obispo County exhibit at the California State Fair and Exposition, prepared and exhibited by Cal Poly, returned to campus last week with a third-place ribbon and $1,200 in premiums. Entered in County Exhibits - Contributions to the Development of California, the display competed with other county exhibits costing up to $20,000. It included photographs, a large mural painting, and a four-by-seven-foot model.

'Learn by Doing at Cal Poly in Beautiful San Luis Obispo County' was theme of the exhibit, which also featured recreational opportunities in the county including Avila Beach, Hearst Castle, and Morro Bay. It came about through a resolution, passed by the county's Board of Supervisors last February 23, which designated the college as San Luis Obispo County's agent and exhibitor at the huge state exposition, which ran September 1-12, in Sacramento.

Robert Reynolds, an illustrator on the staff of Cal Poly's Audio Visual Department, designed the exhibit. The premium money earned will be used to defray construction costs.

The exhibit itself was 32 feet wide and 12 feet deep with the 11 by 5-foot color mural painting occupying its left corner. The mural depicted a youth on his horse overlooking the San Luis Obispo Campus from the Santa Lucia Mountain foothills. The mural-sized photographs of Morro Bay, Hearst Castle, and Avila Beach filled the exhibit's right side, with the scale model of Cal Poly and photographs representing the college's Agriculture, Engineering, Applied Sciences, and Applied Arts Divisions in the background. Printed information on both the college and San Luis Obispo County was available for interested visitors.

Del Shirley, an instructor in the Agricultural Education Department, served as manager for the display. Norman Manzer, Harold Johnson, Eileen Johnson, Phyllis Armstrong, Shalom Kelner, and Curtis Holder, all students, assisted in attending and constructing the exhibit. Jim Crissie, photographer on the A-V Department's staff, provided photographs.

CAMPUS CONCERT BY LOUIS ARMSTRONG SLATED SEPTEMBER 29

Louis Satchmo Pops Armstrong, known as one of the foremost of all jazz musicians and showmen, will appear in concert in the Men's Gym on campus, Wednesday, September 29, at 8:00 p.m. Being sponsored by the student College Union Assemblies Committee, the show's cast will also include Armstrong's famed "All-Stars."

According to the sponsoring committee, general admission prices for students have been set at $2.00 and for the public, $2.50. Reserved seats are available at $2.50 for students and $3.00 for the public. Tickets at all prices may be purchased at the Associated Students, Inc., offices on campus, or at Brown's Music Store, Wickenden's Men's Wear, Rileys Fashion Center - College Square, and Premiere Music Company, all in San Luis Obispo.

Armstrong is the founding father of a particular style and sound in trumpet playing from which numerous techniques have evolved. However, that which makes its greatest impact on the public is the famed musician's almost 50 years in the business. What people enjoy most about "Satchmo" seems to be his highly-expressive singer-comedianship which will undoubtedly be obvious during his concert here.

The College Union committee, which expects a sell-out crowd to hear Armstrong September 29, indicated last week that the Men's Gym is being prepared to accommodate 3,500 persons for the concert.

COLLEGE STUDENTS, FACULTY INVITED TO JOIN IN "INTERNATIONAL COOPERATION YEAR"

Students and faculty of Cal Poly have been encouraged to participate in the "International Cooperation Year." The invitation came from Joseph A. Amter, chairman of the Committee for Research on the Development of International Institutions of the National Citizens Commission on International Cooperation.

The letter to Cal Poly President Julian A. McPhee indicated that President of the U.S. Lyndon B. Johnson had proclaimed 1965 as "International Cooperation Year" and had set up a broad program within the Executive Branch of the federal government to review our present international policies in cooperation. A National Citizens' Commission on International Cooperation has been organized to present a report to the President at a White House Conference to be held November 29-December 1, 1965.

The national committee is encouraging faculty and students to discuss in seminars or meetings on the subject of international cooperation as an agent of "peace." The committee intends to publish a volume which will contain extensive substantiating material and would welcome contributions from faculty and students if they wish to make such contributions by the deadline, November 1, 1965.

One of the kinds of questions which the national committee hopes students and faculty will attempt to answer is: "Should educational institutions conduct significant educational programs at various levels on the requirements for peace? Please elaborate?"

Contributions should be sent to "Joseph A. Amter, Committee Chairman, Committee for Research on the Development of International Institutions, National Citizens Commission on International Cooperation, Peace Research Organization Fund, 2535 First National Bank Building, Denver, Colo., 80202."

SESLOC NOW IN NEW QUARTERS

Now in its new quarters in Room 206 of the Agricultural Education Building on campus is SESLOC Federal Credit Union. The new location, at the north end of the building's main level, is at the opposite end of the hall from the credit union's old location. Open hours remain the same as those in the former location.

INFORMATION ON TICKETS FOR FOOTBALL CORRECTED; TICKET SALE CONTINUES

Advance sale of tickets for Cal Poly's 1965 varsity football season is continuing according to Robert F. Spink, graduate manager for the Associated Students, Inc., who also issued information to correct that which appeared in last week's issue of Staff Bulletin.

Spink said that last week's article, which left the impression that the special "$5.00 with ASI associate membership" offer for five reserved seat tickets would allow the buyer to purchase five tickets to any one or all five home games, was incorrect. It should have indicated that the offer includes one ticket to each home contest and that the cost will be $5.00 regardless of whether the purchase is made in time for the ticket to be used for all five games or for only two or three.

In addition, the graduate manager said that the several different types of tickets for use by members of the college faculty and staff, discussed in last week's article, remain available. Those interested in obtaining further information regarding purchase

MUSTANG FOOTBALLERS OPEN HOME SLATE SATURDAY NIGHT

With a season-opening 21-20 victory over San Francisco State College already under its belt, Coach Sheldon Harden's grid varsity will begin its home schedule Saturday (September 25) night when it hosts Linfield College of Oregon. Game time for that contest, planned for Mustang Stadium on campus, will be 8:00 p.m.

Last week-end's action saw the Mustangs tally the game's first points in the second quarter and then come from behind to score two touchdowns in the final half to win.

CAMPUS THEATER ANNOUNCES OPEN HOUSE, TRY-OUTS

A request from J. Murray Smith of the English and Speech Department's faculty, asks members of the faculty to announce to their classes that the Theater will hold an open house and try-outs for its planned production of Harvey, Tuesday and Wednesday nights from 7:00 to 10:00 p.m.

The combined events will provide an opportunity for interested students to see and learn more about lighting, makeup, the stage, and the workshop. At the same time, try-outs for the play, which is scheduled to run November 5, 6, 19 and 20, will take place in Room 212 of the Theater Building. Those interested in trying out do not need to have had prior theatrical experience and may receive either class credit or activity credit.

Smith concludes by adding "coffee and cake will be served with great splendor on the radial saw table in the workshop."

STAFF CLUB SLATES TALK BY COACH HARDEN FOR THURSDAY LUNCHEON

With a successful opening game already history, Cal Poly's Head Football Coach Sheldon Harden will illuminate his crystal ball with statistics and experience and really tell about what the 1965 grid season has in store for Mustang fans when he addresses Thursday's Staff Club Luncheon meeting. Special guests for the program, which is planned for noon, Thursday (September 23), in the Staff Dining Room, will be several members of the Mustang Boosters Club.

Staff Club members who have wondered how to support the college's athletic program other than by game attendance and encouraging athletes in their classes will want to bring $10 to the meeting and become a Mustang booster, according to Col. William Boyce, president of the club. By special arrangement, all members of the Cal Poly faculty and staff are now eligible to join the Mustang Boosters Club at the special annual rate of $10.00.

Membership in the boosters club entitles the member to reserved parking at home football games; free admission to all Cal Poly athletic events except football, special event, and tournaments; listing in football programs; and a car sticker and desk plaque. Memberships in this organization, which supports the college's athletic program through a scholarship program administered by the college, may be purchased from Athletic Coordinator Dick Anderson, whose office is in Room 209 of the Men's Physical Education Building.

The Mustang Boosters Club annual banquet, scheduled for tomorrow (Wednesday, September 22) evening, beginning at 6:00 p.m. at the Madonna Inn in San Luis Obispo, will present Ernie Nevers, a former all-American and pioneer professional football player, as guest speaker. Tickets for the banquet may be purchased at $3.00 each. Club members may purchase two tickets for $5.00.

TAPE OF PANEL DISCUSSION ON "PERSONNEL BENEFITS" IS AVAILABLE

Because a number of members of the staff and faculty were unable to attend the panel discussion on "Personnel Benefits," held during the recent Fall Staff Conference, a tape recording was made of the proceedings and is available to those who would like to hear it.

The panel, made up of experts on various subjects, discussed recent changes in the areas of insurance, retirement, and California Physicians Service Health Insurance.

The 90-minute tape of the discussion may be checked out at the Audio Visual Department's Service Office, Room 9, Business Administration and Education Building.

TRUSTEES IN REVIEW

Victor H. Palmieri was appointed to the Board of Trustees by Governor Brown in July of 1964. A decade before, almost to the month, Trustee Palmieri had graduated from Stanford Law School, where he was editor of the Law Review and had been named to the Order of the Coif, high-ranking honor society of the legal profession. He also received his undergraduate education at Stanford with a major in history.

Following his graduation, he joined the law firm of O'Melveny & Myers in Los Angeles where he served until duty with the U. S. Army. Later, he returned to O'Melveny & Myers where he specialized in corporate and business law.

In 1958 Mr. Palmieri left private practice to become executive vice-president of the Janss Investment Corp., a leading real estate development firm, and in 1963, he was named president of the firm and its affiliated companies.

Mr. Palmieri has remained continuously active in educational fields. A lecturer in law at the Stanford Law School, he is currently teaching a course there in legal aspects of real estate transactions. He also lectures from time to time at various other graduate schools, including the University of Southern California and UCLA. In addition he is a founding member of the Center for the Study of Democratic Institutions in Santa Barbara.

He was born in Chicago, Ill., but has lived in California since 1939. He has served as a member of a number of state commissions concerned with urban problems. As a member of the Commission on Metropolitan Area Problems, the Governor's Advisory Commission on Housing and the Coordinating Council on Urban Policies, he has been closely involved with state-level efforts to meet growth problems throughout the state.

REVISED CSC BUDGET ADOPTED

A pared-down but still substantial CSC support budget which emerged from two legislative sessions and a special hearing held by Governor Brown was finally approved as both the month and fiscal year ended.

At the Governor's hearing, Jun. 23, Chancellor Dumke accompanied by Trustees Louis Heilbron, Albert J. Ruffo and E. Guy Warren and Dr. John Livingston, chairman of the Statewide Academic Senate, continued to plead the case of the Colleges for no further cuts in the system's budgetary requests, stressing again a pressing need for faculty salary increases.

As finally adopted, budget figures revealed more gains than losses in key items, including a faculty salary increase of approximately 10%.

Other faculty benefits which became available for the new fiscal year are: $250,000 for sabbatical leaves; $200,000 for leaves of absence to do research in science or creative work in the arts; $100,000 for achievement awards to recognize excellence in classroom instruction; and $96,000 for out-of-state travel related to instruction. The appropriations likewise provided $100,000 to defray up to 50% of moving costs for relocating new faculty.

One million dollars for library books to augment existing books-per-student ratios at five of the Colleges was also authorized.

On-campus work-study programs employing student assistants were funded with $148,226 to be used with federal matching funds; an additional $17,000 was allocated for lectures by visiting scholars; and the educational TV station at San Diego SC as well as the nursery school at San Francisco SC were provided support funds.

"All of these improvements," said Chancellor Dumke, "will greatly help to relieve the spartan budget under which we have been operating for years, but we are still far behind. In this regard, I am pleased to note that the Legislature is planning an interim study on the whole problem of financing public higher education."

SYSTEM HONORS MARK COMMENCEMENTS

Commencement Day at Humboldt SC, Jun. 4, was not only the first in a series of statewide ceremonies, it also marked the granting of the first honorary degree to a CSC alumnus. An honorary Doctor of Laws degree was conferred by the Colleges on Dr. Monroe E. Spaght, onetime president of the student body at Humboldt and now managing director and chairman of the board of Europe's largest industrial complex, Royal Dutch Shell petroleum companies. Trustee James F. Thacher and HSC President Cornelius H. Siemens officiated.

A week later, on Jun. 11, at San Francisco SC's Commencement, Trustee Louis H. Heilbron and Chancellor Dumke presided with SFSC President Paul A. Dodd at the award of an honorary Doctor of Humane Letters degree to Frank V. de Bellis, patron of the arts and donor to the Colleges of the immense collection of books, music and objets d'art which bears his name in a special section of the library building at SFSC. (See photo at right.)

De Bellis, who was honored for "his contributions to the preservation of Italian culture and its interpretation to the students and people of California," will be further honored this month at the University of Bari, the fourth largest educational institution in Italy, which will present him with its sigillum aureum (golden seal) in tribute to his lifelong interest in the dissemination of Italian culture.

Dr. Spaght gave the commencement address at Humboldt SC. Dr. Arthur Stanton Adams, former president of the American Council on Education, was the principal speaker at the San Francisco ceremonies.

On other campuses of the system, speakers were: Chico: Dr. Harold Benjamin, USC Visiting Lecturer; Stanislaus: Dr. John F. Olson, president of Oklahoma City University; Fresno: Dr. Louis Benezet, president of Claremont Graduate School and University Center; Sacramento: Dr. Guy A. West, retiring president of SSC; San Diego: Dr. Frank Baxter, professor emeritus of USC; San Fernando Valley: Dr. R. A. Billington of the Huntington Library; San Jose: Trustee Louis H. Heilbron; Cal State Hayward: Dr. Mitchell P. Briggs, executive secretary of the Western Association of Schools and Colleges.

State Fullerton: Trustee Victor H. Palmieri; Cal Poly, San Luis Obispo: Charles Luckman, chairman, CSC Board of Trustees; Cal Poly, Pomona: Mr. Bart Lytton, president and chairman of Lytton Financial Corp.

This year, the California State Colleges graduated approximately 20,000 students, a record number. Among them was Gunnar Herrstrom of Sonoma SC, who received his bachelor's degree in psychology and thus completed a program started at UC which was interrupted by the war. World War I, that is. Mr. Herrstrom is 72 years old. He plans to return to SSC for the summer session to continue studies in Spanish.

FACULTY SALARY ISSUE ON TV

A television documentary, "The Salary Issue: Colleges in Crisis," was filmed last month at San Diego SC. Participants in the program, a segment of the "Profile" series, were Trustee Victor H. Palmieri; Chancellor Dumke; Dr. Ernest O'Byrne, Dr. James N. Tidwell and Dr. Donald N. Wood of SDSC; and Jerry Harmon, president of the Associated Students at the College. They presented a panel discussion. Showings were on KOGO, San Diego; KNBC, Los Angeles; and KRON, San Francisco. It is scheduled for KVIE, Sacramento, Jul. 2, and subsequently will be made available to stations in Bakersfield, Fresno, Eureka and Santa Barbara. Motion picture prints of the program are on loan to the Colleges from the Chancellor's Office.

Retirements of Dr. H. Thurston Hatch, associate dean of students in charge of placement, and Dr. William B. McCann, director of the School Administration Center and professor of education at Chico SC, became effective this month.

LIVINGSTON HEADS STATEWIDE SENATE

Heath of San Jose SC; and reconstituted its Executive Committee by electing as members-at-large Mr. Leo G. McClatchy of San Francisco SC and Dr. William R. Rogers of San Jose, who will serve on the committee with the new officers and Dr. Wiley of CSLB, past-president.

The first doctoral program to be offered jointly by a California State College and the University of California will be initiated at San Diego SC this fall, it was announced this month by Chancellor Dumke and University President Clark Kerr. It will be offered in chemistry by UC's San Diego campus and SDSC. Granting of joint doctorates was authorized in 1960 under the Master Plan and approval of the chemistry program was granted by a joint graduate board of final academic review composed of representatives from the Colleges and the University.

SUPREME COURTS ACCREDIT CHAPMAN

Attorney Mayer Chapman, now associate counsel of the CSC legal staff, has been admitted to the U.S. Supreme Court for practice before that body, and also admitted to the Court of Military Appeals, highest military court. He earned his undergraduate and law degree at UCLA where he was elected to Phi Beta Kappa and the Order of the Coif.

STATEWIDE NEWS BRIEFS

San Jose SC -- Lowell C. Pratt, "dean" of CSC public information directors, retires this month after 18 years at the College. He will be succeeded by James E. Noah, his assistant for the past three years. + + + A two-year study financed by the federal government through the State's Division of Highways will be conducted by SJSC to determine whether a special course of driver training will improve driving habits of traffic violators.

San Diego SC -- Dr. Malcolm A. Love, president of SDSC, has been triply honored: by the American Association of University Professors, at the annual banquet of its San Diego chapter; by Colorado State College at Greeley, where he delivered the commencement address; and by the University of Nevada which this month awarded him an honorary LL.D. degree. + + + Cap and Gown, SDSC's honor society for women, is now a chapter of Mortar Board, the only national honorary organization recognizing outstanding senior women's societies in American colleges and universities. Cap and Gown thus becomes the first CSC chapter of Mortar Board and the 117th in the nation.

The Order of Merit of the Federal Republic of Germany was awarded to Chancellor Dumke at a recent ceremony in Los Angeles. Photograph shows Hans Rolf Kiderlen, German Consul-General, congratulating Dr. and Mrs. Dumke following presentation of the Order's medal and citation which Dr. Dumke holds. The decoration was conferred in appreciation of the Chancellor's part in establishing CSC international programs overseas and for encouraging instruction in foreign languages, including German, throughout the college system.

TRUSTEES IN REVIEW

(Continued from Page 1) Brown commented: "I have very deliberately sought to recognize the importance and the standing of the California State Colleges in my appointments to the Board, and to push for their continued development as centers of academic excellence. Mr. Palmieri's appointment contributes to both of those goals." Trustee Palmieri is married. His wife, the former Martha Cooley of Pasadena, is also a Stanford graduate. They have three sons, Victor, Jr.; Matthew B.; and John W. The family home is in Malibu, on Colony Drive.

FALK TO HEAD INTERNATIONAL UNIT

Dr. Karl L. Falk, professor of economics at Fresno SC and an authority on comparative economic systems and international housing, has been named director of international affairs for the California State Colleges.

In making the appointment, Chancellor Dumke said Falk will head an expanded program of international activities, coordinating existing and new programs including foreign aid, international study, student and faculty exchanges with other countries and overseas projects sponsored by private foundations.

One important phase of State College overseas operation consists of programs of study abroad for State College students in France, Germany, Japan, Spain, Sweden and Taiwan under the direction of Dr. Thomas P. Lantos of San Francisco SC, who, according to Dr. Falk, will continue in this aspect of international activities.

Falk has been on the Fresno SC faculty since 1938. He received his undergraduate training at Stanford U. and his doctoral degree at the University of Berlin, Germany.

TRUSTEES IN REVIEW

Governor Edmund G. Brown recently appointed Chester R. Bartalini, 62, president of the California State Council of Carpenters, to succeed Thomas L. Pitts, secretary-treasurer of the California Labor Federation, as a member of CSC's Board of Trustees.

Trustee Pitts said he had asked the Governor to replace him on the board because the demands of his union post "have made it impossible for me to give as much time to the State Colleges as I felt necessary."

Pitts told Governor Brown that he was "most pleased with Mr. Bartalini's appointment. I know he will do a great job for the people of California on this board."

Chester R. Bartalini

The Governor said, "I regret the loss of Tom Pitts from this important board very much. He served with great distinction and his good judgment will certainly be missed."

Governor Brown said that he was, however, "very happy to have the service of Chester Bartalini who has proved himself in many ways a truly dedicated Californian."

"In his long service in the Carpenters' union, Chester Bartalini has shown great administrative talent and executive ability. As a union leader, he has learned to appreciate the need to keep alive and strengthen California's system of tuition-free education."

Trustee Bartalini is a native of Michigan and has lived here since 1936. He served two terms as a member of the state Correctional Industry Commission and has been executive secretary of the Bay Counties District Council of Carpenters, San Francisco, since 1950.

He is a member of the Commonwealth Club, the Elks, Eagles, Associated Sportsmen of California and the Alameda Rod and Gun Club.

He is a director of the Alameda Boys Club and a member of the Joint Labor University of California committee.

He has been president of the California State Council of Carpenters since 1958.

Trustee Bartalini lives at 1446 Eastshore Drive, Alameda, with his wife, Florinda. He has six children and seven grandchildren.

FISCAL TASK FORCES DEPLOYED

More efficient ways of staffing and funding systemwide college operations at every level of support are now being sought by eight "task forces" representing all of the Colleges.

Members of the task-force groups were appointed by the CSC Committee on Fiscal Responsibility which was formed in May to implement the provisions of Senate Concurrent Resolution No. 29 calling for a study of greater fiscal flexibility for the college system.

Under the leadership of Harry W. Brakebill, vice-president at San Francisco SC and permanent chairman of the committee, together with Sol Buchalter, chairman of the department of finance and law at San Fernando Valley SC, who is serving as the committee's executive officer on a fulltime basis during the summer months, the task forces will engage in an all-out assault on the CSC's financial problems.

Scope of the effort is shown by the assignments given to the groups: (1) relationships and responsibilities of state agencies involved; (2) budget formulation processes; (3) determination of level of support; (4) budget administration; (5) accounting and reporting; (6-7-8) self-supporting functions designated as noninstructional, college foundation and summer-session and extension activities.

Before hearings start on SCR 29 next Oct., the specific tasks that these forces have set for themselves are, in order of priority: suggesting feasible and attainable methods for improving budget administration, defining means for determining adequate support levels, and creating a model arrangement for fulfilling accountability requirements relating to expenditure of funds provided by the Legislature. In the matter of accountability, both internal management aspects and external public interest in quality education are being considered by the committee and its forces.

Some eighty representatives of the Colleges and the Chancellor's Office, including presidents, deans, business managers and students, have already been named to the various task forces and most of the groups have started work.

FIRST SCHOLARSHIP FOR CSSB

A $1000 check has established the first scholarship fund sponsored by a private organization for Cal State San Bernardino. Donated by The Social Lites, a Negro women's social and civic organization, it provides an initial $300 for some deserving student from the San Bernardino area. Income from the remainder will go into a permanent fund to which the women's organization will continue to add until a complete scholarship program can be financed from the fund's income alone.

BOOKS, MAGAZINES AND PAPERS

At the end of last June, Dr. Monroe E. Spaght, the former student body president at Humboldt SC who is now managing director of more than 500 companies operated by Royal Dutch Shell—a position of corporate eminence never before achieved by any American—became not only an honorary Doctor of Laws by virtue of his CSC degree, but also an author of belles-lettres by virtue of his book, "The Bright Key."

Dr. Monroe E. Spaght (right) receiving the LL.D. degree from Trustee James F. Thatcher at Humboldt State College, June 4, 1965

Just published by Appleton-Century-Crofts, the book defends with truth, urbanity and wit his strong belief that business has real responsibilities to our educational system. Dr. Spaght earned his Ph.D. in chemistry at a time when much of the business world was convinced such training rendered a man unfit for a life of decision and action. Today he is recognized as a leading spokesman for industry on the role of education in contemporary society. A trustee of Stanford U., he is chairman of the Committee for Corporate Support of American Universities and chairman of the New York State Science and Technology Foundation.

Literary honors for two other Humboldt alumni were also in the news. Mr. James Yoakum and Mr. Sherman Pearl won first prize in the full-color category of the 1965 Government-wide Publications Contest sponsored by the Federal Editors Association with "Wildlife on the Public Lands," produced for the U.S. Dept. of the Interior, Bureau of Land Management. Mr. Yoakum, presently a lecturer in natural resources at the College, was chief color photographer for the publication. Mr. Pearl is with the Nevada office of the Bureau. Their document is the No. 1 seller of the Government Printing Office with the widest distribution of any federal book and is now being translated into several foreign languages.

A textbook on wildlife management by Dr. Raymond Dasmann, chairman of HSC's division of natural resources, was recently published by John Wiley & Sons. It is his second text. The first, "Environmental Conservation," came out in 1959.

Dr. Ralph Samuelson, chairman of the division of language arts at the College, has been notified that "Nineteenth Century American Authors," a syllabus of American Literature of which he was an editor, is now being published by the Eurasia Press in New Delhi, India, for use by more than 30 Indian universities.

College Information Officer Vivienne L. George received first place award from the California Press Women for production of "Challenge, 1964," the first annual President's Report. In other categories Mrs. George received third place for a feature article, "The Grapes Run Dry Along the Mayacamas," published in a national magazine, and top honorable mention for a series of newspaper articles about faculty members published last fall.

Dr. Clay Hatfield of the biological sciences department at Cal Poly SLO and John Applegarth, also a member of the biological sciences faculty, have collaborated in the production of a new college biology textbook, "Applied Microbiology," reflecting Dr. Hatfield's more than 20 years' experience as a microbiologist. National Press, Palo Alto, published.

OVERSEAS DIRECTORS NAMED

Resident directors of CSC's International Programs during the 1965-66 academic year have been announced by Chancellor Dumke.

Named were Dr. Leonard Messier of San Diego SC, who will supervise the program at the University of Aix-Marseille, France; Dr. John E. Merrill, also of SDSC, at Waseda University in Tokyo, Japan; Dr. Joachim Stanzel of San Jose SC, at the Free University of Berlin and the University of Heidelberg, Germany; Dr. Joseph Reid Scott, also of SJSC, at the University of Madrid and the University of Granada, Spain, and Dr. Donald M. Castleberry of San Francisco SC who was appointed for the University of Stockholm and the University of Uppsala, Sweden.

SAN JOSE OFFERS NEW TUTORIALS

The usual courses, lectures and grades so familiar to college students will be unknown in Sep., 1965, to a segment of entering freshmen at San Jose SC.

Their unfamiliarity will stem from an experimental program, which is officially known as "Tutorials in Letters and Science."

"While tutorial programs are not new, the abandonment of the course is a startling departure from the usual educational experiments and reforms," according to Dr. Mervyn L. Cadwallader, initiator of the program and associate professor of sociology at SJSC.

Instead of the familiar format the new program will make use of individual tutorials, group discussions, small seminars, and laboratory sessions. Successful participants will earn 48 semester units of credit.

"The chief obligation of the student," said Dr. John Galm, assistant professor of English and one of the first six tutors, "will be to submit written work to his tutor approximately every two weeks and then to have a conference with him."

Dr. Cadwallader said a central theme will be featured each of the four semesters. As an example, four semesters work could be organized around study of four pivotal epochs in Western Civilization. Students will be encouraged to participate in some of the planning and evaluation of the program.

"The faculty-student ratio with the tutorial program will be approximately 1-to-20. This will permit the kind of intimate association and personal exchange between college professors and students that has become notable by its absence on the campuses of our large colleges and universities," said Dr. Cadwallader.

He continued by stating that this return to a personal education may be one answer to the student demonstrations across the country.

Other tutors, in addition to Drs. Cadwallader and Galm, are Dr. Richard Tansey, professor of art; Dr. David Newman, associate professor of psychology; Dr. Harold DeBey, professor of chemistry; and Gary Albright, assistant professor of philosophy.

UC COMMISSIONS CSLB ART

The first catalog of the new Irvine campus of UC, published early this month, was designed by Dr. Joseph Krause, professor of art at Cal State Long Beach.

Dr. Krause's striking designs for various publications at the College caught the eye of Dr. Clayton Garrison, a former associate professor of speech at CSLB and present dean of UC Irvine's fine arts division. He requested Krause to design the new UC catalog.

Rose Mary Thompson, 21-year-old electronics major at Cal Poly, Pomona, became the first "four-year coed" to receive an engineering degree from the College when she graduated this summer. Women were not enrolled at that campus until 1961.

A CAMPUS CONVERTED into an international showcase for monumental sculpture has made Cal State at Long Beach a cynosure of cultural controversy this summer. Bold, abstract works formed of concrete, steel, redwood, aluminum, pipes and paint challenge the viewer as nine world-famous sculptors complete their contributions to the first International Sculpture Symposium in this country. Their creations will remain on permanent exhibition at the College. Along an area 100 ft. in length and about 28 ft. wide at the Seventh Street corner of the campus, 19 massive forms 8-to-10 ft. high (model pictured center-left, above) constitute the sculpture of J. J. Beljon, director of the Royal Academy of Fine Arts in The Hague, Holland. Sculptor Beljon (upper left) contemplating the extent of his work under construction, said wryly: "Gallery art and art dealers are doomed: they have no future." Other photos, proceeding clockwise, show — Gabriel Kohn of the U.S.; Andre Bloc of France; Yosso Eloul of Israel; and, directly under the center portrait of Piotr Kowalski, a Polish sculptor residing in France, an interior view of the sculptors' workshop with student helper in foreground and with plaster on hand, Kenneth Glenn, director of the symposium, who is also professor of art at CSLB. Left corner picture was taken at Bethlehem Steel's Terminal Island plant where donated fabrication of plate contributed by Triangle Steel Co. and General Pipe & Supply Co. vitalized the designs of Canadian sculptor Robert Murray. Also participating in the symposium, but not shown here, are sculptors Kenjiro Azuma and Claire Falkenstein as well as muralist Rita Letendre, who is sculptor Eloul's wife.

The ACADEMIC SENATE REGISTER

Headlines in the Los Angeles Times of last Jul. 2 announced, "Educators Hail Budget as Victory." Yet, I suspect, for a large portion of the faculties the salary increase and "the state college quality package" of funds for research, travel, sabbaticals, and distinguished teaching represented a hollow victory. Not primarily because the salary increase was "too little, too late" (though it was) and certainly not because the other benefits are insignificant. Many of us are, rather, in the position of the teenager whose desire to be understood and respected is not compensated by an increase in his allowance. For those who react this way (I include myself) the most hopeful aspects of the past year are to be found in those activities of ad hoc faculty groups, professional organizations, the Chancellor's Office, Trustees, and Academic Senate which have sought to create and enlarge public respect and support for the goals of the State Colleges.

If we have sometimes acted inexpediently or undiplomatically we need not apologize. This is not a job for image-makers; our problems will not always respond to the techniques of politics as "the art of the possible." Our task has been to prepare the seedbed for a dialogue with the community and with the Legislature through which the purposes and aspirations of the state college experiment may be clarified. We need now to consider, as we gain the attention of the public and the Legislature, what we are to say.

Our problem is put into sharp focus by an observation of the young John Adams in 1765. Reflecting on the advantages bequeathed by the early settlers to their progeny, Adams noted the unique "civil and religious principles" on the basis of which "they laid very early the foundation of colleges, and invested them with ample privileges and emoluments." "It is remarkable," he added, "that they have left among their posterity so universal an affection and veneration for those seminaries, and for liberal education, that the meanest of the people contribute cheerfully to the support and maintenance of them every year, and that nothing is more generally popular than projections for the honor, reputation, and advantage of those seats of learning."

Is not our task to rekindle and revitalize the "universal affection and veneration" which alone in the long run can provide the basis for public support of our "seminaries"? The "civil and religious principles" which supported it in times past, Adams went on to note, valued knowledge as the means to liberty. Perhaps the purpose of the State Colleges reflects the universalization of that insight. If so, it is time to get about clarifying our own ideas on the matter and finding the means to communicate them to others. If we are to survive we must become "the people's colleges," not in an ad-man's empty phrase and not in the people's present understanding, but in a sense we have yet to define clearly for ourselves and then to communicate to the public. As the Academic Senate begins its third year of existence in the shadow of continuing fiscal crises we will, I hope, turn part of our energies to pondering how to recover and how to deserve that "universal affection and veneration."

—John C. Livingston, Chairman.

STRONG POLICY ON COLLEGE SUPPORT ADOPTED

With four new California State Colleges established by the Legislature—in Contra Costa, Kern, San Mateo, Santa Clara and Ventura counties—the Board of Trustees has adopted a policy to protect the support base of the existing Colleges.

In a resolution of Jul. 29, the Trustees expressed their concern "for the financing of the California State Colleges at a level to maintain and strengthen educational excellence" and declared that "the financing of existing State Colleges should be maintained at the proper level and not be adversely affected by the financial impact of the addition of new State Colleges."

Chancellor Dumke pointed out that the great strides made in the recent legislative session in faculty salary increases, library and sabbatical leave augmentations, research and travel allowances, were the result of hard work in presenting the case for the State Colleges to the Legislature. "We must make it just as clear," he said, "that our support budget for existing Colleges is still at an inadequate level and must not be diluted further by draining off funds to establish new Colleges."

FELLOWSHIPS AND SCHOLARSHIPS

Three humanities professors from San Francisco SC have been awarded Guggenheim Fellowships: Ruby Cohn, associate professor of English and world literature; Mark Harris, associate professor of English and director of creative writing; and Rudolph Weingartner, associate professor of philosophy and chairman of the philosophy department.

It is believed that no Cal State campus has ever before received three Guggenheims at one time.

Dr. George Huppert, assistant professor of history at Cal State Hayward, has been awarded a fellowship by the American Council of Learned Societies to complete research on "The New History of the French Renaissance." +++ Fellowships for study and travel in India have been awarded to Dr. Joseph Pugliese, CSH associate professor of art, and to Glenn Glasow, assistant professor of music, by the Institute of International Education. Only 22 fellowships were awarded nationwide.

Faculty fellowships provided by the National Science Foundation will enable Dr. Seymour Mack, associate professor of geology at Fresno SC, to take his sabbatical leave at Stanford U. for study and research in geo-chemistry and hydrology; Earl L. Pye of the physical sciences faculty at Cal Poly, Pomona, to complete his chemistry research project on detergent micelles at Louisiana State U.; and Dr. Donald E. Bianchi, associate professor of biology at San Fernando Valley SC, to spend a year at the University of Geneva, Switzerland.
