FALL QUARTER ENROLLMENT CONTINUES UPWARD TREND

With records for the late registration period, which ended last (Monday, October 3) night, yet to be counted, student registration for the Fall Quarter seemed certain to top the 7,800-mark. A breakdown of students who enrolled during the regular registration period, issued last week by Registrar F. Jerald Holley, shows that a total of 7,735 signed up for classes on September 22 and 23.

Three of the campus' instructional divisions showed significant gains with the Engineering Division's 2,371 students the largest. Totals for the Applied Arts Division show 2,364; Agriculture, 1,664; and Applied Sciences, 1,336 students enrolled. Largest number of majors enrolled among the campus' 31 instructional major departments was in the Architecture and Architectural Engineering Department, where 830 students enrolled. Other departments with over 400 majors enrolled include animal husbandry, 448; electronic engineering, 474; mechanical engineering, 418; business administration, 550; home economics, 543; and social sciences, 567.

Men continue to outnumber women by about 2.6 to 1 margin in the student body. Included among those signing up during the regular registration period were 5,657 men and 2,078 women.

Registration in one of the class groups topped 2,000 for the third time in campus history when 2,066 freshmen enrolled. Other class totals included 1,641 sophomores, 1,574 juniors, 2,009 seniors (a first for the senior enrollment), and 160 graduate students. A total of 285 limited students also registered.

A final tally on Fall Quarter registration is expected later this week, according to Holley.

Subscription to News Focus, a new service which will attempt to translate current world events into visual language for use on the classroom screen, has been announced by the campus Audio-Visual Department. The service will be in the form of a weekly 16-page periodical published jointly by the 3M Company and Newsweek magazine September through June.

Each issue will feature carefully-selected transparency masters of cartoons, photographs, drawings, and maps concerning events that made news of the previous week. Background material for each item will also be included.

Arrangements for use of an overhead projector and the making of necessary transparencies may be made while reviewing individual copies of the service publication in the Audio-Visual Department's Service Office, Room 9, Business Administration and Education Building.

INQUIRIES ABOUT DANFORTH GRADUATE FELLOWSHIP PROGRAM INVITED

Inquiries about the Danforth Graduate Fellowships, to be awarded in March, 1967, are invited, according to Eugene A. Rittenhouse, campus director of placement and local liaison representative for the fellowship program.

The fellowships, offered by the Danforth Foundation of St. Louis, Mo., are open to men and women who are seniors or recent graduates of accredited colleges in the United States, who have serious interest in college teaching as a career, and who plan to study for a PhD in a field common to the undergraduate college. Applicants may be single or married, must be less than 30 years of age at the time of application, and may not have undertaken any graduate or professional study beyond the baccalaureate level.

Approximately 120 fellowships will be awarded under the program in March, 1967. Candidates must be nominated by liaison officers of their undergraduate institutions by November 1, 1966. The foundation does not accept direct applications for the fellowships.

DR. OVERMEYER WILL PRESENT "BOOKS AT HIGH NOON" REVIEW OCTOBER 11

Dr. Philip Overmeyer, a member of the Business Administration Department's faculty, will review The Q Document by James Hall Roberts when the Books at High Noon group meets for its regular luncheon meeting, next Tuesday (October 11), starting at 12:00 noon, in the Staff Dining Room.

Two themes with religious overtones can be traced through history--the Wandering Jew and the appearance of the Devil among men. Within the past century writers have explored another possibility, i.e., the effect of letters from Satan or from Christ on human beings. Mark Twain's Letters from Earth and C. S. Lewis' The Screwtape Letters give Satan's point of view. In The Q Document, set in present-day Tokyo, the author puts up for bid a letter written by Christ. For reasons of their own, the chief bidders become Communist China and the Vatican.

If there is a game of the World Series scheduled for the same hour as the October 11 luncheon, the program will be postponed until October 18.

On today's (Tuesday, October 4) program, Dr. Arthur Frietzsche, a member of the faculty of the English and Speech Department, will review the AAA Travel Books, the Mobil Travel Guides, and the Fodor-Shell Travel Guides. Starting time and place are both the same as those announced for next week's luncheon.
