CITIZEN'S COMMITTEE PROMOTES "PROPOSITION 2" CAMPAIGN FOR COUNTY

A citizen's committee consisting of business and civic leaders from throughout San Luis Obispo County has been formed for the purpose of promoting "Yes" votes on Proposition 2, the $230 million State Higher Education Construction Bond Act of 1966, which will appear on the General Election ballot, November 8.

Chairman of the local committee is F. L. Dirkes, manager of the Sears Roebuck Company store in San Luis Obispo, who was appointed by Art Linkletter, the well-known radio and television personality who is honorary chairman for the statewide effort to win voter approval for the proposition. Other members of the county committee's executive committee are J. R. Bowlby, business agent for Carpenters Union 1632, vice chairman for finance; Dean J. McDowell, vice president and manager of the Bank of America's Downtown Branch in San Luis Obispo, vice chairman for endorsements; Albert S. Moriarity, general agent for Mercantile Security Life Insurance Company in San Luis Obispo, vice chairman for speakers bureau; and John Teverbaugh, manager of Bank of America's College Square Branch in San Luis Obispo, treasurer.

Proposition 2, placed on the ballot by vote of the California Legislature, will provide a bond issue to finance construction for higher education in the state, if approved by voters. The entire amount would be divided equally between the California State Colleges and the University of California. Some $300 million worth of new facilities have been authorized for the next two years, but about $70 million of that amount is expected to be financed on a pay-as-you-go basis from then available state funds.

SLO Campus Share Would Be $5.2 Million

A favorable vote on the proposition will bring some $5.2 million in new facilities to the San Luis Obispo Campus over the next two years. Major items that would be realized as a result of passage of the proposition include construction and equipment for the new Computer Science Building, equipment for the Science North Building on which construction will begin yet this year, and more than $1.6 million for site development for future buildings. Also included are construction and new equipment for the new Ornamental Horticulture Unit, construction of a Swine Unit, and construction of new baseball and track and field areas to replace present facilities that must be moved to make way for construction of a new entrance road, and working drawings for a new addition to Dexter Library, a new women's physical education building, the first phase of engineering south building.

A brochure outlining importance of Proposition 2 to Cal Poly's San Luis Obispo Campus, a sample of which is attached to this issue of Staff Bulletin, have been provided by the citizens' committee. Additional copies of the brochure may be secured in the Public Relations Office, Room 216, Administration Building.
