Counseling Center helps

Are you letting people take advantage of you? Do you want to learn more about yourself? Would you like to find out how you can cope with your anxieties and tensions? Is it your goal to lose weight safely and systematically? Do you feel you can learn to better relate with others?

If you can answer yes to any of those questions, the Counseling Center may be able to help you. A staff of 13 full-time professional counselors is located in Rm. 211, Administration Building, from the hours of 8 a.m. to 10 p.m. In addition, some counselors can be reached through the Health Center after those hours.

The Counseling Center is open to all students, and counseling is totally confidential. No records are ever kept on the students who go. A student can go in and see a counselor immediately. If for some reason a conflict arises with that particular counselor, the student is free to switch to a different counselor.

Nine groups are offered Fall Quarter: an Assertive Behavior Group, an Interpersonal Relations Group, a Relaxation group, a Marriage and Family Counseling Group, a Couples group, Life Planning Workshops, and Guidance Testing Workshops. Two new group offerings this quarter are a weight control group and a Holistics group. The Holistics group is designed to treat the whole person, using a variety of methods such as dietary and relaxation.

A new program offered as an outreach of the Counseling Center is the Learning Assistance Center, held in Rm. 208A of the Library. There, students will be helped with learning problems.

City Council restricts sale of meal tickets

The San Luis Obispo City Council passed an ordinance which required all off-campus student housing to restrict the sale of meal tickets to residents only.

The ordinance, which took effect Fall Quarter, also prohibited the advertisement of meal programs by the housing complexes, said Richard Miller, City Administrative Officer.

Miller also said the neighborhood traffic and parking situation of the housing complexes were analyzed by the City Planning Commission. The commission concluded that parking spaces for the residents were full and too many parking spaces were being used by non-residents while eating at the dining hall.

The ordinance is not welcomed, by many students who want the convenience of eating in dining halls, yet do not want to live in student housing complexes which offer meal programs. Many students have discovered they are able to eat all they want at low prices with such a meal plan.

Stenner Glen, 1060 Foothill Blvd., and Tropicana Village, 88 Broad St. are two off-campus housing complexes with dining halls that have previously offered meal tickets to non-residents. Students and low-income groups, such as senior citizens on social security, have benefited from the meal programs.

For example, Stenner Glen sold one type of meal ticket which offered 21 lunches for $26. Since the owner of the meal ticket could eat all he wanted, it would be difficult to eat as inexpensively in a restaurant or by preparing his own meals. Stenner Glen is opposed to the ordinance and will attempt to gain a use permit for non-resident meal tickets for Winter Quarter.

The dining hall at Cal Poly is not affected by the ordinance. Meal tickets are sold to both resident and non-resident students. Only Cal Poly students can purchase meal tickets.

Miller said there was no pressure from restaurant owners or any other group to pass the ordinance.

Women's club plans picnic

All international students will be guests at a family style picnic on Saturday, October 5th at 12:30 p.m. in the Poly Grove.

The event is sponsored by the International Student Committee of the Cal Poly Women's Club, and is one of several special programs given each year to promote understanding and goodwill between the University's visiting students and community families. Also being planned are a potluck dinner in January and a spring beach party.

All faculty, staff and their families are invited to attend the picnic. Each family should bring a casserole and salad or dessert for their own family plus four more.

All persons in the community interested in the Host Family Program are also urged to attend. The Host Family Program is not a live-in program. It affords the international student, far from his own home, opportunities to share and learn about American family life.

All international students interested in attending the picnic, who did not receive an invitation, should contact Geraldine Owen at 844-8524, or Peggy Fabricius at 844-3486.

Health Center phone number now 546-1211

The phone number for the Health Center has been changed because of the "increased facilities". The new phone number is 546-1211. This number should be used for both emergencies and regular business calls.

"The entire Health Center has more than doubled in size", according to the Health Service Assistant David Graham, adding that there is a new X-ray dept., clinical lab, physical therapy dept., clerical and administrative offices, 5 new doctor suites, consisting of an office and examining room, a larger pharmacy, a larger waiting room. There is a new library-conference room located in the downstairs portion of the health center, and it is open to students from 8 to 5 pm. The new "Triage, 'the heart of the health center', said Graham is for patients without an appointment go for an initial evaluation."

Assemblywoman speaks on issues

Best known for her legislation banning pay toilets, March Fong, democratic candidate for secretary of state said she "is not a one issue candidate."

The assemblywoman from Oakland spoke to an overflow of students in the University Union Friday morning on "Aborting Racism and Sexism."

Ms. Fong said, "aborting was not the right term" to use for the speech title. "I am more interested for abortions not to take place," she said "but early preventative steps should be taken." She said a woman should decide whether or not she wants the abortion.

Besides speaking on abortions, Ms. Fong concentrated on the Equal Rights Amendment, rape and affirmative action.

"Sex discrimination is the last socially accepted prejudice," said Ms. Fong; "it is not just a myth." She said the ERA prohibits sex discrimination, but the amendment doesn't affect personal or social relationships.

"Rape is a vivid example of a woman not having control over her own body," Ms. Fong said. "In the past 100 years no new bills concerning rape were introduced into the legislature. This year 20 bills were introduced," she said.

She mentioned that the Robbins Rape bill, which prohibits prior sexual conduct of a woman to be admitted in court, will go into affect January, 1975.

Ms. Fong went on to discuss affirmative action, which concerns the hiring practices of women and minorities. "In the state university system, white men in administrative positions earn $19,056 annually, while minority men earn $11,048. White women earn $10,066 and minority women in the same position earn $9,069," she said.

"Eighty per cent of the people in top administrative positions in the state university system are men," she said. She went on to say that no change will occur in the hiring of women and minorities until political and legal pressure is applied.

Following her speech, Ms. Fong answered questions concerning her candidacy for secretary of state. She said she would continue the policies of incumbent Jerry Brown, "who awakened the office of secretary of state."

Ms. Fong said she wants to restore public confidence and improve the election system. She has proposed voter registration by post card, which she believes would improve voter turnout. (First time registration would still be done in person.)

When asked why Cal Poly students should support her for secretary of state, Ms. Fong said she was the best qualified candidate.

"I have never campaigned as a woman, or a minority, but as the most qualified person for the office," Ms. Fong continued. "I have been elected when women weren't voting for women. Today there is a new excitement in my candidacy. Both men and women are working towards my election. People are tired of Watergate. The whole attitude of women in politics is changing," she said.

According to a poll taken in August, Ms. Fong with 46 per cent, leads her opponent, Brian Van Camp, by 23 per cent. If elected, she will become the first female secretary of state.

Ms. Fong's appearance at Cal Poly was co-sponsored by the Associated Students Inc., Scott Plotkin, ASI president, Sisters United, United Professors of California and the County March Fong Campaign.

N. Ireland talk first of series

Dr. James L. Fitts of the history department will be the opening speaker for the fourth annual Arts and Humanities series here. He will be speaking on History in Northern Ireland, and how school segregation leads to the problems there.

Fitts has been at Poly since 1967, and last year was in Ireland on a sabbatical from September till January. He returned in June and spent the summer in Ireland. In five months between his visits he saw changes in the situation there — more desperation among the people and less optimism.

Fitts has done extensive research on the situation in Northern Ireland for a book. He has written and read papers at the West Coast branch of the American Historical Association and the Conference of British Studies.

His lecture will begin at 11 a.m. Thursday in Rm. 220 of the University Union.

Do-it-yourselfer finds profit in photography

The current exhibit at the El Corral Mini Art Gallery is a classic example of not only what can be accomplished through motivation and imagination, but also the possibility of turning one's hobby into a profitable enterprise.

Tony Sporanzi is showing 32 of his photographs taken over a six year period. He began his hobby in Viet Nam with a Cannon camera. Although he has never taken a photography course, by reading photography magazines and experimenting with various light filters and time exposures, this amateur has developed a remarkable proficiency that appears professional.

Everyone is invited to view his work at no charge, during regular bookstore hours, 7:45 a.m. to 4:30 p.m. His exhibit will remain on display through October 11. Anyone who is interested in purchasing a photograph may contact Sporanzi at 844-4770.

Sporanzi is a junior majoring in Electronic Engineering. He is a transfer student from American River College where he received an AA degree in Electronic Communications.

Tony Sporanzi, an amateur photographer who has never taken a photography class, now has his work on display in the Mini Art Gallery in the El Corral Bookstore. The exhibit may be viewed during regular store hours, from 7:45 a.m. to 4:30 p.m. daily, through October 11.

IT'S GETTING TIGHT IN HERE!

Drinking incident injures spectator

Editor:
There are many ways to enjoy a football game. One of the most popular is sipping your favorite brew until the game is just a faint memory. It is to this point that this letter is aimed.

The final minutes of the game ticked away and the crowd began to thin out.

Suddenly, from the left of me a tremendous crack. I looked to see five bodies sprawled on the bleachers. Three were guys who were "feeling no pain", two were girls, bystanders, that were.

Last weekend I travelled to Fresno to watch the Cal Poly game. I thought myself fortunate to find good seats in the Cal Poly section. I was soon disillusioned.

As I watched the people untangle, I could see that one of the girls was seriously hurt as she clutched her arm and fell back into the hands of her friends.

As the first quarter passed, I was conscious of some loud noise and drinking going on behind me, but thought little about it. By the end of the first quarter, the noise had increased and by the end of the half the second bottle of Biccardi Rum had passed beneath my feet. Trouble was on the way.

Meanwhile, the acrobats continued their drunken romp as they pushed and plumed their way over many spectators, spilling their "sauce" over many.

I do not know if all of the guilty and the victims were Poly students. I do know, however, who at least two of the "stewed students" were from classroom affiliations.

By the middle of the third quarter these guy's behavior had deteriorated to the point that one was standing up, shouting loudly at nothing. He then careened spread eagle over three rows of spectators, I being one.

I would be slow to totally put down the great American Tradition of "Football and the Flask", but there must be a limit. When it comes down to people going to a game to get totally stoned and to call that fun, there is something wrong. It is an infringement on others rights and in this case, a needless atrocity.

This continued with his buddies trying to restrain him until he passed out and was bodily carried away.

My troubles were thought to be over. Although I noticed that the guys in back of them had been drinking, again I thought little about it.

Birth control and abortion services offered by clinic

"I'd like to talk to someone about birth control; can you help me?"

That's a common question around the health center these days.

Birth control information and abortion counselling are two of the services offered for girls through the La Femme Clinic of the Cal Poly Health Center.

The clinic began two years ago to augment the regular services of the Health Center. Students with the health cards receive free pap smears and are given a 50 per cent discount on birth control pills. Non-students may avail themselves of the services also but are charged $6.50 for pap smears and must pay regular prices for birth control pills.

The La Femme clinic works with patients on an individual basis, forty hours a week. The clinic presents the different methods of birth control in an objective manner. An anatomical listing of the methods is presented to the patient to explain how each one works. The doctors fit diaphragms but do not carry them in the pharmacy itself. They also write prescriptions for birth control pills and have a referral system for those choosing intrauterine devices (I.U.D.'s).

Dr. Billy Mounts, head of the clinic, said, "The pill is the most physiological method of birth control and most patients prefer this method."

He also explained that "students needs have changed. We always practice medicine in accord with local medical practices. We're a kind of substitute for the family physician."

Patients are counseled by nurses and also by the use of the Fairchild Projector. This machine is merely a videotape projector with tapes discussing birth control pills, breast cancer, and other subjects. A patient is left alone in a room to listen to the tapes and then if she has any questions the nurse will answer them.

Girls wanting abortions are tested for pregnancy and the stage of development of the embryo. She is then referred to a nurse and asked to decide about her future. The patient may have an illegitimate child, have the child through marriage, can put the child up for adoption or have an abortion.

Nurse Practitioner Florence H. Mealer said, "Almost all girls choose this (abortion). The girls think for two days before making a decision about their pregnancy."

The nurses set up an appointment for the abortion then refer the patient to Fresno for the surgical procedure. The operation only lasts five minutes for a local anesthetic case.

"The girls are in the hospital for about two hours and return the day after surgery," said Ms. Mealer.

The operation costs $100 for Cal Poly students. They can pay in cash or money order only. After surgery the patient is also given another pap smear and birth control pills if she wants them.

There is also post-abortion counseling for the patients. They are asked to return to the clinic three months after the operation and to return again later in the year to talk about their feelings on the surgery and their general mental state.

(continued from page 2) excuse. Whether the girl's arm was broken or not, I do not know. All I want to do is alert people to this type of behavior and hope that some will understand. When people act in this manner, you can have them removed if you summon a cop and this action persists.

I left the stadium that night sad. Sad for the injured girl, sad for the drinkers who might not remember the incident, and sad for being a silent party.

Had I acted quicker in an attempt of restraint, this accident might never have happened. On this point, I am as guilty as they.

RAY IS GOING TO BE A UNITED STATES ARMY OFFICER, AND HE WILL ATTAIN THAT GOAL THROUGH HIS COMPLETION OF THE MILITARY SCIENCE PROGRAM HERE AT CAL POLY.

We mentioned some of the material benefits that Ray will enjoy as an Army officer. Perhaps more important is the experience in leadership and management that Ray will gain as an officer plus the personal satisfaction that comes from doing challenging, meaningful work. Our Military Science program is designed to prepare all of our cadets, both men and women, to meet the challenge of life as an officer in the United States Army.

HERE IS HOW THE CAL POLY MILITARY SCIENCE PROGRAM SHAPES UP

FRESHMAN YEAR: (No Military Obligation Whatsoever)

MSc 101-A one hour per week-one credit course in the evolution of warfare, concepts of international balance of power.
MSc 102-A one hour per week-one credit course in the U.S. defense establishment.
MSc 103-A one hour per week-one credit course in U.S. military history and the principles of war.

SOPHOMORE YEAR: (No Military Obligation Whatsoever)

MSc 201-A two hour per week-two credit course in land navigation using military maps and compass
MSc 202-A two hour per week-two credit course in the principles of personnel management.
MSc 203-A two hour per week-two credit course in the principles of military tactics and operations.

JUNIOR YEAR:

MSc 301-A four hour per week-four credit course in advanced leadership, principles and methods of army instruction and counterinsurgency techniques and tactics.
MSc 303-A four hour per week-four credit course in small unit tactics and tactical communications.

ADVANCED CAMP:

Following completion of MSc 301 and 303, a six-week intensive leadership training and development exercise held at Ft. Lewis, Washington. (salary & expenses)

SENIOR YEAR:

MSc 401-A four hour per week-four credit course in advanced leadership, military justice, methods of coordination and planning among elements of military team.
MSc 403-A four hour per week-four credit course, a continuation of MSc 401.

TOTAL CREDIT HOURS-25.

WE SPLIT THE FOUR COLLEGE YEARS IN HALF and call the freshman and sophomore years the BASIC COURSE; the junior and senior years the ADVANCED COURSE.

All students are eligible to apply for full ROTC scholarship awarded on a competitive basis.

All ADVANCED COURSE students draw $100 per month up to $1000 per year or $2000 total for the junior and senior years.

ADVANCED COURSE students who qualify can enroll in a free civilian flight instruction course.

VETERANS SKIP THE BASIC COURSE and enroll directly in the advanced course.

All texts and materials necessary for Military Science courses are supplied free of charge.

WHAT IF YOU HAVE MISSED SOME OF THE BASIC COURSES?

You can take 100 and 200 level courses concurrently.

Or, if you have sophomore standing, you can complete the basic course by attending the ROTC BASIC CAMP at Ft. Knox, Kentucky (salary & expenses) the summer between your sophomore and junior years and then enter the Advanced course your junior year.

WE DON'T THINK THE ARMY IS FOR EVERYONE-

But if you're a cut above, and you want a challenging job when you graduate, stop by the Military Science Department in Dexter Library. We would be happy to discuss the ROTC program with you at length. (telephone 546-2371)
