MEDIA ADVISORY - Cal Poly Student Volunteers to be Honored for Service on April 14

To: Editors, reporters and photographers

What: The Community Center at Cal Poly will host an event to honor Cal Poly students who have volunteered in the community.

When: April 14, 11 a.m. to 1 p.m.

Where: The lobby of the Performing Arts Center's Christopher Cohan Center

More event details: The media are invited as Cal Poly students, faculty and staff gather to recognize Cal Poly students for their contributions to the San Luis Obispo community and see how they can get involved. (The event is not open to the public.)

Numerous local nonprofit agencies will showcase their organizations and celebrate the contributions of Cal Poly volunteers. Complimentary food and drinks will be served.

"There are so many Cal Poly groups, clubs, fraternities and classes doing community service, and we want to recognize the comprehensive efforts that are going on around campus," said Joy Harkins, coordinator of The Community Center at Cal Poly.

The event is being held during National Volunteer Week, which runs April 10-16 and is sponsored by VolunteerSLO. To find out how you can get involved in community service, visit www.volunteerslo.org. For more information about National Volunteer Week activities, contact Stacy Tabuena at 805-756-5883.

More on The Community Center at Cal Poly: The Community Center connects students with service activities at local nonprofits. The center aims to create and sustain reciprocal learning partnerships among the members of the local, regional and global communities. The center includes several programs, such as Student Community Services, AmeriCorps, Service Learning and Alternative Breaks.
