

Price of campus meals to increase 4 percent

Renovation of Sandwich Plant partly responsible

By GREGG SCHROEDER
Staff Writer

University students can expect to pay up to four percent more for meals on campus next year, in part because of the Sandwich Plant renovation project, the Cal Poly Foundation decided Friday.

The rate hike, approved at the monthly Foundation Board of Trustees meeting, is designed to cover all projected increases in operational expenses, according to Everette Dorrough, Foundation Food Service director.

The 1985-86 budget for Food Service shows an expected increase of almost $695,000 in total operating expenses over last year. Of that, more than $400,000 has been allocated for remodeling the Sandwich Plant.

With a four percent increase in food prices, Food Service expects to gross almost $7 million next year, leaving a net surplus of $335,404.

Members of the Foundation board also passed a proposal for funding for the remodeling of the 24-year-old Sandwich Plant. As no funds are available from the State of California for such an undertaking, the Foundation will have to absorb the entire $430,297 project.

In response to a question posed by Student Senator Steve Dunton, Foundation Executive Director Al Amaral said the remodelled Sandwich Plant is expected to generate sufficient funds to offset the cost of the renovation project.

According to the remodeling schedule, the Sandwich Plant will be closed in May, with a project completion date of August 20. The Sandwich Plant is expected to reopen for business during Week of Welcome, starting September 14.

Renovation of the Sandwich Plant is partly responsible for the expected meal price increase. The Foundation Board of Trustees approved the rate hike Friday.

A different type of race 240 finish decathlon

By DAWN YOSHITAKE
Staff Writer

Blue and white balloons marked the finish line for the first annual Wellness Decathlon held Thursday afternoon in the University Union Plaza.

No decathlon runners were present, however — only people concerned about their health and five Cal Poly organizations which manned the tables for the 10 events.

The Health Center sponsored the decathlon and organizations which participated were the Physical Education Department, the Association for Fitness in Business, the Student Health Advisory Council, a food science class and a recreation administration class.

During the afternoon, 240 people went through stations that ranged from measuring weight to analyzing the satisfaction people get from their leisure time.

The leisure satisfaction event required students to fill out a questionnaire, and tabulate their points. If participants needed to improve areas they were least satisfied in, they were referred to a campus activity or one of the Health Care services.

After tabulating scores for the leisure satisfaction event, Kerri Knickerbocker said most students had low scores in time management and were referred to the counselors at the Health Center.

Heidi Schreiber was one of the students manning the first event which measured height and weight, and determined a participant's ideal weight.

"The guys have been running a little under weight and the girls a little over," Schreiber said. "Not very many people were 20 percent over or under (their ideal weight)."

The eighth event, Body Composition, measured the ratio of body weight to fat by using a caliper device on an area of the skin. For women, the areas measured were the arms, thighs and shoulder blades. The men had their thighs, chest and stomachs measured.

"For the most part, everyone was pretty lean, because of the active style they lead," said Jacquie Wertz, who was one of the people in charge of the body composition event.

Dental fitness was the ninth event and evaluated the present condition of participants' gums and teeth.

Jeff Clayton, Poly's oral health program coordinator, said most students who went through the event had good brushing habits.

"Basically we find most people have good brushing habits, but they don't floss enough," Clayton said. "People only floss once a month."

The tenth event was Think and Drink, which provided a self-evaluation of participants' knowledge of alcohol and alternatives to drinking. The Think and Drink station also offered free fruit daiquiris.

"I don't know if we changed students' minds, but we broadened their perspective," said Todd Androvich, one of the people working the Think and Drink station.

Health Educator Pam Sheppell, who organized the Wellness Decathlon, said: "I've found people are really open to each event and their attitude is really great."

Dunton, Mendes set for runoff

By SUSAN A. ELLIOTT
Staff Writer

The main difference between ASI presidential candidates Steve Dunton and Mike Mendes is not their stance on the issues but rather their approach to solving those issues, both candidates said in an interview Saturday.

"We tend to agree on a lot of the issues," Dunton said, "but it's not necessarily a question of 'who do you agree with' but 'who will do the best job.' I have more experience in terms of effort and can get things done as I have proved by my actions as senator this year. I would challenge Mike to say what he has done in Senate this year."

Because none of the three presidential candidates in last week's election — Dunton, Mendes and John Carroll — received more than 50 percent of the vote, a runoff election will be held Wednesday from 9 a.m. to 4 p.m.

The runoff will take place between Dunton, who received 1,244 votes (45.9 percent) and Mendes, who received 1,110 votes (41 percent). Carroll received 355 votes (13.1 percent).

Mendes said he is more experienced at leadership positions. "It's one thing to start a task," he said, "but another to be able to motivate people. We can have the best of ideas and if I have the opportunity to motivate and generate people to perform we can have the best Student Senate ever."

Mendes said he is more apt to try and help students with problems that affect everyday life. He doesn't think the student government has utilized all the resources it could have this year and said he would like to change the framework of student government to develop a better network of communication for students.

Dunton said his emphasis is to continue with projects he has been working on this year. He wants to see more student input in the Foundation, make sure the Add/Drop Policy is implemented, and to pursue the parking problem.

Dunton, who was endorsed for president by current ASI President Kevin Creighton and ASI Vice President Marcia Godwin, said endorsements are important to him.

"These people know both Mike and I well and are in a position to decide who is the best person for the job," Dunton said.

The road to redemption

Eighty-two and a half percent of the Cal Poly student body did not vote in last week's ASI elections.

Seventeen and a half percent did, however, actually find the two or three minutes required to cast a ballot.

Wow.

We bet the vote counters were flabbergasted at the monumental turnout — flabbergasted that is, because they got to go home early. We commend those who did vote, but alas, non-voters do have a chance to redeem themselves.

Since none of the ASI presidential candidates received more than 50 percent of the vote, a runoff between top vote-getters Steve Dunton and Mike Mendes will be held Wednesday from 9 a.m. to 4 p.m. at all the usual locations: U.U. Plaza, Dexter lawn, Ag Circle and the Post Office kiosk.

It's interesting how the bitches and moaners always seem to outnumber the percentage of people who voted in the last election — in other words, a lot of the complainers do not vote. We feel people who do not participate in elections have no right to complain.

And frankly, the "Well, I just don't know enough about the candidates to make a decision," or the "There are not significant differences between them" excuses do not cut the proverbial mustard. The Mustang Daily has run a number of stories on the candidates and how they feel about various issues. In addition, the special elections edition of the ASI Times, also presented the views of each candidate. In fact, elsewhere in this issue of the Daily there is yet another story about Dunton and Mendes.

The candidates may not have colossal disagreements among them, but their personalities and proposed methodologies are different.

Let's make the vote counters stay up late this time.

Letters

Baker add/drop, speaker policies defended by prof

Editor:

The tone of several recent Mustang Daily editorials could be characterized as anti-Baker. I am tempted to wonder if the editor might innocently be serving as a tool for those who find the maturation of Cal Poly as a university threatening.

I have thoughts on two of the recent topics receiving harsh critical comment. First, add-drop period. In my opinion there are two valid reasons for dropping a class in this time segment, computer error or a failed grade in a prerequisite course. The first class meeting will suffice for these reasons. Dropping a class after the first meeting for any other reason inconveniences fellow students and faculty and ultimately adds to the cost of education. These persons lack the maturity and responsibility to be university students.

Second, the ASI president as a student commencement speaker. If tradition is to be an overriding factor, then academic dress and procession should be abolished. It was not always so at Cal Poly. The commencement exercise is an academic event. As such, student political figures have no place in the program. Student participation should represent high academic achievement. I am confident that from those who will be graduating summa cum laude, one can be chosen who would represent all graduating students with pride and honor.

I hope the editor will consider building an even greater Cal Poly through the high privilege that comes from influencing the minds, attitudes and values of the student readers through the Mustang Daily editorials.

Endorsement made by former ASI candidate

Editor:

The Student Body of Cal Poly is faced with a difficult and important decision. We must elect one of two very good candidates as ASI president. I encourage everyone to vote.

I would like to thank both of my former opponents in the ASI elections for what was an enlightening experience. I would also like to thank the people who supported me in that race.

Since the election, I have had a chance to meet and speak with both of my opponents. After these meetings I have decided to support Mike Mendes in the run-off election.

Mike has a good grip on the issues facing ASI and the student body. He is personable and his communication skills are top notch. Importantly, he does not have a long list of supporters to serve before he serves you, the students. Mike impresses me as being straightforward and honest. He concerns himself with finding good creative solutions to the students' problems.

Speaker 'wishy-washy' on abortion

Editor:

This letter is in response to the article titled "Abortion Arguments Full of Fallacies" in the April 19 issue. I have no complaints about the way the article is written but rather with the statements of Tal Scriven.

Scriven is definitely a wishy-washy, spineless person who doesn't have the guts to take a stand on the issues. He supports and opposes both sides of abortion at the same time. He says that there is a coherent position in the middle and that pro-lifers and pro-choicers are not looking past their own stereotypical viewpoints.

I claim that having a viewpoint for what is right for society as a whole and another viewpoint for each individual case is weak. If a person's viewpoint changes with each individual case then it holds no water, and it will also contradict his viewpoint of the whole.

I challenge Tal Scriven to take a stand on what he feels is right and wrong, because right now the real fallacy lies in his theories.

Prof objects to headline

Editor:

I take issue with the headline "Faculty approve Add/Drop Policy" in the April 18 issue of the Mustang Daily.

As far as I know the faculty in the Physics Department was never asked to approve or reject the add/drop policy. To assume that the academic senate is the voice of the faculty is no more true then assuming that elected officials speak for the people who elected them.

and ASI presidential opponent Carroll, said he doesn't want endorsements to play a major role in the campaign.

"When I started running my campaign," he said, "I wanted to run on my own merits and no body's favors."

Dunton said the choice the students have to make in the runoff election is who will be the most effective student body president, not only in terms of actual experience but in terms of effort and a willing attitude.

Mendes said he didn't think the 17½ percent turnout was good and hopes more people come out to vote in the runoff election.

The runoff election will take place Wednesday from 9 a.m. to 4 p.m.

S.F. attracts thousands of protestors for 'everything'

SAN FRANCISCO (AP) — Thousands of people from in and around San Francisco let President Reagan know, peacefully, how they felt about literally dozens of issues this weekend in a monster march and rally in the heart of the city.

Police said Sunday there were no arrests or injuries in the hours-long Saturday event that wound from Market Street to Civic Center Plaza.

Officially estimated by police at about 50,000 people, the Spring Mobilization featured such disparate issues and groups — in songs, banners, chants, placards and pamphlets — as nuclear freeze, jobs, senior rights, peace, gays, justice, South African apartheid, and the United States in Central America.

The plethora of causes was typified by a spectator exchange. One man asked, "Hey, what's this demonstration about?" Responded the other, "everything."

The demonstration, officially named the "Spring Mobilization for Peace, Jobs & Justice," was sponsored by a coalition of hundreds of Northern California labor, church, peace, student and community groups.

Police estimates for the crowd ranged at first from about 10,000 to 50,000, while others at the scene guessed it was no more than 10,000.

Delegations carried signs and banners calling for an end to U.S. intervention in Central America and the Caribbean; freeze and reversal of the nuclear arms race; and an end to U.S. support for South African apartheid.

"The re-election of Ronald Reagan was not a mandate for an expanded arms race and war," a statement issued by the rally committee said. "We have pressing human needs to be met at home — jobs for the unemployed, an end to discrimination based on race, sex or sexual orientation (and) improving the quality of life for our families."

The marchers gathered at Civic Center Plaza across from City Hall to hear speakers including U.S. Rep. Sala Burton, D-San Francisco, and Mario Savio, a leader of the Free Speech movement at Berkeley in the 60s.

State pensions examined

SACRAMENTO (AP) — Seven former state officials have pensions that are larger than Gov. George Deukmejian's $49,100-a-year salary, the Sacramento Union said Sunday.

The seven include 80-year-old former Gov. Edmund "Pat" Brown, a Beverly Hills attorney who receives $62,314 a year in state pension benefits.

He is the third highest pensioner among 200 former constitutional officers, ex-legislators and others who collect benefits from the state Legislative Retirement System.

The governor's salary, which has not increased since 1967 because Pat Brown's son, former Gov. Jerry Brown, refused to take a raise, is due to climb to $85,000 in 1987.

George Reilly, a former member of a state tax panel, the Board of Equalization, gets the biggest pension from the Legislative Retirement System, the Union said. He receives $105,715 a year.

Reilly, who retired in 1982 after 44 years on the board, got a 50 percent pension bonus because he spent more than 24 years in office.

The second biggest legislative pension — $72,039 a year — goes to Clarence D. Alexander, a longtime ailt 32former state Senate leader Hugh Burns, D-Fresno, according to the Union.

Alexander qualified for the pension system because he served less than year as the Senate's secretary. Cost-of-living increases and changes in the law since Alexander resigned in 1969 have boosted the pension to $72,039, according to the newspaper.

Other pensioners among the seven include former U.S. Sen. Thomas Kuchel, R-Calif., a former legislator and state controller, and state Supreme Court Justice Stanley Mosk, a former state attorney general.

Kuchel receives a $54,010-a-year state pension plus a $38,832 congressional pension, the Union said. Mosk gets a $51,876 pension plus his $116,424-a-year judicial salary.

"I accept what the law provides," said Mosk, who is 72.

Other top Legislative Retirement System pensioners and the amounts they receive are: former Lt. Gov. Harold J. Powers, $59,024; former state Treasurer Bert Betts, $57,952; and former Lt. Gov. Glenn M. Anderson, $45,074.

U.S. Sen. Alan Cranston, a former state controller, would be among those whose state pension is above the governor's salary. But the senator's $57,492 in annual benefits are split evenly between him and his ex-wife, Geneva, the Union said.

President Reagan receives a $28,188 yearly state pension for his eight years as governor of California.

WASHINGTON (AP) — President Reagan's top foreign policy advisers gathered at the White House Sunday to map strategy on Nicaragua as efforts to reach a congressional compromise on aid for anti-Sandinista rebels appeared to collapse.

Sens. John Kerry, D-Mass., and Thomas Harkin, D-Iowa, meanwhile, announced that Nicaraguan leader Daniel Ortega had told them his country would agree to an immediate cease-fire if the United States ended all support for anti-Sandinista rebels.

Both the House and the Senate are scheduled to vote Tuesday on Reagan's request for $14 million in aid for the Contras.

The president earlier had agreed to a compromise in which the money, requested for the fiscal year ending Sept. 30, would be used for food, medicine and logistical support instead of arms.

Congress to vote on aid to Nicaragua

But congressional sources, speaking on condition that they not be identified, said efforts to win support for the compromise in the Republican-controlled Senate had collapsed. As a result, the Senate will vote on Reagan's original plan to provide direct military assistance.

Senate Democrats, who met Sunday with Senate Minority Leader Robert C. Byrd, D-W.Va., are expected to develop their own plan similar to a plan devised by House Democrats and some Republican moderates, the sources said.

The House plan would provide $10 million for "humanitarian" aid to Nicaraguan refugees. Another $4 million would go to the Contadora nations — Mexico, Panama, Venezuela and Colombia — to carry out the terms of their proposed peace plan for Central America.

In his radio address from Camp David, Md., Saturday, the president said the Democratic alternative would be a "shameful surrender" that would provide aid to the guerrillas "only ... if they abandon their struggle to liberate Nicaragua."

Reagan returned to the White House by helicopter Sunday from his weekend retreat, where his top advisors met to discuss Central America. But a meeting that had been scheduled with Republican and Democratic senators to discuss the Nicaragua legislation was postponed.

"The timing did not work out and the meeting will be held as soon as we can get it together," said Bob Sims, deputy White House press secretary for foreign affairs.

But congressional sources said the meeting was postponed by the White House because the Democratic delegation would have included liberal opponents of any aid to the Contras. These sources said Reagan had planned to use the meeting to persuade some moderate Democrats to support the compromise.

Secretary of State George P. Shultz, Defense Secretary Caspar Weinberger, CIA Director William J. Casey and Reagan's national security advisor Robert McFarlane met Sunday afternoon to discuss Central America.

Sims said Reagan would also be briefed on the latest developments.

Reagan shook his head non-committally when reporters covering his arrival on the White House South Lawn shouted questions about the Ortega proposal.

Senate Majority Leader Robert Dole, R-Kan., interviewed on NBC's "Meet the Press," said the Ortega offer needs to be analyzed carefully. "It may be just warmed-over p.r. (public relations) from Ortega. Maybe it contains something new,"

German observation of Holocaust

Chancellor Kohl calls for reconciliation with survivors

BERGEN, West Germany (AP) — Chancellor Helmut Kohl told survivors of the Bergen-Belsen death camp at a Jewish memorial gathering Sunday that Germans must accept "our shame and our historical responsibility" for the crimes of the Holocaust.

Kohl called for vigilance against totalitarianism in the future and for German atonement for the acts committed by the Nazis.

The memorial marked the 40th anniversary of Bergen-Belsen's liberation by Allied troops.

"Bergen-Belsen ... remains a mark of Cain branded in the minds of our nation, just like Auschwitz and Treblinka, Belzec, and Sobibor, Chelmno and Majdanek, and the many other (Nazi camp) sites testifying to that mania for destruction," Kohl told 5,000 people assembled at the camp site in northern West Germany.

Hundreds of Bergen-Belsen survivors and their families were among those who attended the two-hour ceremony organized by the Central Council of German Jews.

"Reconciliation with the survivors and descendants of the victims is only possible if we accept our history as it really was, if we Germans acknowledge our shame and our historical responsibility, and if we perceive the need to act against any efforts aimed at undermining human freedom and dignity," Kohl said.

Historians say at least 50,000 people perished at Bergen-Belsen, described as an "inferno" when British troops liberated it on April 15, 1945. Under Adolf Hitler, the Nazis killed an estimated 6 million Jews from 1933 to 1945.

Arthur Burns, U.S. ambassador to West Germany, told the throng that President Reagan would come to the camp early next month to "express his deep sympathy for those who survived and for the families of those who suffered."

Burns said the spirit of Reagan's stopover was a "mission of preventing such human tragedy anywhere in the world ever."

A Reagan visit to Bergen-Belsen was arranged after Jewish groups and U.S. veterans' organizations expressed outrage over the president's plans to visit the German war cemetery at Bitburg.

The acting U.S. consul-general in Hamburg, Robert E. Tynes, read a message in English to the gathering from Reagan, which said "recognition of the horrors of the past is a necessary tribute to those who were its victims."

Kohl's speech was broadcast live on West German television.

As he spoke slowly and somberly, 36 Bergen-Belsen survivors now living in Israel gathered around the Israeli flag, each wearing a small ribbon with the word "Remember" written on it.

Dozens of wreaths were laid around the towering stone monument in the middle of the field that marks the site of the death camp.

The camp, which lay halfway between the small towns of Bergen and Belsen, about 36 miles north of Hannover, was burned by liberating British troops to prevent the spread of typhus.

Annushka Freiman, 65, a retired Israeli teacher and a Bergen-Belsen survivor who lost her husband, 3-year-old daughter and seven brothers in Nazi camps, told The Associated Press during the ceremony: "It was very difficult to come here but it is our responsibility to make sure people remember what happened."

"The more people want to forget, the more we should make them remember," said Mrs. Freiman, on her first visit to Bergen-Belsen since the war.

Comeback team beats overwhelming odds

BY HAL BOCK
AP Sports Writer

New York faced elimination in eight games, but each time it answered with a win, that is until Philadelphia

Call it character, the ability to reach down for something extra to survive a crisis.

Call it grit, the refusal to accept the assessment of others, the drive to ignore overwhelming odds.

Call it the New York Islanders.

A decade ago, the Islanders were brand new to the intensity of the National Hockey League Stanley Cup playoffs. They won their first playoff series in a final game overtime against the New York Rangers. In the second round, they lost three straight games in a best-of-seven series to the Pittsburgh Penguins.

Poised on the brink of elimination, the Islanders merely bounced off the deck and won four straight, a neat and rarely accomplished bit of tiptoeing along a tightrope.

In the next series, the Stanley Cup semifinals, they very nearly did it again, losing the first three to Philadelphia and then rallying to take the next three before losing the seventh game.

Those three series stamped the Islanders as a special team, a hockey club that could not be written off. They had faced elimination eight times and won every showdown to stay alive until the Flyers stopped them.

A year later, in the quarter-finals against Buffalo, they lost the first two games and then won four in a row. They were establishing a trademark, giving the NHL something to think about.

Now, fast-forward a decade, past the four straight Stanley Cups which were won with a minimum of crisis situations, to 1985 and the Islanders' disappearing dynasty.

Last summer, they were replaced as Cup kings by Edmonton. They drifted to a third place Patrick Division finish this season, surrendering a nightmarish 312 goals, the most since their first season when they were a woeful expansion franchise. Their critics said they were old and used up, their era over. And it certainly seemed that way when they opened the playoffs with a pair of tough overtime losses against one of the league's better young teams, the Washington Caps.

So there they were, balancing tenuously on the edge of elimination again.

General Manager Bill Torrey and Coach Al Arbour evaluated the team's psyche on the trip home after those two games and they thought they recognized the resolve to survive, the character,

'There's a tremendous feeling in our players, a confidence in one another. They've been kept together as a team and have been through so much together —Torrey the grit, this team has demonstrated so often before.

"There was no finger pointing, no sense that we were whipped," Torrey said. "Instead, there was a very strong feeling of 'We'll find a way to win.' Al told them to play it one shift at a time. It was the same speech he used in Pittsburgh 10 years ago."

The task, the Islanders were told, was not to win three straight games against a very good Washington team. It was instead to win their individual 90-second shifts. Win enough shifts, you win the period. Win enough periods, you win the game. The mountain doesn't seem quite that high when you look at it that way.

Poly drops two baseball games

Mustang bats can load the bases, but they can't outscore St. Mary's Pitcher Carl Hjerpe and teammates will be on the road Tuesday and Wednesday.

Cal Poly, failing to hit with runners in scoring position, dropped two games, 5-2 and 13-9.

Assistant Coach Mark Bersano said while his team had no trouble getting on base, crossing the Monty Waltz, Rob Lambert, and Pat Esposito walked in the fourth frame. With bases loaded, Mark Burdick walked, bringing Waltz home.

Cal Poly, with the bases loaded, couldn't score again in the inning.

The Mustangs were down by Neither team scored again.

Pitcher Steve Snyder began the game in an erratic manner but settled down by the sixth.

Coach resigns amid steroid controversy

NASHVILLE, Tenn. (AP) — Vanderbilt University strength coach E.J. "Doc" Kreis resigned Saturday after being charged a day earlier in a 97-count indictment with illegally selling steroids to athletes, the school's athletic director said.

"I've accepted his resignation in the spirit that I was offered — in an attempt to do what is best for the future of our athletes and Vanderbilt athletics," Athletic Director Roy Kramer said at an afternoon news conference.

Kramer said Kreis requested a meeting with him Saturday morning and offered to step down. Kreis was not asked by the university to resign, Kramer said.

"This acceptance came with deep feeling, for Doc has made an enormous contribution to this university's athletic department and the entire Nashville community," Kramer said.

Kreis' attorney, Roger May, declined comment on his client's resignation.

Kreis, 31, had been on a paid leave of absence since January when the Tennessee Bureau of Investigation began the probe that led to the indictment against Kreis, area pharmacist M. Woody Wilson and a former employee of Wilson's.

The grand jury indictment charges that steroids provided by Wilson were illegally dispensed to students at Vanderbilt, Clemson in South Carolina and Colgate College in Hamilton, N.Y., between June 1982 and January 1985.

Kreis was charged with eight counts, Wilson with 91 and Patterson with six. Each was indicted on one count of conspiracy and illegal possession of steroids, which require a prescription. The other counts involve the illegal dispensing of drugs.

Named as unindicted co-conspirators were 31 Vanderbilt football players, including 14 players on the 1985 roster; three weight lifters; one baseball player and one student trainer.

Hershiser gets win with two hitter

SAN DIEGO (AP) — Orel Hershiser pitched a two-hitter and Candy Maldonado and Mariano Duncan each belted solo home runs to lead the Los Angeles Dodgers to a 2-0 victory over the San Diego Padres Sunday.

Hershiser, 2-0, had a no-hitter through six innings but Tony Wynn lashed a double in the seventh. The only other hit off Hershiser was a bunt single by Carmelo Martinez in the eighth. Hershiser struck out eight and walked two.

Padres starter Dave Dravecky, 0-1, blanked the Dodgers until Maldonado led off the seventh with his second home run. Duncan made it 2-0 in the eighth with a leadoff homer.

Split knocks softball team out of first place

DEANNA MORRIS/Mustang Daily

Mustang softball coach Denny Martindale is confident Cal Poly will still see post-season action. Chapman shut out the Mustangs 2-0 in the first game. Mustangs 2-0 in the first game.

With four games to play, regional hopes still alive, Northridge in first place in the California Collegiate Athletic Association with Cal State Northridge prior to Saturday's loss.

The Mustang softball team suffered a setback in its bid for a conference title Saturday, splitting a double-header at home with Chapman College.

Chapman shut out the Mustangs 2-0 in the first game. Mustangs 2-0 in the first game.

There's no reason we won't be invited to compete in regionals. We're sixth in the country. Mentally we were not prepared to do what we needed to do. We made mistakes offensively.

but Cal Poly rebounded 4-1 in the conference games," said Martindale. "There's no reason we won't be invited to compete in the regionals. We're sixth in the country. Mentally we were not prepared to do what we needed to do. We made mistakes offensively."

Cal Poly garnered four hits, committing two errors in the first contest. Chapman had seven hits and played a game free of errors.

Lisa Houk slugged two hits in the Mustang offensive drive. Carmen John and Kacia Gorman chalked one hit apiece.

Randie Hill, 20-8 for the first game loss to Chapman to Martindale credits the Cal Poly one of its remaining games.

Martindale credits the Cal Poly loss to Chapman may have hurt our seed in regionals," he said, but there is still the possibility that Northridge may lose one of its remaining games.

Mustang Randi Hill split two games last weekend, dropping her record to 20-8.

"Basically their pitcher is a junk pitcher," said Zoll. "We haven't seen a junk pitcher in a long time and couldn't hit any."

Senior third baseman Angie Zoll disagrees. She credits the loss to Chapman's pitching action.

"We took too long to adjust to her. If we would have had two more innings we would have won because we just didn't adjust quick enough."

"Once we adjusted to Chapman's pitcher," she added, "we please see, SOFTBALL, page 11 allowing only one hit after that. "I have a tendency to stick with Steve longer than some of our other pitchers," said Bersano. "He's more experienced and has been our most consistent pitcher all year."

The second game against St. Mary's was a bit different from the first. There were more runs for each team and more walks given away.

The Mustangs scored four runs in the first inning while St. Mary's scored six.

Neither team scored in the second, but in the third, however, the Mustangs scored four more runs, making it 8-6.

The scoring blues prevailed through the third, fourth, and fifth innings for both teams. But St. Mary's moved even further ahead as they scored three runs in the sixth and four in the seventh.

The Mustangs were only able to score once more in the seventh. Not enough to match the opposing 13 runs by St. Mary's. Final score of game two: 13-9. "We're not playing real well as a team right now," said left-fielder Jason Maas. "We didn't get our hitting, pitching, or fielding. That about sums it all up."

"We gave up ten walks," said Bersano. "Our pitching and hitting were down and we made four errors."

"We have to combine pitching, hitting, and fielding to win a game. We're just not doing that."

walked all over her in the second game."

Mustang softballers belted seven hits to Chapman's three in the second game. Shortstop Houk went 3-for-3.

Cal Poly's first score came in the second inning when Zoll hammered a home run with one runner on base. Lorie Norcia repeated the feat in the third inning when she homered and put four points on the scoreboard for the Mustangs.

Chapman scored its lone run in the fourth inning on an error.

Although Cal Poly grabbed the second game, Martindale says the team's performance was never up to par.

"We never played well all day. We never did that much and weren't threatening," said Martindale.

"Mentally we were not well. We had mental fatigue and were not prepared," said Martindale. "The loss was hard to accept."

The Mustangs' next contest is Tuesday at Bakersfield. Cal Poly concludes league play at home Saturday versus UC Riverside.

Martindale says Cal Poly will not repeat its weak performance against Chapman.

"We learned a lesson from Chapman," said Martindale. With four games left in conference play, I don't see how we won't be prepared for them.

"We will prosper from our loss to Chapman," said Martindale.

Giants lose to Reds, Catcher's interference costs game

CINCINNATI (AP) — San Francisco catcher Bob Brenly saw Eric Davis coming, but there was nothing he could do — legally or otherwise — to stop him from scoring the only run of the game.

Davis, the Cincinnati Reds' speedy center fielder, took off for home plate on an attempted steal and forced Brenly into a catcher's interference call Sunday, scoring the only run in a 1-0 victory over the slumping Giants.

With a 3-1 count on right-

"Atlee went into his wind-up, and I could see him out of the corner of my eye," Brenly said. "He was well over halfway there and Atlee hadn't even started making his move toward the plate yet. He had no idea the guy was running."

"I knew if I stayed back (in the catcher's box) we weren't going to get him, so I tried to cheat and I got caught."

Oakland loses 2-0 Twins end nine-game losing streak

OAKLAND, Calif. (AP) — John Butcher pitched a three-hitter and Kirby Puckett hit a two-run single for Minnesota as the Twins ended a nine-game losing streak by downing the Oakland A's 2-0 Sunday.

Butcher, 1-1, faced only 28 batters in stopping a six-game A's winning streak. Dave Collins was thrown out attempting to steal after he singled in the fourth, and Carney Lansford was taken off the bases by a double play after he singled in the seventh off the Minnesota right-hander.

Puckett had three of his team's seven hits off A's starter Curt Young, 0-2, who pitched 7 2/3 innings.

Gary Gaetti doubled in the fifth for only the third hit off Young. The Twins then loaded the bases on Greg Gagne's single and a walk to Tim Teufel.

After Tim Laudner lined out to third, Puckett smacked his game-winning single.
