Student vigil urges US nuclear compliance

By Jennifer Smagala
Staff Writer

A candlelight vigil was held by the Students for Social Responsibility Tuesday night to urge leaders of the U.S. to respond to the Soviet Union's unilateral moratorium on nuclear tests before it expires Dec. 31.

Ros Kohn, president of Students for Social Responsibility, briefed about 25 students on the weapons that can be tested by testing hundreds of underground nuclear explosions; the third generation of nuclear testing is now possible Tuesday night, to urge the U.S. to ban the third generation of weapons to a third generation of weapons.

Scientists believe it will take hundreds of underground nuclear tests to perfect the bomb. Kohn said, "We have been told that the weapons can be tested by testing the non-nuclear components."

The club's vice president, Kathleen Hildebrand, said testing is unnecessary. "We already know that the bombs are going to work."

In August 1985 the Soviet Union called for a unilateral moratorium on nuclear testing in the United States. Extended for three months, the U.S. said it would comply. The last extension will end on Dec. 31.

During the vigil, Kohn asked students to write letters to the Secretary of State, the Secretary of Defense and the Chairman of the Committee on Foreign Affairs urging them to take advantage of the moratorium.

Also, members of the club folded "origami cranes," paper replicas of birds which, according to Japanese legend, live 1,000 years. Survivors of Hiroshima thought that if people folded 1,000 of the "peace cranes," they would survive the after-effects of the atomic bomb. Cranes were folded as a tribute to Hiroshima survivors.

US role in C. America examined

By Jerry McKay
Staff Writer

If a small fraction of the U.S. money now being spent on fighting government opposition in El Salvador was used to really help the people in that country, there would be a lot less suffering there, a free-lance photojournalist said Tuesday at Cal Poly.

Lars Hanson, who graduated from the University of Montana in 1980 with a degree in journalism, said he went to Central America in 1981 after hearing about the "nuns who were killed by right-wing death squads."

"I thought if I could get pictures of these atrocities and bring them back, it might just jolt the American conscience," he said.

Hanson's speech was one of a series of presentations planned for Central America Awareness Week, sponsored by Central America Study and Solidarity (CASAS).

Hanson, an American born in Libya while his father served in the U.S. Air Force, said he saw many "shocking" things in Nicaragua and El Salvador during his stay in those countries.

He related a story in which 23 farm workers on their way to work were gunned down by Contras. He said he later discovered that pictures of the two people shot with them had been used by the Contras as a "motive for murder."

"I was the Contras because I was there," he said.

Hanson also talked about the 1982 presidential election in El Salvador. "There were 20,000 troops conducting that election," he said, adding that the registration sheet contained not only the name of each voter but also a corresponding number. "The number was also on the ballot so if the government wanted to see who you voted for, it could match the number to your name," he said. "If you didn't vote, you would very likely die," he said.

Hanson said that in 1984 he accidentally stumbled on death squad activity. He said he watched them murder these two people. "I didn't know what to do, I had no weapon."

Hanson denounced the argument that U.S. presence is necessary to avoid Soviet influence in the region. "This argument is used to justify the support to the Contras," he said, adding, "The people there just want to be left alone."

By Jerry McKay
Staff Writer

"Inviting the Challenge" Poly Royal theme chosen

By Gita Virmani
Staff Writer

"Inviting the Challenge" was chosen last week as the 1987 Poly Royal theme by the Poly Royal Executive Board. Patti Guptill, a mechanical engineering junior, won the theme contest out of 306 entries, and was awarded lunch for two at The Spindle.

"I tried to think of a theme the committee would like... I get kind of philosophical about challenges — on all different levels, they're what really drive me," Guptill said. She added that she entered the contest on a whim.
Humans do the darndest things

For those of you who haven’t read R.L. Stevenson’s book “The Strange Case of Dr. Jekyll and Mr. Hyde” or seen the movie version, I say to you — don’t bother. I have a better idea. If you wish to see a human metamorphosis from mild mannered to monstrous via an exotic elixir, come down to McLintock’s saloon on any given Saturday night. I work as a doorman at this fine establishment and I see patrons go from being pleasantly sober to obnoxiously intoxicated in the lapse of an hour. I euphemistically dub these people the “coma chameleons,” due to my aversion to referring to them in any derogatory manner whatsoever. Hint, Hint.

Mind you, not all the people in the bar fall into this category. It is those who decide to play Gene the Dancing Machine on tables, chairs and other furniture who ever had a professor you really hated?

Jo Anne Hesse, business administration junior: Yes. The instructor had material on the test that wasn’t covered in class, or even mentioned. You wonder where the questions came from, and where the material is. Mitch Fedem, biochemistry senior: I’ve never hated anyone. I just don’t like people who are too critical of others. If you don’t get anywhere by helping them, that’s their problem, not yours.

A1 Thomas, construction management graduate student: I’ve never hated anyone. I just feel you don’t get anywhere by hating anyone. If you don’t get along, you should go in and talk to the person.

Tipsy Taxi: an ‘unfair, unbelievable’ program

Reader ‘tips his hat’ to Tipsy Taxi founders

Jeff Dennis, dairy science freshman: I’m not really an only freshman.

Tipps Breathed, graphic arts: Recently, we published a letter to the editor which was written by a local resident. The letter criticized the University Graphic Systems (UGS) for their lack of professionalism and responsiveness. The author expressed their frustration with the university’s lack of attention to their concerns.

The Tipsy Taxi was presented to the student body under the pretense that the service would help decrease the number of DUI’s collected by students. For crying out loud, wake up. The issue here is that the Tipsy Taxi will help preserve life and limb. Unfortunately, those “immortal” on this campus who drink and drive fail to remember that when they get behind the wheel intoxicated, the risk of DUI is the public’s last concern. The primary concern is the loss of life.

Unfortunately, there is a minority who feel that their main priority in life is the gratification received from numbing the mind to reality. These individuals also find it necessary to look a gift horse in the mouth by criticizing its reliability. For you individuals, just a reminder: if you drink, that’s your choice. If you choose to drink and drive, that’s your choice. If you get a DUI, that’s your choice. However, if you choose to maim or kill someone, the other guy has no choice.

The Tipsy Taxi service and the Happy Hour both serve to decrease the number of DUI’s collected by students. However, the Tipsy Taxi program is based on the concept of moderation. It is a resource to be used by those who choose to drink and drive responsibly.

The Tipsy Taxi is an ‘unfair, unbelievable’ program

Tipsy Taxi: an ‘unfair, unbelievable’ program

The Tipsy Taxi was presented to the student body under the pretense that the service would help decrease the number of DUI’s collected by students. For crying out loud, wake up. The issue here is that the Tipsy Taxi will help preserve life and limb. Unfortunately, those “immortal” on this campus who drink and drive fail to remember that when they get behind the wheel intoxicated, the risk of DUI is the public’s last concern. The primary concern is the loss of life. Unfortunately, there is a minority who feel that their main priority in life is the gratification received from numbing the mind to reality. These individuals also find it necessary to look a gift horse in the mouth by criticizing its reliability. For you individuals, just a reminder: if you drink, that’s your choice. If you choose to drink and drive, that’s your choice. If you get a DUI, that’s your choice. However, if you choose to maim or kill someone, the other guy has no choice.
Soviets order US diplomats out

MOSCOW (AP) — The Soviet Union on Wednesday ordered five more U.S. diplomats to leave the country in retaliation for "anti-Soviet actions" by the United States.

Gennady Gerasimov, a Foreign Ministry spokesman, also said the Soviet Union was imposing new restrictions on the U.S. Embassy in Moscow and the consulate in Leningrad, including the removal of all 260 Soviet employees at the two missions.

He said the United States will not be allowed to use third-country nationals to replace the Soviet workers, and can bring Americans in to fill their secretarial, custodial and driving jobs only within the overall limits on embassy staff.

Gerasimov also said the number of Americans at the embassy in Moscow and the Leningrad consulate will be held to the U.S.-set limits on Soviet diplomats in the United States, which he said are 225 at the embassy and 26 at the consulate.

In a speech to the Soviet public after Gerasimov briefed reporters, Soviet General Secretary Mikhail S. Gorbachev referred to the U.S. expulsion of 55 Soviet diplomats.

"They (U.S. officials) have taken action in recent days which appear simply wild after such an important meeting on the level of the highest leadership of the two countries," Gorbachev said.

Reagan signs tax plan into law

WASHINGTON (AP) — With the stroke of several pens and a renewed vow to oppose tax increases, President Reagan signed into law on Wednesday a far-reaching tax overhaul that he termed a victory for fairness and nothing short of a revolution.

"I feel like we've just played the World Series of tax reform. And the American people won," Reagan said after using a fistful of pens to put his name to the 879-page bill printed on artificial parchment.

"This is a tax code designed to take us into a future of technological invention and economic achievement, one that will keep America competitive and growing into the 21st Century," Reagan told an applauding crowd of aides, a dozen members of Congress and scores of corporate officials invited to the ceremonies on the sunny South Lawn of the White House.

He praised members of Congress and of his administration who led the fight for the bill.

Let Costume Capers Help Wrap Up Your Halloween Outfit This Year.

Go wild with our selection of Halloween costumes! We have a fabulous assortment of realistic animals, authentic period outfits, popular cartoon characters, and lots more! Plus, all sorts of treats to make a great Halloween party. All your costume accessory needs. Come in and reserve now for Halloween. Men, women, children...anyone!

Looking for a new career?

The PDQ Resume from Tintype Graphic Arts

$39.95 for a complete resume:

• Typeset copy
• 25 high quality Xerox copies
• 25 matching envelopes and sheets of stationery
• 3-day service

Start with a new resume.

The PDO Resume from Tintype Graphic Arts

$100 OFF ANY ORDER OF $400 OR MORE

Coupon Expires November 15, 1986. Not Valid With Other Discounts or Promotions.
WASHINGTON (AP) — Offering a prescription for avoidance of AIDS, the surgeon general counseled Americans Wednesday to disdain "freeswheeling casual sex" and begin sex education for children as early as the third grade.

Dr. C. Everett Koop, releasing a report on the increasing problem of acquired immune deficiency syndrome, said the disease already has killed almost 15,000 people. He said the figure will increase 12-fold in another five years.

Because an estimated 1.5 million people are infected with the virus, and because these people are able to spread the virus to others, each individual must take steps to avoid the disease, Koop told a news conference.

President Reagan had asked Koop to put together a report explaining the disease to the public. In his report, the surgeon general said, leaves a disproportionate number of the nation's youth, are not getting educated because of reticence in addressing frank, open discussions about sexual practices — homosozial and heterosexual.

"AIDS is not spread by casual, non-sexual contact," Koop said.

Many people, particularly the nation's youth, are not getting information about AIDS that is vital to their health, he said.

Koop also said that more efforts have to be made to reach minority populations, which have a disproportionate number of the AIDS cases.

"While blacks represent only 12 percent of the U.S. population, 25 percent of all people with AIDS are black," he said. "Another 12 percent of AIDS patients are Hispanic, while this group comprises only 6 percent of the population."

Young people are not being educated because of reticence in dealing with subjects such as sex, sexual practices and homosexuality, Koop said.

"This silence must end," he added. "We can no longer afford to sidestep frank, open discussions about sexual practices — homosexual and heterosexual.

"Education about AIDS should start at an early age so that children can grow up knowing the behaviors to avoid to protect themselves from exposure to the AIDS virus," he continued.

Education concerning AIDS and other diseases associated with sex primarily should be the job of parents, but schools have to play a role when children start inquiring about sex — usually when they are in the third grade, Koop said.

AIDS, an incurable condition that results in destruction of the body's infection-fighting immune system, has been diagnosed in 26,566 Americans to date, 14,977 of whom have died. No one is known to have survived it.

The virus that causes AIDS is spread through intimate contact with victims' bodily fluids, such as blood and semen, and more than 70 percent of cases have involved promiscuous male homosexuals. Other high-risk groups include intravenous drug abusers and those receiving infected blood or blood products.

The surgeon general also noted that sexual promiscuity plays a large role in the spread of AIDS among homosexuals, and is a factor in heterosexual transmission, which represents a low but rising number of cases in this country.

---

Two ways to leave the pack behind.

Apple* has two ways to put you ahead of the competition. And keep you there.

Just take part in a five minute demonstration of the Macintosh* personal computer.

You'll see how Macintosh can help you work better, faster and smarter.

You'll also qualify to win a Trek* 12-speed touring bike. And you'll walk away with a free bicycle cap.

Macintosh and a Trek bike.

Both will do more than help you get ahead. Both will take you anywhere you want to go.

---

---

Friday 24

- CASAS will sponsor the following events to wind up Central America Awareness Week Friday in Chumash Auditorium:
  - "America in Transition," a film narrated by Edward Amer at 10 a.m.
  - "Facies of War" at noon.
  - "Nicaragua" at 2 p.m.
  - A slideshow on Nicaragua at 3 p.m.
  - Musica Sin Fronteras, a Latin American band, at 7 and 9:30 p.m.
  - James Broshkman, lawyer for the Sanctuary Movement, at 8 p.m.
  - A dance featuring "Johnny Paza and the Pozo River Bottom Band at 9:30 p.m.

Tickets for night events are $4 and are available at University Union Room 217D.

- CASAS Outings will sponsor mountain biking throughout the county and windsurfing on Lopez Lake Friday through Sunday. More information is available in the Escape Route, University Union Room 112.

- The Health Center in cooperation with the Greek system will sponsor the first annual "Soberfest," a campuswide non-alcoholic party from 11 p.m. a.m. Friday in the Main Gym. The event, part of National Collegiate Alcohol Awareness Week, will kick off a 24-hour "Great American Dry-Out," during which residents of San Luis Obispo are encouraged not to consume alcoholic beverages.

Submissions contributed for consideration for publication in Calendar must be received by noon two days prior to the event.

---

All that glitters — A Unique Jewelry Store

Was there ever a moment so full of love, or a choice so important...

Your diamond engagement set captures the moment you'll cherish forever. So it's important to have your jeweler's expertise in selecting your fine diamond and its meticulously crafted 14 karat gold setting.

Ask to see all the Goldman bridal jewelry before you choose. And know that your chosen symbol of love can only become more precious with time.

- Madonna Road Plaza
- San Luis Obispo
- 544-Cents
A 1979 NEA poll found one-third of teachers percent planned to teach until retirement. A survey agreed they would not choose a career study. Work in situations that are stressful and call for a lack of performance, and can end in burnout. A teachers who miss work often and those who have taken sabbatical leaves. The study was apparently the first to examine burnout at the higher education level. The significance of this type of study lies in the responsibility of today's publicly supported institutions to become more cost effective and financially accountable. "Burnout costs business and industry billions of dollars each year. It follows that this could also hold true for higher education," Seagle stated.

A 1979 NEA poll found one-third of teachers surveyed agreed they would not choose teaching as a career, and only 60 percent planned to teach until retirement. Association, "thousands of sensitive, thoughtful, and dedicated teachers have already left teaching, and thousands more may well be contemplating such a move." The NEA, which made teacher burnout the theme of their 1979 convention, conducted a poll in which one-third of the teachers surveyed agreed that they would not choose teaching again as a career, and only 60 percent planned to remain in teaching until retirement. The NEA, which made teacher burnout the theme of their 1979 convention, conducted a poll in which one-third of the teachers surveyed agreed that they would not choose teaching again as a career, and only 60 percent planned to remain in teaching until retirement. The NEA, which made teacher burnout the theme of their 1979 convention, conducted a poll in which one-third of the teachers surveyed agreed that they would not choose teaching again as a career, and only 60 percent planned to remain in teaching until retirement. The NEA, which made teacher burnout the theme of their 1979 convention, conducted a poll in which one-third of the teachers surveyed agreed that they would not choose teaching again as a career, and only 60 percent planned to remain in teaching until retirement. The NEA, which made teacher burnout the theme of their 1979 convention, conducted a poll in which one-third of the teachers surveyed agreed that they would not choose teaching again as a career, and only 60 percent planned to remain in teaching until retirement. The NEA, which made teacher burnout the theme of their 1979 convention, conducted a poll in which one-third of the teachers surveyed agreed that they would not choose teaching again as a career, and only 60 percent planned to remain in teaching until retirement. The NEA, which made teacher burnout the theme of their 1979 convention, conducted a poll in which one-third of the teachers surveyed agreed that they would not choose teaching again as a career, and only 60 percent planned to remain in teaching until retirement. The NEA, which made teacher burnout the theme of their 1979 convention, conducted a poll in which one-third of the teachers surveyed agreed that they would not choose teaching again as a career, and only 60 percent planned to remain in teaching until retirement. The NEA, which made teacher burnout the theme of their 1979 convention, conducted a poll in which one-third of the teachers surveyed agreed that they would not choose teaching again as a career, and only 60 percent planned to remain in teaching until retirement. The NEA, which made teacher burnout the theme of their 1979 convention, conducted a poll in which one-third of the teachers surveyed agreed that they would not choose teaching again as a career, and only 60 percent planned to remain in teaching until retirement. The NEA, which made teacher burnout the theme of their 1979 convention, conducted a poll in which one-third of the teachers surveyed agreed that they would not choose teaching again as a career, and only 60 percent planned to remain in teaching until retirement. The NEA, which made teacher burnout the theme of their 1979 convention, conducted a poll in which one-third of the teachers surveyed agreed that they would not choose teaching again as a career, and only 60 percent planned to remain in teaching until retirement. The NEA, which made teacher burnout the theme of their 1979 convention, conducted a poll in which one-third of the teachers surveyed agreed that they would not choose teaching again as a career, and only 60 percent planned to remain in teaching until retirement. The NEA, which made teacher burnout the theme of their 1979 convention, conducted a poll in which one-third of the teachers surveyed agreed that they would not choose teaching again as a career, and only 60 percent planned to remain in teaching until retirement. The NEA, which made teacher burnout the theme of their 1979 convention, conducted a poll in which one-third of the teachers surveyed agreed that they would not choose teaching again as a career, and only 60 percent planned to remain in teaching until retirement. The NEA, which made teacher burnout the theme of their 1979 convention, conducted a poll in which one-third of the teachers surveyed agreed that they would not choose teaching again as a career, and only 60 percent planned to remain in teaching until retirement. The NEA, which made teacher burnout the theme of their 1979 convention, conducted a poll in which one-third of the teachers surveyed agreed that they would not choose teaching again as a career, and only 60 percent planned to remain in teaching until retirement. The NEA, which made teacher burnout the theme of their 1979 convention, conducted a poll in which one-third of the teachers surveyed agreed that they would not choose teaching again as a career, and only 60 percent planned to remain in teaching until retirement. The NEA, which made teacher burnout the theme of their 1979 convention, conducted a poll in which one-third of the teachers surveyed agreed that they would not choose teaching again as a career, and only 60 percent planned to remain in teaching until retirement. The NEA, which made teacher burnout the theme of their 1979 convention, conducted a poll in which one-third of the teachers surveyed agreed that they would not choose teaching again as a career, and only 60 percent planned to remain in teaching until retirement. The NEA, which made teacher burnout the theme of their 1979 convention, conducted a poll in which one-third of the teachers surveyed agreed that they would not choose teaching again as a career, and only 60 percent planned to remain in teaching until retirement. The NEA, which made teacher burnout the theme of their 1979 convention, conducted a poll in which one-third of the teachers surveyed agreed that they would not choose teaching again as a career, and only 60 percent planned to remain in teaching until retirement.
Nazi war criminals believed to be in UK

LOS ANGELES (AP) — The Simon Wiesenthal Center on Wednesday released a list of 17 suspected Nazi war criminals believed living in Great Britain, including a battalion commander believed responsible for the deaths of thousands of Jews.

"The message is that 45 years after the event is a long time, but we say there is no time limit when mass genocide is involved," Rabbi Marvin Hier said. "We must not have mass murderers get that final victory and walk free."

The war criminals list was presented to British Consul General Donald Ballantyne, who relayed the information to Prime Minister Margaret Thatcher.

It was believed to be the first time evidence has been presented indicating that the United Kingdom may be a safe haven for Nazi war criminals.

"I trust your government will investigate carefully the charges against these suspected war criminals, determine the truth of the accusations, the availability of witnesses, and if necessary, create the required legal apparatus to deal with them," Rabbi Hier, dean and founder of the Wiesenthal Center, said in an accompanying letter to Thatcher.

The names of the suspected Nazi war criminals were deleted from information provided to the news media, but the British government was given the names as well as some current addresses of those on the list, Hier said.

The crimes were committed during the Nazi occupation of Lithuania and Latvia. Hier said up to 220,000 Lithuanian Jews and 95,000 Latvian Jews were killed during that period.

Two members of the infamous Vilnius murder squad, a Lithuanian group of Nazis responsible for killing thousands of Jews, a battalion commander and the Telz chief of police were among the 17 on the list.

A. Senate approves guidelines for centers

By Pamela Varma

News

The Academic Senate approved a resolution Tuesday detailing guidelines for the establishment of research, educational or public service units which provide for a standard way of having institutions and centers on campus account for their funds, according to the chair of the guidelines review committee.

An institute is defined as a unit which has more than one interest or function, and a center is defined as a unit with one interest or function.

There are five existing organizations on campus that are considered institutes or centers: the Center for the Arts, Electric Power Institute, Center for Practical Renewable Resources and the Center for Business and Economic Research. The resolution does not concern itself with central administrative or service units such as such as the Computing Center, the Audio-Visual Center or the Learning Assistance Center.

Raymond Terry, a mathematics professor and chair of the committee to review the existing guidelines, said the resolution requests that any person or group wishing to establish a center or institute on campus should have money from a grant. He also said some money now going through departments for existing centers and institutes may be redistributed to go directly to the organizations.

The Academic Senate also:

□ Passed unanimously a resolution requesting that the Academic Senate "support all efforts by the university and its many schools, department, and clubs in their attempts to promote the community's appreciation and understanding" of the adoption and ratification of the Federal Constitution.

TEACHERS

From page 5

of burnout to the CSU system as a whole. As the authors of the Education Digest article pointed out, "If faculty could see progress and hope for continued improvement, it would do a world of good for those in the profession as well as greatly stimulate interest from those considering entry."

RESEARCH

From page 5

as new buildings are approved and constructed, up to 150 new faculty offices could be added to campus by fall 1987.

Baker concluded: "The faculty bear the responsibility of engaging in appropriate professional activities and the university bears the responsibility of providing appropriate time and resources for these activities."
Audio Ecstasy Breaks the $200 Barrier
Lowest Prices on AKAI CD Players

AKAI
Akai Compact Disc Player
36 Track Programming/3 Beam Laser reg 340.00 ..........................................
$189.00

Akai Compact Disc Player
Full Remote/Akai’s “Without” Programming/Anti-Resonant Metal Cabinet
reg 475.00 ..........................................
$295.00

TDK SA 90
Cassette Tape 1.95

MAXELL VIDEO TAPE
T 120 Professional quality
reg 6.98 .............................................
$14.95

MAXELL XLII-5 90
Cassette Tape 2.97

YAMAHA

Compact Disc Player CD 300
Great Sound At A Low Price/3 Beam Laser/Mid-Size/Full Programability
reg 259.00 .............................................
$229.00

Cassette Deck K 720
Auto Reverse/Dolby B&C and DBV
HX Pro-Real Time Counter
reg 479.00 .............................................
$395.00

DUAL

Turntable #30
Fully Auto with Ortofon ULM 65E Cartridge
reg 230.00 .............................................
$185.00

ASK ABOUT OUR SERVICE EXTENSION PLANS
SPECIALS GOOD THROUGH OCTOBER 31, 1986

Save Big On All Classical CD’S
$2 Off
every one in stock

TELARC—DELOS-NIMBUS
REFERENCE RECORDINGS
Farmers protest Proposition 65

LOS ANGELES (AP) — Farmers staging a protest at City Hall on Wednesday said the so-called clean water initiative could cripple the state's huge agriculture industry without improving the environment.

The place-named carrying farmers marched for about two hours, denouncing Proposition 65 and Mayor Tom Bradley, whose campaign for governor has espoused the ballot measure. "It looks like 65 is going to do a lot of damage to agriculture, basically by pulling away a lot of chemicals," said Don Cox, a farmer from Brawley who spoke at the rally. "If you're growing a crop, for a lot of things there's no substitute." Organizers said about 200 farmers were present, but police and City Hall security officers were unable to confirm the count. Demonstrators were busied in from farming areas in the Imperial, Coachella and San Joaquin valleys, said Adam Ortega, a publicist hired for the event by a group called California Women for Agriculture.

Prop. 65 would impose stringent standards on use of chemicals that could contaminate drinking water. Government agencies would be exempt from the provisions of the measure, something seized on by opponents including Republican Gov. George Deukmejian, business and farm interests.

Calls to Bradley's office were answered by Deputy Mayor Tom Houston, who said that the campaign against Prop. 65 is being financed primarily by the pesticide and oil companies and those companies paid to bus the people to the protest. "I think the people at the rally have been duped by the pesticide firms," Houston said.

Houston said he believed the proposition will pass by an overwhelming margin.

Hasenfus trial may thwart mercenaries

LOS ANGELES (AP) — The gun-running trial of American Eugene Hasenfus in Nicaragua should discourage mercenaries everywhere from helping rebels fighting to overthrow the Sandinista government, a Nicaraguan diplomat said Wednesday.

Mercenaries from all over the world are aiding the rebels known as Contras, said Leonor Arguello de Huper, consular general to the Nicaraguan embassy in Washington, D.C.

"I hope this will discourage not only Americans, but all the mercenaries that are involved in this venture of overthrowing the Nicaraguan government and stop killing Nicaraguans," Mrs. Huper said before a news conference at the Press Club of Greater Los Angeles.

"There are people from all over the world," helping the Contras, Arguello said. "They are being paid. They are all mercenaries."

She refused to speculate on who was supplying the money to pay the people she was talking about.

The 45-year-old Hasenfus, of Marinette, Wis., was charged Monday with terrorism and violating Nicaraguan security.

He was captured Oct. 6 in southern Nicaragua after Sandinista soldiers shot down a transport plane flying supplies to the U.S.-backed rebels. The three other crewmen, including two Americans, died in the crash.

"He is getting a fair trial," Mrs. Huper said when asked if the revolutionary court might be moving too fast to allow Hasenfus' attorneys time to prepare a defense.

Quality makes up for lack of quantity in wine harvest

SAN FRANCISCO (AP) — Hailed as a possibly outstanding vintage year, the 1986 wine grape harvest and crush were completed this week, weighing in at 2.7 million tons and about 4 percent under last year's figures, the California trade's Wine Institute reported Wednesday.

What the crop lacks in numbers is made up in quality. Vintners in the north, south and Central Valley are enthusiastic over prospects for the infant vintage, pronouncing the grapes superior after one of the more unusual growing seasons on record.

At Zaca Mesa Winery near Santa Barbara, assistant winemaker Chuck Carlson called the new vintage "one of the most well-rounded, balanced harvests we've had ... the even, spread-out pace gave us the opportunity to work with the grapes so we were able to control the picking of the various varieties."

The 1986 growing season got off to a mid-winter start, thanks to an unseasonal warm spell, then cooled off to stretch out the growth, finally ending in August. It was earlier than many wine oldtimers can remember.

Russian-born enologist Andre Tchelistcheff, one of the world's most respected winemakers, said, "The new vintage is very good, very promising."
LEGAL HELP

Local lawyer comes on campus once a week to offer students free advice

BY SUZANNE CARSON, Staff Writer

Personal problems and landlord-tenant conflicts are just two of the legal dilemmas that students can receive help with free of charge through a legal referral service offered every Tuesday at Cal Poly.

Between the hours of 1 and 3 p.m., currently-enrolled students can schedule a free consultation through the ASI Business Office with attorney John Ronca of the Wendi, Ronca & Woodper law corporation. Students are limited to one 20-minute consultation period for each personal legal problem.

During the consultation, Ronca will assess each individual problem in a one-on-one, lawyer-client relationship which remains strictly confidential. Either the problem will be resolved in the first 20 minutes or he will refer the student to another lawyer, as in the case of a criminal offense, which Ronca does not defend. Any additional legal assistance beyond the first 20 minutes with Ronca or time spent with other lawyers is available to students at reduced fees.

The service is also available to associate student members of ASI, faculty and staff, and employees of ASI.

Ronca said his goal is not to generate new clients, but to assist students to the university, as he received his undergraduate degree from Cal Poly on Tuesdays and finds a lot of similarities in problems and options. The remaining 30 percent are referred to criminal lawyers, small claims court and other avenues of legal action, as Ronca's specialty lies in tax law, probate law and estate planning.

Ronca sees between 10 and 20 students at Cal Poly on Tuesdays and finds a lot of similarities in personal legal problems among students. Problems between landlords and tenants, drunk driving, moving violation offenses and automobile collisions are some of the common problems. Another citation not uncommon to students is public drunkenness. "Students think they're being smart by not driving when they have been drinking; instead they walk home and they're being cited for public drunkeness," Ronka explained.

Roommate conflicts are another big legal draw. With students borrowing things, subleasing housing and sometimes even taking advantage of each other's stuff, Ronca explained.

Ronca sees between 10 and 20 people at Cal Poly on Tuesdays and finds a lot of similarities in personal legal problems among students. Problems between landlords and tenants, drunk driving, moving violation offenses and automobile collisions are some of the common problems. Another citation not uncommon to students is public drunkenness. "Students think they're being smart by not driving when they have been drinking; instead they walk home and they're being cited for public drunkeness," Ronka explained.

Roommate conflicts are another big legal draw. With students borrowing things, subleasing housing and sometimes even taking advantage of each other's stuff, Ronca explained.

Ronca has heard cases about boyfriend-girlfriend abuse, physical abuse and threats. Ronca isn't just any San Luis Obispo lawyer who happens to help students with their problems. His roots are tied to the university, as he received his undergraduate degree from Cal Poly in business administration in 1973 — the same year he served as ASI vice president. Upon graduating, Ronca attended law school at Pepperdine University, followed by additional schooling in tax law at Denver University.

Ronca said he has been practicing law since 1979 in San Luis Obispo for good reasons. "I grew up in San Luis Obispo; my family and all of my ties are here, and I also went to Cal Poly," Ronca explained.

Ronca’s ties to his hometown and the university apparently run deep. He said the satisfaction he receives from helping students makes him realize what it’s like to be a student with problems that need to be solved. In addition, Ronca said he enjoys coming back to campus once a week because it gives him a break from the everyday pressures of his regular law practice, which has offices in San Luis Obispo, Santa Maria and Cambria.

Ronca is also involved in countywide tax and estate planning and lecturing. He teaches a business law night class at Cal Poly and a UCSB extension course on probate law for paralegals.
Mustangs prevail over Pepperdine

By Tim Robinson
Special to the Daily

It was either a case of a classic letdown after a big win or looking past one opponent to get to another. Whichever the case, the Cal Poly women's volleyball team barely escaped with a 15-12, 9-15, 15-12, 15-17, 15-12 win over Pepperdine University in Malibu.

In this case, the letdown may have been justified. The Mustangs have the unenviable task of taking on No. 2-ranked Mustangs have now won two in a row after already beaten the nation's No. 1-ranked team, San Diego State, over the weekend.

It doesn't seem fair that before the memories of beating the nation's No. 1 team have even had a chance to fade that the Mustangs must go out on the road to play a tough Pepperdine team, and the way coach Mike Wilton tells it they were lucky to come away with a win.

“They just abused our blockers and diggers ... They (Mustangs) just about got knocked off their feet,” said Wilton.

He added that the Waves have two of the NCAA's best leftside hitters in Pam Lawrence and Julie Evans, and that the pair blistered the Mustangs' defense all night.

Wilton said that he didn't think his team was guilty of looking past Pepperdine to get to San Jose State, but he wasn't sure why his team was so listless.

The Mustangs, who were almost guilty of losing to a team they absolutely overwhelmed less than a month ago at home, got their usual steady performances from Vera Pendergast and Claudia Hemmersbach.

Pendergast had 20 kills, which tied her for a team-high, while Hemmersbach added three kills and seven digs. The Mustangs also had stellar performances from both Smith and Hansen who had 20 and 18 kills, and it was Smith again who served as the impetus for the win.

“I'm grateful to Michelle Hansen; she was the one player who when the chips were on the table started putting balls down and made the others realize it was possible,” said Wilton, whose team produced another thrilling rollercoaster finish with a 15-12 win in the final game.

Carol Tchasar also had 12 kills and four block assists, but was for the most part ineffective against the Wave defense. The Mustangs have now won two in a row since the return of Smith to the lineup, but will have little time to rest as they face Fresno State this weekend and Stanford on Tuesday.

Home crowd may be important on Friday

By Tim Robinson
Special to the Daily

The home-court advantage was never more in evidence than last weekend in the Mustangs' upset win over top-ranked San Diego State, and Cal Poly coach Mike Wilton believes it will be a necessary ingredient this Friday if the Mustangs are to have any hope of upsetting No. 2-ranked San Jose State.

“Number one, we need a monster crowd. Number two, that they (Mustang fans) not come and sit on their hands. Number three, we have to play so they won't do that,” Wilton said.

Wilton added that in the San Diego State game the crowd made a huge difference, especially after the Aztecs had rallied from an early deficit.

“We were up 6-1 and the next thing you know it's 7-6 and it was like the crowd had had enough of this, and they started raising Cain up in the stands and it kind of kicked us in our butts,” Wilton said.

The Mustangs, who had lost earlier in the year to San Diego State in San Diego, were a different team within the friendly confines of the Cal Poly Main Gym. And if there was a game ball being handed out, it would have gone to the seventh player, which in this case would have been the crowd.

“Our kids seem to respond well to our crowds. I've had teams before that would shut down under the noise ... We had players and teams in the past that would shut down almost as if they were the visiting teams. These kids seem to respond well, as if the crowd won't let them disappear,” Wilton said.

Wilton is right. The Cal Poly crowds won't let the players disappear, and as Wilton adds, the season doesn't get any easier, with Stanford coming in next Tuesday. However, it may make a world of difference if everyone who ventures into the Mustangs' gym has to face a noisy, hostile crowd, which will give Cal Poly the necessary seventh player.
Six rapes reported at San Diego State

SAN DIEGO (AP) — Six unrelated sexual assaults in as many weeks at or near San Diego State University prompted school officials to increase the number of police foot patrols after dark, a school spokesman said Wednesday.

The addition of two campus patrols between 6 p.m. and 11 p.m. announced Wednesday, a day after the sixth assault was reported.

Four officers currently patrol the campus on foot at night.

The new additional officers are being paid with emergency overtime funds.

"It's regarded as a serious problem," campus spokesman Rick Moore said. "The university is not going to allow the threat of crime to get in the way of the educational process that we're here for."

Moore said Tuesday night that a 27-year-old woman reported the latest attack Monday. The woman said she was assaulted Saturday night in a restroom in Hepner Hall, a building near the center of campus. A man threatened the woman with a gun and attacked her, Moore said.

The victim does not attend San Diego State and was visiting from Fresno to attend a forensic conference on campus.

Gorbachev: summit a 'big stride'

MOSCOW (AP) — Kremlin leader Mikhail S. Gorbachev told the Soviet public Wednesday night the Ivory Coast summit brought the United States and Soviet Union closer to agreement while clearly defining the many obstacles to arms control.

Speaking on national television for the first time since the summit with President Reagan, Gorbachev said the Oct. 11-12 meetings in Reykjavik en­couraged the Soviet leadership on the possibility of reducing nuclear arms.

"It was perhaps the first time in many decades that such a big stride was made in the quest for nuclear disarmament," the Communist Party general sec­re­tary said, according to a Radio Moscow translation of his ad­dress.

I still consider that as a result of the meeting, we achieved a higher stage not only in analyzing the situation, but in defining the aims and framework of possible agreements, agreements on nuclear disarmament," he said.

However, Gorbachev said the summit "also threw into bold relief the difficulties on the way to a nuclear-free world" adding that "circles that are associated with militarism" were frightened by the progress made in Reykjavik.

In Iceland, the superpowers reached tentative agreement on making huge cutsback in their nuclear arsenals. But the agree­ment founded over Reagan's space-based missile defense pro­gram known as "Star Wars."

Gorbachev's speech on the evening of Oct. 13 was broadcast in the Soviet Union under the false title "Vremya" came hours after the Soviet Union announced it was ordering five Soviet-American diplomats out of the country.

Five U.S. diplomats were ordered out. But, treating car on 12, Ter­more with my new sleak engine.

"It was perhaps the first time in many decades that such a big stride was made in the quest for nuclear disarmament," the Communist Party general sec­re­tary said, according to a Radio Moscow translation of his ad­dress.

The Two additional officers are being paid with emergency overtime funds.

"It's regarded as a serious problem," campus spokesman Rick Moore said. "The university is not going to allow the threat of crime to get in the way of the educational process that we're here for."

Moore said Tuesday night that a 27-year-old woman reported the latest attack Monday. The woman said she was assaulted Saturday night in a restroom in Hepner Hall, a building near the center of campus. A man threatened the woman with a gun and attacked her, Moore said.

The victim does not attend San Diego State and was visiting from Fresno to attend a forensic conference on campus.

Gorbachev: summit a 'big stride'

MOSCOW (AP) — Kremlin leader Mikhail S. Gorbachev told the Soviet public Wednesday night the Ivory Coast summit brought the United States and Soviet Union closer to agreement while clearly defining the many obstacles to arms control.

Speaking on national television for the first time since the summit with President Reagan, Gorbachev said the Oct. 11-12 meetings in Reykjavik en­couraged the Soviet leadership on the possibility of reducing nuclear arms.

"It was perhaps the first time in many decades that such a big stride was made in the quest for nuclear disarmament," the Communist Party general sec­re­tary said, according to a Radio Moscow translation of his ad­dress.

I still consider that as a result of the meeting, we achieved a higher stage not only in analyzing the situation, but in defining the aims and framework of possible agreements, agreements on nuclear disarmament," he said.

However, Gorbachev said the summit "also threw into bold relief the difficulties on the way to a nuclear-free world" adding that "circles that are associated with militarism" were frightened by the progress made in Reykjavik.

In Iceland, the superpowers reached tentative agreement on making huge cutsback in their nuclear arsenals. But the agree­ment founded over Reagan's space-based missile defense pro­gram known as "Star Wars."

Gorbachev's speech on the evening of Oct. 13 was broadcast in the Soviet Union under the false title "Vremya" came hours after the Soviet Union announced it was ordering five Soviet-American diplomats out of the country.

Five U.S. diplomats were ordered out. But, treating car on 12, Ter­more with my new sleak engine.

"It was perhaps the first time in many decades that such a big stride was made in the quest for nuclear disarmament," the Communist Party general sec­re­tary said, according to a Radio Moscow translation of his ad­dress.

The Two additional officers are being paid with emergency overtime funds.

"It's regarded as a serious problem," campus spokesman Rick Moore said. "The university is not going to allow the threat of crime to get in the way of the educational process that we're here for."

Moore said Tuesday night that a 27-year-old woman reported the latest attack Monday. The woman said she was assaulted Saturday night in a restroom in Hepner Hall, a building near the center of campus. A man threatened the woman with a gun and attacked her, Moore said.

The victim does not attend San Diego State and was visiting from Fresno to attend a forensic conference on campus.

Gorbachev: summit a 'big stride'

MOSCOW (AP) — Kremlin leader Mikhail S. Gorbachev told the Soviet public Wednesday night the Ivory Coast summit brought the United States and Soviet Union closer to agreement while clearly defining the many obstacles to arms control.

Speaking on national television for the first time since the summit with President Reagan, Gorbachev said the Oct. 11-12 meetings in Reykjavik en­couraged the Soviet leadership on the possibility of reducing nuclear arms.

"It was perhaps the first time in many decades that such a big stride was made in the quest for nuclear disarmament," the Communist Party general sec­re­tary said, according to a Radio Moscow translation of his ad­dress.

I still consider that as a result of the meeting, we achieved a higher stage not only in analyzing the situation, but in defining the aims and framework of possible agreements, agreements on nuclear disarmament," he said.

However, Gorbachev said the summit "also threw into bold relief the difficulties on the way to a nuclear-free world" adding that "circles that are associated with militarism" were frightened by the progress made in Reykjavik.

In Iceland, the superpowers reached tentative agreement on making huge cutsback in their nuclear arsenals. But the agree­ment founded over Reagan's space-based missile defense pro­gram known as "Star Wars."

Gorbachev's speech on the evening of Oct. 13 was broadcast in the Soviet Union under the false title "Vremya" came hours after the Soviet Union announced it was ordering five Soviet-American diplomats out of the country.

Five U.S. diplomats were ordered out. But, treating car on 12, Ter­more with my new sleak engine.

"It was perhaps the first time in many decades that such a big stride was made in the quest for nuclear disarmament," the Communist Party general sec­re­tary said, according to a Radio Moscow translation of his ad­dress.
THEME

FROM PAGE 8

He said the word “communism” has become a “catchword,” adding, “Anybody who opposes the government in El Salvador is labeled a communist because they (the Reagan Administration) know that the American people will support anything against communism,” he said.

Hanson said he was a little too idealistic in thinking a few pictures would make a difference.

“A whole movie like ‘El Salvador’ comes out, and nobody even bothers to watch it,” he said.

BURGLARY

FROM PAGE 1

were recorded by the victims or investigator said small tools are reported stolen and will be more difficult to return. The in vestigator said small tools are reported stolen and will be more by campus supervising property ment, so they are not reported as lock-down devices and cut cables,

Fisher’s possession that police down,” he said.

Now that the 55th annual Poly Royal theme has been established, the Poly Royal poster contest has begun.

The poster contest started Monday, and entries can be submitted until 10 a.m. on Nov. 12 in University Union Room 214.

Students of all majors can enter the contest, and the winner’s poster will be used to advertise Poly Royal throughout California. The winner will also become a member of the Poly Royal Executive Board.

“The major incentive for entering the contest is the winner having their artwork posted all over the campus,” said John Bird, superintendent of Poly Royal.

“Art students could use the poster for a portfolio,” he said. “Since art students have the most entries, we have encouraged art teachers to make it an assignment in some of their classes.”

According to the contest rules, entries can be painted, drawn or created using any medium that can be printed onto paper.

The maximum size of the poster image is 18 by 24 inches, and any type of paper can be used for printing.

The shape of the poster may be square, rectangle or round (16 inch diameter maximum).

The rules also state that “the poster design must reflect the diverse nature of the student body at Cal Poly, including gender, ethnicity and academic majors,” or the design cannot be used.

Certain words and phrases must be incorporated into the design. They are: “55th Annual Poly Royal,” “Inviting the Challenge,” “April 24-26, 1987,” and “Presented by Associated Students, Inc. California Polytechnic State University, San Luis Obispo.”

The posters will be judged for artistic quality and aesthetics, application of the theme and fitting the spirit of Cal Poly and Poly Royal, Oleson said.

Entries will be judged in two phases, beginning with the preliminary critique on Nov. 12 by a committee of board members and professional judges. The top 10 entries will be chosen.

Final judging will take place Nov. 25, in which the winner and two runner-ups will be chosen. Prizes have not yet been determined.

For more information, visit the Poly Royal office in University Union Room 214 or call 546-7070.

Washington (AP) — Attorney General Edwin Meese on Wednesday launched a nationwide campaign against hard-core pornography, creating a task force of prosecutors in the Justice Department.

Meese declared there has been an “explosion of obscenity” in the past 15 years in the United States, and he told a news conference he will implement most of the 92 recommendations made in July by the Attorney General’s Committee on Pornography.

The announcement delighted anti-porn activists and angered civil libertarians.

An anti-smut unit of at least a half-dozen federal attorneys will begin work within 30 days in the Justice Department’s criminal division, prosecuting what Meese said are “organized criminal enterprises that have taken over the large-scale production and distribution of obscenity.”

The targets of the campaign will be child pornography, and movies, magazines or other pornographic depictions of sadomasochism and violent or degrading sexually explicit conduct.

In addition, a center for obscenity prosecution will be established in the criminal division to train attorneys in obscenity prosecutions and advise state and local governments.

“We are very impressed with the attorney general’s response,” said the Rev. Jerry Kirk, president of the National Coalition Against Pornography, a group of religious leaders. “The focus on child pornography and violent, degrading pornography is where... it needs to be.”

But Barry W. Lynn, legislative counsel to the American Civil Liberties Union, said at a separate news conference that the “hoopla” surrounding the task force and the center will frighten people into stopping distribution of sexual material.

And Lynn argued that establishing anti-porn units within the Justice Department could have a “chilling effect” on constitutional rights.

Meese also endorsed a legislative package that would allow prosecutors to go after the illegal proceeds of obscenity crimes and make it a felony for porn producers to use performers who are under age 21.

Beller's

Sporting Goods

since 1945

886 Monterey

543-2197

One block From the Mission

Corona T-Shirts, Tanks & Long Sleeves

Athletic Equipment

and Sports Apparel

From Head to Foot

YES, WE HAVE THEM!

since 1945

886 Monterey

543-2197

One block From the Mission