SAN LUIS OBISPO – Cal Poly’s fraternities and sororities will host a canned food castle competition from 10 a.m. to noon Wednesday, Nov. 14, in the UU Plaza.

A total of 24 Greek organizations will participate in the event. Three judges will decide on the winning group. The goal is to raise more than 2,000 pounds of canned food for the SLO Food Bank.

In addition to the competition, students will host a donation drive through the American Red Cross to raise money for victims of hurricane Sandy. The event is being spearheaded by the philanthropy and service officers of Cal Poly’s Interfraternity Council, Panhellenic, and the United Sorority and Fraternity Council.
