Cal Poly Offers Technology Challenge Day for Local Teachers on Feb. 8

SAN LUIS OBISPO — Local K-12 teachers are invited to join Cal Poly faculty and teaching credential students for the Central Coast Teacher Technology Challenge Day to be held from 8:30 a.m. to 3:30 p.m. Saturday, Feb. 8, at Cal Poly.

The day will include presentations and workshops focused on integrating technology into Common Core and Next Generation Science Standards.

Presenters include Holly Clark, a Google-certified teacher; Beverly Young, an assessment expert from the CSU Chancellor's Office; and teachers who are using technology in the classroom. Hands-on workshops will also be offered on topics such as iPads in the classroom and social media. A beginner session is available for those wishing to learn how to use various devices.

For more information and to register, visit the Challenge Day website at <http://soe.wcms.calpoly.edu/content/cctt>.
