Panetta on campus, discusses draft law

BY CHERYLE JOHNSON

The discussion table was small, but the discussion packed a punch. Leon Panetta (D-Carmel Valley) during a workshop held for Cal Poly students, centered on the question of the national draft and its relevance to the current world situation. Panetta responded to the call of the majority of the students by weighing in on the issue of the draft, stating that it had been a long time coming and that it was necessary to have a system in place to protect the nation's security.

Panetta also discussed the issue of the draft's impact on the economy, pointing out that it would not only provide employment for young people, but also serve as a means of providing an economic stimulus to the nation. He emphasized the importance of the draft as a means of preparing young people for the rigors of military service, and he encouraged students to consider the draft in their future plans.

Despite the heated discussion, Panetta remained calm and composed, emphasizing the need for students to make informed decisions about their futures. He encouraged students to think critically about the issues at hand and to consider the long-term implications of their decisions.

Huff, bumping heads with apathy, runs alone

BY JIM MAYER

It's not only lonely on the top, said Willie Huff, secretary of the San Luis Obispo chapter of the American Civil Liberties Union (ACLU). Huff is running unopposed for his seat on the ASI board. "I think it's lonely being there," Huff said, "I think it's lonely being one of the few people who are concerned about civil liberties issues.

Despite the fact that Huff was the only candidate for the position, he did have some competition. The other candidate, however, decided not to run. Huff attributes this to his work as an ACLU lawyer and his dedication to civil liberties issues.

Huff is running for the position of ASI secretary as a means of bringing attention to the issue of civil liberties. He hopes to use his position to raise awareness of the importance of civil liberties and to advocate for the protection of individual rights.

Huff is also running to bring attention to the issue of the draft. He feels that the draft is a symbol of the government's control over citizens and that it is a violation of individual freedoms. Huff believes that the draft should be abolished and that young people should be allowed to make their own decisions about their military service.

Huff's campaign is focused on education and awareness. He plans to use his platform to educate other students about the importance of civil liberties and to advocate for the protection of individual rights.

ASIL awareness: common goal of VP candidates

Ted Sanchez, running against Charlie Fournier for the ASI vice presidential position, said that ASI awareness is a key issue that the candidates should address.

"I think it's important," Sanchez said. "I don't want to go into politics and have people say, 'What did ASI do last year?'"

Sanchez said that ASI awareness is a common goal of the candidates and that it is important to promote the student organizations and their programs.

"ASLI should be more visible to students," he said. "We should be more involved in the community and make students aware of our activities."
Carter: open arms and heart

WASHINGTON (AP) - President Carter said today the United States will continue to offer "open arms and an open heart" to tens of thousands more Cuban refugees expected to arrive in Florida in coming weeks.

Without mentioning the growing pressures on Floridians, who already have absorbed the bulk of the 800,000 Cubans who have fled their homeland since Fidel Castro seized power more than 20 years ago, Carter told the League of Women Voters: "We are the most generous nation in the world in dealing with refugees ... and I feel we must continue."

The president noted that nearly 400 former political prisoners in Cuba have been issued visas by the United States and are now in hiding.

Over the weekend, the United States closed its visa office in Cuba, citing what it called an "in tolerable and dangerous situation" after Friday's massacre, which has left 300 Cubans stranded inside the United States diplomatic mission there.

British soldiers take embassy

LONDON (AP) - British commandos stormed the occupied Iranian Embassy early Monday night, rescuing hostages and killing three of five Iranian terrorist who had demanded freedom for political prisoners in Iran during a six-day siege.

British officials said the raid was ordered after two gunmen shot one hostage dead, shoved his body out of the front of the five-story townhouse and threatened to kill a hostage every half hour if their demands were not met.

Two hostages were killed before the commandos arrived, and an accompanying Metropolitan Police Commissioner Sir David McNee said two loud explosions followed by a fusillade of gunfire rocked the occupied embassy and the building was engulfed by fire after flak-jacketed commandos launched their attack. Police said the embassy was cleared 36 minutes later.

"We thought it was adequate," said Foreign Secretary Lord Carrington, who was in Washington. "We went in and rescued all the hostages and killed three of the gunmen."

Record, lost reports bar softballers from play-offs

BY BARRY SHORTZ
Daily Staff Writer

The women's softball team faced what cliché artists lovingly refer to as a "must-win situation" this weekend, needing a pair of victories against Northridge to earn a possible spot in the AIAW Western Regionals.

The Mustangs responded to the challenge, sweeping the Northridge Matadors 1-0, 1-0 in Saturday's doubleheader and splitting Friday's twinbill against Chapman College.

After winning both of Saturdays SCAA conference games, the Mustangs thought they had a very good chance of being invited to the AIAW Western Regionals for the sixth straight time. But in a decision that is sure to draw a lot of controversy, the commission rejected Cal Poly's bid for the Regionals because they stated they had not received all of Cal Poly's 1980 softball results.

Mustang coach Kim Graham disputes the commission's findings saying the results were sent in well before the deadline. After a thorough investigation, the committee stated that Cal Poly's record of 21-23 barred the team from the tournament even if the reports had been filed.

Winning both of Saturday's conference games were a must if the Mustangs wanted another chance of winning the Western Regionals. In the first game, Martha Emyer, 5-4, pitched an excellent game shutting out Northridge and giving up only two hits. Emyer, a freshman from San Mateo, stepped into the starting rotation four weeks ago, after Rhonda Kiser sprained her ankle getting out the team van.

The game was scoreless going into the bottom of the seventh inning. Mustang shortstop Bridge Cross, made good defensive plays all day in the second, third and seventh innings to keep runners from getting on base. In the seventh, Phyllis Hickey led off for the Mustangs hitting a hard shot to the shortstop who bobbled the ball and threw late to the first baseman. Val Bruno came in to pinch hit for Liz Kelly and laid down a sacrifice bunt to advance Hickey to second base. With one out, Bridg Cross hit another hard shot to the shortstop who made a throwing error to 1st base. Hickey rounded third base and came home to give the Mustangs a 1-0 win.

It was the second win in a row for Emyer in as many days. She blanked Chapman and splitting Friday's contest. In the second game against Northridge, Sheila Langrock, 10-12, topped Orthridge, Paula Chapman, 1-0, in Fridays contest.

The Mustang football team, with their eyes on pro careers, planted their feet firmly in the proverbial trenches in free agent signings last weekend.

Cal Poly guard Mike Kent, Cal Poly's national tournament to be held at the University of Kentucky, has signed a contract with the Tampa Buccaneers.

Chappell echoed the coach's sentiments. Chappell saying having the entire team invited to compete was the "best" part of receiving a bid to the nationals.

The Mustangs are a young team. Chappell and Frink are juniors. Dydell, Morris and Ueltzen are sophomores and Webber is a freshman. Peet expects all the players to return next season.

Economic controls vital, ex-senator says

BY JIM MALONE
Daily Dietnt Writer

The U.S. economy needs wage and price controls, and it needs them now, a former U.S. senator told 100 people Monday in Room 220 of the University Union.

Fred R. Harris, former U.S. senator from Oklahoma, 1976 Democratic Party presidential candidate and author and proponent of "The New Populism," said President Carter's plan to shock the nation into financial fragility with a balanced federal budget is inadequate.

He should shock us with wage and price controls," said Harris.

Harris said that wage and price controls would be a tough pill to swallow, but severity of the economic crisis demanded just such strong medicine.

The former legislator, now a professor of political science at the University of New Mexico, said some "economic myths and misinterpretations" must be corrected before the economy can pull out of the nose dive it finds itself in. One is the belief that less unemployment means a higher inflation rate. "Not true," said Harris.

Unemployment can have lower unemployment, and inflation at the same time. It's happened in four of the last six presidential election years.

Harris also disputed the soundness of increased federal spending in during economic downturns. "That practice assumes a type of economic competition which does not exist in the U.S."

President Jimmy Carter should take the blame for the tripled rate of inflation since his election, said the former senator, instead of blaming high prices on oil exporters. Harris used Canada, Japan and West Germany as examples of nations whose dependence on imported oil has not caused runaway inflation.

Harris suggested nationalizing the oil industry because control of oil importation and distribution is too crucial to the economy to be left in the hands of private industry.

The president has the power to bring about a move toward a healthier economy, said Harris. In dealing with the Congress, Harris said the president has "the real power—the power of persuasion."

Also, Congress does not have the power to together a unified budget—that power is with the president. Former presidential aide Harris said Carter will have to decide quickly if he wants to improve the economic picture in time for November elections.

Harris was a guest of the political science department—The third of current speaker series.

Panetta

Carter administration's number one priority. The Democrat cited the threat of the Soviet presence in Afghanistan and the general deterioration of involvement on the part of U.S. allies as the overriding factors to concern over the safety of the American captives.

Panetta said while he understood the need for security in the type of rescue mission Carter attempted, in reality there was no excuse for Carter not to consult with the leadership of Congress. He blamed an increasing isolation of the presidency as part of the reason for the failure of the mission.

"That is a real dangerous system today," Panetta said.

Of the rescue operation, overall, Panetta said it looks like at this point, was a very moving dangerous step that have resulted in special warfare.

Record holder to get hitched again

BLYTHE, Calif. (AP)—Glynn "Scotty" Wolfe is getting divorced again, for what he claims is the 23rd time. But the world's most marrying man has already lined up bride No. 24—a pregnant 17-year-old whose mother lives at his hotel here.

"She picked me—it's a shotgun marriage," the 71-year-old father of 40, going on 41, admitted cheerfully in a telephone interview Thursday. The latest apple of his eye is Donna Hesse.

"She was born in Springfield, Mo. Her mother lives in the hotel, she's a real good friend. Donna came out in January and we got going," he said. "You got the calf, you get the cow too—two for the price of one."

According to the Guinness Book of World Records, Wolfe has had the most monogamous marriages in the world. The first was in 1921, the longest lasted five years and the shortest crashed after 38 days.
