

Viable Living Locations

Abstract

Los Angeles has one of the biggest homeless populations in the entire country, reaching numbers of over 55,000. It has been steadily increasing over the past decade and is becoming a major health and safety hazard for residents of the city as well as those affected by homelessness. I plan to explore what the city of Los Angeles is doing to remedy the situation as well as investigate possible solutions of my own in the way of alternative housing and locations.

3 Step Process

- (1) Breakdown the core issues of why the homeless population is growing and propose solutions to slow this growth.
- (2) Analyze the current steps Los Angeles has in place that are helping this problem and see which solutions are working the best.
- (3) Build upon the current solutions and introduce possible alternative methods of housing as well as locations for the homeless to relocate in Los Angeles.
