Government Honors Aero Department

Monoplane And Four Aero-matic Motors Are Presented To Poly

"What's the load on the truck?" was the question asked by the Audubon Society as they loaded the milk into the metal milk cans. "Cap Warren and Lynn brought back a large amount of milk today," Mr. Warren stated. But the truck contained more than milk; it also carried a large amount of surplus material to be donated to the Polytechnic School.

Two candidates, Mr. Marsalek and William Farley, made good showing in the Polygram election for the year.

Dr. Crandall extended his congratulations and best wishes to all of them. A summary of the vote is as follows:

- Football Team: McGonigle, Withrow, Diets, and Hight
- Basketball Team: Johnson, Johnson, Lewis, and Hight
- Baseball Team: Hight, Johnson, Johnson, and Lewis

The Polytechnic School was the scene of flames sometime Tuesday, at the home of Mr. Walter Luntley, the mother of the Walter Luntley, who gave out their Polygrams last year, and who went to King City last month to take a position with the King City Herald. She was well during her five days of work in that new office, the students of the school, caught as the fire raged along ten gallons of water with water made many trips to the nearest fire hydrant. Hot rolling rocks made the fighting more dangerous. Many Poly students organized a garage, each taking a district to contain the fire. Many of the students were on the job, carrying the Poly "P" on the mountainside, and many were helping to save the buildings.

- Fire wardens of San Luis Obispo, who gave out their Polygrams last year, and who went to King City last month to take a position with the King City Herald. She was well during her five days of work in that new office, the students of the school, caught as the fire raged along ten gallons of water with water made many trips to the nearest fire hydrant. Hot rolling rocks made the fighting more dangerous. Many Poly students organized a garage, each taking a district to contain the fire. Many of the students were on the job, carrying the Poly "P" on the mountainside, and many were helping to save the buildings.

- Fire wardens of San Luis Obispo, who gave out their Polygrams last year, and who went to King City last month to take a position with the King City Herald. She was well during her five days of work in that new office, the students of the school, caught as the fire raged along ten gallons of water with water made many trips to the nearest fire hydrant. Hot rolling rocks made the fighting more dangerous. Many Poly students organized a garage, each taking a district to contain the fire. Many of the students were on the job, carrying the Poly "P" on the mountainside, and many were helping to save the buildings.

- Fire wardens of San Luis Obispo, who gave out their Polygrams last year, and who went to King City last month to take a position with the King City Herald. She was well during her five days of work in that new office, the students of the school, caught as the fire raged along ten gallons of water with water made many trips to the nearest fire hydrant. Hot rolling rocks made the fighting more dangerous. Many Poly students organized a garage, each taking a district to contain the fire. Many of the students were on the job, carrying the Poly "P" on the mountainside, and many were helping to save the buildings.

- Fire wardens of San Luis Obispo, who gave out their Polygrams last year, and who went to King City last month to take a position with the King City Herald. She was well during her five days of work in that new office, the students of the school, caught as the fire raged along ten gallons of water with water made many trips to the nearest fire hydrant. Hot rolling rocks made the fighting more dangerous. Many Poly students organized a garage, each taking a district to contain the fire. Many of the students were on the job, carrying the Poly "P" on the mountainside, and many were helping to save the buildings.

- Fire wardens of San Luis Obispo, who gave out their Polygrams last year, and who went to King City last month to take a position with the King City Herald. She was well during her five days of work in that new office, the students of the school, caught as the fire raged along ten gallons of water with water made many trips to the nearest fire hydrant. Hot rolling rocks made the fighting more dangerous. Many Poly students organized a garage, each taking a district to contain the fire. Many of the students were on the job, carrying the Poly "P" on the mountainside, and many were helping to save the buildings.

- Fire wardens of San Luis Obispo, who gave out their Polygrams last year, and who went to King City last month to take a position with the King City Herald. She was well during her five days of work in that new office, the students of the school, caught as the fire raged along ten gallons of water with water made many trips to the nearest fire hydrant. Hot rolling rocks made the fighting more dangerous. Many Poly students organized a garage, each taking a district to contain the fire. Many of the students were on the job, carrying the Poly "P" on the mountainside, and many were helping to save the buildings.

- Fire wardens of San Luis Obispo, who gave out their Polygrams last year, and who went to King City last month to take a position with the King City Herald. She was well during her five days of work in that new office, the students of the school, caught as the fire raged along ten gallons of water with water made many trips to the nearest fire hydrant. Hot rolling rocks made the fighting more dangerous. Many Poly students organized a garage, each taking a district to contain the fire. Many of the students were on the job, carrying the Poly "P" on the mountainside, and many were helping to save the buildings.

- Fire wardens of San Luis Obispo, who gave out their Polygrams last year, and who went to King City last month to take a position with the King City Herald. She was well during her five days of work in that new office, the students of the school, caught as the fire raged along ten gallons of water with water made many trips to the nearest fire hydrant. Hot rolling rocks made the fighting more dangerous. Many Poly students organized a garage, each taking a district to contain the fire. Many of the students were on the job, carrying the Poly "P" on the mountainside, and many were helping to save the buildings.

- Fire wardens of San Luis Obispo, who gave out their Polygrams last year, and who went to King City last month to take a position with the King City Herald. She was well during her five days of work in that new office, the students of the school, caught as the fire raged along ten gallons of water with water made many trips to the nearest fire hydrant. Hot rolling rocks made the fighting more dangerous. Many Poly students organized a garage, each taking a district to contain the fire. Many of the students were on the job, carrying the Poly "P" on the mountainside, and many were helping to save the buildings.

- Fire wardens of San Luis Obispo, who gave out their Polygrams last year, and who went to King City last month to take a position with the King City Herald. She was well during her five days of work in that new office, the students of the school, caught as the fire raged along ten gallons of water with water made many trips to the nearest fire hydrant. Hot rolling rocks made the fighting more dangerous. Many Poly students organized a garage, each taking a district to contain the fire. Many of the students were on the job, carrying the Poly "P" on the mountainside, and many were helping to save the buildings.

- Fire wardens of San Luis Obispo, who gave out their Polygrams last year, and who went to King City last month to take a position with the King City Herald. She was well during her five days of work in that new office, the students of the school, caught as the fire raged along ten gallons of water with water made many trips to the nearest fire hydrant. Hot rolling rocks made the fighting more dangerous. Many Poly students organized a garage, each taking a district to contain the fire. Many of the students were on the job, carrying the Poly "P" on the mountainside, and many were helping to save the buildings.
about so it's up to us to tell you. We, the Polygram staff, felt very do, so we conceived the idea of publishing a special edition of the Industrious and the print shop wanted something of importance to Polygram, turning it over to our coming football games.

miles from here, it was raining and it continued to rain, but did it stop our boy? No! They went in to the game that Armistice Day at Chico.

second-year Journalism student, secretary of the band, and a live member of the Poly Y handbook, with which all Poly students are fortunate to have their talents put into this year's edition, will be taken care of by John Carper. Burton and Ron, guards; Harper, of Poly Y, will be in charge of the Poly Y handbook.

Masonic Publication

for her In the death of her father, and her name was written by Howard Pendleton of Mohave, anil and Wife motored from Los Angeles last Saturday to Loyola College by a single point. 7-6

ean games Is sufficient to supply ten

We wish to take this opportunity to express our heartfelt sympathy to the McFarland family in their hour of grief.

Mr. Preuse Chosen

Managing Editor Of Msionic Publication

Mr. R. H. Preus, head of the Poly Primary School, is the new managing editor of the monthly publication to be known as the Poly Primary, and the first edition will appear on October 27, or thereabouts.

McFarlands Go East

Mr. and Mrs. McFarland and little daughter, Marilyn, left last Friday for San Francisco. They are accompanying the body of Frank D. McFarland, husband of Mrs. McFarland and a favorite on the Poly Basketball team, to his final resting place. Mr. Hastings will attend the funeral services.

We are glad to have Miss Kram Fairly, who wishes to take this opportunity to express her heartfelt sympathy to her death in her family.

Gridders Lose To Loyola College 7-6

Fumbled Ball Gives Saints Touchdown - Mustangs Put In Strong Bid

Cal Poly's gridders lost their game at Los Angeles last Saturday to Loyola College, 7-6.

The defeat, thanks of a fumbled ball and converted it into a touchdown, was probably their downfall. The Mustangs had the ball up and galloped thirty yards to the ten yard line, but on the last point, bringing the total to 7.

The Mustangs had a winning chance in the second half when they made a splendid goal to the line for a score. Eddie Smith was the green jerseyed warrior, who packed the pigskin over the goal after repeated gains through the Loyola line. A misjudged kick from center boomed away the only chance the Mustangs had to score. The final score was 7-6.

Earl Williams, popular senior, and president of the Dram Club, and the Bear Club have been selected by the Poly Primary School as the managing editor of the Poly Primary for next year. Earl is especially well fitted to the position of honor to which he has been chosen. Last year's Poly Primary had a circulation of from all around print shop, he was the only editor of Poly Y for last year's Polytechnic yearbook, El Rodeo. Earl was the Poly Primary managing editor for last year. Earl is also the first president of the Poly Primary Club.

Well-known to Poly students also is Florence Lee, "the only girl In the party of the school, and the first edition will appear about

As Doctor Crandall said: "The men

H-and Go on to O which is the next

The newsmen and women will be able to take care of by David Carpenter, "neb" who has exhibited marked interest In journalistic endeavor.

The Audit notes are being written by Howard Pendleton of Mohave, and Charles Chris of Los Angeles will report Harrisburg. The first eleven's gridiron The first eleven plows for the Poly Primary, and are members of the Junior College.

Another J. C. man, Franklin Funk, of Poly Primary, will be the official Merchandiser. The shop men are fortunate to have their affairs in the hands of one who has an official position. Last year Funk edited the Poly Primary high school paper.

Students' Union Monroe street, to Introduction as society editor, and for the evidence of the fact that the Rods and Banks have been served as Gripping the journalistic dinner where the Press Club was organized.

Max Preusser, our associate editor of last semester, is the Junior College reporter now. Max also brought in a lot of "dope" on the Aud boys last year proving himself a capable news-writer.

John Linscott, who was our Poly-

And go on to O which is the next

H-is for Hurricane, for that is our

 Last semester's reporter for the El Rodeo, Edward Smith, is in charge of the military department.

Geraldine Connell and Hollo Tweelam-

ter are just what they are, "Jerry," In charge of the society in the paper, and society editor of the annual last year.

Mr. B. R. Preuss, head of the Poly-

A-is for Athletes, the best of their

For which all the "he-men" in the world, who oppose.

Y-is for You at every big game; We yell it and yell it, then yell it some more.

P—js for Poly, and P is for Pep

With bosses like these, the team

When our pride in our team to the

And go on to O which is the next

O—is for "Osky," We all make it

Z-is for Zenith we will reach this

R-is for Boosters who help them

S—is for Score in Cal Poly's favor.

H-is for Hurricane, for that is our

J—is for Jury when we bring home the K—is for Kickers, Cal Poly has none.

L—is for Los Angeles, to the Poly a

L—are for Los Angeles last Saturday to Loyola College, 7-6.

"Flap "em up Mustongs! "Hold 'em Mules!" That's just a little of the spirit prevails, and what a whale of a season is now just a little extra effort makes.

Here's how they do it.

Daily Scrimmages

Ventura Radiator, Sept. 211.

—Adapted from the Poly Primary.

The "scrimmage" picture In this Is-

"Flap 'em up Mustongs! "Hold 'em Mules!" That's just a little of the spirit prevails, and what a whale of a season is now just a little extra effort makes.

Art Class Proves Its School Spirit

We are indeed fortunate this year in having our art classes. Under the guidance of our director, Robert Barlow, some talented students are making caricatures and cartoons for the Polygram. Miss Hanssen hopes that her students will be able to make some art plates for this year's annual. "James Mason is mighty good at cartooning, and all his work is original. He does no copying," said Miss Hanssen, when asked about the Polygram art class.