JOURNAL TO SUSPEND PUBLICATION

When the much-delayed Volume V is completed with the next issue, Ethics & Animals will suspend publication. It is planned to continue the Society for the Study of Ethics & Animals, primarily for the purpose of organizing meetings in conjunction with meetings of the American Philosophical Association.

DECEMBER MEETING - CALL FOR TOPIC AND PANELISTS

An East Coast meeting of the SSEA is planned, with the Eastern Division of the American Philosophical Association, in Washington in late December. The topic of the morality of inter-species transplants has been suggested. Send any suggestions for other topics, or for panelists, or sketches/abstracts, to me as soon as possible. Future meetings are also planned with the Western and Pacific Divisions of the APA.

CALL FOR REVIEWS AND PAPERS FOR LAST ISSUE

The next issue of Ethics & Animals will be the last. Now is the time to write that review you've been putting off and get it in. Replies from authors will be solicited as reviews are received. This is also your last shot at refuting previous papers (including those in this issue) with your own brilliant paper. Let's go out with a bang.
